This company owns 4 claims (fissures) of some of the best proven mineral land in the Goldfield district, consisting of the Accidental and Accidental No. 2 lode claims, situated two and one-half miles south of the great Goldfield Consolidated Mines (comprising the Mohawk, Goldfield, Combination, Red Top, Jumbo and Laguna) the richest in the world; and the Broadway and Beauty lode claims situated three and one-half miles south of the Consolidated and about one and one-half miles northwest of the Great Stand and Daisy Mines near the Leon group in the Diamondfield section around only to richness to the great Mohawk portion of the camp. Phenomenally rich strikes have recently been made out in the Consolidated, the Great Bend and the Daisy Mines.

The company has also succeeded in securing the Sure Thing lode claim (20 acres) in the Cuprite district, which has an immense gold bearing ledge, running the entire length of the claim 1,320 feet, outcropping in places over 20 feet wide, and met by several cross dykes all carrying fine values in gold, and is without doubt rightly named "Sure Thing."

All of these claims are located in the same mineral belt as the other noted mines of Goldfield that have astonished the world by their production of millions in high grade ore, and will with the same development give equally profitable returns.

The money derived from the sale of this stock will be used at once for the active development of the property and the fact that all the directors are residents of Goldfield with years of successful mining experience who will give their personal attention at all times to the progress of the work goes to show that the first issue of 100,000 shares will meet with a quick and ready sale at the initial price of 10 cents per share.

We advise immediate action if you wish to participate in the vast profits of this Bonanza Mine.

Stock will be listed as soon as feasible on the Goldfield and San Francisco Stock and Exchange Boards. Would therefore advise purchasers to buy in board lots of 1,000 shares when convenient to do so.

What Many Men Need

Dr. Hamilton Has a Prescription That "Sets" You Right Up.

When a man has lost ambition to "dig in" and stay at things—when he complains of headache, fullness in the right side, pains in the shoulder blade—it's purely a case of liver.

These symptoms invariably indicate a clogged, inactive liver. The body can't get rid of its wastes, and the whole system is half paralyzed.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills stimulate the liver into activity in one night. Being a mild vegetable laxative they produce results in a few hours. The bilious headache and constipation are cured, spirits rise, complexion clears, ambition returns. Nothing in the calendar so efficient for that tired lazy feeling as Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Very mild, don't interfere with work, invariably do lots of good. Try a 25c box, all dealers.

"There's a Reason"

THE PREY OF A GRIZZLY.

By a Little Oversight Bruin Was Robbed of a Good Meal.

In the early settlement of California grizzly bears were numerous and troublesome, but few men ever had a more singular experience with a grizzly than Hank Sweet, who kept a tannery near Santa Cruz. The story is told by Mrs. Dall in "My First Holiday."

Mr. Sweet was one day walking alone in the woods when he came suddenly upon a grizzly bear and her two cubs. He was quite unarmed, and before he had time to consider any plan of action the bear was upon him. She struck him down, but he kept his presence of mind and lay perfectly quiet.

The grizzly stood over him for a minute or more, then seized him by the waistband and began dragging him along. He did not resist, and she dragged him for a dozen rods to a little sandy hollow, where she dropped him and began digging a hole in the sand. Into this hole she rooted the man, and then nosed and pawed the sand over him until he was buried from sight. The prudent animal, not being hungry at the moment, was making a cache of her prey.

Mr. Sweet's heart lightened as he realized the brute's intentions, and he began to hope that he might escape. He waited a few minutes after the bear had covered him in, and then, thinking that she had retired from the scene, he began to work himself free very cautiously. The grizzly was on the watch, however, and at the first movement of her prey rushed to the spot and with two or three strokes of her paw snugly tucked him in again.

Mr. Sweet instantly became motionless again and allowed himself to be reburied in the sand. Luckily his hat had slipped over his face, so that the sand did not fill his nose and eyes, and by raising his head a little he was able to throw off the sand sufficiently to breathe.

He was more wary next time and lay still for an hour or two until he felt pretty sure that the grizzly had retired from the spot. Very cautiously then he worked himself free from the sand and crept away.

LAPSE OF REASONING.

Instances by Two of the World's Greatest Benefactors.

To illustrate the kind of lapse of reasoning power from which great inventors are known to suffer, like that under influence of which Sir Isaac Newton cut one hole in a wall to let a cat pass through and then a small hole for the kitten, an old story in the life of Morse will answer well. Long before he invented the telegraph Morse was known to the officers of the patent office as a persistent applicant for patents. When his great invention of "distance writing" was about completed he wanted the Baltimore and Ohio Railway company to try it.

To get rid of him the president of the road turned him over to a subordinate. This official was struck with the beauty of the invention and became so interested in it that he sat up half the night discussing it with the inventor. At length Morse confessed there was only one thing which baffled him. "As long as the railroad runs," he said, "where poles may be erected it will be easy sailing, but when we come to the big bridges what is to be done then? We can't erect poles across the stream, and without them the wire would sag and perhaps break from its own weight. I confess I don't know what to do. Can't you suggest a way out of the difficulty?

"Why don't you fasten the wires to the bridges?" asked his companion without a moment's hesitation. For a moment Morse gazed at him, with open mouth, and then exclaimed: "Why not, indeed? Why, I never thought of that. It's the very way."

The layman's tip put the finishing touch to the work of the great inventor, and thus wires came to be strung on bridges when crossing large streams.

Bismarck's Retort.

One evening when the German troops were before Paris Duke Ernst of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha began grumbling in Bismarck's presence because the iron cross of the first class, given for bravery in the field of battle, had been distributed too indiscriminately. Bismarck replied that the distribution of such decorations was always a delicate and difficult task, "for," said he, "conspicuous merit has to be rewarded, but in some cases conspicuous position, with or without merit, cannot be overlooked. See now," he said, "Moltke has it, Roon has it, Blumenthal has it. Excellent! But," he added, "your highness and I have it, too, and surely it is not for us to grumble!"

An Odd Legacy.

Thomas Jefferson, the founder of the Jefferson family of actors, was remembered curiously in the will of Weston, who was himself an esteemed member of Garrick's company. Weston's will contained this item:

"I have played under the management of Mr. Jefferson at Richmond and received from him every politeness. I therefore leave him all my stock of prudence, it being the only good quality I think he stands in need of."

A Heated Discussion.

"What's the matter with the fire eater? Been swallowing too many flames?"

"Nope. He's been drinking too much firewater."

If you cannot obtain what you want the most, be as happy as you can with second choice, which is perhaps the best you can get.

He that plants thorns must never expect to gather roses.—Pilpay.

MOORS AS THEY MEET

Their Quaint Customs and Queer Modes of Salutation.

DIGNITY AND GRACE ABOUND

Elaborate Social Courtesies That Are Exchanged in Everyday Life—Embraces and Kisses—The Etiquette of Success and Yawns.

In contrast to some northern nations it is hardly too much to say that the Moor, of whatever class, is born a gentleman. There is such a grace about the humblest, such an easy dignity, that whenever circumstances place them in positions calling for the exercise of courtesy they very seldom fail to respond, and thus it comes to pass, that in a democratic nation, in which every man of ability—cunning perhaps would be the better word—may rise to the highest place, even though he start life as a slave, the self proclaiming parvenu is practically nonexistent. This is not, however, to imply that gaucherie and the pleasant manners which come from evil dispositions or stupidity are unknown. Unfortunately the life led by the average Moor is one that dwarfs refinement of intellect, as it does development of mind, and the vices to which the majority succumb in early life too often stultify the most prominent commencement.

It is a pretty sight to see two elderly, dignified Moors salute. With measured pace, the eyes of each fixed on those of the other, they approach with a slight inclination, holding the right hands slightly advanced. They press their finger tips together and begin a volley of prescribed salutations, greetings and inquiries, hardly pausing to insert replies and ejaculate "God be praised!" Then each presses the finger tips which have been honored by contact with those of his friend against his lips and then upon his heart as he raises his head and redoubles his salutations.

To every fellow Moslem the greeting is given, "Es-salam alaikum" ("Peace be unto you"), to which the answer is, "Wa alal kumas-salam" ("And to you be peace"). To the unbeliever the nearest approach to this permitted is "Ala salam tak" ("On thy peace"), which might mean anything. The way to speed the parting guest is to exclaim, "God give thee peace," or, more curtly, "In peace." To those whose presence has never been desired it is usual to exclaim in tones sufficiently explicit, "Allah ihaun-ak!" ("God protect thee!") On arrival it is customary to exclaim to the guest, "Welcome to thee!" or "Marhabban, ahlan wa sahlan" ("Be welcome, at home and at ease"). Courteous interrogatories fall thick and fast. "How art thou? Thy house?"—the nearest approach permitted to inquiry after a man's wife. "Thy relatives? What news? Is nothing wrong?" To which he replies, if there is nothing specially to complain of: "All right, thank God. All are in prosperity." Or, if bad news has to be given: "God knows. Everything is in the hand of God."

When a Moslem meets a European accompanied by a Moor, though the latter be the servant, he not infrequently ignores the presence of the foreigner and offers the salutation to his coreligionist only, but if he passes a mixed company of Moors and Jews or Christians he exclaims, "Peace be on the people of Islam." If two such parties meet on the road the phrase is, "Peace be to those accompanying the Jews," or "the Nazarenes," and it is sufficient for one of each party to give and return the greeting, though in the country several often do so. Inferiors saluting superiors usually kiss the hand, shoulder, top of the turban or feet or the knee or stirrup of a horseman, according to the terms on which they approach. The more abject forms are naturally only used to implore a favor, though they are employed sometimes to Europeans. In the extremity of supplication the very feet on one's horse are embraced.

The old custom of falling on one another's necks is still in vogue between friends long separated. Men and women restrict their greetings in public to words, but personally I was somewhat startled by the sudden embrace of a negress whose freedom my father had been the means of obtaining when returning to the country after some years' absence. The kisses on such occasions are, however, fortunately delivered in the air or on the shoulder.

Several little social usages of Moorish life deserve attention, though not confined to Moorish. Such as the exclamation to one who sneezes, "The forgiveness of God be on me and on thee!" to which the reply is, "Justice and praise to God!" If a man who yawns in public does not use the prescribed formula any one speaking to him may place the back of his hand to his mouth, uttering a pious sentence, as the devil is accredited with performing an unpleasant operation in yawning mouths. On the other hand, any one wearing a new garment or looking specially spruce or having performed some clever or meritorious act receives the compliment, "Bi sahh'tak ("In thy strength").

A Moor knows how to enjoy a good joke to the full, and, seated on the floor, he bends backward and forward without restraint in his laughter. Often the teller of the story will join in the process too. Raising their right hands to their brows their heads as they roll back, they bring them together in a hearty shake. There never was a grander way of enjoying a joke invented. The women when happy give vent to their feelings by a shrill "Yeo, yeo, yeo, yeo, yeo, yeo!"—Pall Mall Gazette.

MANY SHIPLOADS OF JAPANESE TO INVADE VANCOUVER SOON

Despite Riots Syndicate will Send Cargoes

Six Hundred to Come in January and Other Consignments to Follow in Succession

Honolulu, Nov. 5.—Neither Vancouver's late hostile demonstrations of protest, the strong opposition of local interests nor the numerous and diverse troubles of the Kumeric expedition several months ago has had the effect of discouraging the Japanese exporting syndicate, and arrangements are at present actively on foot for sending another lot of Orientals from the islands shortly after the first of the year.

In fact, the plans have been carried past the point of mere possibility, for vessels have been chartered for the purpose and the contracts signed.

According to the contracts which the local hui has made with the Allan Line Steamship Company, the steamship Indravelli will be in port on Jan. 23, ready to carry 600 Japanese to Vancouver, and two months later the Dean of Ruthven will be ready to take on board 1,200 Japs for transportation to Brazil. Plans for still further shipments in the future are being made, but details have no been perfected.

The above statements are confirmed by Senator Charles F. Chillingworth, who was prominent in the other Japanese emigration projects and by S. K. Muriyama, who has been in the van of this work also. Moreover, the contracts referred to were displayed, as well as other documentary evidence that the talk was no bluff.

"The Japanese here want to go," said Chillingworth, "and we are going to help them out."

Muriyama, who went to British Columbia to look after the collecting of the $25 per head advanced to the Kumeric passengers, arrived home only last week on the Alameda. Regarding the labor conditions in the North-west, he said:—

"There are absolutely no good grounds for the opposition to Japanese in Vancouver. There is more than enough work for all, and the only trouble is that there is not enough labor to go around. Why, in less than ten days after the Kumeric crowd landed there wasn't a Japanese of the lot who wasn't at work at from $1.75 to $2.00 per day. They were snapped up by contractors and rushed out to all directions.

The Very First Signs Are in the Book

Weak Kidneys and Bladder Trouble and Few Know What to do

Take care of backache. A great many cases of kidney complaint are reported about here, also bladder trouble and rheumatism.

An authority once stated that pain in the back, loins or region of the kidneys is the danger signal nature hangs out to notify the sufferer that there is something wrong with the kidneys, which should receive immediate attention. Only vegetable treatment should be administered and absolutely no strongly alcoholic patent medicines, which are harmful to the kidneys and bladder.

The following prescription, while simple, harmless and inexpensive, is known and recognized as a sovereign remedy for kidney complaint. The ingredients can be obtained at any good prescription pharmacy and anyone can mix them: Compound Kargon, one ounce; Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Shake well in a bottle and take a teaspoonful dose after each meal and at bedtime.

This preparation is said to restore the natural function of the kidneys, so they will sift and strain the poisonous waste matter, uric acid, etc., from the blood, purifying it and relieving rheumatism. Backache will be relieved, the urine will be neutralized and cleared and no longer a cause of irritation, thereby overcoming such symptoms as weak bladder, painful, frequent and other urinary difficulties.

This is worth trying and may prove just what many people here need.

TWO BROTHERS PERISHED

Quebec, Nov. 5.—A tugboat at Murray Bay was completely destroyed by fire Saturday night, and two boys, brothers, named Bergeron, who were asleep on board, were burned to death. The boys were 12 and 15 years of age respectively. When the fire was discovered it was too late to rescue the boys from the burning boat, and they perished in the flames.

MONSTER WHALE TOWED STEAMER TWENTY FIVE MILES

At High Rate of Speed--Biggest Catch in History of Whaling Brings in $800,000 to Vancouver

Victoria, B.C., Nov. 5.—Interest of unique character infests the little steam whaler S. Lawrence, which today put into port, having completed her season's hunting on the west coast of Vancouver Island. From the latter end of March to October, 245 whales have fallen to the prowess of her harpoon gunner, Larsen, who has established a record which has never been approached in the annals of whaling. In days gone by a catch of a dozen a whaler ran anywhere from $30,000 to $100,000. The St. Lawrence this season has netted for the Pacific Whaling Co., the sum of $800,000. In the palmiest days of off-shore whaling on the Newfoundland coast his record has never been approached.

TOOK 49 IN SIXTEEN DAYS.

The best month's hunting was during September, when the vessel took 49 mammals within sixteen days. Of these more than one-third were sulphur bottoms, a species three times as large as the humpback, for which the Vancouver Island coast is renowned.

All the elements of interest which are woven around whale hunting are present in the story which the captain relates of the season's hunting. On one occasion a monster sulphur bottom towed the 110-ton steamer a distance of 25 miles, taking 300 fathoms of line, and with the engines half-speed astern to tire the monster out. At times the vessel tore through the water at a speed of 20 miles an hour, and in all it took seven solid hours and a couple of bombs to end the struggles of the whale.

WHALE EIGHTY FEET LONG.

Again an eighty-foot long mammal on being struck dived beneath the vessel, the bomb exploded, and the craft rose out of the water with the tremendous shock occasioned by the explosion and lashing of the wounded giant. Incidents like this were of common occurrence, yet in spite of many hair-raising episodes the whaler escaped throughout the season undamaged. Within a few weeks she proceeds to the east coast of the island, where she will hunt during the winter.

Will the Emmerson Case be Heard?

Moncton, N.B., Nov. 5.—The Michaelmas term of the Supreme Court opened this morning with Chief Justice Tuck and a full bench presiding. There was marked interest in the term of court inasmuch as it was at this session that argument was scheduled to be made on the point which Judge Landry had reserved for the decision of the full bench in the Emmerson case against Jas. H. Crocket, managing editor of the Gleaner. The case, however, was not on the docket and there will be no arguments, thus leading many legal men who had gathered here to believe that the case has been heard in the course of the famous suit for defamatory libel.

Police Court

At yesterday's session of the Police Court there was a fair sized audience. The first case tried was that of a man named Conway charged with having been drunk and disorderly. A young man went bail for him and said that on about 11 a.m. Courcey passed about ten men. One of them asked Courcey "Are you a Canadian?" and when Courcey replied "yes" the questioner hit him in the mouth and knocked his pipe into the street. Still another witness corroborated the former's testimony. Courcey was allowed to go.

The next case was that of Jas. A. Lawless, charged with having allowed a man named Levasseur to be his bartender without the latter having a license. Mr. Reagan appeared for Mr. Lawless and explained that he had gone several times to Inspector Stewart's office to see about getting a license but could not find him in. It was also found at Stewart's residence.

Mr. Stewart said he had been twice to the Scott Block, and had spoken to Mr. Reagan and the latter had not applied for Levasseur's license. Mr. Stewart was then sworn and said that he had issued four bartenders' licenses to the National Hotel within six months. Levasseur had no bartender's license. He acted as bartender for a week, dating from a week ago last Saturday. Witness has called there in his house and has an office, but no application had been made to him for Levasseur's license. He had swore passed Mr. Reagan but the latter gentleman did not speak to him. He saw Levasseur in white coat and apron behind the bar during four different days.

P. C. Meharry said he saw Levasseur tending bar a week ago last Monday and on two subsequent nights. Chief Ressel testified to serving the summons on Joseph Levasseur, who was then behind the National Hotel bar.

Levasseur went into the box and said that he worked for a week behind the National bar as their bartenders had left. He expected Mr. Lawless home but the latter had been delayed. On arrival Mr. Lawless told him to get a license. He went twice to the inspector's office and found him out. A charge was to be changed in connection with the hotel so did not take more trouble and pay the $2 license until he knew whether he would be kept on or not.

Mr. Reagan, manager of the National, testified to having told Levasseur to go and get a license. Several days after Levasseur told him he had been twice to see the inspector, but could not find him in.

The magistrate said he would put on the small fine allowed, viz., $10, as Levasseur had himself been fined $10 the preceding day for acting as bartender. The penalty also included $3.50 costs.

New Sponging Machine Installed

A new "sponging machine" has recently been added to the equipment of the establishment of Messrs Rich, Hall & Son, which is giving great satisfaction. The machine does away with the old-fashioned way of shrinking dress goods by sprinkling them with water and then allowing them to dry. The "sponger" permits an ordinary width of cloth to be run through. As the cloth passes through it is steamed and wound around a roll ready to emerge. The steam is secured by pipes from the furnaces which can be turned on or off at will. The cloth is thoroughly shrunk by the process, and a rich finish is given the goods. After the cloth has been on the roller a few minutes it is thoroughly dry, and whilst ready for use, and proves shrinkage, is both germ proof and will not, in a rainstorm or during other such use result in the shrinking of a garment trying to climb up towards the waist or shoulders of the wearer.

Board of Education in Regular Session

Public School Inspector Mowat Formally Introduced to Members of the Board

Last night the Board of Education met in regular session.

After the minutes of the preceding meeting was confirmed and passed, among other matters, a report of the Committee on Appointments was presented as follows:

That Miss Burns be allowed leave of absence until 1st of next September, with salary from Nov. 1st, 1907, be paid.

That Miss Hall be given one month's further leave of absence, with full salary in the interim. That Mr. Kerr be reinstated on the Public school staff as per request.

It was further moved that Mr. Fessenden's resignation as principal of the Collegiate Institute be accepted, to take effect on June 30th, 1908.

The new school inspector, Mr. Mowat had a most flattering reception by the board last night. Mr. D. W. Dumble, after certain business had been transacted, by the Board, and the proper time arrived on the usual dings, introduced Mr. A. Mowat.

Mr. Mowat who is a man full of not only energy but intelligence, answered the verbal bouquets cast at him by the members of the board in good style. He said he had no suggested to have spoken last night. His success in the game was easily accounted for, partly by outside exercises, and determination to use the dictates of common sense.

Artistic Postal Cards by Roy

Mr. R. M. Roy the Hunter street photographer, whose artistic work is recognized not only all over our broad Dominion but also over the seas on the globe where photographers' work is appreciated as being of high class, yesterday received a consignment of photographic postal cards, printed in colors, and made from a negative, made by "Roy," which shows the best picture yet taken of the Ellis lock. The picture in question shows the steamer Otonabee in her stately odd feet elevation over the world's greatest hydraulic lock, with a regiment aboard, and fully filling the bulwarks of both upper and lower decks, of one of Canada's most noted, best drilled and highest regarded regiments of our gallant Canadian soldiers. The postcard in question really shows an oil-chromo reproduction of a photograph taken by Mr. Roy and his talented son, Mr. F. Roy and and the picture reflects great credit upon not only this excellent firm of artists but reflects to all quarters of the globe a unique and synchronous report relation of one of Peterborough's leading attractions to the city of casual or transient visitors. Messrs Roy have placed a large order for these and other locally interesting postal cards and will dispose of very many. The supply of the colored Ellis lock postals is limited to 25,000.

Two Young Ladies Assaulted Last Night

About ten o'clock last night the police received word that two young girls had been assaulted on Hunter street near Roger street by an unknown man. The girls screamed for help and the scoundrel made his escape.

BOYS AND WOMEN TOOK SAVINGS IN BOXES TO LEND OUT

Tempted by High Rates of Interest, All Kinds of People Loan Money to Rich--Exchanged Savings for Certified Checks and Premium Increase

New York, Nov. 5.—Currency of all denominations in varying stages of crispness, poured into the offices of several brokerage houses in Wall street yesterday from all the nooks and crannies of New York.

Hearing that 21-4 and 21-2 per cent. premium was being paid for cash, men, women and boys brought their savings to the financial districts and exchanged them for certified checks with the premium increase, which they deposited to be with in their banks.

In the offices of Mann, Hill and Ware, No. 38 Wall street, one of the firms that fed in the premium saving, there was a never ending line of assorted personality throughout the day. They came from the East Side and to New York.

HOUSE OF REFUGE FOR CITY'S AGED POOR

Council Enquiring Into Cost of Such a Building--Seven Aged Paupers Are Now in the Jail

Owing to a break down of some of our typewriting machines we were unable yesterday morning to publish the following business transacted by the City Council on Monday night:

Electrical Wiring Inspector Pakenham gave a certificate that the new fire alarm system has been installed by the Bell Telephone Company according to contract, but it is not working as satisfactory as he would like. This is not the company's fault, however, but the city's in cutting the contract too short in the way of appliances to render the system complete. For instance, there is no automatic alarm sounder, which would cost $20.

Ald. Bradburn moved, seconded by Ald. Morgan,—That Mr. Pakenham furnish a list of appliances necessary, to render the system complete, with cost of same.—Carried.

Ald. Johnston moved, seconded by Ald. Duncan.—That as Mr. Pakenham reports the system complete so far as the contract calls for, the Bell Company's account of $284 for said system be paid.—Carried.

EXTENSION OF GEORGE STREET

Ald. Phelan moved, seconded by Ald. Elliott.—That the question of settling with Miss McMann for the purchase of her property for the extension of George street, be left in the hands of a special committee composed of Aldermen Duncan, Morrow and Bradburn.

MORE PHONES.

Ald. Tovey moved, seconded by Ald. Johnston.—That the Bell Company be authorized to install a phone in the city engineer's and tax collector's office.—Carried.

An extension desk phone will be provided for City Clerk Armstrong's desk.

CARE OF PAUPERS.

The mayor reported that arrangements cannot be made with the county for care of city's aged indigent. There are seven aged paupers at present in the jail, and it is time the city did something for the care of its aged paupers. The Provincial Home have accommodation for 25 or 30 indigents, the men on one of the two floors and the women on the other there are but four men in the Protestant Home at present, and the management are anxious to have those removed and the home converted into one for women only, providing the city will provide for the poor old men.

Ald. Morrow thought this question should be gone into by the city, and that of an isolation hospital also. The cost of caring for the late scarlet fever cases in the city buildings would have paid one year's interest on $60000 for an isolation hospital.

Ald. Morgan offered that the four aged paupers in the Protestant Home might be cared for more naturally by the Children's Aid Society in their new home on the old Hilliard property.

The mayor replied that could arrangements be made for the Children's Shelter people to use the smaller building on the old Hilliard property, the city might use the larger building for aged indigents.

Ald. Morgan moved, seconded by Ald. Elliott.—That the Legal Committee be authorized to arrange for the care of the four men now in the Protestant Home, by the Children's Aid people if possible, or in some other way. Also for the seven old paupers now in the jail. The committee to report back to the Council.—Carried.

HOUSE OF REFUGE.

Ald. Morrow moved, seconded by Ald. Leary,—That the Legal Committee be authorized to enquire into the cost of a house of refuge suitable for the city.—Carried.

Norwood will Enter Team in City League

Norwood will have a team in the rush leagues this winter. Mr. R. S. Pearce of Norwood, who was yesterday in the city, is authority for the statement that there is much enthusiasm over hockey in Norwood, and from present indications the seven from that village will be a strong one. He said they expected to have a team that would be a worthy one on all departments, and better than any that has ever represented Norwood, not even barring the year when the latter place gave T.A.S. such a hard run for the championship of the Trent Valley League.

Local Man Home From the West

Mr. William Turley of this city, has just arrived home after several months absence in South Manitoba Montana and Northern Dakota. Mr. Turley took advantage of a C.P.R. excursion to the west on one of the "farmers' harvest" excursions. He told yesterday, to a Times reporter, that whilst out harvesting in the west that the prices paid were $2.75 a day with board in the caboose. He said the board was good, it was out of sight, and the board was given whether or when we worked or not.

The description of the grain products and crops of the North-west is enough to stagger a man living in the older eastern part of the country.

Mr. Turley's work was done mostly in South-ern Manitoba, where the man he was working for used a Sawyer-Massey engine for power to run the threshing machine. He and the gang he was working with threshed mainly wheat, but also oats, barley and especially flax, the latter being a most remunerative crop.

Ex-P. C. McDonald in Chicago

Ex-P. C. McDonald, who recently resigned from the local police force for personal reasons, has returned to his recent home in Chicago, where he occupied a prominent position on the railroad detective force. We trust that Ex-P. C. McDonald will regain his former position or a better one and believe us fail to be railroad officials formerly employed him as he was in their employ for while on the local force. "Mac" was a good officer and had a knack of rake of former experience that would make the ordinary reporter's mouth water to hear when the latter was hunting for "copy."

A parlor cook stove in first class condition will be sold at a bargain a party has no need for it. Apply at this office for address.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

A DISCOVERY OF GREAT VALUE

Because a Cure Was Found for Inflammatory Rheumatism

There are many types of rheumatism but none worse than inflammatory.

It was this kind that almost killed Mrs. Edw. Warman, of Kent Co., N. B.

Every known remedy she tried, different doctors gave their advice, but the disease increased.

Weak and despairing, she was at her wits' end when the remarkable cure of Thos. Cullen was published. This gentleman was cured of rheumatism by "Ferrozone." Consequently Mrs. Warman used the same remedy. Here is her statement:

"For years I have been rheumatic. I tried various forms of relief without success. The disease increased, settled in my joints and muscles; these swelled, caused excruciating pain and kept me from sleeping. My limbs and arms stiffened, my shoulders were lame and prevented me from working. Week by week I was losing strength and despaired of finding a cure. It was a happy day I heard of Ferrozone. Every day I took Ferrozone I felt better, it eased the painful joints, gave rest at night and I have returned me energy and a feeling of new life. Ferrozone cured my rheumatism, curses even damp weather no longer affects me."

Ferrozone has power to destroy Uric acid, neutralize and enrich the blood, and therefore does cure the worst cases. Mrs. Warman's statement proves this.

By removing the cause of the disease and building up a reserve of energy Ferrozone is certain to cure. Sufferer, isn't it about time to stop experimenting? Ferrozone is a cure. We guarantee this. Sold by all dealers, 50c per box or six boxes for $2.50. Remember the name—"Ferrozone."

PRESERVING THE HARDWOOD FORESTS.

The Chicago Record-Herald outlines the lumber situation in the United States a nation whose mistakes Canada should ever attempt to avoid and whose wise acts in the administration of its domain this country should not hesitate to emulate.

The neighboring Republic is exporting the products of the forest, but with all the money that is being made out of the lumber and allied trades they are rapidly approaching a serious condition. A circular prepared in the forestry service of the Washington Government gives an estimate of sixteen years for the hard wood supply at the present rate of cutting. Already the output of some of the more important woods has been greatly decreased because of the exhaustion of the supply. Great centers of supply like Ohio and Indiana lost so heavily between 1899 and 1906 that they fall far back in rank and are permanently disabled. The circular says: "Together with Illinois, Ohio and Indiana produced 25 per cent. of the hard wood in 1899. In 1906 they produced only 14 per cent. They can never regain their lead or even maintain the standing they have. Their many wood-using establishments, which are now hard pressed for supplies, will exhaust their remaining remnants within a few years.

"Their many wood-using establishments" signifies much to Chicago, says the Record-Herald. Manufactures affected are lumber, conveyage, furniture-making, musical instruments, car-building, railroad ties, refrigerators and other sales, house finishing. A mere recital of the list gives some indication of Chicago's interest in the future of the hard wood supply.

At best it seems that very little can be done outside the Appalachian region. In all the fertile valleys where the woods give way to farms encroachment is added to encroachment and the lost ground cannot be regained. But "the mountain ranges from Maine to Alabama should be made to produce the greater part of the hard wood supply. Because growing hard wood timber is their most profitable use," and if they "are rightly managed and taken soon enough, they will insure continuously the hard wood supply of the country, and do it without exhausting the forest. In fact, it can be done so that the systematic treatment will at the same time improve the forest."

The history of European countries shows both this need and the remedies of action. It is possible to keep it under such regulations that it will be a constant source of wealth to the country.

SENSIBLE ADVICE.

Good For Children to Have Small Responsibilities.

"I believe in giving children responsibilities," said the mother of half a dozen. "I know that most mothers have a foolish prejudice against the idea. They seem to think that a responsibility is a burden to a child, but it really isn't if it is managed the right way."

"I am afraid I am one of the prejudiced," answered her neighbor. "Children learn the meaning of responsibility soon enough. Why should I be the one to teach them?"

"Because you are their mother, and the lessons will come so gently from you that they will not know they have learned it till some great experience makes them rise up and call you blessed for your teachings," said the other. "Take my little family. We are not well enough off to provide a nurse, and so instead of trying to assume the care of them all I have taught each one to look out for the next youngest. The amount of supervision that Tommy exercises over his three small brothers is really wonderful. I feel as safe when they are with him as I do when they are with their father."

"That sounds sensible, and I suppose I am rather foolish. My husband told me yesterday that I was literally a slave to the children," sighed the neighbor.

"You are," assented the other frankly. "You give up your time and your health and your friends and your husband for them. You never have a moment to yourself. You've taught your children to come to you for everything, and so they don't hesitate to burst in upon you at any moment, whether you are trying to get a nap or entertaining company or just sitting down for a quiet chat with one of your friends. If you leave them for even a couple of hours you are perfectly wretched for fear something has happened to them. You never have a holiday because you are afraid they might possibly miss you or need you. You think that argues great devotion and a motherly sense of duty, but you are making the mistake of your life."

A WASHABLE SACHET.

Something That Is Dainty and Sweet at the Same Time.

A square of pale green linen is used to make this sachet. The corners are embroidered and the square edged with a narrow cord. Then three corners are folded over to the center, envelope fashion, and their points fastened together with a stitch. The fourth corner forms the flap, and the sachet closes by means of a button and a loop of cord. When the sachet requires washing, it is only necessary to cut a few stitches, and then it can be laundered perfectly flat. Quite a new idea is to have a separate sachet for gloves and handkerchiefs. The case only measures about an inch or two larger than the handkerchiefs and is very dainty and pretty.

What Braising Means.

Braising is a combination of roasting and stewing small joints of meat in a shallow stewpan, called a braisière or brainer, which has a close fitting lid with a grooved edge round it on which hot coals (charcoal) are placed, whereby the meat can be cooked with a fire above it as well as under it. This process of cooking, it is said, greatly decreases loss by evaporation. It is a favorite method with the French and is supposed to bring out an unusually fine flavor and aroma.

The pan in which a braise is to be made should always be lined with slices of bacon, carrot, onions and herbs, upon which the meat is placed. It is usually moistened with stock or stock and wine. The more delicate meats, such as sweetbreads, fillets, fowls and turkeys, are sometimes covered with buttered paper. This is done to prevent the heat from the top of the pan scorching or imparting too much of a roast flavor to the meats which are to be braised.

Occasional basting during the process of this method of cooking is essential. When done the meat is taken up, the fat removed from the vegetables and gravy, which latter is then reduced, strained and blended with some kind of gravy or thin sauce.

A Dressmaking Hint.

If you are what is called an "out" size and the paper patterns cut in ordinary sizes do not fit you, rip an old well fitting dress bodice apart, iron out the pieces so that they will lie flat and cut a bodice pattern in paper from this. By allowing extra width where fullness will be needed you can cut blouses from the same pattern.

Brighten Old Carpet.

The colors in an old carpet can be brightened by sprinkling with wet pieces of newspapers wrung out of water. Work with the grain of the carpet, and after the paper has been brushed off wipe up the carpet with a cloth wrung out of a weak solution of ammonia water.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of the homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother).

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

TENDERS FOR PULPWOOD CONCESSIONS

Tenders will be received by the undersigned up to and including the 16th of December next for the right to cut pulpwood on certain areas tributary to the Nepigon river, in the district of Thunder Bay, and Rainy Lake, in the district of Rainy River, and make the same into paper. Tenderers should state the amount they are prepared to pay as bonus in addition to such dues as may from time to time be fixed, for the right to operate a paper making industry on the areas referred to. Separate tenders must be made for each area or territory, and the successful tenderers will be required to erect a mill or mills on each of the territories or in such other localities as may be approved by the Government of Ontario.

Parties tendering for the pulpwood rights shall accompany their tenders with a marked cheque for 25 per cent of the amount tendered, payable to the Treasurer of Ontario, and to be forfeited in the event of their failing to enter into agreements to carry out conditions, etc.

With respect to the Rainy Lake Pulp Concession, tenderers will be required to make a tender for the right to cut the pine, tamarac and cedar on the territory offered. Parties making tender for these timbers to state the amount they are prepared to pay per thousand feet B.M. as bonus in addition to Crown dues of $2.00 per thousand feet B.M. A marked cheque for $5,000.00 payable to the Treasurer of Ontario must accompany the tender for pine timber, and to be forfeited in the event of their failing to enter into agreements to carry out conditions, etc.

No timber shall be cut on either of the concessions of a less diameter than nine inches, two feet from the ground.

The successful tenderers to enter into agreements with the Government for the erection of the mills, expenditure of money, etc.

For full particulars as to the conditions, etc., application should be made to the undersigned.

AIKENSIDE

BY MARY J. HOLMES

Author of "Dora Deane," "The English Orphans," "Lena Rivers," "The Rector of St. Mark's," "Tempest and Sunshine," Etc.

"Hush, Uncle Joseph," Maddy whispered, softly, taking his arm and laying it around her neck. "Mr. Remington don't want me. He is engaged to an English girl across the sea."

Low as Maddy's words were, Guy heard them, as well as the crazy man's reply, "Engagements have been broken."

That was the first time the possibility had ever entered Guy's brain that his engagement might be broken, provided he wished it, which he did not, he said to himself positively. Lucy loved him, he loved Lucy, and that was enough, so in a kind of abstracted manner, arising from the fact that he was calculating how long it would be before Lucy was twenty-five, he began to talk with Maddy, asking how she had spent her time, and so forth. This reminded Maddy of the doctor, who, she said, had not been to see her at all.

"He was coming this morning," Guy rejoined, "but I persuaded him to defer his call until you were at Aikenside. I have come to take you back with me, as we are to have a party day after to-morrow evening, and I wish you to be present."

A party, a big party, such as Maddy had never in her life attended! How her eyes sparkled from mere anticipation as she looked appealingly to her grandfather, who, though classing parties with the pomps and vanities from which he would shield his child, still remembered that he once was young, that fifty years ago he, too, like Maddy, wanted "to see the folly of it," and not take the mere word of older people that in every festive scene there was a pitfall, strewn over so thickly with roses that it was oftimes hard to tell just where its boundary line commenced. Besides that, grandpa had faith in Guy, and so his consent was granted, and Maddy was soon on her way to Aikenside, which presented a gayer, busier appearance than she had ever known before. Jessie was wild with delight, dragging forth at once the pink dress which she was to wear, and whispering to Maddy that Guy had bought a dark blue silk for her, and that Sarah Jones was at that moment fashioning it after a dress left there by Maddy the previous summer.

"Mother said plain white muslin was more appropriate for a young girl, but Brother Guy said no; the blue silk would be useful after the party; it was what you needed, and so he bought it and paid a dollar and three-quarters a yard, but it's a secret until you are called to try it on. Isn't Guy splendid?"

He was indeed splendid, Maddy thought, wondering why he was so kind to her, and if it would be so when Lucy came. The dress fitted admirably, only Maddy thought grandpa would say it was too low in the neck, but Sarah overruled her objections, assisted by Guy, who, when the dress was completed and tried on for the last time, was called in by Jessie to see if "Maddy's neck didn't look just like cheese curd," and if "she should have a piece sewed on as she suggested." The neck was as fair, Guy said, laughing at Maddy for blushing so, and saying, when he saw how really distressed she seemed, that he would provide her with something to relieve the barenss of which she complained.

"Oh, I know, I saw, I peeked in the box," Jessie began, but Guy put his hand over the little tattler's mouth, bidding her keep the result of her peeking to herself.

And for once Jessie succeeded in doing so, although she several times set Maddy to guessing what it was Guy had for her in a box! As the size of the box was not mentioned, Maddy had fully made up her mind to a shawl or scarf, and was proportionately disappointed when, as she was dressing for the party, there was sent up to her room a small round box, scarcely large enough to hold an apple, much less a small scarf. The present proved to a pair of plain, but heavy bracelets, and a most exquisitely wrought chain of gold, to which was appended a beautiful pearl cross, the whole accompanied with the words, "From Guy."

Jessie was in ecstasies again. Clasping the ornaments on Maddy's neck and arms, she danced around her, declaring there never was anything more beautiful or anybody as pretty as Maddy was in her rich party dress. Maddy was fond of jewelry—as what young girl is not?—and felt a flush of gratified pride, or vanity, or satisfaction, whichever one chooses to call it, as she glanced at herself in the mirror and remembered the time when, riding with the doctor, she had met Mrs. Agnes, with golden bracelets flashing on her arms, and wished she might one day wear something like them. The day had come sooner than she then anticipated, but Maddy was not as happy in possession of the coveted ornaments as she had thought she should be. Somehow, it seemed to her that Guy ought not to have given them to her, that it was improper for her to keep them, and that both Mrs. Noah and Agnes thought so, too. She wished she knew exactly what was right, and then, remembering that Guy had said the doctor was expected early, she decided to ask his opinion on the subject and abide by it.

At first Agnes had cared but little about the party, affecting to despise the people in their immediate neighborhood; but when Guy gave her permission to invite from the adjoining towns, and even from Worcester if she liked, her spirits rose; and when her dress was completed, she shone resplendent in lace and diamonds and curls, managing to retain through all a certain simplicity of dress appropriate to the hostess. But beautiful as Agnes was, she felt in her jealous heart that there was about Maddy Clyde an attraction she did not possess. Guy saw it, too, and while complimenting his pretty step-mother, kept his eyes fixed admiringly on Maddy, who started him into certain unpleasant remembrances by asking if the doctor had come yet.

"No—Yes—there he was now," and Guy looked into the hall, where the doctor's voice was heard inquiring for him.

"I want to see him a minute, alone, please. There's something I want to ask him." And, unmindful of Agnes' darkening frown, or Guy's look of wonder, Maddy darted from the room, and ran hastily down the hall to where the doctor stood, waiting for Guy, not for her.

He had not expected to meet her thus, or to see her thus, and the sight of her, grown so tall, so womanly, so stylish, and so beautiful, almost took his breath away. And yet, as he stood with her soft hand in his, and surveyed her from head to foot, he felt that he would rather have had her as she was when a dainty frill shaded her pale, wasted face, when the snowy ruffle was fastened high about her throat, and the cotton bands were buttoned about her wrists, where gold ones now were shining. The doctor had never forgotten Maddy as she was then, the very embodiment, he thought, of helpless purity. The little sick girl, so dear to him then, was growing away from him now; and these adornings which marked the budding woman, seemed to remove her from him and place her nearer to Guy, whose bride should wear jewels, just as Maddy did.

She was very glad to see him, she said, asking in the same breath why he had not been to the cottage, if she had not grown tall, and if he thought her improved with living in a city.

"One question at a time, if you please," he said, drawing her a little more into the shadow of the hall, where they would be less observed by anyone passing through.

Maddy did not wait for him to answer, so eager was she to unburden her mind and know if she ought to keep the costly presents, at which she knew he was looking.

"If he remembers his unpaid bill, he must consider me mighty mean," she thought; and then, with her usual frankness, she told him of the perplexity and asked his opinion.

"It would displease Mr. Guy very much if I were to give them back," she said; "but it hardly is right for me to accept them, is it?"

The doctor did not say she ought not to wear the ornaments, though he longed to tear them from her arms and throw them anywhere, he cared not where, so they freed her wholly from Guy.

The Part He Lost.

A New England man tells of a prosperous Connecticut farmer painfully exact in money matters who married a widow of Commercial possessing in her own right the sum of $30,000. Shortly after the wedding a friend met the farmer, to whom he offered congratulations, at the same time observing, "It's a good thing for you, Malachi, a marriage that means $30,000 to you." "Not quite that, Bill," said the farmer; "not quite that." "Why," exclaimed the friend, "I understood there was every cent of $30,000 in it for you." "I had to pay $2 for a marriage license," said Malachi.

Secured His Way Out of Prison.

A burglar named Schnarschmidt, in prison at Gotz, deliberately set to work to gnaw through a thick oaken beam in front of his cell window. It was a work of seven weeks. The fragments of wood which were torn away with his teeth he replaced with chewed bread until the beam was almost gnawed through. A final smashing noise was heard by the wardens, but before they could appear Schnarschmidt had escaped.—London Chronicle.

Cautious.

A few days ago a new male resident of this city, recently arrived from Ireland, having made a favorable impression upon the manager of a wholesale house on Market street, secured a position. The merchant the next day, having made out a large number of statements, called the new employee into his office, directing him to "go out and post these bills." "Where?" inquired the young man. "Oh, yes," said the business man, "I forgot that you have only been in this country a short time. There's a mail box on the telegraph pole at the corner. Post the bills there." The son of Erin soon returned, laying the bills on the merchant's desk. "I may be a little green yet, sir," said he, "but I'm not posting them bills with a big policeman watching the box." "Not posting them? Why not? What about the policeman?" asked the astonished storekeeper. "That's all right, but you're not fooling me all the same, if I do appear to be green. Sure, didn't I see the sign on the pole over the box, 'Post no bills under penalty of the law?'"—Philadelphia Record.

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, but sure living proofs back to flesh again. That is impossible, but I can now surely kill the pains and pangs of this deplorable disease.

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Berne—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. With all that last ingredient, I successfully treated over 1,000 cases of Rheumatism, and now, I confidently cure all curable cases of this [illegible] much dreaded disease. They need [illegible] worries, found in Rheumatic blood [illegible] and pain a way under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when deprived [illegible] freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now [illegible] no natural excuse to suffer longer with [illegible] help. ANTIGUA GOLD-COPPER Co.

Offers the Biggest and Most Attractive Mining Investment Now Before the Public.

ITS HOLDINGS ARE MINES--NOT PROSPECTS

With Vast Bodies of Ore Ready for the Mill, Now Nearing Completion.

THOMAS W. LAWSON said: "Copper stocks offer the biggest opportunity for money making in the world to-day. A good copper mine is really a safe-deposit vault of stored up dividends which cannot be stolen or destroyed by fire, flood or famine."

CECIL RHODES said: "Mining offers greater inducements than any other business in the world to make quick and great wealth."

CHARLES M. SCHWAB says: "The big fortunes of the next twenty-five years will come from Mother Earth." Among all mining investments none stand ahead of copper for safety, permanency and profit.

Lay the Foundation for Your Fortune Today

THE ANTIGUA PROPERTIES

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company holdings consist of 521 acres; situated in Honduras, Central America, 100 miles southeast from Puerto Cortes, and midway between New Orleans and Panama. Development work is being pushed with all possible speed, and more than 1,500 feet of tunneling and shaft work has been completed. A 50-ton capacity gold-silver mill is in course of construction, and will be in operation before the close of the year.

Development work has conclusively proven that every acre of our holdings are rich in gold, copper and silver, and that every ton of this great ore body will yield a handsome profit on milling expense. The ore exposed on the surface does not require mining in the usual sense of the term, but may be obtained by quarrying. It can, according to estimates of experts, be quarried and treated for the gold and silver on an extensive scale at a cost of less than $1.00 a ton. Think of it! A solid mountain of rich ore, from the very grass roots of which may be washed gold.

Beyond a doubt Honduras has beneath her soil larger, richer deposits of copper, gold and silver than any other section of the American continent. Spain, during her sovereignty in that country, took out more than $200,000,000 in gold alone—and she scarcely scraped the Earth's surface. There is evidence that the pre-historic races knew how to mine and utilize copper—smelting it in their crude way.

The original incorporators of the Antigua Gold-Copper Company spent thousands of dollars of their own money in bringing this property to its present stage of development. They opened up the mine on every side with tunnels, crosscuts and shafts. They purchased machinery and began the erection of a gold-silver mill—soon nearing completion. These men appreciated from the first that this mine was destined to become one of the greatest copper-gold-silver properties in America; and that it justified more extensive and more rapid development than they were able to make without the co-operation and financial assistance of the public.

WHY STOCK IS SOLD

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company finds itself in precisely the same position as the farmer who has a larger farm than he can cultivate with the capital in hand. He knows that with additional capital and assistance he could make the land yield abundant crops and enormous profits. In the same way we intend, by the investment of additional capital, to bring our enormous ore bodies to a highly profitable state of development at the earliest possible moment. For this reason a limited amount of treasury stock is offered the public. In this way funds will be available for immediate use in purchasing additional machinery and for continuing vigorous development of the property.

THERE ARE NO PREFERRED SHARES AND NO BONDS TO COME FIRST IN THE DIVISION OF PROFITS.

and your shares will earn as much as a like number of shares owned by any other stockholder in the company. Each share CARRIES WITH IT THE RIGHT TO VOTE, so that with a single share you have every right, privilege and protection possessed by any other stockholder.

Stock is now being sold at $2.50 a share, and this stock, we firmly believe, will, within a year, be selling at its par value of $5.00 a share, or higher; nor will it stop there. If you are desirous of permanently increasing your income, of making an investment that is not only secure, but immensely profitable, reserve shares TO-DAY.

Such an investment opportunity can scarcely be repeated. It is made possible only by extraordinary natural conditions. Millions of dollars of copper, gold and silver will be marketed from the mines—fortunes will be reaped as a result of the prompt seizure of the opportunity we offer you to-day.

REPORT OF AN EXPERT

Much weight can justly be given the statement of a properly qualified and reliable mining engineer. Such is the character of T. W. Foster, from whose report on Antigua we make the following extracts:

"From the development work done and the indications shown by the croppings, I am convinced this is one of the largest gold-copper deposits in existence, and under proper development will make one of the richest mining properties in America. * * * I consider this ore an ideal smelting proposition, there being an abundance of iron, lime and silica in close proximity. There is plenty of water for power and milling purposes, and an abundance of timber on the property. * * *

"A large amount of development work has been done on this property in tunnels, drifts and shafts, ranging from 30 to possibly 200 feet in length. * * * This work has all been in ore—in fact, the ore body on the surface is shown to be fully one-half mile wide by two miles in length. To judge from the development work done, this property is all ore—no matter where work was started, ore was encountered.

"The company is erecting a mill, consisting of one five-stamp and three Hunningtons, to work the surface ore. This surface ore is mostly free milling, the copper and galena sulphides being oxidized, freeing the gold, and being readily amalgamated. But I am confident that at no very great depth copper sulphides will be encountered, as there are many places in this great ore body where the sulphides crop to the surface. I have taken a dozen samples from various places on the lead, and from these made free gold tests, finding an average of over $4.00 a ton in FREE gold, and from 5 to 7½ per cent copper. Native copper is frequently seen in this ore. If the Antigua mines continue in depth as on the surface, a 1,000 ton smelter will not work it out in 100 years. * * *

"* * * With good management and proper development, it will be but a short time until the stock of the company will be worth more than par. I fully believe that if this great ore body is properly developed there is a mine here worth many millions of dollars.

Something New in Copper

PITTSBURG - IDAHO

Mining and Milling Company

The mine is located 18 miles above Lewiston, Idaho, on the Clearwater river, and consists of 19 full claims, or 380 acres. It is developed by tunnels, shafts and open cuts for more than 2100 feet, disclosing thousands of tons of copper, gold and silver ores of both high grade and low grade. There are between 1000 and 2000 tons of ore ready for shipment. The entrance to the working tunnel is only 2000 feet from the track of the Northern Pacific railroad, to be reached by gravity tramway. There are seven parallel veins running lengthwise of the claims, one cropping out on the surface for 2400 feet and another for 3000 feet; while two veins cross these running into the mountain. These veins are from 20 to 200 feet wide, one ore shute has been crossed 70 feet and is solid ore from wall to wall.

We are not asking you to buy in a prospect. That risk was taken by the promoters. We are asking you to buy in a developed, proven mine. Seven years of continuous work and the expenditure of thousands of dollars has proven up one of the greatest mines in Idaho. That mine is now ready to pour out its red and yellow wealth to the world with the installing of an up-to-date production plant. It is for that purpose that a block of its treasury stock, full paid and non-assessable, is offered for sale. We believe that within six months from the completion of a 100-ton plant the mine can be put on a dividend paying basis, and that those dividends will be substantial and permanent. There is no better investment proposition before the people at this time.

CAPITALIZATION $1,000,000. PAR VALUE $1.

Wives and Mothers Suffer with Backache

Unfortunately They Fail to Recognize the Dangerous Cause of the Trouble.

Constantly on their feet, attending to the wants of a large and exacting family, women often break down with nervous exhaustion.

In the stores, factories, and on a farm are weak ailing women, dragged down with torturing backache and bearing down pains.

Such suffering isn't natural but it's dangerous, because due to diseased kidneys.

The dizziness, insomnia, deranged menses and other symptoms of kidney complaint can't cure themselves, they require the assistance of Dr. Hamilton's Pills which go direct to the seat of the trouble.

To give vitality and power to the kidneys, to lend aid to the bladder and liver, to free the blood of poisons, probably there is no remedy so successful as Dr. Hamilton's Pills. For all womanly irregularities their merit is well known.

Because of their mild, soothing and healing effect, Dr. Hamilton's Pills are safe, and are recommended for girls and women of all ages. 25 cents per box at all dealers. Refuse any substitute for Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut.

DASHES HERE AND THERE BY TIMES REPORTERS.

Harry Neil Goes Gunning

Messrs. Harry Neil and J. Hughes, east ward, left yesterday afternoon for Rice Lake, where they will spend three or four days duck shooting. This is Mr. Neil's second trip this season to Rice Lake in pursuit of the duck. He succeeded in downing a large number last time, and hopes to do equally as well in the next couple of days.

Bethany Tabernacle Tokens

The usual nightly prayer services for the filling with the Holy Spirit was held at Bethany Tabernacle last night, as it will be on Thursday and Friday evenings. Last night a new report was given of the work in progress in Toronto. This evening a cottage meeting will be held at the home of David Henry, 570 Aylmer street. All interested are cordially invited.

Trial Catarrh treatments are being mailed out free, on request, by Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis., These teas are proving to the people—without a penny's cost—the great value of this scientific prescription known to druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Remedy. Sold by all Dealers.

Horses Not in Demand Out West

According to Ald. R. H. Leary, recently returned from Western Canada, the horse market out there is even in a worse state than it is here, and it is almost impossible to effect a sale or profitable horse deal of any kind in the prairie country. He says it's almost impossible to give horses away, partly on account of the crops failure, and owing more particularly to the increasing use of mechanical devices such as steam plows, etc.

Wild Ducks Were Not Plentiful

Mr. "Edge" Hurtley, one of Peterborough's best known duck shooters and, incidentally one of Canada's leading exponents of the art of caligraphy, has returned from his usual annual hunt at Rice Lake. Mr. Hurtley, with his proverbial open-hearted way of expressing himself, in reply to a Times reporter's query, "Edge, how did you find the ducks this fall?" said, "Well, to tell you the truth, I had hard luck. There were not so many ducks as usual but there were lots. Still, I had hard luck and did not bring as many home as usual." If Mr. Hartley can't get ducks they are either wild, with a capital W, or scarce.

A PRIVATE READING.

But Boggs Never Expected It Would Turn Out as It Did.

Boggs prides himself on being what he calls with splendid verbal amplitude a scientific craniologist. There is only one other subject that he permits himself to talk of, and that is his wife's intellectual ability. And so it is that you may try to open a conversation on war or peace or the state of political parties, on literature or painting or sculpture, but he will switch you off to listening to his discourse upon the various phases of phrenological development or the brilliant mental qualifications of his wife.

I met him on the street the other day, and I wasn't with him a minute but he began talking of heads and bumps, of philoprogenitiveness and amplebitiveness, of veneration and ideality and a great deal more of what was nothing more than mere rigmarole to me.

"Now," remarked he, "phrenology at this late day, unlike medicine, is an exact science. You can tell to a certainty from observation of a person's head his or her mental proclivities. Just look at those two women walking ahead of us. Notice the one to the right. I mean the one with the white waist and the blue feather sticking from her hat. Remark the general contour of her head and the bumps behind the ears. I will wager you that that woman is narrow of mind, commonplace in her views and of general mental inferiority; that she"—

Just then an explosion of some sort took place behind us, and the two women turned around to learn the cause of the disturbance. It was then we caught a glimpse of their faces, and take me for a double dyed villain if the one whose characteristics Boggs had just been describing wasn't really Boggs' own wife!—Judge.

THE BASEBALL CURVE

An Old Timer's Story of the Game That First Saw It.

IT WAS USED BY AN AMATEUR

According to This Old Professional Player, Arthur Cummings Was the Young Pitcher Who Was the Originator of the In and Out Shoots.

Speaking about the early history of baseball the other day, an old time professional player said there were many things not known generally.

"There is, for instance, the matter of curve pitching. Who pitched the first curved ball? No; don't name any of the men that won pennants and got $10,000 a year. The pioneer wasn't a professional, but an amateur—that is, he was an amateur until his curves made him famous.

"His name was Arthur Cummings, and he was a New York boy, a tall, thin young fellow with hair as blond as a chorus girl's. How he came to discover curve pitching I don't know, but it was generally believed afterward that he hit on it by accident. He tried it out for the first time in 1867 in a game between two scrub teams in Washington.

"The famous Excelsior club of New York was then visiting Washington as the guest of the old National club, and the two played a series of games on the old White lot. Toward the end of the series some one suggested that the young New Yorkers who had come over with the Excelsiors make up a scrub nine and play a nine of Washington boys as a sort of comic interlude.

"The suggestion was adopted, and the New York nine consisted of four or five Excelsior substitutes and a number of other young fellows, among them Arthur Cummings. The Washington nine was made up in the main of players belonging to the Junior Nationals, the crack amateur team of Washington.

"Cummings was a rising young pitcher, but no one thought that there was anything remarkable about him, and the Junior Nationals prepared to knock him out of the box. But when the first batsmen faanned out the Washingtonians began to look surprised.

"'It's the darndest thing I ever saw,' said this batsman. 'I struck right out at all three balls, and every one of them seemed to jump aside just as it got near the plate. One jumped outward, another forward, and the third seemed to rise. Maybe I'm beginning to see things.'

"It puzzled Jerrell, the catcher, too, not to speak of Al Mills, the umpire. Jerrell caught all of the balls because it was then the custom for the catcher to stand far back and catch on the first bounce, but it made him dizzy.

"The second batsman of the Junior Nationals went to the bat and walloped the air three times too. Al Mills came up close to the plate to see what was wrong. It looked to him as if Cummings were wild.

"'Just keep your head there,' bawled to the third Batsman, 'and you'll get your base on balls.'

"This third batsman had a steady head, and, sure enough, he got his base on balls. Cummings pitched the ball, and it seemed to be coming straight for the plate, when suddenly, just as it was ten feet or so away, it curved out and missed the plate by a foot. Mills called a ball.

"The next ball came straight on, but the batsman, hoping to hit it and profiting by his experience, swung his bat far out. But, instead of curving out like the last one, it seemed to jump. It crossed the plate on a level with the batsman's eyes.

"That scared him, and he just stood there without making a move until a succession of wild balls sent him to first base. The fourth batsman struck out so easily that it was pathetic.

"Well, sir, Cummings began to get more control over the ball after that first inning, and Mills had to admit that it was coming over the plate; but, except by accident, not a single Junior National batsman could touch it. It jumped; it sank; it wabbled from side to side. Mills rubbed his eyes and wondered how the thing was done. Cummings merely smiled.

"In the fifth inning one of the Nationals by dumb luck landed on the sphere and drove it into the next county. There were two men on bases at the time, and this home run brought three home. That gave the Nationals three runs. So far as I know, they made no other runs in the whole game.

"After it was all over the whole town buzzed about Cummings' queer pitching. As for him, he was as silent as the grave.

"'How do you make the ball curve?' asked a hundred persons.

"'Does it curve?' Cummings would say, innocent-like.

"And then he would shut up and become a clam.

"When he got back to New York he was signed by the champion Athletics and became their star pitcher. Other pitchers watched him and got on to the trick, but it was three years before anybody did it as well as he. During those three years his team kept the championship.

"And that, so far as I know, is the story of the origin of the curve ball."

The Funny Part.

"Was there anything really humorous about your show?"

"Yes," answered the manager, "the critics said some things about it next day that were really funny."—Washington Star.

COMMON SENSE

Leads most intelligent people to use only medicines of known composition. Therefore it is that Dr. Pierce's medicines, the makers of which print every ingredient entering into them upon the bottle wrappers and attest its correctness under oath, are daily growing in favor. The composition of Dr. Pierce's medicines is open to everybody. Dr. Pierce, being desirous of having the search light of investigation turned fully upon his formulas, being confident that the better the composition of these medicines is known the more full their great curative merits become known. Being wholly made of the active medicinal principles extracted from native forest roots, by exact processes original with Dr. Pierce, and without the use of a drop of alcohol, triple-refined and chemically pure glycerine being used instead in extracting and preserving the curative virtues residing in the roots employed, these medicines are entirely free from the objection of doing harm by creating an appetite for either alcoholic beverages or habit-forming drugs. Examine the formula on their bottle wrappers—the same as sworn to by Dr. Pierce, and you will find that his "Golden Medical Discovery," the great blood-purifier, stomach tonic and liver regulator—the medicine which, while not recommended to cure consumption in its advanced stages (no medicine will do that) yet does cure all those catarrhal conditions of head and throat, weak stomach, torpid liver and bronchial troubles, weak lungs and hang-on-coughs, which, if neglected or badly-treated lead up to and finally terminate in consumption.

Take the "Golden Medical Discovery" in time and it is not likely to disappoint you if only you give it a thorough and fair trial. Don't expect miracles. It won't do supernatural things. You must exercise your patience and perseverance in its use for a reasonable length of time to get its full benefits. The ingredients of which Dr. Pierce's medicines are composed have the unqualified endorsement of scores of medical leaders—better than any amount of lay, or non-professional, testimonials. They are not given away to be experimented with but are sold by all dealers in medicines at reasonable prices.

VANCOUVER POLICE FEAR JAPS---MORE RIOTS EXPECTED

Police Inspector Mulhern Says That Riot May Again Occur and Ten Times the Number on Police Force Could Not Cope with the Hordes of Orientals

Vancouver, B.C., Nov. 6.—Police Inspector Mulhern was the star witness yesterday before Mr. Mackenzie Kirton in the riot damages enquiry. He said; "Ten times the number of Vancouver's present police force could not afford sufficient protection against the hordes of Orientals now coming in."

Mulhern added that riots may again occur, to which the Commissioner remarked: "If that is the opinion of the Vancouver police, I think the city should be informed of the great responsibility resting on the shoulders of the authorities."

Inspector Mulhern believed the Japs had attempted themselves to set fire to their school the day after the riot to cast a serious aspect on crime possibilities.

Medd-Ackerman Nuptials Quietly Celebrated Yesterday Afternoon.

Yesterday afternoon an event of general social interest was in evidence at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Ackerman, Dalhousie street, when their eldest daughter, Miss Estelle Lumsden was united in marriage to Mr. Sydney Taylor Medd, a member of the law firm of Hall, Medd & Davidson, Peterborough, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Medd, of Millbrook. The marriage took place in the presence of the immediate relatives of the contracting parties, and performed in the drawing room, the Rev. J. P. Wilson, of Bellsville, a friend of the bride's family, tying the nuptial knot. The bride, was given away by her father, and wore a princess gown of ivory duchess satin, made perfectly plain, finished with a deep hem, caught up with seed pearls, and finished about the neck with a tiny yoke of tucked tulle and a berthe of duchess pointe lace, with seed pearls. She also wore a tulle veil, caught up with orange blossoms, and finished in the lower left hand corner with a monogram of pearls. She carried a bouquet of orchids, tied with white ribbon and for her only ornament a diamond brooch, the gift of the groom. The bridesmaid was Miss Edna Ackerman, sister of the bride. Mr. Alfred W. Medd of Montreal, brother of the groom, supported the latter.

The drawing room was banked with palms, and ferns, the room being decorated with white chrysanthemums. In the dining room the decorations were bridal roses and smilax. The wedding march was played by Mr. Chas. Ackerman, brother of the bride.

After the ceremony a luncheon was served in the dining room, the table being decked with roses and smilax. The bride and groom were the recipients of numerous gifts, consisting of silverware, cut glassware, pictures, china and curios—and also several cheques. The presents included a silver tea service from the employees of the B. F. Ackerman & Son's establishment. Mr. and Mrs. Medd left on the afternoon train on a honeymoon trip.

Perrytown's Cheese Board Meets

Yesterday afternoon the Perrytown Cheese Board held their annual meeting with President Fred S. White in the chair. Reports showed that a prosperous year had been enjoyed by all members of the Board. Mr. Monte Wilson, the Garden Hill cheese maker, who was in the city, with a car load of hogs from the Messrs Geo. Matthews Co., had to turn up quite a lot of shoe leather lively friction while hustling to the G.T.R. depot to catch a train in order to be present at the meeting. Monte got his train however, even if he did lose a few ounces (avoirdupois) whilst hustling for that train.

Lowering Price of Hogs Brought Results

Despite the steady downpour of rain yesterday morning very many loads of hogs were driven in and and weighed at the market weigh scales. The fact that a reported drop in price from $6.00 to $5.75 undoubtedly accounted for the great number sold. The buyers seemed to have things their own way as seventeen hogs previously purchased on the raisers' farm by a local dealer were refused a purchase by the representative of the original buyer in the absence of the latter as they were too small and light-weight. Experts at the weigh scale said the bunch in question would not "dress" at 90 lbs. It seems, as explained to a Times' representative yesterday that hogs as small as those in the bunch referred to, when killed and "dressed" will not make bacon thick or fat enough for the English market and are thus looked at, by packers and buyers as most undesireable. It was learned that since writing the above that the bunch in question was later on, during the day purchased at a lower price.

Police Station Cells Full

Last night cells Nos. 1, 2 and 3, at the police station were all occupied. Old man Oakley, who cannot speak too highly of the way he was treated in the past by Mr. Nesbitt and his assistant at the jail, was a guest at headquarters. Oakley when asked "Do you want to get another six months, or in jail, replied, "Well, Sir, I don't much care, but I would sooner get a light job with a farmer for the winter. You know there, a man has some money to spend for himself."

Conservative Club Meets Tonight

The third annual meeting of the Young Conservative Club will be held this evening, at eight o'clock, in the club rooms, George street.

A full attendance of members is requested, as the plans for the coming winter season will be discussed, reports presented, officers elected, etc. Every member, young and old, should be on hand this evening.

Smashed Window and Arrested

Last night a man, with a 17x27 sized jag aboard, who had just come into town and was celebrating staggered into, and, unfortunately through a large pane of glass lighting the north window of the Times Books, or, Fortunately his erratic movements did not impel him to break the main plate glass window but one of the side lights. The window smasher was at once arrested and upon the night in cell No. 1 at the Hop House. He will try to explain matters to "the beak" this morning.

Local Police After a Bad Burglar--Robs Buckhorn Store at Point of Revolver

Yesterday the local police force was busily engaged among other matters in searching for the burglar who on Tuesday night at Buckhorn, held up two girls, at the business end of his revolver and stole between $25 and $30 from the store of Mr. J. C. Purser of that hamlet.

It seems that a tramp entered the store about 8.15 o'clock when there were only the two young ladies there, Miss Higgins and Miss Purser. He walked up to the counter demanding a plug of tobacco for which he laid down a dollar bill. After getting his change the enterprising visitor left and later on return ed to the store and walked directly behind the counter to the cash register. Opening it he grabbed a handful of the contents, but Miss Higgins caught him in the act. She seized his arm but the burglar instantly drew a revolver on the woman. His threats gained him a release and he walked quickly towards the door.

At the door he was again delayed by Miss Purser who caught hold of his arm. The revolver was quickly flashed in her eyes also, and she was forced to release her hold. The daring highway man then fled into the darkness, seemingly making in the direction of Lakefield. During yesterday afternoon a telephone message was sent the police station giving a detailed description of the desperado, whom it is to be hoped—will be captured by the police. If he is foolhardy enough to enter Peterborough, he will most undoubtedly make the acquaintance of Chief Ruttel and his staff, who are all on the lookout for this frightener of defenceless but plucky women.

City Building Interior Completed Yesterday

Mr. Thos. Irwin Has Reason for Congratulation Over Splendid Work Done in Our Public Buildings

Yesterday Mr. Thos. Irwin, who has been in superintendence of the work done on the city building, corner of Water and Simcoe streets, called all over as he took a Times representative through the building and showed the accomplished improvements. That Mr. Irwin has done or seen that others have done good work in this building is evident to anyone who passes through the various departments in the ground floor. To begin with Mr. Irwin will no take exception when we quote his own words, "You know I'm a fresh air crank. Now just look at those rooms, the transoms, and large ones at that, over each door, work with airing and pulleys, so that all are arranged that they may, individually or collectively be opened by the simple pull of a rope and then locked against burglars, e.c., by simply letting go of the cord. The interior wood work of the new offices is really beautiful. The whole interior decorative effect is finished to resemble quartered oak and reflects great credit upon the artisans who did the work, viz., Messrs Sharp & Manning, who did the painting, and Mr. John Watson, a worthy son of an accomplished father, who did the graining. It would take an expert to detect the difference between the supposititous oak panels and wainscoting, and that which might have been laid from the real product of the trees that once aided King Charles of England, in his escape from his enemies.

The interior of the city building, where formerly, the local fire brigade stored their ladders, hose, engines, etc., has been so changed and utilized, under the intelligent supervision of Mr. Irwin, that not a foot of space is wasted, in fact between two of the city offices, those, if memory serves us right, of the city engineer and the plumbing inspector, one wall is so fixed, that a single telephone by way of an arched pigeon hole does duty for two departments of the city service. Mr. Green, the city tax collector, assisted by Mrs. Green, was yesterday busily engaged in getting his department outfitted up and in working order. His office, as now located will save many a citizen from using strong language whilst, as in the past, having to climb stairs to pay over his hard earned dollars for nothing more tangible than a rubber stamped certificate of payment.

Sanitary Inspector Geo. Ball has a comfortable and nicely decorated office overlooking Simcoe street but his office does to the rear of the building George might have had a standing reminder of sanitary requirements as the southern winds blew the mingled odors emanating from the hog pens on the market square to his business location.

The newly changed building contains one room of interest to future generations, viz., the "paper room," where 21 nicely finished, commodious and well planned cupboards have been built to contain bound volumes of the local newspapers. Two modern lavatories, fitted up in the latest style, are to be found on the ground floor, so that the city officials are comfortably situated.

Between the police station and the other recently completed offices, a room, light on locks and supplies of the city, but mainly such as are used by employes of the city engineer. Speaking of the city engineer, it might be noted that Mr. Hay has now ready for him a "dark room" to be used in making photographic blue prints of photographs of his plans.

Mr. Thompson the plumbing inspector, has a neat little office easily accessible to those wanting his services.

The only link between present conditions and absolute completion of the building is the knocking out of one of a brick wall, for a door between City Treasurer Frank Adams' office and the rest of the building. This will be done today. Messrs. Mastin gor & Reid the George street plumbers were yesterday busily engaged, with a large staff of men in wiring up the building for electric lights. Mr. Adam Hall has already furnished a well done job of steam heating the whole premises.

Whilst the exterior of the City Building is admitedly not up to or in accordance with the prosperity and advancement of Peterborough, in appearance, the interior arrangements and offices are of the best and worthy of admiration by any observer. Mr. Irwin has done well.

P. C. Meharry Now a Benedict

A quietly carried out wedding was solemnized yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. John Irwin, 247 Bethune street, when her eldest daughter, Miss Myrtle, became the bride of Mr. John Meharry, of the city police force. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. G. Potter. The wedding was quietly celebrated, owing to a recent bereavement in the bride's family. The bride wore a travelling suit of navy blue with pale blue hat to match.

Many beautiful and attractive presents were received by the bride, including a handsome clock from the city police force.

Mr. and Mrs. Meharry left on the 5.45 G.T.R. train for Toronto, and Niagara, and on their return will reside on Victoria avenue. The best wishes of a host of friends follow the happy young couple for many years of happy wedded life.

The Careful Physician

A doctor recently said:

"I know that if I could keep Coffee from most of my patients the remedies would be more effective."

That's because Coffee contains a drug—Caffeine—which interferes with the success of other drugs the doctor may be giving the patient. Many persons do not realize that they are taking a drug into their systems when they drink Coffee or Tea, but such is the fact.

Some of the effects of the Coffee drug are: Nervousness, Palpitation of the heart, Shortness of Breath, Insomnia, Sour Stomach, Loss of Natural Appetite, Cold Hands and Feet, Indigestion, Bowel Troubles, etc., etc.

Common sense would suggest the disuse of Coffee when such symptoms show themselves, before the disease becomes permanent. It is well to heed the doctor's advice when he says:—

"Cut Out Coffee if it Disagrees"

It's an easy and pleasant task when the further suggestion is observed:—

"And Use Postum."

10 days' change from Coffee to Postum (well-boiled according to directions on pkg.) will prove that

"There's a Reason" for

POSTUM

MANY APPEALS HEARD AT COURT OF REVISION LAST NIGHT

Last night the Court of Revision met in session in the council chambers, which was crowded some five rows of people deep back of the bar dividing that part, where the city fathers sit in pursuance of their civic duties.

Mr. E. H. D. Hall, city solicitor, represented the city's interests, during last night's proceedings.

The appeals came in fast and furious from alleged grieved taxpayers. The officials of the court, included County Registrar Morrow, Mr. Wm. Langford, and Lawyer E. A. Dixon. City Clerk S. A. Armstrong acted as secretary.

During the course of proceedings Mr. D. O'Connell appeared (for Mr. W. Dunlin, who claimed his assessment was too high both on business and property values. His office property had been increased from $2300 to $2560 in one year. This began the first real fight of the session.

Assessor McKee arose and delivered an evidently pre-arranged and prepared argument, explaining his in many cases inexplicable raises in the assessment of property. He said that the increase he put on in assessment was dependant upon the raise in rents.

Mr. O'Connell in his address to the court did not seem to pay as high a regard to Assessor McKee's judgment as he might have done. Mr. K. G. Patterson of the Canadian General Electric Co. made a strenuous objection to the increased assessment on the company's property on Albert street on certain lots numbering 6, 7, 8, to Nos. 19, which this year had been raised 19-12 per cent. (or taxation purposes. He noted that the company had not been "done" right on improvements.

The business of the court was put through in quick order. Whilst a good proportion of the appellants were practically given no encouragements many of their appeals were recorded and held for further discussion and adjudging merits by the court.

Mr. Clelland's Notable Curiosity Criticized

It will be remembered that in The Times of Oct. 29th, appeared a report concerning a valuable discovery, made a few days previously. This was in the shape of a solid copper spear head, plowed up by a farmer near Indian River, which was given to Mr. Chas. S. McClelland, the Water street jeweller.

We were yesterday in receipt of a letter concerning our article about the spear head from Prof. David Boyle, superintendent of the Provincial museum, Toronto, which is appended below. We might say, with all due deference to the scientific gentleman's knowledge of such matters, that the spear head in question has been pronounced by two local experts in metals and castings to be hardened copper and to have been moulded.

The professor's letter is as follows.

Editor Morning Times, Peterborough Ont.—

Dear Sir.—I am indebted to my friend, Col. H. C. Rogers, for a copy of your issue of the 29th ult., containing an article entitled "Most Valuable Historic Find Made in Many Years;" and although to quote from your article, I do not pretend to be one of the "clergies that delight in and understand antiquities and the hand-work of races dead, gone, and forgotten, perhaps centuries ago," I cannot refrain from dropping you this note to say a word or two by way of correcting what I consider a very popular error, namely, a belief in the hardening of copper, as well as its melting, by the Indians.

I feel absolutely certain that if any reasonable test, say, with a small saw-file, be made on the specimen now in Mr. McClelland's possession it will be found that the material is absolutely free from what we call temper, and similarly, I think it may be proved on close examination that the metal was never melted; but that on the other hand its form is the result of hammering.

Extremely pure native copper is found in more places than one in British America. Only a few days ago I had a visit from Dr. George Byron Gordon, professor of anthropology in the University of Pennsylvania, on his return from an exploring expedition in Labrador, and he informed me that copper in this condition was a frequent occurrence in the far north.

Yours respectfully,
DAVID BOYLE.

Killed by Electric Wire

Penetanguishene, Nov. 6.—David Douglas, hostler at the Georgian Bay Hotel was instantly killed last evening by an electric light in the cellar of the Georgian Bay House. The cable is at the end of a long wire that can be carried to all parts of the cellar. Douglas went into the cellar for a bag of potatoes, and carried the light some distance before he got the shock. His right hand was badly burned. It is supposed that the accident was caused by a circuit through dampness. He had been working out in the rain and his clothes were quite damp, the cord also was wet from his handling it.

Local Cheese Board Met Yesterday

When the Peterborough Cheese Board met yesterday in the Bank of Montreal chambers, 2,840 boxes were offered for sale, and the bulk sold at 12 13-16c per pound, the same price as was paid at the last sale.

There was a large attendance of buyers and salesmen, among those present being Mr. D. Derbyshire, ex-M.P., of Brockville, honorary president of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association; Mr. G. G. Publow, chief dairy instructor, Kingston, and Mr. Geo. B. Barr, official referee for butter and cheese at Montreal.

President Riddell was in the chair, and invited the above gentlemen to a seat at the board.

Yesterday's meeting was the last of the season, and before adjourning, votes of thanks were passed to the president, Mr. Riddell, to the Bank of Montreal for the use of the room for holding the board meetings, and to the press representatives for reporting the operations of the board.

The bidding opened at 11 1-8c. by Mr. Gillespie, which was raised after some lively bidding, until Mr. Cook made it 12c., and Mr. Whitton advanced to 12 1-16c., and call of the board.

The following factories sold: Ormondville, Norwood, Brickley, Fleetwood, Bemsfort, Wooler, Village, Warsaw, Daisy Dale and Myrtle.

Nineteen factories refused his offer.

Mr. Cook bid 12 1-8c. and Mr. Whitton outbid him with 12 3-16c. and called the board, getting the following: Central Smith, Stirton, Lakefield, Pine Grove, Maple Leaf, Young's Point, Warminster, Trowbridge, Cardiff, Glendale and Cavanville.

Sheerar, Keene, East Emily and Kilkarney refused this offer.

Mr. Whitton offered 12 3-16c for the balance of the board, and got the following; Lang, North Dummer, Indian River.

To Build Three Big Dreadnoughts

Paris, Nov. 6.—The general staff of the navy has decided to recommend the construction of three battleships of 20,000 or 21,000 tons, in order to keep abreast with the large ships building in England and Germany. The general staff is divided on the question as to whether the main batteries shall consist of twelve 12-inch or eight 13-inch or eight 10.8-inch guns.

VOTERS' LIST 1907

Municipality of the City of Peterborough, County of Peterborough.

Notice is hereby given that I have transmitted or delivered to the persons mentioned in sections 8 and 9 of the Ontario Voters' List Act, the copies required by said sections to be so transmitted or delivered of the list, made pursuant to said Act, of all persons appearing by the last Assessment Roll of the said Municipality to be entitled to vote in the said Municipality at elections for members of the Legislative Assembly and at Municipal elections, and that said list was first posted up at my office, at Peterborough, on the 5th day of November, 1907, and remains there for inspection.

Electors are called upon to examine the said list, and, if any omissions or any other errors are found therein, to take immediate proceedings to have the said errors corrected according to law.

Dated at Peterborough, Nov. 6, 1907.

S. B. ARMSTRONG,
Clerk of City of Peterborough.

IMITATED DREADNOUGHT.

Test Guns of Italian Warship Tore Her Asunder.

One of the most remarkable experiments carried out by the English battleship Dreadnought was the simultaneous discharge of a full broadside of eight 12-inch guns, without, it is said, even a window being broken.

The Italian Government endeavored recently to repeat the performance—with the result that the ship was ruined absolutely.

The experiment was made to determine whether the three battleships of the Francesco Morosini type were worth keeping on the active list as coast defense ships or whether they should be removed altogether from the fighting line.

The simultaneous discharge of the whole broadside, consisting of four great 17-inch 105-ton guns, was the first approved. Each gun was charged with 700 pounds of powder, and at a given signal the whole 2,120 pounds were simultaneously fired by electricity.

The effect was tremendous. The Morosini's decks were buckled from bow to stern, bolts and rivets were started in every part of the ship and the propelling engines were broken and shattered. It is marvelous that there was no loss of life.

It has been decided to remove from the navy the Morosini and her sister ships, the Andrea Doria and the Ruggiero de Lauria, which were built between 1884 and 1888, at an average cost of $3,000,000 apiece.

Killed by Wild Animals.

According to a Government return, the total number of people killed by wild animals in India during 1906 was 2,604, as against 2,651 in 1905. Wolves are reported to have killed 176 persons in the United Provinces. In the Madras Presidency tigers were responsible for the greater mortality, while a mad wolf in the Shahapur district of Bombay caused 16 deaths. In Bengal the number of persons killed by elephants rose from nine in 1905 to 28 in 1906, and a proposal has, it is stated, been made by the magistrate of Outtack for the organization of a khedda in that district. Tigers killed a larger number of persons than in 1905 in Madras, Bombay, the United Provinces and Burma, and steps have been taken for the destruction of man-eating tigers in these provinces. Three man-eating tigers were destroyed in Sambalpur, Angul, and Mandalar in 1906. The persons reported to have died from snake-bites numbered 22,884, against 21,797 in 1905, the increased mortality being ascribed to high floods, which drove snakes into houses and homesteads.

OLD LONDON'S CHINATOWN.

Few Celestials Seen—Are Secretive in Customs and Sports.

If you want to see London's Chinatown from the outside, you have only to board an electric car at Aldgate and take a penny ride as far as the corner of West India Dock road, passing the tectotal public house, "A Good Pull-up for Bishops," on your way. A few yards from the corner, on the left, is the Strangers' Home for Asiatics, and almost opposite, beyond chandlers' and other shops which bear names ending usually in "ng," and, in once case, consisting of nothing but these two letters, you will find Limehouse Causeway.

Here is the centre of the Chinese quarter, but if you think to find none but Celestials you will be vastly mistaken. Like the other streets in these neighborhoods, it is a dismal thoroughfare enough, with bare-looking tenements fronting a roadway, and gutters that ran, when I was there, with filthy water.

Those who know Chinatown speak of strange customs, religious and sportive, with which the secretive Celestials pass away their time. Chinamen who make London their home seem to have no difficulty in marrying Englishwomen. As a rule, so far as can be learned, they make good husbands. They acquire money, at any rate, and their children are seldom dressed badly, and are invariably well fed. Among themselves, the Chinese play their own particular games—about which they are hardly less reticent than they are about the indulgence of their own peculiar vices.

Who but a Chinaman, for instance, would have thought of fighting crickets? It is said that battles to the death between these well-trained insects are not infrequent, and that the glorious slain are sent to their hereafter with elaborate obsequies in golden coffins. It is impossible to declare that such practices are common in London—Chinamen have wonderful gifts for keeping secrets.

When they gamble they do not go outside and shout about their losses. If there are fights, they are not often heard of; the Chinese have a special faculty for settling disputes among themselves. Opium smoking makes a man sleepy, and the awful effects which attend it come gradually and not in paroxysms. Whether the police should be ordered to interfere and subdue the traffic is a question that should be settled quickly, if it is to be settled at all.

But it is a poor heart that never rejoices. I had come to seek Chinamen, of whom there were a few, leaning against doorways, smoking ordinary pipes and cheap cigars, with the insouciance of stay-at-home seafarers. Yet the aspect of things, even allowing for the queer and poky shops, was not overpoweringly Oriental by any means. There were the usual crowds of little children—happy mites, most of them, for all the dirt which marked their countenances. Now and then you would see a coal-haired baby with the strongly-marked features of the Jewish child; but generally they were very English-looking, and while they played at seaside in the black puddles they shrieked and laughed as cockneyishly as any group of more aristocratic paddlers on fashionable sands. Women glanced curiously from the upper windows, and sometimes one saw a pair of furtive eyes above a curtain; but never anything to make one feel sure that any spot here could be named as a sink of iniquity. And I never saw a pigtail all the time.—London Daily Express.

The Clock.

He stands in the corner from morning till night,
A patient old thing with no feet.
His face is as shining and round as a moon,
And, oh, so exceedingly neat.
From breakfast to supper,
Right on through the day,
"Tick-tock, tick-tock! I'm only a clock.
Tick-tock, tick-tock!" he'll say.

His hands are quite tidy and grow on his face.
When I get to be big I shall know
Why one is so long and the other so short,
And one he moves fast and one slow.
From breakfast to supper,
Right on through the day,
"Tick-tock, tick-tock! I'm only a clock.
Tick-tock, tick-tock!" he'll say.

At night, when I'm sleeping, he keeps wide awake
To see what the little mice do,
And he watches the brownie creep in through the blind.
His little red shoes gleamed with dew.
From supper to breakfast,
From nighttime to day,
"Tick-tock, tick-tock! I'm only a clock.
Tick-tock, tick-tock!" he'll say.

And when it comes morning I wish he would tell.
I ask him, but never a tress
Of the wonderful doings he saw in the night
Does he show in his sober old face.
From breakfast to supper,
Right on through the day,
"Tick-tock, tick-tock! I'm only a clock.
Tick-tock, tick-tock!" he'll say.

The Smelting of Ore is the safest and most profitable business in the world.

We have fifteen mining properties, located in Kern County, California, carrying good values in Gold, Silver and Copper.

The smelter nearest to us is at Needles, 200 miles distant.

We propose to install on our properties a smelter to treat the ores from our own mines and to do custom smelting for others.

50 per cent. per annum is a moderate estimate of the profits we can earn. If you want to make a safe and profitable investment send for full information and investigate our proposition.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother).

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

ROSEDALE SECTION

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

SEALED TENDERS addressed to Alex. J. Grant, Superintending Engineer, Trent Canal, Peterboro, and endorsed "Tender for Trent Canal," will be received until 16 o'clock on Wednesday, the 20th November, 1907, for the works connected with the construction of the Rosedale Section of the Canal.

Plans and specifications of the work can be seen on and after the 31st October, at the office of the Chief Engineer of the Department of Railways and Canals, Ottawa, and at the offices of the Superintending Engineer, Trent Canal, Peterboro, Ont., at which places forms of tender may be obtained.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

By order,
L. K. JONES,
Secretary.

Department of Railways and Canals, Ottawa, 26th October, 1907.

Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority from the Department will not be paid for it.

TENDERS FOR PULPWOOD CONCESSIONS

Tenders will be received by the undersigned up to and including the 16th of December next for the right to cut pulpwood on certain areas tributary to the Nepigon river, in the district of Thunder Bay, and Rainy Lake, in the district of Rainy River, and make the same into paper. Tenderers should state the amount they are prepared to pay as bonus in addition to such dues as may from time to time be fixed for the right to operate a paper making industry on the areas referred to. Separate tenders must be made for each area or territory, and the successful tenderers will be required to erect a mill or mills on each of the territories or in such other localities as may be approved by the Government of Ontario.

Parties tendering for the pulpwood rights shall accompany their tenders with a marked cheque for 25 per cent of the amount tendered, payable to the Treasurer of Ontario, and to be forfeited in the event of their failing to enter into agreements to carry out conditions, etc.

With respect to the Rainy Lake Pulp Concession, tenderers will be required to make a tender for the right to cut the pine, tamarac and cedar on the territory offered. Parties making tender for these timbers to state the amount they are prepared to pay per thousand feet B.M. as bonus in addition to Crown dues of $2.00 per thousand feet B.M. A marked cheque for $5,000.00 payable to the Treasurer of Ontario must accompany the tender for pine timber, and to be forfeited in the event of their failing to enter into agreements to carry out conditions, etc.

No timber shall be cut on either of the concessions of a less diameter than nine inches, two feet from the ground.

The successful tenderers to enter into agreements with the Government for the erection of the mills, expenditure of money, etc.

For full particulars as to the conditions, etc., application should be made to the undersigned.

HON. F. COCHRANE,
Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines.

AIKENSIDE

BY MARY J. HOLMES

Author of "Dora Deane," "The English Orphans," "Lena Rivers," "The Rector of St. Mark's," "Tempest and Sunshine," Etc.

They were very becoming, he said. She would not look as well without them; so she had better wear them to-night, and to-morrow, if she would see him, he would talk with her further.

Dissembling doctor! He said all this to gain the desired interview with Maddy, the interview for which Guy was to prepare her. That he had not done so he felt assured, but he could not be angry with him, as he came smilingly toward them, asking if they had talked in privacy long enough, and glancing rather curiously at Maddy's face. There was nothing in its expression to disturb him, and, offering her his arm, he led her back to the drawing rooms where Agnes was smoothing down the folds of her dress, preparatory to receiving the guests just descending the stairs. It was a brilliant scene which Aikenside presented that night, and amid it all Agnes bore herself like a queen; while Jessie, with her sunny face and golden hair, came in for a full share of attention. But amid the gay throng there was none so fair or so beautiful as Maddy, who deported herself with as much ease and grace as if she had all her life long been accustomed to just such occasions as this. At a distance the doctor watched her, telling several who she was, and once resenting by both look and manner a remark made by Maria Cutler to the effect that she was nobody but Mrs. Remington's governess, a poor girl whom Guy had taken a fancy to educate out of charity.

"He seems very fond of his charity pupil, upon my word. He scarcely leaves her neighborhood at all," whispered old Mrs. Cutler, the mother of Maria, who, Guy said, once fancied Dr. Holbrook, and who had no particular objections to fancying him now, if it could be reciprocal.

But the doctor was only intent on Maddy, knowing always just where she was standing, just who was talking to her; and just how far from her Guy was. He knew, too, when the latter urged her to sing; and, coming nearer, heard her object that no one cared to hear her.

"But I do; I wish it," Guy replied in that tone which people generally obeyed; and casting a half-frightened look at the sea of faces around her, Maddy suffered him to lead her to the piano, sitting quite still while he found what he wished her to play.

It was his favorite song, and one which brought out Maddy's voice in its various modulations.

"Oh, please, Mr. Remington, anything but a song. I cannot sing," Maddy whispered pleadingly; but Guy answered resolutely, "You can."

There was no appeal after this, but a resigned, obedient look, which made the doctor gnash his teeth as he leaned upon the instrument. What right had Guy to command Maddy Clyde, and why should she obey? and yet, as the doctor glanced at Guy, he felt that were he in Maddy's place, he should do the same.

"No girl can resist Guy Remington," he thought. "I'm glad there's a Lucy Atherstone over the sea." And with a smile of encouragement for Maddy, who was pale with nervous timidity, he listened while her sweet, birdlike voice trembled for a moment with fear; and then, gaining confidence from its own sound, filled the room with melody, and made those who had wandered off to other parts of the building hasten back to see who was singing.

Maria Cutler had presided at the piano earlier in the evening, as had one or two other young ladies, but to none of these had Guy paid half the attention he did to Maddy, staying constantly by her, holding her fan, turning the leaves of music, and dictating what she should play.

"There's devotion," tittered a miss in long ringlets; "but she really does play well," and she appealed to Maria Cutler, who answered, "Yes, she keeps good time, and I should think might play for a dance. I mean to ask her," and going up to Guy she said, "I wish to speak to—to—well, Jessie's governess. Introduce me, please."

Guy waited till Maddy was through, and then gave the desired introduction. In a tone not wholly free from supercilliousness, Maria said:

"Can you play a waltz or polka, Miss Clyde? We are aching to exercise our feet."

Maddy bowed and struck into a spirited waltz, which set many of the people present to whirling in circles, and produced the result which Maria so much desired, viz., it drove Guy away from the piano, for he could not mistake her evident wish to have him as a partner, and with his arm around her waist he was soon moving rapidly from that part of the room, leaving only the doctor to watch Maddy's fingers as they flew over the keys. Maddy never thought of being tired. She enjoyed the excitement, and was glad she could do something toward entertaining Guy's guests. But Guy did not forget her for an instant. Through all the mazes of the giddy dance, he had her before his eyes, seeing not the clouds of lace and muslin encircled by his arm, but the little figure in blue sitting so patiently at the piano until he knew she must be tired, and determined to release her. As it chanced, Maria was again his partner, and drawing her nearer to Maddy, he said, "Your fingers ache by this time, I am sure. It is wrong to trouble you longer. Agnes will take your place while you try a quadrille with me."

"Oh, thank you," Maddy answered. "I am not tired in the least. I had as lief play till morning, provided they are satisfied with my time and my stock of music holds out."

"But it is not fair for one to do all the playing; besides, I want you to dance with me—so consider yourself invited in due form to be my next partner."

Maddy's face crimsoned for an instant, and then in a low voice she said, "I thank you, but I must decline."

"Maddy!" Guy exclaimed, in tones more indicative of reproach than expostulation.

There were tears in Maddy's eyes, and Maria Cutler, exhibiting her, was round to you from [illegible] the expression of her face as she answered frankly. "I have never told you that grandpa objected to my taking dancing lessons when I wrote to him about it. He does not like me to dance."

"A saint!" Maria uttered under her breath, smiling contemptuously as she made a movement to leave the piano, hoping Guy would follow her.

But he did not at once. Standing for a moment irresolute, while he looked curiously at Maddy, he said at last:

"Of course I interfere with no one's scruples of that kind, but I cannot allow you to wear yourself out for our amusement."

"I like to play—please let me," was Maddy's reply; and, as the set upon the floor were waiting for her, she turned to the instrument, while Guy mechanically offered his arm to Maria, and sauntered toward the green room.

"What a blue old ignoramus that grandfather must be to object to dancing, don't you think?"

Maria laughed a little spitefully, secretly glad that Maddy had refused, and secretly angry at Guy for seeming to care so much.

"Say," she continued, as Guy did not answer her, "don't you think it a sign that something is lacking in brains or education, when a person sets up that dancing is wicked?"

Guy would have taken Maddy's side then, whatever he might have thought, and he replied:

"No lack of brains, certainly; though education and circumstances have much to do with one's views upon that subject. For my part, I like to see people consistent. Now that old ignoramus, as you call him, lays great stress on pomp and vanities, and when I asked him once what he meant by them, he mentioned dancing in particular as one of the things which you church people promise to renounce"; and Guy bowed toward Maria, who winced, knowing that she was one of the church people referred to.

"But Maddy. There's no reason why she should decline," she said; and Guy replied:

"Respect for her grandfather, in her case, seems to be stronger than respect for a higher power in some other cases."

"It's just as wicked to play for dancing as 'tis to dance," Maria remarked impatiently, while Guy rejoined:

A Dickens Landmark.

The widening of Manchester streets has brought about the destruction of the old house in which lived the brothers Grant, the originals of the Brothers Cheeryble in "Nicholas Nickleby." With slight alteration, the house is said to stand today as it did when Dickens described it. One of its later occupants has said that lovers of Dickens' books came from all parts of the world to inspect the old place, especially Americans, and for relics of it, but that he had refused to part with them. One relic which many people would be glad to acquire is the fine old carved oak staircase.

The Hares of Maine.

The Kennebec Journal says that Game Warden George W. Ross in one month recently counted 300 barrels of dead hares going to Boston and New York markets over the Washington County railway. Furthermore, it is estimated by the game wardens that more than 1,000,000 hares are shipped from Maine every year and as many more used as food within the state. Notwithstanding this and the fact that thousands of hares are devoured every year by beasts and birds of prey these small animals continue to increase.

To Clean a White Plume.

A white plume that has become spoiled may be cleaned by dipping in a paste made of flour and gasoline. Run it lightly through the fingers after each dipping. It should be hung out of doors until the gasoline has evaporated, when the flour can be easily shaken off, and it will be found that the plume retains its curl. If it should not be perfectly clean, repeat the operation.

Constipation

Baked sweet apples, with some people, bring prompt relief for Constipation. With others, coarse all-wheat bread will have the same effect. Nature unexpectedly has a vegetable remedy to relieve every ailment known to man, if physicians can but find Nature's way to health. And this is strikingly true with regard to Constipation.

The bark of a certain tree in California—the cam Sagrada—offers a most excellent aid to this end. But, combined with Egyptian Senna, Cascara Bitters, Mandrake Root, Glycerine, Pepsin, Fig Paste, Syrup Rhu Bark, Solid Extract of Prunes, etc., it is Rumo Cascara Bark is given its greatest possible power in correct constipation. A toothsome Candy Tablet, called Lax-ets, is now made at the Dr. Shoop Laboratories, from this famous part most effective prescription. Its effect on Constipation, Biliousness, Sour Stomach, Bad Breath, Sallow Complexion, etc., is indeed prompt and satisfying.

No griping, no unpleasant after effects are experienced, and Lax-ets are put up in beautiful lithographed metal boxes at 50 cents and 25 cents per box.

ANTIGUA GOLD-COPPER Co.

Offers the Biggest and Most Attractive Mining Investment Now Before the Public.

ITS HOLDINGS ARE MINES--NOT PROSPECTS

With Vast Bodies of Ore Ready for the Mill, Now Nearing Completion.

"Copper stocks offer the biggest opportunity for money making in the world to-day. A good copper mine is really a safe-deposit vault of stored up dividends which cannot be stolen or destroyed by fire, flood or famine."

CECIL RHODES
said: "Mining offers greater inducements than any other business in the world to make quick and great wealth."

CHARLES M. SCHWAB
says: "The big fortunes of the next twenty-five years will come from Mother Earth." Among all mining investments none stand ahead of copper for safety, permanency and profit.

Lay the Foundation for Your Fortune Today

THE ANTIGUA PROPERTIES

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company holdings consist of 521 acres, situated in Honduras, Central America, 100 miles southeast from Puerto Cortez, and midway between New Orleans and Panama. Development work is being pushed with all possible speed, and more than 1,000 feet of tunneling and shaft work has been completed. A 40 to 50-ton capacity gold-silver mill is in course of construction, and will be in operation before the close of the year.

Development work has conclusively proven that every acre of our holdings are rich in gold, copper and silver, and that every ton of this great ore body will yield a handsome profit on milling expenses. The ore exposed on the surface does not require mining in the usual sense of the term, but may be obtained by quarrying. It can, according to estimates of experts, be quarried and treated for the gold and silver on an extensive scale at a cost of less than $1.00 a ton. Think of it! A solid mountain of rich ore, from the very grass roots of which may be washed gold.

Beyond a doubt Honduras has beneath her soil larger, richer deposits of copper, gold and silver than any other section of the American continent. Spain, during her sovereignty in that country, took out more than $200,000,000 in gold alone—and she scarcely scraped the Earth's surface. There is evidence that the pre-historic races knew how to mine and utilize copper—smelting it in their crude way.

The original incorporators of the Antigua Gold-Copper Company spent thousands of dollars of their own money in bringing this property to its present stage of development. They opened up the mine on every side with tunnels, crosscuts and shafts. They purchased machinery and began the erection of a gold-silver mill—now nearing completion. These men appreciated from the first that this mine was destined to become one of the greatest copper-gold-silver properties in America; and that it justified more extensive and more rapid development than they were able to make without the co-operation and financial assistance of the public.

The average assay values of Antigua ores, ranging from the surface to a depth of 200 feet, is over 5 per cent copper. This is above the average of the ore of the world's greatest producer, the famous Anaconda yielding ore which averages only a little over 3 per cent. The Anaconda has little other ore value, while our property, in addition to the copper, carries $2.00 to $1,400 a ton in gold and silver.

WHY STOCK IS SOLD

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company finds itself in precisely the same position as the farmer who has a larger farm than he can cultivate with the capital in hand. He knows that with additional capital and assistance he could make the land yield abundant crops and enormous profits. In the same way we intend, by the investment of additional capital, to bring our enormous ore bodies to a highly profitable state of development at the earliest possible moment. For this reason a limited amount of treasury stock is offered the public. In this way funds will be available for immediate use in purchasing additional machinery and for continuing vigorous development of the property.

THERE ARE NO PREFERRED SHARES AND NO BONDS TO COME FIRST IN THE DIVISION OF PROFITS.

and your shares will earn as much as a like number of shares owned by any other stockholder in the company. Each share CARRIES WITH IT THE RIGHT TO VOTE, so that with a single share you have every right, privilege and protection possessed by any other stockholder.

Stock is now being sold at $2.50 a share, and this stock, we firmly believe, will, within a year, be selling at its par value of $5.00 a share, or higher; nor will it stop there. If you are desirous of permanently increasing your income, of making an investment that is not only secure, but immensely profitable, reserve shares TO-DAY.

Such an investment opportunity can scarcely be repeated. It is made possible only by extraordinary natural conditions. Millions of dollars of copper, gold and silver will be marketed from the mines—fortunes will be reaped as a result of the prompt seizure of the opportunity we offer you to-day.

REPORT OF AN EXPERT

Much weight can justly be given the statement of a properly qualified and reliable mining engineer. Such is the character of T. W. Foster, from whose report on Antigua we make the following extracts:

"From the development work done and the indications shown by the croppings, I am convinced this is one of the largest gold-copper deposits in existence, and under proper development will make one of the richest mining properties in America. * * * I consider this ore an ideal smelting proposition, there being an abundance of iron, lime and silica in close proximity. There is plenty of water for power and milling purposes, and an abundance of timber on the property. * * *

"A large amount of development work has been done on this property in tunnels, drifts and shafts, ranging from 25 to possibly 200 feet in length. * * * This work has all been in ore—in fact, the ore body on the surface is shown to be fully one-half mile wide by two miles in length. To judge from the development work done, this property is all ore—no matter where work was started, ore was encountered.

"The company is erecting a mill, consisting of one five-stamp and three Huntingtons, to work the surface ore. This surface ore is mostly free milling, the copper and galena sulphides being oxidized, freeing the gold, and being readily amalgamated. But I am confident that at no very great depth copper sulphides will be encountered, as there are many places in this great ore body where the sulphides crop to the surface. I have taken a dozen samples from various places on the lead, and from these made free gold tests, finding an average of over $6.00 a ton in FREE gold, and from 5 to 25 per cent copper. Native copper is frequently seen in this ore. If the Antigua mines continue in depth as on the surface, a 1,000 ton smelter will not work it out in 100 years. * * *

"* * * With good management and proper development, it will be but a short time until the stock of the company will be worth more than par. I fully believe that if this great ore body is properly developed there is a mine here worth many millions of dollars.

PITTSBURG - IDAHO

Mining and Milling Company

The mine is located 58 miles above Lewiston, Idaho, on the Clearwater river, and consists of 19 full claims, or 380 acres. It is developed by tunnels, shafts and open cuts for more than 2100 feet, disclosing thousands of tons of copper-gold and silver ores of both high grade and low grade. There are between 1000 and 2000 tons of ore ready for shipment. The entrance to the working tunnel is only 2000 feet from the track of the Northern Pacific railroad, to be reached by gravity tramway. There are seven parallel veins running lengthwise of the claims, one cropping out on the surface for 2,400 feet and another for 3000 feet; while two veins cross these running into the mountain. These veins are from 30 to 200 feet wide. The ore chute has been crosscut 70 feet and is solid ore from wall to wall.

We are not asking you to buy in a prospect. That risk was taken by the promoters. We are asking you to buy in a developed, proven mine. Seven years of continuous work and the expenditure of thousands of dollars has proven up one of the greatest mines in Idaho. That mine is now ready to pour out its red and yellow wealth to the world with the installing of an up to date production plant. It is for that purpose that a block of its treasury stock, full paid and non-assessable, is offered for sale. We believe that within six months from the completion of a 100 ton plant the mine can be put on a dividend paying basis, and that these dividends will be substantial and permanent. There is no better investment proposition before the people at this time.

Strange what a little thing will upset a man and keep him so all day, when he ought to be alert and cheerful. A heavy, hot biscuit for breakfast has been known to create a scrap between life-long friends.

If you want a peaceful day, eat a dish of Grape-Nuts (chew it slowly) and cream. The deliberate chewing of the crisp, nutty granules, which have a delicious flavour with cream, will not only put you right but give you strength of mind and body for the morning's work at the office. Try it. "There's a Reason." Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville" in pkgs.

Noted Horseman in the City

Mr. Chas. Martin has returned to the city from Trenton where he has been visiting Mr. Harry Cook, the well known horseman, who for some time was a leading character in local turf circles. Mr. Martin has his mare stabled at Trenton under the care of Mr. Cook, but is thinking of bringing him to Peterborough at an early date. Mr. Cook has Miss Paisley, formerly owned by Mr. George Lipsett, East Side, at his Trenton stables, and has a Miss Paisley-Dan Allert colt that gives promise of making fast time.

Gas Explosion at Kinmount

It seems that the apparent carelessness of employes of the northern Hotel, at Kinmount, who undertook to gas carbide into a gas generator by the light of a lantern, caused a serious explosion there. The Northern is owned by Mr. B. Simpson. The explosion played havoc with the hall and bar room, and shattered several lights of glass and broke dishes in the dining room. No one was seriously injured, although Mr. Simpson, W. Watson and R. Allan received severe burns on the face and hands. A number of guests had narrow escapes.

A LEGEND OF WORMS.

Prophesy of the Jewish Sage and Its Strange Fulfillment.

Rashi lived during the time of the first crusade, and one of the legends of Worms connects him with this event. He was one day seated with his pupils, when a knight, full panoplied, made his way into the schoolhouse and with threatening mien thus addressed him: "Rabbi, thy name for wisdom has reached me and fain would I learn my fate from thee. I have assembled a host wherewith I purpose to drive the infidel Turk from the Holy City, but before I set out I demand to know whether my undertaking will succeed. Answer me at once. I have no time for delay."

The rabbi replied: "Thou wouldst learn the future from me? Alas, I am unable to foretell it. God alone can say what the future will bring forth. I have no powers of divination, and my faith forbids the assumption of them. Pray, therefore, forgive me if I am unable to accede to thy request."

"Rabbi," exclaimed the knight in tones of passion, "I will listen to no refusal. Well I know that thou canst foretell the future if thou wilt. As truly as I am Godfrey of Bouillon, so truly do I promise to protect thee and thy community from all harm, even if thou shouldst foretell disaster to me. But if it is a successful issue that thou hast in store for me I will right royally reward thee in addition on my return. What? Art thou silent? Speak or by heaven my sword shall open thy mouth wide enough."

"My liege lord," answered the Jewish sage, "there is only one above who can penetrate the future. Unless I would deceive thee, which I dare not do, at most I can but venture an opinion of what will happen to thee. Thy undertaking will only succeed in part. Of thy immense host but three men and one horse's head will return in safety." With blanched countenance Godfrey of Bouillon turned to depart, exclaiming as he went, "Take care, Jew, if I return to find thou hast deceived me!" Godfrey of Bouillon went up to Jerusalem, captured it and became its first king.

But his success was short lived, and the tide of war turned against him. Defeat and disease decimated his vast host until there remained but four riders of them all who made their way to Worms. "The Jew has not spoken the truth," he remarked as the gates of the city came in sight. "He said we should return with only three riders and a horse's head. He has lost his reward." They rode up to the gates and demanded admission. The massive door behind was raised, and they passed through. But as the fourth rider was about to follow it fell down again with a heavy thud, decapitating the horse and leaving its trunk and burden outside the city. "Conduct me to the rabbi," said Godfrey of Bouillon. "I must see him at once." But the rabbi had long since left Germany.

Knew His Habits.

The following anecdote is given by an Indian officer as illustrative of the manners and customs of the wily Pathan: A certain general and his staff, while wending their way through one of the narrowest valleys of Tirah, were annoyed by the attentions of a solitary marksman, who from time to time sent a bullet unpleasantly close. At last the general turned to his orderly—a Pathan sowar—and told him to dismount, take his carbine and try and stalk the mountaineer. The sowar started off, and presently there was a crash and a gray bearded old Afridi tumbled headlong down the mountain side. The sowar rejoined and fell into his place.

"Well done!" said the general. "But how on earth did you manage it so easily?"

"Oh," replied the sowar, "I knew his habits. He was my father."—London Truth.

Where Fat is Beauty.

In Tunis when a man wants to take another wife he picks out a girl and then carries to her father a pair of bracelets and a pair of anklets from one of the other ladies of his household. The bracelets and anklets are slipped on the young woman, and several months are allowed for her fattening. She must fatten until she completely fills the four ornaments or otherwise the man has a right to refuse her, for in Tunis fat is beauty, and a permanently slender girl has no chance of marriage.

Looking in Humor.

Little Bobbie was entertaining Mr. Gownsley while Miss Trippenson was upstairs adjusting her back hair and giving her face a few final dabs with the powder puff.

"My sister says you don't got no idea of humor," said Bobbie.

"Indeed!" Mr. Gownsley returned. "When did she say that?"

"Just after you was here the last time. She said she seen you lookin' at yourself in the mirror several times, and you never laughed wunst."

Crystal Wedding

An interesting social event, a report of which was accidentally omitted before, occurred on Monday evening last when assistant market clerk Fred Roseborough was the host at his Charlotte street residence to some 40 guests. The occasion was the celebration of his "crystal" wedding or the 15th anniversary of his entry into the insoluble bonds of matrimony. A pleasant evening was spent by the large number of guests assembled and Mr. Roseborough was voted "a King of Hosts" by all present.

Words of Praise

For the several ingredients of which Dr. Pierce's medicines are composed, as given by leaders in all the several schools of medicine, should have far more weight than any amount of non-professional testimonials. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has THE BADGE OF HONESTY on every bottle-wrapper, in a full list of all its ingredients printed in plain English.

If you are an invalid woman and suffer from frequent headache, backache, gnawing distress in stomach, periodical pains, disagreeable, catarrhal, pelvic drain, dragging-down distress in lower abdomen or pelvis, perhaps dark spots or, specks dancing before the eyes, faint spells and kindred symptoms caused by female weakness, or other derangement of the feminine organs, you can not do better than take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

The hospital, surgeon's knife and operating table may be avoided by the timely use of "Favorite Prescription" in such cases. Thereby the obnoxious examinations and local treatments of the family physician can be avoided and a thorough course of successful treatment carried out in the privacy of the home. "Favorite Prescription" is composed of the very best native medicinal roots known to medical science for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments, contains no alcohol and no harmful or habit-forming drugs.

Do not expect too much from "Favorite Prescription;" it will not perform miracles; it will not dissolve or cure tumors. No medicine will. It will do as much to establish vigorous health in most weaknesses and ailments peculiarly incident to women as any medicine can. It must be given a fair chance by perseverance in its use for a reasonable length of time.

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this remedy of known composition.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is guarded as sacredly secret and womanly confidences are protected by professional privacy. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets the best laxative and regulator of the bowels. They invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. One a laxative; two or three a cathartic. Easy to take as candy.

WIFE TAUNTS MAN WHO IS GOING TO DIE ON GALLOWS

Sunfield, Who is to Hang This Month, Gets a Peculiar Letter--His Children Said Nothing When Told He was Dead

Hamilton, Nov. 7.—Jake Sunfield, alias Tamillo, who will hang on November 29th, for the murder of Andrew Radzyk, a German Pole, unless efforts being made by his lawyer, J. L. Counsell, for a new trial are successful, received a letter this week from his wife, whom he left in Chicago.

"Dear Jake Tamillo," she writes, "I want to write you a few lines and tell you that your children were asking for you last Sunday when I seen them at four o'clock in the home and I told them that their father was dead and they did not say anything.

"I am very sorry that you must leave this world and go to the other all for a woman's sake. It would have been better if you had lived with your family.

WANTS MONEY FOR CHILDREN.

"If you have any money that you can spare you should give it to the children, for I have to pay $12 a month and get their clothes. Besides I think you should do something for your children. Answer as soon as you can. I go to see the children every Sunday afternoon. I have one letter from you that you sent me at the shop. I will send it back to you and now you read it over and think it over again. I am not glad that this turned out, but I think the Lord wanted it to be so. I am very glad that the Lord took good care of me and protected me from all harm. I will send you a picture of mine and you can look at me once more and for the last. So good-bye forever."

The letter is signed, "Your true wife, Mary Tamillo," In a postscript the woman adds a dash of irony. "Take good care of yourself and be good to yourself. I am working every day," she wrote.

The letter which Mrs. Tamillo returns to her husband, suggesting that he read it over carefully, is one that Sunfield sent to her after she went back to Chicago from Hamilton. It is couched in endearing terms. Sunfield after telling her that as far as forgetting him he is sure that she has someone in his place, writes, "You know I love you and never will forget you." He urges her to send him $10 to pay a board bill, promising to give it back when he returned to Chicago with his mother. "You are the only one in this world for me," he concludes. "so don't forget, dear, sweet Mary, don't forget to send me the money, dear. I am dead broke."

LOOKED SERIOUS

The prisoner when handed the letter and photo by the jail authorities looked serious for a minutes but aside from this treated it with the same cold indifference that has characterized his actions since the crime. He still has hopes of securing a new trial, his brother from Chicago having arranged to finance the expenses attached to an appeal.

AN AWFUL STORM VISITS QUEBEC--DAMAGE OVER $100,000

Wind Attained a Velocity of 100 Miles an Hour at Ancient Citadel--Many Houses Were Damaged and Barns Destroyed

Quebec, Nov. 7—Quebec was visited last night by the most terrific wind and rain storm which it has experienced in twenty years, and although no fatalities are reported, the damage on land and water reported up to noon today will very much exceed one hundred thousand dollars.

A strong northeast gale set in about eight o'clock last evening and it gradually increased until midnight, when it had attained the frightful velocity of 100 miles an hour. In the more exposed sections through the city hardly a householder escaped some damage to his property. Hundreds of trees and fences were found strewn along the sidewalks and streets this morning. Dozens of wooden outbuildings were razed to the ground, while through the business section countless signs were blown down and swept off for blocks by the hurricane

WIRES AND POLES DOWN.

The Quebec Railway, Light, and Power Company has suffered severely. The wires and poles leading to the Montmorency Falls have been carried away. In consequence, there was no electric power through the city today. The street cars have not run since last night, and all industries operated by a dynamo are at a standstill today.

The Quebec Chronicle was not printed until shortly after noon today owing to lack of power.

The department of marine and fisheries is anxiously awaiting reports from lower down the river, as it is feared the loss will be severe.

WRECKED THE PONTOONS.

In the port of Quebec the damage is considerable. The pontoon of the Quebec and Lewis Ferry Co., was swept from its moorings, and being carried across the river, crashed into the pontoon and sheds of the St. Lawrence Navigation Co., completely wrecking both. The damage will run in the vicinity of $15,000. The government steamer Druid was struck by another floating pontoon and slightly damaged, and it in turn struck the steamer Canadien, which also suffered some injury, while the government steam launch was swamped.

The fierce gale lashed the river several feet higher than its average, and today dozens of barges are high and dry along the Beauport flats and as the waters have subsided they will have to remain in their present positions until the high tides next spring.

SCHOONER CROSSED TRACK.

One schooner laden with potatoes for the Beauport asylum was carried completely over the track of the Q. R. L. and P. Company, while many small craft moored along the lower town had their forerigs stove in by coming in contact with the wharves. Great armies of carpenters and roofers are now at work repairing the damage caused throughout the city, while the cargoes are being removed from the beached schooners.

Edison will Revolutionize Building---To Build House in a Day

Shows a Model of Structure Which He Says Will Revolutionize Building

Concrete Poured Into Cast Iron Mold Will Settle Into Solid Mass.

New York, Nov. 8.—In greeting the members of the American Electro-Chemical Society and showing them through his laboratories and manufacturing plants at Orange, N.J. T. A. Edison made these statements today:

"Give Marconi ten years and he will be sending over the Atlantic 1,000 words a minute by wireless and will be receiving at the same rate of speed. The only limit to speed in sending now is caused by the absorption of the electric waves by the wire or cable. There is no such absorption in wireless telegraphy."

MODEL OF "ONE DAY" HOUSE.

He showed his visitors a big model of a three-story house.

"I have had New York architects working on the plans of that," he said, "and am ready to begin on it myself. In fact, I already have made the molds for the window castings. Next summer I will build just such a house within twelve hours at an expense of $1,000, and the man who labors on it will know that it was built on his basis of wage—$1.50 a day.

"What I am going to inaugurate," he said, "is this. I am going to fashion cast iron molds for the entire house. This outfit will cost $30,000 for a house of this design. All the builders will have to do is to put it up and pour in the concrete. Then they will allow six days for settling and drying and the family may move in. The cast iron mold of that house may be used on countless other buildings.

VALUE OF NEW METHOD.

The economic value of this is seen, for one instance, in that the house will never be in need of repair. The roof and floors will be of concrete; the concrete will be made on the site; there will be no fire insurance; as another instance of its saving value, the man who owns the house can let his children hack at it with hatchets and axes and lose nothing. There will be no wood in it save for a strip upon which carpets may be tacked.

All of the more recent structures in the group of laboratories of Mr. Edison's plant are of cement made by him.

Daughter of Russian Princess Kidnapped in Old London?

Girl's Absence is a Deep Mystery--A Puzzle for Detective Force

Hint that Disappearance May be Part of Plan to Assassinate Father

London, Nov. 6.—Barbara Lopukhin, daughter of Alexander Lopukhin, ex-governor of Revel, and whose mother is a Russian princess, has mysteriously disappeared in London and all the resources of the Russian embassy and Scotland Yard are being employed to trace her. Miss Barbara, who is 18 years old, was visiting London with her younger sister in charge of an English governess. Miss Russell. That trio went to the Aldwych theater, Oct. 24, and on coming out Barbara became separated from her companions and has not since been seen.

The governess has received a note in a handwriting which she recognizes as Barbara's, saying she had been kidnapped and was now a prisoner in the cellar of a house in the northwest part of London. The girl added that she was wounded and suffering so severely that she intended to poison herself. Miss Russell suggests that revolutionists planned the kidnapping of Barbara in order to bring her father within their reach. He is now on his way to London.

The Russian officials think the girl was carried off for purposes of blackmail. The police are unable to imagine how a woman, 18 years old, could be carried off against her will in the crowded precincts of a theater.

TO LEAD NEW PARTY

Vancouver, B.C., Nov. 7.—Joe Martin, former Premier of British Columbia, is regarded as practically certain to lead the Exclusion League forces in the next Dominion election, and will probably be candidate in Vancouver, and will in all likelihood be assisted by W. W. B. McInnes, former Governor of the Klondike. Besides making a special play for the labor and exclusion vote, the new party will seek aid from disgruntled Liberals and Conservatives alike, and endeavor to oust candidates between these two main parties.

Doesn't Like His Portfolio?

Montreal, Nov. 7.—It is rumored here that Hon. Wm. Pugsley wishes to change his portfolio from public works to that of minister of railways and canals, and has threatened to resign unless the change is made.

Ottawa, Nov. 7.—There is absolutely no foundation for the statement that Hon. Wm. Pugsley is dissatisfied with the portfolio of public works, and desires a transfer to the department of railways and canals. Since his appointment to the public works department, Dr. Pugsley has devoted himself to the study of the transportation problem, and to all other matters with which, as minister of public works, he will have to deal.

Capt. McGrath, Talented Bandmaster, to Visit Here

Capt McGrath, territorial bandmaster of the Salvation Army, and one of the most accomplished musicians in the Army in Canada is expected to visit the city in a short time. He travels throughout the country giving each corps a course of instruction, lasting several weeks. As a bandmaster he has a reputation of being one of the best in the district. At every corps he visits his work always results in improving the band. He gives nightly lessons and appears with each corps in public and private.

He is expected to visit the local corps in a short time, when the band will receive two weeks' thorough instruction. Capt. McGrath is a splendid cornet soloist and will be heard on the local streets.

Before he leaves he generally conducts a musical festival which is promised will be one of the best concerts heard at the barracks in a long time.

Were Denied a Rehearing

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 6.—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals, sitting here today denied a rehearing to Greene and Gaynor, the New York contractors who were convicted of defrauding the government in connection with contracts for improving the harbor of Savannah, Ga. The confederate money will have to serve their penitentiary sentence.

Less Rheumatism Here

To relieve the worst forms of Rheumatism, take a teaspoonful of the following mixture after each meal and at bedtime:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

These harmless ingredients can be obtained from any good pharmacy, and are easily mixed at home by shaking well in a bottle.

This prescription, mates a well-known authority, forces the clogged up, inactive kidneys to filter and strain from the blood the poisonous waste matter and uric acid, which causes Rheumatism. Relief is generally felt from the first few doses.

As Rheumatism is not only the most painful and torturous disease, but dangerous to life, this simple recipe will no doubt be greatly valued by many sufferers here, who should at once prepare the mixture to get this relief.

It is said that a surgeon who would take this prescription regularly, a dose or two daily, or even a few times a week, would never have serious Kidney or Urinary disorders or Rheumatism.

Cut this out and preserve it. Good Rheumatism prescriptions which really relieve are scarce, indeed, and when you need it you want it badly

Police Court

The young man who, whilst under the influence of an unlimited number of glasses of stimulants, whether 40 u.p. or 60 o.p., not now known, fell through and naturally broke a large pane of glass in the front entrance to The Times Bookstore was yesterday morning hailed before the seats of the mighty, or in plain English, had to explain both his then condition and acts to the magistrate at the morning session of the police court. It seems that the young man who whilst staggering or otherwise acting erratically got his shoulder followed by more of his physical make-up through this thick glass window, so that any one passing could help himself to the notable bargains exposed in The Times window.

The magistrate, in summoning up the case decided to combine justice with mercy, and remanded the window smasher, and incidentally the drunk for eight days in Castle Nabbit to allow this involuntary lamenter of properties, not to mention his own personal department of the interior, to get sobered up and in shape to face the world anew.

Mr. W. Young Kingleysides Closed Deal Yesterday to Take Over National Hotel

The National Hotel was yesterday practically taken over by the North American Investment Company, of Toronto, as a result of negotiations which have been maturing for some weeks past. Mr. W. Young Kingleysides, general manager of the company was in the city looking after its interests and was instrumental in bringing the deal to a satisfactory issue.

Captain Lumb, who for the past seven months has been manager of the Anglo-American Hotel, Belleville, will arrive in the city on Wednesday, Nov. 13th, and assume charge of the National. The intention of the company is to make radical improvements to the present building following the general plans of the best hotels in the larger cities.

The option that the company has received on the lot south of the customs House is, it is understood, quite favorable, and it is expected that it will be secured for the erection of an addition to the present building.

Mr. P. J. Creedon Meeting with Success

News was received yesterday from Toronto in reference to Mr. P. J. Creedon, who, a week ago, entered upon active duties as manager of the Canadian Cutlery Company of Weston, Ont. He has made a good beginning in his work, and, according to reports, is making good progress, his wide experience well adapting him to the business. His friends in the city will learn with pleasure that he is meeting with success with this company.

New Secretary will be Here Saturday

Mr. H. E. Harding, president of the Y.M.C.A., yesterday received word that Mr. Horace C. Wright, the new secretary of the local association, who is now visiting at his home in Aylmer, Ont., will reach Peterborough on Saturday night. At the men's meeting on Sunday afternoon, which is to be addressed by Rev. Dr. Langfeld, Mr. Wright will be in attendance, and will be glad to meet as many as possible.

Ben Howard to Meet Coley

Toronto News of yesterday's date contains the following:

In spite of the fact that Toronto is sending out three teams for the Montreal long distance team race, Tom Coley, the I.C.A.C. crack, who won the Hamilton Herald road race, will have doughty opponents in the five-mile race at the Garrison open handicap games Saturday night. Like Fred Simpson, the Indian who chased Coley home in the Herald race, Coley's two gamest opponents will be from Peterborough. The Peterborough Y.M.C.A. Harriers last night wired up the entries of Ernie Wilson and Ben Howard, the two men who ran a dead heat until the last ten feet in the Peterborough Examiner road race, on Thanksgiving Day, doing the distance in 52 minutes.

Wilson is held around Peterborough to be superior to Simpson in five miles. Ben Howard is the Mississauga Indian who, after winning the Indian mile race at the I.C.A.C. games at Hamilton, turned around and beat Perez Sellen, the holder of the Canadian five-mile record of 25:58 in a whipping finish.

Excellent Specimen of Sculpture

The many friends here of Miss Katherine Wallis, formerly of this city will be pleased to learn that this talented sculptoress has within a few days placed two excellent specimens of sculpure in marble, in exhibition in the provincial museum—one representing Mercury—twanging a string of the lyre, and the other, a Swiss peasant. Miss Wallis has spent some years in the studios of Florence, Berlin, Vienna, Rome and Paris, and her work has received warm commendation from art critics in Paris.

Tonight's Reception at King Edward School

That the reception to be given under auspices of the Peterborough Teachers' Association at the King Edward school tonight will be a success is now assured.

It is expected that all the teachers in the city will be present, and also the new inspector, Mr. A. Mowatt, and the members of the Board of Education. The "at home" is being held mainly as a reception to the new public school inspector, Mr. Mowatt, and a most enjoyable time is expected.

Prof. Short to Give an Address

As noted in several former issues of The Times a Canadian Club has been recently organized in Peterborough. The first meeting of this organization will be held on the evening on Friday, December 13th. The speaker will be Professor Adam Shortt, Professor of Political Science at Queen's University, Kingston, and his subject will be "Problems of Immigration." Prof. Shortt has made a close study of this subject, which has been attracting much attention during the past few years.

Arrangements have not yet been completed as to where the meeting will be held, but the officers are now at work in his connection, and will have all the details completed at an early date.

The club is fortunate in securing such an able gentleman as Prof. Shortt to give the opening address.

The Intelligent Thinker

makes fewer blunders than the man who plugs away "without thinking."

This Murderer has to be corrected, supervised—much of his work done over by himself or some one else. That takes time and, in business, time certainly is money. The money used on the man who does not "think intelligently" might be added to his salary—in part, at least—if he knew how to save it by always having a clear brain and putting money-making thought into his work. The character of food has a lot to do with a money-making brain.

Grape-Nuts

made from wheat and barley by an expert, contains the phosphate of potash placed by Nature under the outer coat of these cereals; it combines with albumen for the blood and for cells contained into new, active brain cells.

The "Intelligent Thinker" needs this kind of food, and most of them know why

CURED PAINFUL IRREGULARITIES

Strong Testimony From a Lady Resident of Clarksburg, Proving That Ferrozone Surpasses All Other Remedies.

The health of many women is constantly imperilled through failure of certain organs to work according to nature's requirements.

Where this condition occurs there is no safer remedy to employ than Ferrozone, which has a specific action in female troubles.

Not only does it act directly on the organs, ensuring regularity and freedom from pain, but by forming rich red blood fortifies the system against weakening drains.

FERROZONE MAKES STRONG WOMEN

Ferrozone possesses a volume of merit totally absent in the ordinary medicine, and its superiority is proclaimed by thousands of women it has restored to vigorous health. From Mrs. F. G. Caldwell comes the following endorsement, written from her home in Clarksburg: "I went through a most trying experience with what is commonly known as 'Female Trouble.' It isn't necessary to state my symptoms, but I suffered a great deal. My health was well nigh ruined, and I got into such a condition that I couldn't even sleep. I was dreadfully nervous, weak and pale. Different prescriptions were recommended and I tried them. But Ferrozone was the first to help. I improved steadily under Ferrozone, and normal conditions were finally established. I gained weight, my color and spirits improved, and my former health was restored. Ferrozone cured me, and with a full heart I recommend this good medicine to all other women."

Beware of imitations—don't allow a druggist to palm off anything else for Ferrozone, which costs 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50 at all dealers.

AN ABLE MINISTER

There is at present no minister in the Federal Government who is more in the public eye than Hon. Randolphe Lemieux. Mr. Lemieux's success, as Postmaster-General and Minister of Labor, and the reforms he has brought about during his tenure of office, have gained for him the confidence of the public and it is generally felt that the statesmanlike qualities which he has already exhibited will be apparent in his mission to Japan.

An idea of the vast amount of work and the executive ability required in handling the post office department may be gained when it is noted that during the last ten years there has been an immense increase in the departmental organization. Between 1892 and 1897 the number of post offices was increased from 9,188 to 11,571, or about 25 per cent. The number of miles of travel annually with them (as was increased from 30,562,632 to 43,841,457, an increase of 13,269,764 mile, or 40 per cent. The number of money order and postal note offices was increased from 756 to 1,543, or an increase of 104 per cent. The number of savings bank offices was increased from 756 to 1,043, or an increase of 38 per cent. The number of letters carried in the mail while in 1892 was 116,138,680, increased to 343,251,320, or an increase of 213 per cent.

During the past fiscal year there have been 513 post offices established, the largest number authorized in one year in the history of the department.

The mail service by railway has been increased by 327,145 miles. The mail service by stage has been increased by 121,045 miles. The mail service by steamboats has been increased by 234,-854 miles, making a total increase in the annual mileage in mail routes of 703,547 miles.

A MILLION DIVORCES

From the Census Bureau, says The New York World, under the above caption, comes the statement that a million American divorces were granted in the period of 1887-1900, and that half a million additional could have got as far as the docket at the time the bureau's tentative calculations were made up.

As two persons were represented in each case, the courts have been asked within these twenty years to pass on the domestic relations of a population greater than that of Manhattan. In the preceding twenty years, 1867-1886, the divorce case workers by 328,000.

It is understood that the special report of the Census Bureau, to be issued next Spring, will afford the basis for recommendations from Washington on the subject of divorce legislation. A Federal law may be urged that the constitutional power of Congress to pass such an act is more than doubtful. More likely there will be another attempt at uniformity of state laws, which thedly orce congress of two years ago did little to effect.

No argument is necessary to show that there is need of a more harmonious treatment between commonwealths of the question of marriage and its dissolution. The divorce institution has grown too big and become too important in its bearings on society to be left, as a plaything for prejudices and divisions among the States and the churches.

A NEW SANDWICH.

A Delicious Novelty For Afternoon Tea or Picnics.

Fannie Merritt Farmer, an authority on cooking, gives the following recipe for a new sandwich in the Woman's Home Companion:

"Somerset sandwiches are as acceptable at an afternoon tea or evening reception as at a picnic. They are made from a bread the recipe of which, I think, is unknown to most of my readers, so I will give a list of the ingredients which go to make it, but will presuppose that you know the principles of breadmaking. One-half cupful of scalded milk, one-half cupful of boiling water, one-half tablespoonful of lard, one-half tablespoonful of butter, two tablespoonfuls of molasses, three-quarters of a teaspoonful of salt, one-half a yeast cake dissolved in two tablespoonfuls of lukewarm water, one-half cupful of white flour and enough entire wheat flour to knead and one cupful of English walnut or pecan nut meats broken in pieces. The result is more satisfactory if the nut meats are added while kneading after the first raising. When this bread is twenty-four hours' old, slice as thin as possible, spread sparingly and evenly with creamed butter and put orange marmalade between slices. Remove crusts, cut in triangles or any desired shape and garnish with halves of nut meats, which need a bit of butter on their undersurfaces to keep them in place. To keep moist pack the same as other sandwiches. If orange marmalade is not procurable, make the sandwiches without it, and even then you will have a delicious novelty."

FURNITURE NOVELTY.

Umbrella Cabinet With Places For Holding Overshoes and Veils.

A piece of furniture that is a decided novelty is an umbrella cabinet.

No matter how handsome or elaborate it may be, the ordinary receptacle for umbrellas and walking sticks is not a thing of beauty and does not add to the appearance of the hall in which it stands.

This cabinet, however, is a really attractive piece of furniture, which has the added advantage of protecting its contents from dust and dirt and concealing them so that they do not seem to add to the decorative features of the hall.

Around the sides of the cabinet and also inside both doors are brass hooks, into which the handles of the umbrellas or walking sticks are fastened. Several of the hooks have silk bags attached for the protection of light colored parasols or particularly handsome umbrellas.

A long drawer in the lower part of the cabinet may be used for overshoes, and a shelflike arrangement in the top, which opens on hinges, is useful for holding veils or gloves or small articles left temporarily in the hall.

The whole arrangement is quite compact, occupying but small space, and the inlaid wood of which it is made adds much to the beauty of an article that is built on plain but well proportioned lines.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

An excellent mouth wash, especially in fruit season, because of its good effect upon the teeth, is limewater. To make it pour a quart of boiled or distilled water over a teaspoonful of slaked lime. Pour into a bottle and shake well every fifteen minutes for the first hour. Then allow the lime to settle and pour off the water, which should be bottled for use.

There is no need of brushing the hair if the brush brings it out. Comb it gently with the coarse teeth and apply this tonic: Tincture of nux vomica, one ounce; spirits of rosemary, two ounces; alcohol, two ounces. Apply several times a week to the roots of the hair.

A bad complexion, lacking luster, elasticity and plumpness, often indicates want of goodness in the vital or nutritive system. A mild diet, a gentle temperature, an even digestion, open air exercise, sleep and tranquillity of mind are all necessary to loveliness. Fresh meats to be nutritious should be rare. Avoid all highly spiced foods and drink plenty of water. Oranges, pineapples, grape fruit, olives, whole wheat bread, tomatoes and apples are all beauty foods. Substitute lemon juice for vinegar and eat sparingly of rich salads and pastries.

Cult of the Cat.

The day is past when everything that pass or mews is considered a cat worth having.

With the ever increasing cult of the cat, owners are becoming more particular about good points, and considerable study is expended by fanciers on the necessary qualifications.

Such qualifications of course vary with the breed. In long haired cats the ruff is the first thing to be considered. The tufts of hair between the toes, the ear tufts and the flexibility of the tail come next.

With the short haired cats the color is of great importance, and so are the eyes, ears and the shape of the head. White cats should have blue eyes, black cats yellow eyes and those of other colors green eyes.

Here are some of the good points to be taken into consideration when buying a cat:

Head—Great breadth between the eyes.
Eyes—Round and wide open.
Ears—Short and tapered.
Body—Light, deep chested.
Legs—Straight.
Nose—Small and rounded.
Neck—Thin and graceful.
Tail—Short at the end in long haired cats.

For Coughs

Never hesitate to ask your doctor about Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It is a regular medicine, a strong medicine, a doctor's medicine.

It would be very interesting to know how many years your family physician has prescribed Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for coughs, colds, and all forms of lung troubles. Ask him the next time you see him. We know physicians who have used it for over half a century.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother).

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

Author of "Dora Deane," "The English Orphans," "Lena Rivers," "The Rector of St. Mark's," "Tempest and Sunshine," Etc.

"That is very possible; but I presume Maddy has never seen it in that light, which makes a difference"; and the two retraced their steps to the rooms where the gay revelers were still tripping to Maddy's stirring music.

After several ineffectual efforts Agnes had succeeded in enticing the doctor away from the piano, and thus there was no one near to see how at last the bright color began to fade from her cheeks as the notes before her ran together, and the keys assumed the form of one huge key which Maddy could not manage. There was a blur before her eyes, a buzzing in her ears, and just as the dancers were entering heart and soul into the merits of a popular polka, there was a sudden pause in the music, a crash among the keys, and a faint cry, which to those nearest to her sounded very much like "Mr. Guy," as Maddy fell forward with her face upon the piano. It was hard telling which carried her from the room, the doctor or Guy, or which face of the three was the whitest. Guy's was the most frightened, for the doctor knew she had only fainted, while Guy, struck with the marble rigidity of the face so recently flushed with excitement, said at first, "She's dead," while over him there flashed a feeling that life with Maddy dead would be desolate indeed. But Maddy was not dead, and Guy, when he went back to his guests carried the news that she had recovered from her faint, which she kindly ascribed to the heat of the rooms, instead of fatigue from playing so long. The doctor was with her and she was doing as well as could be expected, he said, thinking within himself how he wished they would go home, and wondering what attraction there was there, now that Maddy's place was vacant. Guy was a vastly miserable man by the time the last guest had bidden him good-night, and he had heard for the hundred-and-fiftieth time what a delightful evening it had been. Politeness required that he should look to the very last as pleasant and unconcerned as if upstairs there were no little sick girl, all alone undoubtedly with Dr. Holbrook, whom he mentally styled a "lucky dog," in that he was not obliged to appear again unless he chose.

The doctor knew Maddy did not require his presence after the first half-hour, but he insisted upon her being sent to bed, and then went frequently to her door until assured by Mrs. Noah that she was sleeping soundly, and would, if let alone, be well as ever on the morrow, a prediction which proved true, for when at a late hour next morning the family met at the breakfast table, Maddy's was the brightest, freshest face of the whole, not even excepting Jessie's. Maddy, too, was delighted with the party, declaring that nothing but pleasurable excitement and heat had made her faint, and then, with all the interest which young girls usually attach to fainting fits, she asked how she looked, how she acted, if she didn't appear very ridiculous, and how she got out of the room, saying the only thing she remembered after falling was a sensation as if she were being torn in two.

"That's it," cried Jessie, who readily volunteered the desired information. "Brother Guy was 'way off with Maria Cutler, and doctor was with mamma, but both ran, oh, so fast, and both tried to take you up. I think Miss Cutler real hateful, for she said, so meanlike, 'Do you see them pull her, as if 'twas of the slightest consequence which carried her out?'"

"Jessie," Guy interposed sternly, while the doctor looked disapprovingly at the little girl, who subsided into silence after saying, in an undertone, "I do think she's hateful, and that isn't all she said, either, about Maddy."

It was rather uncomfortable at the table after that, and rather quiet, too, as Maddy did not care to ask anything more concerning her faint, while the others were not disposed to talk.

Breakfast over, the two young men repaired to the library, where Guy indulged in his cigar, while the doctor fidgeted for a time, and then broke out abruptly:

"I say, Guy, have you said anything to her about—well, about me, you know?"

"Why, no. I've hardly had a chance; and then, again, I considered it better for each one to speak for himself"; and carelessly knocking the ashes from his half-smoked cigar, Guy leaned back in his chair, with his eyes, and, to all appearance, thoughts, wholly intent upon the curls of smoke rising above his head.

"Guy, if you were not engaged, I should be tempted to think you wanted Maddy Clyde yourself," the doctor suddenly exclaimed, confronting Guy, who, still watching the rings of smoke, answered with the most provoking coolness, "You should?"

"Yes, I should; and I am not certain but you do, as it is, Guy," and the doctor grew very earnest in his manner, "if you do care for Maddy Clyde, and she for you, pray tell me so before I make a fool of myself."

"Doctor," returned Guy, throwing the remains of his cigar into the grate and folding his hands on his head, "you desire that I be frank, and I will. I like Maddy Clyde very much—more, indeed, than any girl I ever met—except Lucy. Had I never seen her—Lucy, I mean—I cannot tell how I should feel toward Maddy. The chances are, however, that much as I admire her, I should not make her my wife, even if she was willing. But I have seen Lucy. I am engaged to be married. I shall keep that engagement, and if you have feared me at all as a rival, you may fear me no longer. I do not stand between you and Maddy Clyde."

Guy believed that he was saying the truth, notwithstanding that his heart beat faster than its wont, and his voice was a little thick. It was doubtful whether he would marry Maddy Clyde, if he could. By nature and education he was very proud, and the inmates of the red cottage would have been an obstacle to be overcome of his pride. He knew they were much far better than himself. But from his earliest remembrance, he had been taught that blood and family and position were all-important; that by virtue of them Remington was a name of which to be proud; that his father's foolish marriage with a pretty governess was the first misalliance ever known in the family, and that he was not likely to follow that example was a point fully established in his own mind. He might admire Maddy very much, and, perhaps, build castle of what might possibly have been, had she been in his sphere of life; but, should he verily think of making her his wife, the olden pride would certainly come up a barrier between them. Guy could not explain all this to the doctor, who would have been tempted to knock him down, if he had; but he succeeded in quieting his fears, and even suggested bringing Maddy in there, if the doctor wished to know his fate then.

"I hear her now—I'll call her," he said; and, opening the door, he spoke to Maddy, just passing through the hall. "Dr. Holbrook wishes to see you," he said, as Maddy came up to him; and holding the door for her to enter, he saw her take the seat he had just vacated. Then closing it upon them, he walked away, thinking that last night's party, or something, had produced a bad effect on him, making him blue and wretched, just as he should suppose a criminal would feel when about to be executed.

CHAPTER XVI.

Now that they were alone, the doctor's courage forsook him and he could only stammer out some commonplace remarks about the party, asking how Maddy had enjoyed it, and if she was sure she had entirely recovered from the effects of her fainting fit. He was not getting on at all, and it was impossible for him to say anything as he had meant to say it. Why couldn't she help him, instead of looking so unsuspiciously at him with those large, bright eyes?

LET BUFFALOES RANGE PLAINS.

Authorities Give Opinions as to Their Proper Location.

The Board of Trade, says The Calgary Albertan, has been getting opinions from different authorities about the proper location of the buffalo which are being brought into Alberta and others parts of Western Canada. Mr. Howell Harris, who has had much experience with the buffalo, rather discourages both the Sarcee and Stoney Indian reserves. In a letter to Mr. Richardson, secretary of the Board, he writes:

"In my opinion neither the Sarcee nor Stoney reserve is well suited for the buffalo in question. They are prairie, not mountain buffalo, and the buffalo of the prairie never flourished in the mountains. The Stoney reserve was, I think, the extreme limit of their range in the mountain direction I would suggest that any of the prairie reserves such as the Blackfeet or Blood would be more suitable, for these are in the region which was their natural stamping ground.

"I deeply regretted to see the first part of this herd taken where they were, as the buffalo never ranged in that locality. Swampy lands they always avoided, and I fear the experiment of placing them there will be a failure, as I do not believe it is a range at all suitable to the prairie buffalo."

Wheat to Pay Well.

According to present prospects western farmers will realize two dollars an acre more than last year on wheat in the opinion of C. C. Castle, chief warehouse commissioner of Canada.

He says that crop reports from Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta are very favorable; and it looks as if harvesting in all three will be general towards the end of the month if the weather continues favorable.

Manitoba wheat is expected to run from 14 to 16, or even 20 bushels per acre, with the crop still heavier in Saskatchewan and Alberta. Portions of the late sown wheat crop may be caught by early frosts, however.

This year's straw is lighter than last season's and the cost of handling the crop will, therefore, be less than it was last year.

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Weakness, or Nerve Weakness, means Heart Weakness. You can't separate them. They're one and the same. Nerves control the heart. Is it not always a question with you whether your heart is all right or not? Is not shortness of breath, smothering attacks, Cardiac, or Heart Nerve symptoms? Is not your heart, nerve power, nerve force, nerve control, nerve energy, nerve strength, nerve something, all gone? Is not your heart fluttering, jumping, pounding, or intermittent, or is it not weak and sluggish? Are not the stomach and kidneys also involved?

Dr. Shoop, after years of study, as a specialist, has put forth Dr. Shoop's Heart Remedy, which he terms Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this suffering, palpitation, suffocation, shortness of breath, dizziness, faintness, etc., and found it to be nerves. Nerves controlling the heart, and weakening nerves causing weak heart. Nerves—nerves—nerves—is the whole story in a nutshell.

If your nerves have strength, stamina, energy, force, control, you have Heart Strength. If your nerves are weak, you have Heart Weakness. Both are combined with

ANTIGUA GOLD-COPPER Co.

Offers the Biggest and Most Attractive Mining Investment Now Before the Public.

ITS HOLDINGS ARE MINES--NOT PROSPECTS

With Vast Bodies of Ore Ready for the Mill, Now Nearing Completion.

THOMAS W. LAWSON: "Copper stocks offer the biggest opportunity for money making in the world to-day. A good copper mine is really a safe-deposit vault of stored up dividends which cannot be stolen or destroyed by fire, flood or famine."

CECIL RHODES said: "Mining offers greater inducements than any other business in the world to make quick and great wealth."

CHARLES M. SCHWAB says: "The big fortunes of the next twenty-five years will come from Mother Earth." Among all mining investments none stand ahead of copper for safety, permanency and profit.

Lay the Foundation for Your Fortune Today

THE ANTIGUA PROPERTIES

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company holdings consist of 531 acres, situated in Honduras, Central America, 100 miles southeast from Puerto Cortez, and midway between New Orleans and Panama. Development work is being pushed with all possible speed, and more than 1,500 feet of tunneling and shaft work has been completed. A 40 to 50-ton capacity gold-silver mill is in course of construction, and will be in operation before the close of the year.

Development work has conclusively proven that every acre of our holdings are rich in gold, copper and silver, and that every ton of this great ore body will yield a handsome profit on milling expense. The ore exposed on the surface does not require mining in the usual sense of the term, but may be obtained by quarrying. It can, according to estimates of experts, be quarried and treated for the gold and silver on an extensive scale at a cost of less than $1.00 a ton. Think of it! A solid mountain of rich ore, from the very grass roots of which may be washed gold.

Beyond a doubt Honduras has beneath her soil larger, richer deposits of copper, gold and silver than any other section of the American continent. Spain, during her sovereignty in that country, took out more than $300,000,000 in gold alone—and she scarcely scraped the Earth's surface. There is evidence that the pre-historic races knew how to mine and utilize copper—smelting it in their crude way.

The original incorporators of the Antigua Gold-Copper Company spent thousands of dollars of their own money in bringing this property to its present stage of development. They opened up the mine on every side with tunnels, crosscuts and shafts. They purchased machinery and began the erection of a gold-silver mill—now nearing completion. These men appreciated from the first that this mine was destined to become one of the greatest copper-gold-silver properties in America; and that it justified more extensive and more rapid development than they were able to make without the co-operation and financial assistance of the public.

WHY STOCK IS SOLD

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company finds itself in precisely the same position as the farmer who has a larger farm than he can cultivate with the capital in hand. He knows that with additional capital and assistance he could make the land yield abundant crops and enormous profits. In the same way we intend, by the investment of additional capital, to bring our enormous ore bodies to a highly profitable state of development at the earliest possible moment. For this reason a limited amount of treasury stock is offered the public. In this way funds will be available for immediate use in purchasing additional machinery and for continuing vigorous development of the property.

THERE ARE NO PREFERRED SHARES AND NO BONDS TO COME FIRST IN THE DIVISION OF PROFITS.

And your shares will earn as much as a like number of shares owned by any other stockholder in the company. Each share CARRIES WITH IT THE RIGHT TO VOTE, so that with a single share you have every right, privilege and protection possessed by any other stockholder.

Stock is now being sold at $2.50 a share, and this stock, we firmly believe, will, within a year, be selling at its par value of $5.00 a share, or higher; nor will it stop there. If you are desirous of permanently increasing your income, of making an investment that is not only secure, but immensely profitable, reserve shares TO-DAY.

Such an investment opportunity can scarcely be repeated. It is made possible only by extraordinary natural conditions. Millions of dollars of copper, gold and silver will be marketed from the mines—fortunes will be reaped as a result of the prompt seizure of the opportunity we offer you to-day.

REPORT OF AN EXPERT

Much weight can justly be given the statement of a properly qualified and reliable mining engineer. Such is the character of T. M. Foster, from whose report on Antigua we make the following extracts:

"From the development work done and the indications shown by the croppings, I am convinced this is one of the largest gold-copper deposits in existence, and under proper development will make one of the richest mining properties in America. * * * I consider this ore an ideal smelting proposition, there being an abundance of iron, lime and silica in close proximity. There is plenty of water for power and milling purposes, and an abundance of timber on the property. * * *

"A large amount of development work has been done on the property in tunnels, drifts and shafts, ranging from 30 to possibly 200 feet in length. * * * This work has all been in ore—in fact, the ore body on the surface is shown to be fully one-half mile wide by two miles in length. To judge from the development work done, this property is all ore—no matter where work was started, ore was encountered.

"The company is erecting a mill, consisting of one five-stamp and one three Hardingtons, to work the surface ore. This surface ore is mostly free milling, the copper and galena sulphides being oxidized, freeing the gold, and being readily amalgamated. But I am confident that at no very great depth copper sulphides will be encountered, as there are many places in this great ore body where the sulphides crop to the surface. I have taken a dozen samples from various places on the lead, and from these made free gold tests, finding an average of over $4.00 a ton in FREE gold, and from 5 to 25 per cent copper. Native copper is frequently seen in this ore. If the Antigua mines continue in depth as on the surface, a 1,000 ton smelter will not work it out in 100 years. * * *

"With good management and proper development, it will be but a short time until the stock of the company will be worth more than par. I fully believe that if this great ore body is properly developed there is a mine here worth many millions of dollars.

Something New in Copper

PITTSBURG - IDAHO

Mining and Milling Company

The mine is located 58 miles above Lewiston, Idaho, on the Clearwater river, and consists of 19 full claims, or 380 acres. It is developed by tunnels, shafts and open cuts for more than 2100 feet, disclosing thousands of tons of copper, gold and silver ores of both high grade and low grade. There are between 1000 and 2000 tons of ore ready for shipment. The entrance to the working tunnel is only 2000 feet from the track of the Northern Pacific railroad, to be reached by gravity tramway. There are seven parallel veins running lengthwise of the claims, one cropping out on the surface for 2700 feet and another for 2000 feet; while two veins cross these running into the mountain. These veins are from 30 to 300 feet wide. One ore chute has been crosscut 70 feet and is solid ore from wall to wall.

We are not asking you to buy in a prospect. That risk was taken by the promoters. We are asking you to buy in a developed, proven mine. Seven years of continuous work and the expenditure of thousands of dollars has proven up one of the greatest mines in Idaho. That mine is now ready to pour out its red and yellow wealth to the world with the installing of an up to date production plant. It is for that purpose that a block of its treasury stock, full paid and non-assessable, is offered for sale. We believe that within six months from the completion of a 100 ton plant the mine can be put on a dividend paying basis, and that these dividends will be substantial and permanent. There is no better investment proposition before the people at this time.

CAPITALIZATION $1,000,000. - PAR VALUE $1.

Mrs. Arthur Haverstock Makes Public Statement

Tells of Her Belief in the Undying Merit of Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Halifax, N.S., Sept. 19.—When interviewed at her home at 194 Argyle street, Mrs. Haverstock was quite willing to talk of her peculiarly unfortunate case. "I was always blue and depressed, felt weak, languid and utterly unfit for any work. My stomach was so disordered that I had no appetite. What I did eat disagreed. I suffered greatly from dizziness and sick headache and feared a nervous breakdown. Upon my druggist's recommendation I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

"I felt better at once. Every day I improved in six days I was a well woman, cured completely after different physicians had failed to help me. It is for this reason that I strongly urge sufferers with stomach or digestive troubles to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Dr Hamilton's Pills strengthen the stomach, improve digestion, strengthen the nerves and restore debilitated systems to health. By cleansing the blood of long-standing impurities, by bringing the system to a high point of vigor, they effectually chase away weariness, depression and disease. Good for young and old, for men, for women, for children. All dealers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut.

Kotchesoum Lake Club's Luck

The members of the Kotchesoum Hunt Club, with Mr. Harry Winsh as captain, had six deer on Monday night—pretty good work for three days out. The party went north on Thursday, and the six deer were the result of three days' shooting. Three more members of the club; Messrs. W. Irwin, Peter Campbell and W. G. Morrow left for the hunting grounds yesterday afternoon and several more will go on Saturday.

Fingers Amputated

A very painful accident occurred yesterday morning at 8.30 at the Canadian General Electric Works of this city. The victim was Mr. Joseph O'Toole, an employee of the transformer department. It appears he was engaged in cutting sheet iron for transformers, and while his left hand was underneath the knife he accidentally ground his foot, cutting off two fingers above the second joint. Dr. Young was telephoned for and did everything in his power to ease the pain until the Dan Spence ambulance arrived and Mr. O'Toole was taken to the Nicholls Hospital, where the fingers were dressed.

A Bad Day for Business

Yesterday was what one might reasonably call "A dirty day," and one during which any man setting out to do business was sure to get left no matter how good his proposition might be. During the afternoon of yesterday a Times man met a well known local gentleman out canvassing for business. In reply to the common question, "Well, ———, how are things going?" The seeker for business responded, "What do you think a man can do on such a day? Don't you know that on a blue day like this, cheque books, tills and other sources of the almighty dollar's production are all closed right? We guess he had about a level foot of the business situation.

Says Football is Prize Fighting

Kankakee, Ill., Nov. 7.—Charging that football is prizefighting, S. B. Moore, an attorney, filed a bill in the circuit court today, for an injunction restraining high school students from playing the game.

Moore declares that F. N. Trace, superintendent of public schools, and L. W. Smith, high school principal, have aided and abetted prize fighting among students; that the game of football no only injures, but demoralizes the student body; that the members of the team use profanity on the field, and that the game is "degrading, un-American, un-Christian and uncivilized."

Student Fights Versus Hazing

Raleigh, N.C., Nov. 7.—A recent case of hazing at the State Agricultural and Mechanical College here caused President Winston of that college to remove the student body, and in his remarks he advised a man-to-man fight in the open. As a result of this the freshman class sent a challenge to the sophomores to meet them for a test of prowess on the athletic field. Accordingly there was a mass fight Wednesday afternoon, with about seventy-five on each side. Lieutenant Young, U.S.A., the commandant, and members of the junior and senior classes were present, and allowed no fighting on the ground, and the match passed without serious injury to any of the participants.

This afternoon the sophomores invited the freshmen to battle, when a fierce struggle ensued, and there were many injured on both sides. There were sixty-five men on a side, and the noses of four cadets were broken, a number of eyes were blackened and many faces scratched. It is understood that another fight will take place tomorrow.

The opposing sides line up, rush at each other and fight at will, but rough-and-tumble tactics are barred. President Winston and Lieutenant Young believe this will do away with hazing. Many friends of the college here condemn it.

Stingy Man's Estate Settled

Haddam, Nov. 7.—Heirs of Patrick Cooney reached an agreement today in the probate court by which the way is opened for the settlement of his estate after five years of legal warfare. Cooney was a section hand on the Valley Branch Railroad and saved $16,000 from pay that never exceeded $1.50 a day.

To save carfare he used to walk 25 miles to Hartford. Fearing damage to his boots, he removed them one cold day, to work in a trench half filled with water, and caught cold and died—a bachelor with fifteen heirs.

Cooney left a bone of contention for his heirs by making deathbed assignments of most of his savings to Mary J. Reardon and Nora Cooney, of Brooklim, Mass, favorite nieces, whose claims are now compromised. They were fought chiefly on the ground that Cooney could not write.

The Outing Magazine for November

The Outing Magazine for November gives prominence to the automobile and the topics allied with its present remarkable vogue in American life. The interesting manner in which this important subject is handled in the magazine is made plain by some of the articles. "The Automobile Industry in America," by David T. Wells, is a popularly written account of the automobile's beginnings, of the difficulties overcome and the unique success scored. "An Intimate Encounter," by Frank Presbrey, is a charming account of a journey in an automobile along the old Normandy roads of France. It reads remarkably like the delightful narratives of Bayard Taylor in the Italy century with which it pictures out-of-the-way scenes and people. "The Spanish Bandit and the Motor Car" will provide the reader with an admirable idea of ways and methods of motoring in Spain. It is written by Louis Clarence Hale, and is illustrated with some delightful drawings by Mr. Walter Hale. "Motoring to the Jamestown Exposition describes an interesting trip in this country and intimately pictures the crying need for good roads. The topic of better highways, where need has been emphasized by the spread of the automobile is forcefully discussed by a well known authority, Mr. W. Pierrepont White, under the title of "Good Roads for the People."

"Round-Up-Days," by Stewart Edward White, is a picturesque account of the vast and resourceful industry that has gone to the making of the prime roast beef which adorns our dinner table. Mr. White's knack for picturing western life has never been shown to better advantage.

A humorous story is entitled, "The Ship-wrecked Parent," by Ralph D. Paine, a story in the series of "The Tales of a Collector of Whiskers." W. A. Fraser contributes a story of India, entitled "Boarding the Burmese Tiger."

In addition to these important features will be found all of the usual beautiful photographs, drawings and special departments; articles which have made The Outing Magazine a synonym for magazine beauty and interest.

—A letter from Santa Claus this morning states that all pretty toys, games, dolls, pastry ovs, blocks, and children's notions are now in at Times Bookstore, where his headquarters will be and that purchases made now will be reserved on the following conditions;—10 cents paid on a 50-cent purchase, and 20 cents on a dollar purchase.

A Square Deal

Is assured you when you buy Dr. Pierce's family medicines—for all the ingredients entering into them are printed on the bottle-wrappers and their formulas are attested under oath as being complete and correct. You know just what you are paying for and that the ingredients are gathered from Nature's laboratory, being selected from the most valuable native medicinal roots found growing in our American forests and while potent to cure are perfectly harmless even to the most delicate women and children. Not a drop of alcohol enters into their composition. A much better plan is used both for extracting and preserving the medicinal principles used in them, viz.—pure triple refined glycerine. This agent possesses antiseptic properties of its own, being a most valuable antiseptic and antiferment, nutritive and soothing demulcent.

Glycerine plays an important part in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in the cure of indigestion, dyspepsia and weak stomach, attended by sour risings, heart-burn, foul breath, coated tongue, poor appetite, gnawing feeling in stomach, biliousness and kindred derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels.

Besides curing all the above distressing ailments, the "Golden Medical Discovery" is a specific for all diseases of the mucous membranes, as catarrh, whether of the nasal passages or of the stomach, bowels or pelvic organs. Even in its ulcerative stages it will yield to this sovereign remedy if it be used in time. In Chronic Catarrh of the Nasal passages, it is well, while taking the "Golden Medical Discovery" for the necessary constitutional treatment, to cleanse the passages freely two or three times a day with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. This thorough course of treatment generally cures the worst cases.

In coughs and hoarseness caused by bronchial, throat and lung affections, except consumption in its advanced stages, the "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most efficient remedy, especially in those obstinate, hang-on coughs caused by irritation and congestion of the bronchial mucous membranes. The "Discovery" is not so good for acute coughs arising from sudden colds, nor must it be expected to cure consumption in its advanced stages—no medicine will do that—but for all the obstinate, chronic coughs, which, if neglected, or badly treated, lead up to consumption, it is the best medicine that can be taken.

INSPECTOR MOWAT WAS GIVEN A RIGHT ROYAL RECEPTION

Teachers of Peterborough Public Schools Tender a Reception to the New Inspector at King Edward School Last Night

Quite a large number accepted the invitation of the teachers of the Peterborough public schools, to attend a reception to the new school inspector, Mr. A. Mowat, in the King Edward school. The using of Peterborough's newest school wherein to receive a new school inspector was an indesigned but appropriate selection. This splendid building that was so fully occupied last night is a standing monument to this and last year's Board of Education. While to a stranger not comprehending the present growth and particularly direction of growth of the city, the grand King Edward school might seem to have been purposelessly thrown amid an arid plain outside the city's population. However, those using knowledge of the city's growth to the south, are fully aware that the Board of Education, not only used good judgment as far as the present requirements of the city are concerned, but have most thoughtfully forestalled future wants for many years, thus saving the city thousands of dollars expenditure in the future.

Last night's reception was given in the kindergarten assembly room, a light cheery appartment, with a green color scheme, and lighted with four bay windows, suitably arranged with blinds of corresponding color. Mr. Hodgson, Miss Denne and Miss Erskine assisted most accomplishably as a reception committee.

The evening's actual proceedings began by a well delivered address given by Mr. Hodgson, who explained that in former year when teachers met it was a matter of discussing psychology, etc. However, when teachers meet now, it is "au regle" to forget collegiate institute, upper or lower schools, but to meet in unanimity and socially. There is something particularly delightful to meet in a new house, and the King Edward school has had a good gathering to introduce it.

It might be mentioned here incidentally, during the applause greeting Mr. Hodgson's remarks, that the large room with some 200 seats was fully filled.

Mr. Robert Fair, chairman of the School Board next spoke, and gave a witty resume of present local educational matters.

A piano duet was next given in good style by Misses McFadden and McCollum.

A letter of regret over non-ability to be present, and advocating such meetings among teachers, was received from former Inspector Walker. Mr. Hodgson spoke a few kindly words introducing the new inspector, Mr. Mowat.

Mr. Mowat, a seemingly young man for his important position gave a few words thanking those who were responsible for the meeting in his honor. He then went off into a learned treatise on educational matters in general, dwelling largely on church matters. His address in fact up to this point, dwelt much on church matters. The speaker went on to speak of past legislation on school matters. He noted that teachers had a profession they need not be ashamed of. As far as his future work in Peterborough goes he will take up ex-Inspector Walker's work where he stopped. He foresees that he will have much work to do and will have much to do. Those he will have to work for are the boys and girls of the city and he will do the best he can.

Mr Mowat was very warmly applauded on completing his speech.

Rev. Father McColl was to have spoken, but was unavoidably absent.

Among those present were several hundred ladies, belonging to the local teaching staff, or friends of the latter and a majority of the Board of Education.

After Mr. Mowat's speech was completed, Mr. Hodgson said that the evening's proceedings were not to be taken up by set speeches and invited all present to make themselves thoroughly at home throughout the building. This permission was taken advantage of and a most pleasant evening spent. The hosts and hostesses of the evening provided a bountiful and thoroughly enjoyed supper that included nearly every creation of the confectioner's art.

JAPAN PROPOSES TO RESTICT EMIGRATION IN FUTURE

Foreign Minister Hayashi Says He Will Control It so as to Benefit Herself and at Same Time Meet the Wishes of America

Tokio Nov. 8.—In an interview with the Associated Press today Minister of Foreign Affairs Hayashi said that the relations between Japan and the United States were as smooth and cordial as ever and the cause of misunderstanding as well as community of interest demanded the lasting peace and friendship of the two nations.

Minister Hayashi admitted that the immigration question was the most serious matter, and was uppermost in the public mind, but he was confident that it would be settled without friction. Already it practically has been decided. The Japanese government proposes to control emigration in such a manner as to benefit Japan and at the same time conform to the wishes of the American government, and is taking most active steps in this direction.

The foreign Minister believes that Japan will be able to solve the question in this manner, thus quieting only the prejudice of the people of both countries. One thing certain is that the Japanese government is not solicitous for the emigration of its people into any country.

Westmount Looks Strong--Easterners Have Splendid Chance --Many Surporters will Come

Are Confident of Winning O. R. F. U. Honors

Locals in Good Shape

Montreal, Nov. 7.—Phil McKenzie as referee and Hugh Hays, of Hamilton, as umpire, will officiate in the game between Westmounts and Petersborough at the latter town Saturday afternoon. The match is to decide the championship of the Ontario Rugby Union.

There is a great deal of enthusiasm noticeable in Westmount ranks as the result of the fine showing of the team and many of the fly-by-the-wool rooters will make the trip to cheer on the locals who will leave Friday evening over the C.P.R. at ten o'clock. The final practice was held last night at Victoria Hall, and every man was on hand. Though the fourteen had not been definitely settled it is a certainty it will line up something like this:

Brophy, full back; Cornell, Peel H. Will. Rose, or Budge, halves; Baillie, quarter back; McLeod, Sykes, Brown or Sutherland, scrimmage; Snowden and Atkinson, inside wings; O'Loughlin, Steedman, middle wings; Duckett, Berman Smith or Axell, outside wings.

Improvements at Mather's Storerooms

Things at the corner of Aylmer and Charlotte streets, or to be exact at the premises of Mr. Geo. Mather's grain warehouse, do not look like hard times. This energetic local merchant has a staff of workmen busily engaged in tearing down the south end of his premises.

Next summer will probably see radical changes made in this block by the G.T.R., which is pressed for freight and yard room. At present the company is removing a portion of the building for increased yard room.

The Big Race at Toronto Today in Which Two local Boys Compete

Toronto, Nov 8.—The feature event at the open C.A.A.U. meet at the armories, under the auspices of the Garrison Amateur Athletic Association, Saturday night, will be the five-mile invitation race, between Tom Coley, the Irish-Canadian's grand little Ringfishman, to whom all distances from one mile to twenty look alike, and Ernie A. Wilson, the crack Peterborough Y.M.C.A. five-miler, and Ben Howard, the Sunderland I.C.A. C's Mississauga Indian. Arrangements for the race were finally completed yesterday.

This will be Coley's first appearance since the day he carried the orange and green home in front in the Herald's great 20-mile road race.

"I haven't donned a shoe since the Herald race," said Coley today, "and I guess my 20-mile training will have slowed me up some, but I guess I am equal to the task before me Saturday."

R. M. Glover, the secretary of the Peterborough Y.M.C.A. Harriers, says of Wilson: "Wilson is a young runner, and a good one. He runs for the honor, glory, and pure love of the game. When I said 'Coley' to him, he said, 'I'd just as soon have a gallop with the top notchers as with any one else.' I don't say he'll win sure, if Coley is in form, but he will be there, knocking on the door."

The Howard-Wilson affair should be a duel to the bitter end, even if Coley does win. They raced five miles neck-and-neck, and finished practically dead level in a 10-mile road race on the holiday, doing the distance over rough roads, in 55 minutes. Howard claims he stopped, thinking he had the race won, and welcomes the opportunity to prove that he is the better man, and that Wilson won through a misunderstanding. Hall is who trained Simpson, the Indian who ran second at the Herald road race, will be down with Howard and Wilson.

Making Good.

There is no way of making lasting friends like "Making Good;" and Doctor Pierce's medicines well exemplify this, and their friends, after more than two decades of popularity, are numbered by the hundreds of thousands. They have "made good" and they have not made drunkards.

A good, honest, square-deal medicine of known composition is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It still enjoys an immense sale, while most of the preparations that have come into prominence in the earlier period of its popularity have "gone by the board" and are never more heard of. There must be some reason for this long-time popularity and that is to be found in its superior merits. When once given a fair trial for weak stomach, or for liver and blood affections, its superior curative qualities are soon manifest; hence it has survived and grown in popular favor, while scores of less meritorious articles have suddenly flashed into favor for a brief period and then been as soon forgotten.

For a torpid liver with its attendant indigestion, dyspepsia, headache, perhaps dizziness, foul breath, nasty coated tongue, with bitter taste, loss of appetite, with distress after eating, nervousness and debility, nothing is so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It's an honest, square-deal medicine with all its ingredients printed on bottle-wrapper—no secret, no hocus-pocus humbug, therefore don't accept a substitute that the dealer may possibly make a little bigger profit. Insist on your right to have what you call for.

Don't buy Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription expecting it to prove a "cure-all." It is only advised for woman's special ailments. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. Less advertised than some preparations sold for like purposes, its sterling curative virtues still maintain its position in the front ranks, where it stood over two decades ago. As an invigorating tonic and strengthening nervine it is unequaled. It won't satisfy those who want "booze," for there is not a drop of alcohol in it.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, the original Little Liver Pills, although the first pill of their kind in the market, still lead, and when once tried are ever afterwards in favor. Easy to take as candy—one to three a dose. Much imitated but never equaled.

Jimmy Reynolds Has Accepted Offer-- will Walk Hartley

Jimmy Reynolds has accepted an offer of the Toronto Mail and Empire for a matched walk with Dave Hartley of Peterborough, to be pulled off in Toronto one week from Saturday. The match is for a fair heel and toe walk for 12 hours and will take place in the armories. Fifty per cent. of the gross receipts are to be given to the contestants to be divided as they see fit. The contest will create widespread interest and no doubt will be witnessed by a monster gathering.—Port Hope Guide.

A Brutal Murder In Cold Blood Near the North River

Mr. Bernard Morrow,
Who is assisting Wm. Langford at the Court of Revision.

Wealthy Trading Post Owner Shot Dead by Desperado

Five Indians Witnessed the Horse Thief do the Deed

Ottawa, Nov. 9—The Northwest Mounted Police officials here today got word of a very brutal murder in cold blood at North River, not far from Vancouver. Robert Williams, a wealthy owner of half a dozen trading posts, was attempting to prevent Walter Scott, crossing a river, when the latter pulled a revolver and with one shot, put a bullet through Williams' heart. Scott had stolen some horses, and Williams was at the ford to prevent him crossing with them but the thief shot him dead. Five Indians saw the murder and hurried to headquarters where they got officials. They are now chasing Scott, but as it is snowing fast, they will have little chance of capturing the murderer.

ARCHIE CAMPBELL AND N. A. BELCOURT WILL GO TO SENATE

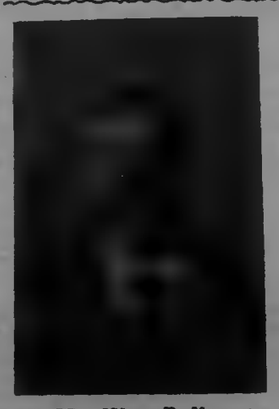
Members for West York and Ottawa Appointed as Senators

Bye-Elections to be Held This Month Before the House Meets

Ottawa, Nov. 8.—Announcement will be made in a few days of the appointment to the senate of Hon. N. A. Belcourt, ex-speaker of the House of Commons, and M.P. for Ottawa, and of Archie Campbell, M. P. for Center York.

This will involve bye-elections in these two constituencies, which will be held between this and the meeting of Parliament.

There are at present three Senate vacancies from Ontario, two of which are filled by these selections. The vacancy to which Hon. Mr. Belcourt succeeds is that which arose from the recent death of Hon. Dr. Casgrain of Windsor, Ont., the only French-Canadian senator from that Province.



Mr. Wm. Buller,
The new President of the Young Conservative Club.

Mr. Belcourt is a native of Toronto, and was 47 years old on Sept. 15 last. He was educated at Laval, and practiced law in Montreal, and later was called to the Ontario Bar. He practiced in Ottawa, and in 1891 was the unsuccessful candidate of the Liberal party in that city. He was successful in the 1896 general election, and the subsequent one.

Mr "Archie" Campbell came to Toronto Junction from West Elgin, where he had been a successful business man. Besides milling business at the Junction, and the soup canning industry in which he became interested, are important to that town. He was always a staunch Liberal, and turned West York from a Conservative into a Liberal riding. He has frequently been mentioned for Cabinet or senatorial honors.

Social Evening

Court Stanley, No. 7080, A.O.F., will give a social evening to the members and their friends on Tuesday evening, Nov. 12th, in S.O.E. Hall. A committee has arranged a choice program of music, etc. High refreshments will be served. No admission, but ready welcomed as let there be a large turnout of members and their friends.

Indian Killed by Blow of Fist --Fight May Result in Murder

Brantford, Nov. 8.—Richard Hairstare, Indian, lies dead at his home, 3rd Con., Tuscarora township, about four miles from Hagersville, as the result of injuries which are said to have been sustained in a fight.

According to meagre details received here, one of the parties came home drunk and got into an altercation, with the result that blows were exchanged. The doctor in attendance states in his opinion that no weapons were used, and that death resulted from a fist blow inflicted on the head. The encounter took place some time this week, and death ensued late last night after a period of delirium. Deceased was married, and leaves a wife and two or three children.

Dr. Finestre, coroner, this city, left for the scene at noon, and will probably open an inquest. Stories as to who struck the fatal blow are conflicting so far, and names are not available.

A nervous person is always at a disadvantage. The steady nerves of the influential successful, well liked individual, are the envy of the timid, cold skinned person who lacks initiative—and red blood.

Coffee is a common cause of "cold hands and feet," nervous trepidity, etc.

What a delightful change it is to feel the power of warm blood and strong nerves! Stop drinking coffee for a week or so days, and drink Postum Food Coffee as the table beverage.

Make your Postum strong and rich—boil it 15 minutes or longer—then, with good cream and piping hot, it is delicious and wholesome, too. Contains no coffee or other drug (caffeine is the drug in coffee) but only the food elements of clean, roasted wheat and a small amount of molasses.

Thumb Hurt by Fall on Rusty Nail!

Yesterday Mr James Grisdale, 152 Dufferin street, did not report for work at the Peterborough Light & Power Company's office. In addition to his work for the company, Mr Grisdale raises stock and hogs at his place in the country. On Thursday night, he returned home after work and went out in the yard to look after his swine. Mr. Grisdale went after one of the hogs with a broom, and fell, receiving a nasty cut in his thumb, which came in contact with a rusty nail in the fall. It is hoped that the cut will not prove serious.

Royal Hotel Again Open to Public

Yesterday morning the Hotel Royal, Hunter street, was re-opened after being closed for several months, under the able management of Mr. Ed. Flaherty. Mr. Flaherty, who contemplates making a number of important improvements, will change the former name of this place of public entertainment to the "Union Hotel." Mr. Flaherty has engaged the services of Mr Chas. Holland, a brother of Mr. Steve Holland, formerly proprietor of the American House, as wine clerk. Mr. Flaherty is determined that the house will be run on strictly first-class principles, and no noise or disorder will be permitted either in the bar or elsewhere.

Mr. Geo. Ball Gets Photo of New Cunard Steamer

Mr. Geo. Ball, local sanitary inspector, was yesterday in receipt of a photographic post card showing the Cunard Company's magnificent new steamer Mauretania, passing Tynemouth, at the mouth of the Tyne, England. This ship which towers above the surface of the water to the height of an ordinary three story building, is a sister ship to the ill. Lusitania, which recently broke all former records between the old country and New York. As the latter ship was built in England and the Mauretania in England, there is great rivalry between the two as to their respective speed records. The Mauretania hopes to cut down the Lusitania's transatlantic record, by at least 12 hours. The test result will be known in a few days.

GIRLS OF TODAY ARE WEAKLINGS

Few Possess the Vitality and Girlish Beauty of the Olden Times.

Never before was physical health and vigor so highly esteemed and so eagerly sought for as to-day.

No man finds happiness in a sickly wife, and the woman who wishes to enjoy the pleasures of life should spare no effort to maintain perfect health.

Is your daughter growing up strong and ruddy? Has she strength to drink in greedily all the pleasures that youth so zealously seeks—or is she compelled to use the street car instead of enjoying the delightful exercise of walking—does she arise from the ball arise refreshed and vigorous, or is she exhausted, indifferent, and perhaps irritable?

When strength and vigor can be so easily maintained by Ferrozone, when the glow of health is so quickly brought to the cheeks and elasticity to the step, it is plainly a mother's duty to see that Ferrozone is on hand to assist her daughter back to health.

Upon the wake of Ferrozone follows quickly a stream of rich, nourishing blood which imparts that power and surplus energy so earnestly desired by those in ill-health.

Stop and think what this means for your daughter—certainly a great deal, and it can be accomplished by Ferrozone.

Every growing girl and young woman derives enormous benefit in many ways from this nutritive, vitalizing tonic.

It is especially suited for young women and is a guarantee of health and regularity as long as it is used.

Ferrozone is free from alcohol and perfectly safe to use. Prepared in the form of a chocolate-coated tablet and sold in 50c. boxes or six for $2.50, at all dealers.

THE MAKING OF A STATE

From inquiries carefully made, says the Canadian Commercial Agent at London, England, in well informed fruit circles, my previous reports on the market for Canadian apples are fully confirmed. Importers who are in close communication with the fruit growers Belgium, Holland and Germany, state that little competition will be experienced from that quarter, whilst, as it has now become generally recognized, the English apple crop has been anything but a good one. To say that prospects are bright is only a poor way of describing the outlook for Canadian apples this season. Local importers are relying more than ever before on the Dominion's apple crop, and it is up to the Canadian shippers to make the most of their opportunities.

BRIGHT PROSPECTS FOR CANADIAN APPLES

The final figures for Oklahoma are in and the total population is placed at 1,414,982.

Fifteen years ago Oklahoma was an Indian reserve. No white man other than Government officials did any business within its limits.

When it was opened the people of the Republic were land hungry and great hosts of homeseekers for days tested at the promised land from the boundary line until the word was given to enter. Then a white rush occurred.

What Oklahoma has done meanwhile is partly told in the figures given above.

That is the way our West will some day grow. The overflow from the neighboring Republic has started and will undoubtedly gather force with the years. Until these irrigation plans have reached the high water mark and the land thereby captured for cultivation will mean all the rest of the marketable Canada will loom up bigger than ever when the land values across the border finds conditions making for high prices for real estate in agricultural districts. Then will our prairies have the call among hundreds of thousands on this continent, and Oklahoma will have to the north on Canada's still rivals in development.

GOOD TASTE IN DRESS.

Particular Attention Paid to Shoes and Gloves.

If you would dress in good taste, pay particular attention to shoes, gloves and veils, to nicety in the matter of neckwear and to trifles that give pretty finishing touches to a plain costume.

The woman who is dressed in good taste is not always the one who spends the most on her clothes, but rather the one who can afford so few frocks that she sticks to plain modes and colors best suited to her.

The woman who will give a little thought to the matter of dress manage to spend less money and get better results and service than the careless, indifferent—woman who is content to wear "just anything."

A woman's gown is one of the indexes to her character. If for no other reason, it should merit careful consideration.

Some women always dress loudly, always wear the extremes of fashion and even exaggerate extremes.

If checked cloth, pointed shoes, short skirts or long coats are in style, they insist on broader checks, more pointed shoes, shorter skirts and longer coats than the fashion prescribes.

In other words, everything is exaggerated, so that people will think that they are not only right up to fashion, but also a little ahead.

Women who dress in this manner suffer because such things indicate certain character qualities—inordinate vanity, an overestimation of one's importance, superficiality, foolishness.

Character is estimated by little things, and when people seem to spend most of their energies in thinking about themselves it is taken for granted that they are not much good for the solid, substantial things of life.

People who are given to thinking too much of themselves always think too little of others.

They are proverbially selfish, and selfishness is instinctively despised by every one.

WET WEATHER SHOE.

Flap Prevents Melted Snow Entering Interior of Shoe.

A good idea in storm boots is shown in the accompanying illustration. As every one knows, the fault with so called storm boots is that, although they protect the feet from cold, they do not prevent snow and slush from entering the interstices formed by the lacing. In a short time the snow is melted by contact with the foot, and the resultant water finds its way down to the stocking. In the shoe shown here this objection is overcome by providing a flap which overlaps the lacing and clamps on the side of the shoe. It will be obvious that it would be impossible for melted snow to work into the interior of a shoe provided with such a covering. The snow that adheres to the fastening would melt and drop down the side of the boot.

The Box Couch.

The box couch has long ago proved its convenience. Either as an emergency bed or clothespress it has no equal—indeed, it is a piece of furniture that few housekeepers can dispense with.

As absolute perfection is not yet come to earth, the box couch is not exempt from flaws. About the only serious one, however, is the persistency with which dust will sift inside, no matter how closely shut is the lid.

One clever woman has overcome this so much to her own satisfaction that her remedy is worth trying.

Over the lining she tacked white kitchen tablecloth, with the shining side turned in. A strip about two inches wide was also fastened all around the edge, so that when the lid was down it acted as a close flap over the opening.

The bottom of the box was then lined with a heavy yellow paper, which may be easily renewed and freshened.

These simple precautions are marvelous dust dodgers and make it possible to use the couch to hold gowns or even white waists without their being wrapped, as was formerly necessary.

Mrs. Palmer Now Collects Coins.

Coins, medals and clasps with "association" attached are being sought by Mrs. Potter Palmer, for "once a collector, always a collector." She has gathered old French furniture for years, and her collection makes forbidden envious. She has turned to numismatics, and many of her treasures are precious enough to break other collectors' hearts. Her London home is filled with rolls of tapestry, miniatures and pictures, some of which have not been taken out of their smuggling since she bought them. It probably is a consolation to her to know other art collectors didn't get them and want to hang on her money bags.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform (a) required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother).

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother).

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

AIKENSIDE

BY MARY J. HOLMES

Author of "Dora Deane," "The English Orphans," "Lena Rivers," "The Rector of St. Mark's," "Tempest and Sunshine," Etc.

Didn't she know how dear she was to him? He should think she might. She might have divined it ere this; and if so, why didn't she blush, or something?

At last she came to his aid by saying, "You promised to tell me about the bracelets and necklace, whether I ought to keep them."

"Yes, oh, yes, he believed he did." And getting up from his chair, the doctor began to walk the floor, the better to hide his confusion. "Yes, the bracelets. You looked very pretty in them, Maddy, very; but you are always pretty—ahem—yes. If you were engaged to Guy I should say it was proper; but if not, why, I don't know; the fact is, Maddy, I am not quite certain what I am saying, so you must excuse me. I almost hated you that day you sent the note, telling me you were coming to be examined; but I had not seen you then. I did not know how, after a while—a very little while—I should in all probability—well, I did; I changed my mind, and I—I guess you have not the slightest idea what I mean." And stopping suddenly, he confronted the astonished Maddy, who replied:

"Not unless you are going crazy."

She could in no other way account for his strange conduct, and she sat staring at him while he continued: "I told you once that when I wanted my bill I'd let you know. I'd ask for pay. I want it now. I present my bill."

With a scared, miserable feeling, Maddy listened to him, wondering where she should get the money, if it were possible for her grandfather to raise it, and how much her entire wardrobe would bring, supposa she should sell it! The bill had not troubled her latterly, for she had fallen into a way of believing that the doctor would wait until she was graduated and could earn it by teaching. Nothing could be more inopportune than for him to present it now; and with a half-stifled sob she began to speak, but he silenced her by a gesture, and sitting down beside her, said, in a voice more natural than the one with which he had at first addressed her:

"Maddy, I know you have no money. It is not that I want, Maddy; I want—I want—you."

He bent down over her now, for her face was hidden in her hands, all sense of sight shut out, all sense of hearing, too, save the words he was pouring into her ear—words which burned their way into her heart, making it throb for a single moment with gratified pride, and then growing heavy as lead as she knew how impossible it was for her to pay the debt as he desired.

"I can't, doctor; oh, I can't!" she sobbed. "I never dreamed of this; never supposed you could want me for your wife. I'm only a little girl—only sixteen last October—But I'm so sorry for you, who have been so kind. If I only could love you as you deserve! I do love you, too; but not the way you mean. I cannot be Maddy Holbrook; no, doctor, I cannot."

She was sobbing piteously, and in his concern for her the doctor forgot somewhat the stunning blow he had received.

"Don't, Maddy, darling!" he said, drawing her trembling form closely to him. "Don't be so distressed. I did not much think you'd tell me yes, and I was a fool to ask you. I am too old; but, Maddy, Guy is as old as I am."

The doctor did not know why he said this, unless in the first keenness of his disappointment there was a satisfaction in telling her that the objection to his age would apply also to Guy. But it did not affect Maddy one whit, or give her the slightest inkling of his meaning. He saw it did not, and the pain was less hard to bear. Still, he would know certainly if he had a rival, and so he said:

"Do you love someone else, Maddy? Is another preferred before me, and is that the reason why you cannot love me?"

"No," Maddy answered, through her tears. "There is no one else. Whom should I love, unless it were you? I know nobody but Guy."

That name touched a sore, aching chord in the doctor's heart, but he gave no sign of the jealousy which had troubled him, and for a moment there was silence in the room; then, as the doctor began faintly to realize that Maddy had refused him, there awoke within him a more intense desire to win her than he had ever felt before. He would not give her up without another effort, and laying her unresisting head upon his bosom, he pleaded again for her love, going over all the past, and telling of the interest awakened when first she came to him that April afternoon, almost two years ago; then of the little sick girl who had grown so into the heart never before affected in the least by womankind, and lastly of the beautiful woman, as he called her, sitting beside him now in all the freshness of her young womanhood. And Maddy, as she listened, felt for him a strange kind of pity, a wish to do his bidding if she only could, and why shouldn't she? Girls had married those whom they did not love, and been tolerably happy with them, too. Perhaps she could be as with the doctor. There was everything about him to respect, and much which she could love. Should she try? There was a great lump in Maddy's throat as she tried to speak, but it cleared away, and she said very sadly, but very earnestly:

"Dr. Holbrook, would you like me to say yes with my lips, when all the time there was something at my heart tugging to answer no?"

This was not at all what Maddy meant to say, but the words were born of her extreme truthfulness, and the doctor thus learned the nature of the struggle which he saw plainly was going on.

"No, Maddy, I would not have you say yes unless your heart was in it," he answered, while he tried to smile upon the tearful face looking up so sorrowfully at him.

But the smile was a forlorn one, and there came almost a tear to his thought how dear was the fair creature who never would be his. Maddy saw the tear, and as if she were a child wiped it from his cheek; then, in tones which never faltered, she told him it might be in time she'd learn to love him. She would try so hard, she'd think of him always as her promised husband, and by that means should learn at last not to shrink from taking him for such. It might be ever so long, and perhaps she should be twenty or more, but some time in the future she should feel differently. Was he satisfied, and would he wait?

Her little hand was resting on his shoulder, but he did not mind its soft pressure or know that it was there, so strong was the temptation to accept that half-made promise. But the doctor was too noble, too unselfish to bind Maddy to himself unless she were wholly willing, and he said to her that if she did not love him now she probably never would. She could not make a love. She need not try, as it would only result in her own unhappiness. They would be friends just as they always had been, and none need know of what had passed between them, none but Guy. "I must tell him," the doctor said, "because he knows that I was going to ask you."

Maddy could not explain why it was that she felt glad the doctor would tell Guy. She did not analyze any of her feelings, or stop to ask why she should care to have Guy Remington know the answer she had given Dr. Holbrook. He was going to him now, she was sure, for he arose to leave her, saying he might not see her again before she returned to New York. She did not mention his bill. That was among the bygones, a thing never again to be talked about, and offering him her hand, she looked for an instant earnestly into his face, then without a word, hurried from the room, while the doctor, with a sad, heavy heart, went in quest of Guy.

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. For truly, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a [illegible] nerve that really is all at fault. This concerns nerves—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve [illegible] more power, more [illegible] heart must continue [illegible] and [illegible] kidneys also have [illegible] nerve centers.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this pitiful, pain-hiding, suffering. He found it in nerves. Dr. Shoop's Restorative [illegible] nerves directed to these [illegible] and vitalizing nerve centers. It builds [illegible] nerves, and [illegible] heart beats. If you would have sound Hearts, strong digestion, clear brains—re-establish them as needed, with

ANTIGUA GOLD-COPPER Co.

Offers the Biggest and Most Attractive Mining Investment Now Before the Public.

ITS HOLDINGS ARE MINES--NOT PROSPECTS

With Vast Bodies of Ore Ready for the Mill, Now Nearing Completion.

THOMAS W. LAWSON

"Copper stocks offer the biggest opportunity for money making in the world to-day. A good copper mine is really a safe-deposit vault of stored up dividends which cannot be stolen or destroyed by fire, flood or famine."

CECIL RHODES

said: "Mining offers greater inducements than any other business in the world to make quick and great wealth."

CHARLES M. SCHWAB

says: "The big fortunes of the next twenty-five years will come from Mother Earth." Among all mining investments none stand ahead of copper for safety, permanency and profit.

Lay the Foundation for Your Fortune Today

THE ANTIGUA PROPERTIES

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company holdings consist of 511 acres, situated in Honduras, Central America, 100 miles southeast from Puerto Cortez, and midway between New Orleans and Panama. Development work is being pushed with all possible speed, and more than 1,500 feet of tunneling and shaft work has been completed. A 40 to 50-ton capacity gold-silver mill is in course of construction, and will be in operation before the close of the year.

Development work has conclusively proven that every acre of our holdings are rich in gold, copper and silver, and that every ton of this great ore body will yield a handsome profit on milling expense. The ore exposed on the surface does not require mining in the usual sense of the term, but may be obtained by quarrying. It can, according to estimates of experts, be quarried and treated for the gold and silver on an extensive scale at a cost of less than $1.00 a ton. Think of it! A solid mountain of rich ore, from the very grass roots of which may be washed gold.

Beyond a doubt Honduras has beneath her soil larger, richer deposits of copper, gold and silver than any other section of the American continent. Spain, during her sovereignty in that country, took out more than $300,000,000 in gold alone—and she scarcely scraped the Earth's surface. There is evidence that the pre-historic races knew how to mine and utilize copper—smelting it in their crude way.

The original incorporators of the Antigua Gold-Copper Company spent thousands of dollars of their own money in bringing this property to its present stage of development. They opened up the mine on every side with tunnels, crosscuts and shafts. They purchased machinery and began the erection of a gold-silver mill—now nearing completion. These men appreciated from the first that this mine was destined to become one of the greatest copper-gold-silver properties in America; and that it justified more extensive and more rapid development than they were able to make without the co-operation and financial assistance of the public.

WHY STOCK IS SOLD

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company finds itself in precisely the same position as the farmer who has a larger farm than he can cultivate with the capital in hand. He knows that with additional capital and assistance he could make the land yield abundant crops and enormous profits. In the same way we intend, by the investment of additional capital, to bring our enormous ore bodies to a highly profitable state of development at the earliest possible moment. For this reason a limited amount of treasury stock is offered the public. In this way funds will be available for immediate use in purchasing additional machinery and for continuing vigorous development of the property.

THERE ARE NO PREFERRED SHARES AND NO BONDS TO COME FIRST IN THE DIVISION OF PROFITS.

and your shares will earn as much as a like number of shares owned by any other stockholder in the company. Each share CARRIES WITH IT THE RIGHT TO VOTE, so that with a single share you have every right, privilege and protection possessed by any other stockholder.

Stock is now being sold at $2.50 a share, and this stock, we firmly believe, will, within a year, be selling at its par value of $5.00 a share, or higher; nor will it stop there. If you are desirous of permanently increasing your income, of making an investment that is not only secure, but immensely profitable, reserve shares TO-DAY.

Such an investment opportunity can scarcely be repeated. It is made possible only by extraordinary natural conditions. Millions of dollars of copper, gold and silver will be marketed from the mines—fortunes will be reaped as a result of the prompt seizure of the opportunity we offer you to-day.

REPORT OF AN EXPERT

Much weight can justly be given the statement of a properly qualified and reliable mining engineer. Such is the character of T. W. Foster, from whose report on Antigua we make the following extracts:

"From the development work done and the indications shown by the croppings, I am convinced this is one of the largest gold-copper deposits in existence, and under proper development will make one of the richest mining properties in America. * * * I consider this ore an ideal smelting proposition, there being an abundance of iron, lime and silica in close proximity. There is plenty of water for power and milling purposes, and an abundance of timber on the property. * * *

"A large amount of development work has been done on this property in tunnels, drifts and shafts, ranging from 30 to possibly 500 feet in length. * * * This work has all been in ore—in fact, the ore body on the surface is shown to be fully one-half mile wide by two miles in length. To judge from the development work done, this property is all ore—no matter where work was started, ore was encountered.

"The company is erecting a mill, consisting of one five-stamp and three Huntingtons, to work the surface ore. This surface ore is mostly free milling, the copper and galena sulphides being oxidized, freeing the gold, and being readily amalgamated. But I am confident that at no very great depth copper sulphides will be encountered, as there are many places in this great ore body where the sulphides crop to the surface. I have taken a dozen samples from various places on the lead, and from these made free gold tests, finding an average of over $6.00 a ton in FREE gold, and from 5 to 25 per cent copper. Native copper is frequently seen in this ore. If the Antigua mines continue in depth as on the surface, a 1,000 ton smelter will not work it out in 100 years. * * *

"* * * With good management and proper development, it will be but a short time until the stock of the company will be worth more than par. I fully believe that if this great ore body is properly developed there is a mine here worth many millions of dollars.

Something New in Copper

PITTSBURG - IDAHO Mining and Milling Company

The mine is located 55 miles above Lewiston, Idaho, on the Clearwater river, and consists of 19 full claims, or 380 acres. It is developed by tunnels, shafts and open cuts for more than 2100 feet, disclosing thousands of tons of copper, gold and silver ores of both high grade and low grade. There are between 1000 and 2000 tons of ore ready for shipment. The entrance to the working tunnel is only 2000 feet from the track of the Northern Pacific railroad, to be reached by gravity tramway. There are seven parallel veins running lengthwise of the claims, one cropping out on the surface for 2700 feet and another for 3000 feet; while two veins cross these running into the mountain. These veins are from 30 to 200 feet wide. One ore chute has been cross-cut 70 feet and is solid ore from wall to wall.

We are not asking you to buy in a prospect. That risk was taken by the promoters. We are asking you to buy in a developed, proven mine. Seven years of continuous work and the expenditure of thousands of dollars has proven up one of the greatest mines in Idaho. That mine is now ready to pour out its red and yellow wealth to the world with the installing of an up to date production plant. It is for that purpose that a block of its treasury stock, full paid and non-assessable, is offered for sale. We believe that within six months from the completion of a 100 ton plant the mine can be put on a dividend paying basis, and that these dividends will be substantial and permanent. There is no better investment proposition before the people at this time.

CAPITALIZATION $1,000,000. - PAR VALUE $1.

All promotion stock pooled during the sale of this treasury stock.

Messrs. Thos. Patterson & Co., Peterborough, Ont., are authorized to receive subscriptions for this stock, to whom all applications should be made.

Load of Hay Upset

Yesterday morning as a farmer perched upon a lofty load of hay was driving southwards along north Water street, where the road was quite level, he suddenly described a parabola and lighted on mother earth. The whole load was over-turned in the mud. No damage outside that to the hay getting muddy and the farmer's conscience over language used was done.

Charlotte Street Methodists to Build

The special committee of Charlotte street Methodist church, have decided to erect a new place of worship, costing $30,000. The reason for this is owing to the congested state of the church as there are over 200 families not able to obtain, sittings in the church. To relieve the situation the quarterly Board has decided upon the new step, the details of which will be worked out in the near future.

Great Praise for the Nichols Hospital

The report following the recent visit to Nicholls Hospital of Dr. R. W. Bruce Smith, inspector of hospitals, is in the hands of the board, and reflects great credit on the management of that institution. The wards are stated to be in excellent order and are apparently well cared for. The dietary is suitable and is well served. Records are neatly kept by the superintendent; and the report concludes by saying, great improvements were noted with pleasure in the appearance of the wards and rooms of this hospital, and all parts of the building were found neat, clean and in good order.

Large Number of Appeals Heard

Last night the Court of Revision once more met in session with Mr. W. Langford presiding. The other members were also present and looked into a large number of complaints against the manifestly ridiculous over-assessment of this year. Mr. E. H. D. Hall city solicitor, appeared in the city's interests, and City Clerk Armstrong again took down the minutes in his accustomed impartial manner. It will be some days before the members of the court can thoroughly investigate and adjudicate upon the many objections made, in no uncertain terms against the work of the assessors. Without wishing to show discrimination as between the two assessors' individual work, there is no gainsaying that the southern end of the city has received the muddy end of the stick. This may not be individual and personal discrimination on the part of the assessor fixing the assessment there, but there are sensibly more well founded "kicks" in that section than in the more northern end.

The Election Trial Will Proceed

Toronto, Nov. 8.—The trial of Geo. M. Reid, John O'Gorman, William Mulloy, and William Wiley, indicted on charge of conspiracy in connection with the London election, will probably be proceeded with at the Criminal Assizes in this city, opening November 18. As they are the cases of longest standing on the docket they are likely to be about the first to be called. George Lynch-Staunton, K.C., will be in charge of the case for the Crown. Some twenty witnesses have been subpoenaed from London.

RUMORS UNFOUNDED.

The rumors that there had been efforts made in the direction of having the cases dragged for various considerations, one of them strongly hinted at being the absence of a Liberal candidate in the field, bye-election in London, appear to have no foundation, although the fact that no commission had been appointed to examine alleged witnesses who had gone to Detroit apparently to avoid the test might be considered to lend a certain amount of color to the theory.

NO SAW-OFF MADE.

When asked regarding the rumor Mr. E. F. B. Johnston, K.C., counsel for the accused, had this to say:

"There is absolutely no truth in the report that there has been a saw-off with the Crown. No saw-off has been made or attempted. I have seen Hon. Mr. Foy and others, even as late as a month ago, representing that the prosecution of these men had become a persecution. I have pointed out on several occasions that the charges were technical and remedial the actual offence only in a roundabout way, which was never intended to be covered by the statute. The actual offence, bribery is barred from prosecution after two years.

"I have urged that these men were not criminals, but the creatures of a condition which existed in London, and that if A. B. and C. had not committed the offences, X, Y, and Z, would have done so, and that this condition was the creation of both parties.

"It has been to no purpose. The Crown persist in the prosecution. I have received no encouragement whatever. These things may have been discussed in London and elsewhere for political purposes, but the cases are under my sole control, and it is legally, and non politically, that I have and intend, to conduct them.

Miss Mildred Keller, 716 13th street, N. W., Washington, D. C., writes:

"I can safely recommend Peruna for catarrh. I had it for years and it would respond to no kind of treatment, or if it did it was only temporary, and on the slightest provocation the trouble would come back.

"I was in such a state that my friends were alarmed about me, and I was advised to leave this climate. Then I tried Peruna, and to my great joy found it helped me from the first dose I took, and a few bottles cured me.

"It built up my constitution, I regained my appetite, and I feel that I am perfectly well and strong."—Mildred Keller.

TOM LONGBOAT WINS 15 MILE RACE AT MONTREAL

Irish Canadian and West End Y.M.C.A. Runners Monopolize First Position--Enormous Crowd in Attendance

Montreal, Nov. 1.—Enormous crowds lined the streets to see the Harrier's 15-mile team race for the Star's cups. The Irish-Canadians' great runner, Tom Longboat, proved the winner, to the general satisfaction of everyone, who seemed to lose sight of the fact that it was principally a contest for teams rather than individuals.

At third station order was—Adams, Beat, Tait, Sellen, Lawson, Goldsboro, Cummings, Longboat.

Fourth mile—They are as follows Tait and Longboat, Adams, Goldsboro, Lawson, Sellen and Cummings.

Fifth mile station—Longboat and Tait leading, Adams, Goldsboro, Goulding, Sellen, Cummings close bunched.

At ten-mile station — Longboat, Adams and Tait together, rest scattered.

At 13-mile station—Longboat, Tait, Adams, Goldsboro, Lumsden, about a yard between each.

A 14th-mile—Homer, Sellen, Green, Wolfe, Goulding; one more to run.

First—Longboat, Irish-Canadians.
Second—Tait, West End.
Third—Adams, West End.
Fourth—Lawson, West End.
Fifth—Green, Irish-Canadians.
Sixth—Wolfe, Irish-Canadians.
Seventh—Sellen, Irish-Canadians.
Eighth—Goulding, Central.
Ninth—Barker.
Tenth—Demerton.
Time—1 hour 26 minutes 58 seconds.

Police Court

On Saturday afternoon, P. C. McGinty arrested Con. Ryan at a local hotel and brought him to the station. Ryan was charged with trespass on the property of Mr. J. J. Lundy, to wit a house in the East Ward. It seems that the defendant had been given notice to quit the occupation of the house in question where he resided. It seems that the trouble arose in the first place out of domestic troubles between Ryan and his wife, and that she temporarily left him for alleged non-support. During the afternoon Magistrate Dumble remanded Ryan for eight days.

John Christopher Switzer was also remanded for a similar period the same afternoon, his complaint for future treatment being a charge of vagrancy.

Young Canadian Girl Deported from U. S.

Montreal, Nov. 6.—A curious case of apparent deportation from the United States attracted considerable attention at the Windsor Station today. A young woman of French-Canadian parentage, apparently about seventeen years of age, arrived by the Rutland train this morning from Worcester, Mass., bound for Quebec. It became apparent after a time that the young woman was a kind of harmless lunatic, who did not know her way about and had the dimmest realization of her surroundings. The girl said she did not know her own name or the name of her parents, but she knew her father and mother were dead, and that she had lived with them for a long time in Worcester, Mass. She had been sent by somebody, she did not know to Quebec, where, she said, her aunt lived. She was told she would meet her aunt at Quebec, but she did not know that relative's name, nor had she any letters directing her to any person or place. She was sent to Quebec this afternoon.

Peterborough Now Senior Champions of the O. R. F. U.

One of the largest crowds that ever attended a rugby game in Peterborough turned out Saturday to see the locals land the senior O.R.F.U. championship from Westmount, winners of the eastern district. Peterborough had it on the visitors at almost every stage of the game as the score indicates. The visitors had a perfect code of signals and worked them through like clockwork. The locals played a punting game especially in the first half when they had the wind to the good, the wings were always on the job and followed up well.

Both teams were strong in buckling, but the locals held their own. Colledge was right at himself and his punting was a feature of the game. Every man on the local line up played to win, although Quinlan, Colledge and Crowley deserve special mention. For the visitors Cornell and Snowden played well.

In the first quarter Peterborough kicked with the wind and kept the pig skin in the visitors' territory pressing them hard. In the first few minutes Peterborough had scored twice on punts over the dead line by Colledge. Peterborough punted repeatedly and the play was always in Westmount territory. Westmount could not gain and run. Finally Colledge got an opportunity and dropped a goal from the 30-yard line. Just before quarter time Colledge dropped another beautiful goal from the 40 yard line.

Score, Peterborough, 10; Westmounts, 0.

Snowden of Montreal was hurt, and was replaced by Brophy.

In the second quarter Westmount, in the several quarter Westmount goal, the locals failing to score although they had the ball in danger on quarter several times.

In the last half the locals played a lemon to Westmount and had them at their mercy, scoring 15 more points before the whistle blew for time. Score 25—4.

The teams lined up as follows:

Peterborough		Westmount
Mulhern	Back	Cornell
	Halves.
Colledge		Ross
Crough		Pennell
Quinlan		Wills
Lundy		Baillie
	Scrimmage.
Deannard		McLeod
O'Brien		Brown
Clarke		Sayers
	Forwards.
Dickson		Atkinson
O'Connor		Snowdon
Dillon		O'Loughlin
Crowley		Stedman
Wilkey		Duckett
McDonald		Drennan

Phil McKenzie of Montreal, referee, and J. B. Hay, secretary of the O.R.F.U., was umpire in the absence of Hughie Hayes of Hamilton, who was to have officiated.

Secretary McDonough was bringing over with joy at the support the citizens gave the club in turning out in such large numbers to encourage the boys and also assist the club financially. A team will likely be sent to Ottawa next Saturday today for the Dominion honors, a chance which has never come to Peterborough before.

WAVE OF PROHIBITION SWEEPS OVER THE UNITED STATES

Growing Belief That the Countries will go Dry Except in the Large Cities--Spread of Movement not Measured by Success of Prohibition Party in Elections

Predictions are freely made that if the prohibition of the liquor traffic does not become a national political issue within a few short years it will be because the issue itself will have been eliminated by state legislation rendering the manufacture and sale of liquor impossible.

The temperance movement is sweeping the country in an irresistible wave, and soon, it is asserted, no whiskey will be sold in the United States except in the larger cities, unto which the criminal elements of the country will flock. The trend is upward enforced abstinence, and the makers of liquor are plainly alarmed.

The prohibition party does not poll a large vote—but 33,000,000 Americans live in a prohibition territory.

The prohibition party has only twenty members of the legislature in all the states of the union put together—but five of these states, including Oklahoma, have passed total abstinence laws and thirty-four have local option statutes.

The prohibition party has not one member of congress—but the National Liquor Dealers' Convention recently has organized a strong lobby against the "Kent C.O.D." law, which would prevent the shipment of liquor into dry territory by the express companies, and which has a fair chance to pass at the coming session.

Evidently the prohibition sentiment of the country cannot be measured by the prohibition party.

That this sentiment is on the increase there is no question. Consider the following table:

POPULATION IN DRY TERRITORY.

Year	Number	Per.
1880	3,000,000	9
1890	7,000,000	14
1900	11,500,000	18
1906	18,355,000	25

Even in Chicago 300,00 out of the 2,000,000 people live in prohibition territory.

Kentucky is famous all over the world as the state of beautiful women, fast horses and fine whiskey. According to the chronic joke of the comic papers the entire adult white male population of "old Kentucky," consists of whiskey-loving, water-fearing "Kunuks." But 1,500,000 out of the 2,250,000 people of Kentucky have chosen to live in dry territory; 97 out of every 119 counties are prohibition.

SOUTH RAPIDLY GOING DRY.

In the south especially the prohibition movement is spreading. Senator Tillman, author of the famous South Carolina dispensary law, now repealed, said this summer after the Georgia election, "Our neighbor to the south goes dry today; our neighbor to the north goes dry tomorrow; we go dry the day after."

Mississippi almost certainly will put a state anti-liquor law on its books at the next session.

Alabama allows no saloons to remain open out of nine pen. Birmingham, the state's largest city, "the Pittsburg of the South," only the other day voted itself into a dry town. As a result of the Birmingham election the state legislature, which convenes in November, is practically certain to pass a state prohibition law.

The movement is particularly strong in the south because of the negro question. White southerners, who do the voting, have about concluded that they would rather go without whiskey themselves than have it and let the negroes have it, too.

"Hooziog negroes won't work and often turn dangerous."

The government long ago decided Grewater was bad medicine for the Indians. And now it seems that the whites are beginning to argue that what is bad for black men and red men is bad for white men too.

The condition of the prohibition movement in the various states is as follows:

Alabama—Majority of counties dry.

Arkansas—Two-thirds of population live in dry territory. License majority of 52,000 in 1894, has changed to an aggregate majority of 16,000 for prohibition in 1906.

California—Four dry counties and much dry territory in other counties. Prohibition sentiment increasing rapidly, judging by recent local elections.

Colorado—Precinct and township option law secured this year.

Connecticut — Town local option; ninety-six no license to seventy-two license towns.

Delaware — Half a dozen dry towns. The three political divisions of the state vote separately on license or no license in November, 1907.

Florida—Thirty-seven dry counties out of forty-five. Gov. Broward out for state prohibition.

Georgia — Prohibition law passed Aug. 5, 1907, to take effect Jan. 1, 1908.

Idaho—Licenses. Sunday law only, passed in 1905.

Illinois —Probably 600 dry towns. Local option law recently passed. Two dry counties.

Indiana—Half of population in dry territory.

Iowa—Sixty-five out of ninety-nine counties dry. Eleven other counties have only one saloon town apiece.

Kansas—Prohibition since 1880. Of the 105 counties in the state, only 21 have any paupers; thirty-five have their jails absolutely empty; thirty-seven have no criminal cases on their dockets. After Maine, Kansas spends more money relatively to population for schools than any state in the union.

Kentucky—Ninety-one out of 119 counties dry. Only four counties wholly wet. Saloons closed on Sundays.

Louisiana—Seven-eighths of the country districts dry. Orders may not be solicited or received in dry territory. Local prohibition sentiment of any of southern states.

Maine—Prohibition law enforced in nine-tenths of the state. Maine was in 1855, the year it went dry, one of the most drunken and poorest of states. In 1909 it had more banks and $22,000,000 more money deposited in them than the wide open state of Ohio with six times as many people. Maine, without $1 of revenue from the saloon, has more schools to every 10,000 of her people and more banks in proportion to her school population than any other of the forty-five states. Maine newspapers have largest circulation in proportion to population in the union.

Massachusetts — Local option by [illegible] towns, 250 dry and 100 wet. Laws strict and well enforced.

Michigan—County option with a few dry counties. No chance to vote by smaller units. If county votes wet, [illegible] dry vote in smaller units.

FEWER ARRESTS IN MISSOURI.

Missouri—Forty-seven out of 114 counties now dry as against three dry counties in 1905. Sunday arrests have decreased 1 55 per cent. in St. Louis and 75 per cent. in Kansas City since enforcement of Sunday closing law throughout state by Governor Folk. In this fall's elections eleven counties went dry and one, Benton, went by a majority of only 68.

Montana—Idaho.

Woman Drowns Five Children One by One in a Small Bath Tub

London, Nov. 10.—A tragic story was told at the inquest at Rodlington, near Blyth of the death of Sarah Short, whose mutilated body was found on the railway at Cramlington, on the night of October 9, while her five children, whose ages range from seven and a half years to nine months were discovered dead in bed at their father's house, having apparently been drowned.

A domestic servant, Eleanor Elliott, said that after Mr. Short went to work at the pit on the morning of October 9, Mrs. Short told witness she could have the afternoon off as she (the deceased woman) intended visiting a friend at Stakeford with the children. When witness returned at four o'clock in the afternoon she found the door locked. Jane Wilson widow, living next door to Short's house, said she saw the deceased woman carrying pails of water into the house from a back lane about one o'clock in the afternoon. The landlord was doing some repairs outside the house. Witness noticed the blinds were down about 1.30, when she saw Mrs. Short leave home, going in the direction of the railway station.

John Heron, the landlord stated that he saw Mrs. Short carry pails of water into the house while he was working outside. He noticed the boy, Thomas, aged two, standing about, but witness did not see the other children. About three o'clock Mrs. Short took Thomas into the house and locked the door. Witness remained about twenty minutes longer, but heard no noise or disturbance of any sort.

The mother of the bereaved husband found the children in bed in an upstairs room on the following day. They were placed two at the top of the bed, two at the foot, and one crosswise.

A constable found a brick and a bootlace in the bottom of a tub three-parts full of water at the foot of the stairs. The children's clothes were wet.

Dr Hope said the children's death was due to drowning. Regarding the mother, he expressed the opinion that she had developed homicidal mania in consequence of ill-health. Mrs. Short had complained of severe pains in the head. It was a peculiarity of homicidal maniacs to destroy those nearest and dearest to them. The cord found in the water had not been used. There were no marks of violence on the bodies of the children, nor were there any traces of poison.

His opinion was that the children had been immersed one by one in the tub until they were suffocated.

Evidence having been given of the finding of the deceased woman's body on the railway line, the jury returned a verdict of wilful murder against Mrs. Short, and agreed that the woman had committed suicide while of unsound mind.

PETERBORO RUNNER WON TORONTO 5 MILE RACE

Ernie Wilson Defeats T. Coley, Winner of Hamilton Road Race

Did Five Miles in Twenty Seven Minutes Saturday

Once more Peterborough will receive the plaudits of the Canadian press for good work done by her sons, whether on track, ball grounds or water, as on Saturday night Ernie Wilson of this city, in the Toronto Armory, defeated Tom Coley, the Irish-Canadian crack in a five-mile race. Wilson's time was 27 minutes, and at the end of the contest, was fresh and looked fit to go more. He and his trainer Dick Baker on their arrival in Toronto, were given a hearty welcome, although Coley was a favorite in the betting. There was a very large audience present at the race and considerable money changed hands.

It will be remembered that Wilson won the Thanksgiving Day Lakefield to Peterborough road race, although pretty closely pushed by Fen Howard of Hiawatha. Howard was expected to have gone to Toronto to enter in the race with Wilson and Coley, but at the last minute changed his mind and decided not to go.

Tom Coley, Wilson's opponent, made a plucky fight Saturday evening but was not fast enough for the latter. Coley's great win in the Hamilton Herald's road race Thanksgiving Day, put him favorite in the odds, and after his defeat of Simpson in that race his admirers thought him a faster long distance runner than the Indian Longboat, who won the Boston Marathon race, and also the Montreal Star's fifteen mile race on Saturday afternoon in one hour, and twenty-seven seconds.

GENERAL BOOTH'S FAREWELL TO AMERICA

Gen. Booth's Parting Words

"Farewell, America. Fain would I have stayed longer with you. I would have wished that some method might have been invented by which I could have been constituted one of your sons, and so taken a practicable step toward that fatherhood of the people which must of necessity be the first step to that brotherhood of nations, on which so many hearts are set. But I understand this to be impossible without sacrificing my fatherland."

GENERAL BOOTH.

Wishes He Could Remain in the Flesh, as He Will in the Spirit

Father of the Salvation Army Sails for Europe

New York, N.Y., Nov. 10.—With upward pointing right index finger preaching a final silent sermon of devotion, while his aged-wrinkled face was wreathed in smiles, General William Booth, the father of the Salvation Army, sailed yesterday morning on the steamer St. Louis for Europe. At the pier to bid him farewell were about a hundred of the leading staff officers of the United States, representing all sections of the country. Gen. Booth stood on the middle deck of the steamer with his personal staff, consisting of Commissioner Nicol and Colonels Lamby, Hillum and Cox, and as the vessel moved out into the stream he could say repeatedly in response to the cheers, cries of respect, devotion and admiration and the waving of Salvation Army and American flags on the part of his followers.

It was remarked by the officers who were with Gen. Booth during his last hours in America that he was in unusually good physical condition, and he expressed the hope yesterday morning that in spite of the fact that he was nearly 80 years old he would again be privileged to visit this country.

Gen Booth and his party will proceed direct to Berlin, where on Monday, the 18th inst., he will begin a lengthy campaign in the German empire.

Interesting Meeting of Local W.C.T.U.--Stirring Address by Mrs. McGee

Yesterday afternoon the fine new hall of the Peterborough Conservatory of Music was well filled by those interested in temperance matters. Mayor McWilliams occupied the chair and made a short address of welcome, expressing his interest in the future prospects of the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

The program of the afternoon was opened by a song service led by Rev. J. G. Potter. A very attractive program was presented including addresses by several of the local clergy, and solos by Master Harold Hacket. Miss Reesor and others.

The great feature of the meeting was a stirring and eloquent address by Mrs. McGee, of Minden, general organizer of the W.C.T.U. of Ontario. This lady who is a forcible and argumentative speaker, gave a most interesting account of her objects and aims of the association and her words will doubtless result in a lively interest being taken, as was in fact assured yesterday, in the W.C.T.U.

It was decided to hold meetings on the last Friday of each month. The meeting place to be decided upon will be noted in these columns as soon as a definite conclusion is attained.

Wandering Preachers Arouse Norwood's Ire

Two wandering preachers, without either name or church connection of any kind, are being permitted by the trustees of the North School to hold meetings there every night. Their talk seem to consist of a perfect tirade of abuse of everybody they can think of, either dead or alive. Their bold onslaught upon the names of some of the prominent citizens of this locality is so violent, that these gentry are advised to remember that defamation of character is punishable in the courts of this country.—Norwood Register.

Says Rheumatism is not Incurable Now

Science Says It is a Symptom of Infective Kidneys

Recent hospital reports show that the dread disease, rheumatism, is steadily increasing throughout the country. All known means of relief is being suggested to save the great amount of suffering this winter, especially among those who are not in a position to pack up and drink the noted health resorts to be treated. Recent tests prove rheumatism not exactly a disease in itself, but a severe symptom of kidney trouble a condition caused by clogged up pores of the eliminative tissues in the kidneys which fail to filter the poisonous waste matter and uric acid from the blood, permitting these substances to remain in the veins and decompose, usually settling about the joints and muscles causing the intense pain, swelling and stiffness of rheumatism.

There are numerous remedies known which many persons believe will relieve this suffering—salicilate of soda, colchicum, potash, etc.—but these drugs are terribly hard on the stomach, often ruining this most import organs, and they fail as often as they relieve.

A well-known specialist, who has probably treated more cases of rheumatism than anyone else, and who is also the most successful, gives the following simple treatment, which is harmless and inexpensive, and so simple that anybody can mix it at home.

The ingredients are Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Go to any good prescription pharmacy and get these three vegetable ingredients and mix them by shaking in a bottle, taking as a dose a teaspoonful after each meal and again at bedtime.

There is nothing better in the world for backache, kidney and bladder trouble, too. Such symptoms as frequent and painful urination, soreness, weakness, general run down nervous debility are caused by certain acids and poisonous waste matter, decayed tissue, etc., in the blood, which the kidneys will clear and purify after a few doses of this prescription.

19,000 Russian Revolutionists Killed

London, Nov. 10.—The Russian revolution goes on with all its tragic, terrible accompaniments. Just at present the Reactionaries seem to be in complete ascendency. The new Douma, preliminary elections for which were held early in September, will meet in a few days. It will be an ultra-conservative body if the election law is carried out as its framers intended it to be. The peasants will have but small representation, the landlords almost everything. It is true that among these landlords there are many progressive, liberal-minded men, but the majority of them are opposed to anything but the most gradual change of the existing regime. Meanwhile the "pacification" of the empire goes on. Reports of Jewish massacres continue to come with startling frequency. Official statistics regarding the revolutionary movement in its progress during the year just show that the total number of victims of violence has been 47,050, of whom 19,144 were killed. There were 7,962 anti-Jewish riots, 4,540 anti-Armenian riots, 2,193 mutinies, and 533 agrarian uprisings. The revolutionaries assassinated eighty-three generals or governors, sixty-one precepts, and 8,079 officials of various other ranks. The government, for its part, carried out sentences of death upon 2,381 persons, and since Jan. 1 of the present year, sent more than 60,000 "politicals" to Siberia. Such has been the cost in human life of the nominal suppression of Russia's latest revolutionary movement. The Finns would seem to be able to retain their dearly-bought liberties. The present year has seen new grants made to the Finnish Diet, including the control of taxes, loans, and other expenditures.

Militia Orders Of Local Interest

The last militia orders from Ottawa contain the following notes of local interest:

3rd Prince of Wales Canadian Dragoons. General order 133, August 1906, under the above heading, is amended to read; Lieut.-Col. H. S. Wood is transferred to the reserve of officers (Engineers).

Regimental Medical Services. 3rd Prince of Wales, Canadian Dragoons —To be Captain, Lieut. T. Douglas—29th June, 1907.

Death of Mrs. Louis Meehan

We regret to say that on Saturday morning a local lady, with a large circle of friends, in the person of Mrs. Louis Meehan, after nearly two years illness from pernicious anaemia, passed away.

The deceased was a daughter of Mr. George Smith, Bobcaygeon, and had been living in Peterborough since her marriage. The deceased leaves behind her to mourn her loss her husband and two sons, Hubert and Norman, both of Peterborough. The funeral will take place from the family residence 208 Rink street, today to Little Lake cemetery.

Pleasant Summer

Right Food the Cause

A Wis. woman says:

"I was run down and weak, troubled with nervousness and headache for the last six years. The least excitement would make me nervous and cause severe headache.

"This summer I have been eating Grape-Nuts regularly and feel better than for the six years past. I am not troubled with headache and nervousness, and weigh more than I ever have before in my life. I gained 6 lbs in one week."

Mr. D. Milligan, Millbrook, Shot

On Saturday the last mortal remains of Mr. David Milligan, a well known resident of Millbrook, passed through the city to that village for interment. It seems that the late Mr. Milligan whilst out deer hunting near Minden, and just about to put the hounds out, was killed instantly by a stray rifle ball which passed through his head. Only one man of the party with Mr. Milligan saw the catastrophy, which occurred only a short distance from camp, the rest of the party being absent at the runways. He leaves a wife and family to mourn his loss.

County Court

It seems that our red brothers and tangle leg do not get along together like "little birds in their nests."

On Saturday two of the descendants of the original owners of George and Henry Taylor, who pleaded guilty to being absent by at a meeting of the Chemong Indian Council, were each fined by his worship Magistrate Bonnison, $5 and costs amounting to $11.40.

The charge against A. Crouter for keeping a dog that was [illegible] sheep belonging to Mr. W. G. Bowden, was settled out of court, Mr. Crouter consented to do away with the canine.

VERY PREVELENT IN YOUNG WOMEN

A Condition of "White-Bloodedness" is Fast Increasing.

It is always associated with languor and sensitiveness to cold. All the mucous surfaces, such as the gums, lips and eyelids, are blanched and waxy looking, the skin is pallid and colorless.

The pulse becomes rapid and feeble; there is also loss of appetite and effective digestion, palpitation of the heart, breathless and tendency to faint. In extreme cases there is complete disappearance of the menses, a flow and dropsical swelling of the limbs.

Physicians know of no remedy so prompt in results as Ferrozone, which contains all the elements lacking in debilitated blood.

Ferrozone not only improves the present quality of the blood, but actually forms more blood—the rich, red kind that nourishes and feeds the organs that require assistance.

"About a year ago," writes Mrs. O. Stanhope, of Rothesay, "my daughter complained of feeling tired. She was very pale and listless, and kept losing strength until too weak to attend school.

"We read of a similar case, that of Miss Decent, Stirling, Ont., being cured by Ferrozone, and this induced us to get it for Elaine. It took three boxes of Ferrozone to make any decided improvement, but when six boxes were used my daughter was beginning to be her old self again. It didn't take much longer to make a complete cure. It has made a new girl of Elaine. She has gained ten pounds in weight and looks the picture of perfect health. She is stronger and enjoys the best of spirits."

Every growing girl and young woman can make herself strong and healthy with Ferrozone. Price 50c. per box, or six for $2.50, at all dealers.

CANADIAN MUNICIPALITIES

A report just issued gives some interesting statistics on population, assessed values, taxation and debts of municipalities in the Province of Ontario. According to this the population 2,141,771, is an increase of 40,317 over 1906, and a decrease of 1,176 from 1901, when the last census was taken. The rural population is 1,264,544; urban 567,-283; village 309,944. The population of the cities during the year has increased 28,780. In the rural districts there was a decrease of 2,174. The urban or town population shows an increase for the year of 967,511. This indicates that the shifting of the population is from the country to the town and city.

The total assessed valuation for the province is $1,166,543,822 and the taxes imposed upon this valuation for all purposes, including schools, were $13,-013,206, or at the rate of 16.3 mills on the dollar, or $6.41 per capita. The rate in the rural district is 16.9 mills, or $6.07 per head; in the town, 22.6 mills, or $8.18 per head, in the city, 27.6 mills or $12.86 per head. The per capita tax is $4.87 higher in the city than in the town and $6.78 higher per head than in the rural districts. Ontario has eighteen cities with a population ranging from 10,000 to 350,730. The assessed valuation for taxable purposes of the cities is $330,163,694. Upon this a tax of $14,142,332 was levied during the year 1906. The bonded indebtedness of the eighteen cities is $51,138,067, or $93 per head.

THE HUNTING SEASON

The slaughter of men in mistake for deer began in the Canadian woods early in the shooting season, but evidently in the shooting season, but evidently the law was changed holding everyone criminally responsible for such misfortune. It is no longer a valid excuse that the dear slayer who killed a man for a buck "did not know" and could not discern the difference. He must learn to discriminate or take the consequences of such mistakes.

A terrible instance of the kind had happened over the border. In New York State, where a father and son chanced to meet in a runway were shot at twice by a "sport" who had fakey "buck fever", with fatal effects.

At this season, the lure of the wild woods is irresistible to the man with a gun. Our forests are most attractive in the gorgeous colorings of the trees, shrubs and wild flowers, the absence of thorny growths, the freedom from poisonous reptiles and flies and the scarcity of bloodthirsty beasts. If in "early in the deep recesses that "the wolf's long howl" is heard, and there he is listened for the beauty on his song as religiously that he is getting too skittish to be dangerous.

The greatest peril is from "the man with a gun", who thinks himself a "hunter" but with eyes unused to the sights and sounds of the forest. Intent on striking a "big", and eager to do all he can in the time at his disposal, hungry away at everything that moves, whether it be a man or some one of the lower animals, sometimes at himself by hauling the weapon muzzle foremost from a canoe or through a fence on hearing the leaves rustle or seeing in fancy some other mark than a barn door.

The result has been in past years a long list of maimings and fatalities at the hunting season. Warnings seemed to be of no avail to this class of sportsmen, who went out to shoot but not infrequently came back shot, going out to get a lion's skin, being killed in hunting him.

It is hoped that the new interpretation of the law will cause every slayer of his fellow men in mistake for a deer" answerable at law to a charge of murder or manslaughter will cause greater care to be exercised in future.

INDUSTRIAL EDUCATION

The subject of industrial education is beginning to attract considerable attention in Ontario, and its importance cannot well be overlooked. The adjustment and regulation of a rational amount of industrial training with the regular school curriculums continues to be a point under discussion in the United States. Nothing which affords very material help has recently been elaborated by our neighbors, but the state of Massachusetts in the appointment of an industrial commission has taken a step which has attracted wide attention, and which may result in material benefit. This commission, appointed by the governor, consists of five persons, who are to serve for a term of three years and receive such compensation as the governor and council shall approve. An appropriation of $8,000 therefor for the first fiscal year is provided for the necessary clerk hire, administrative and incidental expenses, travelling expenses, etc. The commission is charged with the duty of making an investigation of the needs of industrial training and of local needs, and to advise and aid in the introduction of industrial education in independent schools. It is empowered to provide for lectures on the importance of industrial education, and kindred subjects and to visit and report on any special schools in which such education is carried on. It may also initiate and superintendent the establishment and maintenance of industrial schools for boys and girls with the co-operation and consent of the municipality involved, and shall have all necessary powers for the conduct and maintenance of such industrial schools, and the moneys appropriated by the state or municipality for their maintenance are to be expended under the direction of the commission. The latter is also given power to provide for the establishment of evening schools, and is required to make an annual report to the legislature upon the condition and progress of industrial education.

This act places in the hands of the industrial commission unprecedented powers in the matter of control of schools of whatever nature for training in commerce and industry. The extent of its work is limited only by its ability to persuade municipalities and towns to establish and organize such schools. The experiment will be watched with great interest, and the first annual report of the commission to the legislature should be of great value in determining a question which at present is occupying a great share of the attention of educators.

Student Fights Versus Hazing

Raleigh, N.C., Nov. 7.—A recent case of hazing at the State Agricultural and Mechanical College here caused President Winston of that college to reprove the student body, and in his remarks he advised a man-to-man fight in the open. As a result of this the freshman class sent a challenge to the sophomores to meet them for a test of prowess on the athletic field. Accordingly there was a mass fight Wednesday afternoon, with about seventy-five on each side. Lieutenant Young, U.S.A., the commandant, and members of the junior and senior classes were present, and allowed no fighting on the ground, and the match passed without serious injury to any of the participants.

This afternoon the sophomores invited the freshmen to battle, when a fierce struggle ensued, and there were many injured on both sides. There were sixty-five men on a side, and the noses of four cadets were broken, a number of eyes were blackened and many faces scratched. It is understood that another fight will take place tomorrow.

The opposing sides line up, rush at each other and fight at will, but rough-and-tumble tactics are barred. President Winston and Lieutenant Young believe this will do away with hazing. Many friends of the college here condemn it.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency of the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother).

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself or mother must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

TENDERS FOR PULPWOOD CONCESSIONS

Tenders will be received by the undersigned up to and including the 16th of December next for the right to cut pulpwood on certain areas tributary to the Nepigon river, in the district of Thunder Bay, and Rainy Lake, in the district of Rainy River, and make the same into paper. Tenderers should state the amount they are prepared to pay as bonus in addition to such dues as may from time to time be fixed for the right to operate a paper making industry on the areas referred to. Separate tenders must be made for each area or territory, and the successful tenderers will be required to erect a mill or mills on each of the territories or in such other localities as may be approved by the Government of Ontario.

Parties tendering for the pulpwood rights shall accompany their tenders with a marked cheque for 25 per cent of the amount tendered, payable to the Treasurer of Ontario, and to be forfeited in the event of their failing to enter into agreements to carry out conditions, etc.

With respect to the Rainy Lake Pulp Concession, tenderers will be required to make a tender for the right to cut the pine, tamarac and cedar on the territory offered. Parties making tender for these timbers to state the amount they are prepared to pay per thousand feet B.M. as bonus in addition to Crown dues of $2.00 per thousand feet B.M. A marked cheque for $5,000.00 payable to the Treasurer of Ontario must accompany the tender for pine timber, and can be forfeited in the event of their failing to enter into agreements to carry out conditions, etc.

No timber shall be cut under the concessions of a less diameter than nine inches, two feet from the ground.

The successful tenderers to enter into agreements with the Government for the erection of the mills, expenditure of money, etc.

For full particulars as to the conditions, etc., application should be made to the undersigned.

AIKENSIDE

BY MARY J. HOLMES

Author of "Dora Deane," "The English Orphans," "Lena Rivers," "The Rector of St. Mark's," "Tempest and Sunshine," Etc.

"Refused you, did you say?" and Guy's face certainly looked brighter than it had before since he left the doctor with Maddy Clyde.

"Yes, refused me, as I might have known she would," was the doctor's reply spoken so naturally that Guy looked up quickly to see if he really did not care.

But the expression of the face belied the calmness of the voice; and, touched with genuine pity, Guy asked the cause of the refusal—"preference for anyone else, or what?"

"No, there was one whom she preferred. She merely did not like me well enough to be my wife, that was all," the doctor said, and then he tried to talk of something else; but it would not do. The wound was yet too fresh and sore to be covered up, and in spite of himself the bearded chin quivered and the manly voice shook as he bade good-by to Guy, and then went galloping down the avenue.

Great was the consternation among the doctor's patients when it was known that their pet physician—the one in whose skill they had so much confidence—was going to Europe, where in Paris he could perfect himself in his profession. Some cried, and among them Agnes; some said he knew enough already; some tried to dissuade him from his purpose; some wondered at the sudden start, while only two knew exactly why he was going—Guy and Maddy; the former approving his decision and lending his influence to make his tour abroad as pleasant as possible; and the latter weeping bitterly as she thought how she had sent him away, and that if aught befell him on the sea or in that distant land, she would be held amenable. Once there came over her the wild impulse to bid him stay, to say that she would be his wife; but, ere the rash act was done, Guy came down to the cottage, and Maddy's resolution gave way at once.

It would be difficult to tell the exact nature of Maddy's liking for Guy at that time. Had he offered himself to her she would probably have refused him even more promptly than she did the doctor; for, to all intents and purposes, he was, in her estimation, the husband of Lucy Atherstone. As such, there was no harm in making him her paragon of all male excellence; and Guy would have felt flattered could he have known how much he was in that young girl's thoughts. But now for a few days he had a rival, for Maddy's thoughts were all given to the doctor, who came down to see her once before starting for Europe. She did not cry while he was there, but her voice was strange and hoarse as she gave him messages for Lucy Atherstone; and all that day her face was white and sad, as are the faces of those who come back from burying their dead.

Only once after the party did she go up to Aikenside, and then, summoning all her fortitude, she gave back to Guy the bracelets and the necklace, telling him she ought not to wear them; that ornaments as rich as these were not for her; that her grandmother did not wish her to keep them, and he must take them back. Guy saw she was in earnest, and much against his will he received again the ornaments he had so gladly purchased.

"They would do for Jessie when she was older," Maddy said; but Guy thought it very doubtful whether Jessie would ever have them. They were something he had bought for Maddy, something she had worn, and as such they were too sacred to be given to another. So he laid them away beside the picture guarded so carefully from everyone.

Two weeks afterward Aikenside presented again a desolate, shut-up appearance, for Agnes, Maddy and Jessie had returned to New York; Agnes to continue the siege which, in despair of winning the doctor, she had commenced against a rich old bachelor, who had a house on Madison Square; and Maddy to her books, which, seeing obliterated, in a measure, the bitter memory of all that had transpired during her winter vacation.

CHAPTER XVII.

Two years pass quickly, particularly at school, and to Maddy Clyde, talking with her companions of the coming holidays, it seemed hardly possible that two whole years were gone since the eventful vacation when Dr. Holbrook had so startled her by offering her his hand. He was in Europe still, and another name than his was on the little office in Mrs. Conner's yard. To Maddy he now wrote frequently; friendly, familiar letters, such as a brother might write, never referring to the past, but telling her whatever he thought would interest and please her. Occasionally at first, and more frequently afterward, he spoke of Margaret Atherstone, Lucy's younger sister, a brilliant, beautiful girl who reminded him, he said, of Maddy, only she was sunnier, and more of a tease; not at all like Lucy, whom he described as something perfectly angelic. Her twenty-fifth birthday found her on a sick-bed, with Dr. Holbrook in attendance, and this was the reason given why the marriage between herself and Guy was again deferred. There had been many weeks of pain, succeeded by long, weary months of languor, and during all this time the doctor had been with her as the family physician, while Margaret also had been constantly in attendance. But Lucy was much better now. She could sit up all day, and even walk a little distance, assisted by the doctor and Margaret, whose name had come to be almost as familiar to Maddy as was that of Lucy. And Maddy, in thinking of Margaret, sometimes wondered "if——" but never went any farther than that. Neither did she ask Guy a word about her, though she knew he must have seen her. She did not say much to him of Lucy, but she wondered why he did not go for her, and wanted to talk with him about it, but he was so changed that she dared not. He was not sociable, as of old, and Agnes did not hesitate to call him cross, while Jessie complained that he never romped or played with her now, but sat all day long in a deep reverie of some kind.

On this account Maddy did not look forward to the coming vacation as joyfully as she would otherwise have done. Still, it was always pleasant going home, and she sat talking with her young friends of all they expected to do, when a servant entered the room, and glancing over the group of girls, singled Maddy out, saying, as he placed an unsealed envelope in her hand, "A telegram for Miss Clyde."

There was a blur before Maddy's eyes, so that at first she could not see clearly, and Jessie, climbing on the bench beside her, read aloud:

"Your grandmother is dying. Come at once. Agnes and Jessie will stay till next week.

"Guy Remington."

It was impossible to go that afternoon, but with the earliest dawn she was up, and unmindful of the snow falling so rapidly, started on that sad journey home. It was the first genuine storm of the season, and it seemed resolved on making amends for past neglect, sweeping in furious gusts against the windows, sifting down in thick masses from the leaden sky, and so impeding the progress of the train that the chill wintry night had closed gloomily in ere the Somerville station was reached, and Maddy, weary and dispirited, stepped out upon the platform, glancing anxiously around for the usual omnibus, which she had little hope would be there on such a night. If not, what should she do? This had been the burden of her thoughts for the last few hours, for she could not expect Guy to send out his horses in this fearful storm, much less to be there himself. But Guy was there, and it was his voice which first greeted her as she stood half-blinded by the snow, uncertain what she must do next.

"All Hands Abandon Ship!"

A naval officer thus describes the realistic "All hands abandon ship" drill: "Two minutes after the word has been passed every ship's boat has swung from its davits into the water, and a minute later every boat is thoroughly provisioned and watered. Within four minutes and often in much quicker time every man of the ship's company, from the commanding officer down, is occupying the station in the boat called for by his ship's number, and then the command 'Sheer off!' is given. The boats are hauled away a couple of hundred feet from the deserted vessel, and she rides without a human soul aboard her, often when the drill is gone through in midocean in a sea that the landsman would account terrific. Then the word 'Board!' is passed, and within eight minutes at the most all hands are not only on board again, but every boat has been relashed to the davits, all of the provisions, water, instruments and other gear have been removed, and the ship's company is in a fair way to get to sleep again."

Origin of "Hello, Bill!"

Why do the Elks yell "Hello, Bill!" It's this way: Back in 1894, when there was a schism in the organization, the two factions met in Atlantic City for a peace parley. At the time William G. Myers of this city, Philadelphia's only past grand exalted ruler, was the grand esteemed leading knight and one of the most popular men in the order. To get his advice and greet him hundreds of Elks congregated at the Atlantic City station to meet Mr. Myers. All the members were at high tension. When Bill Myers stepped off the car Delegate Stack of St. Paul, a big six footer, shouted, "Hello, Bill!" and the crowd took up the salutation with a hearty laugh, and from that day to this "Hello, Bill!" is so universally used among Elks that it has virtually become official. To the good natured feeling which had its outward expression in Stack's greeting to Bill Myers is ascribed the reconciliation.—Philadelphia Press.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not the cause of the disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Headache, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain stomach nerve weakness—nothing else.

Now, this fact first correctly led Dr. Shoop to the invention of that now very popular stomach Remedy, Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, about which little was known, and prior to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative, without that original and highly vital principle, such stomach remedies were only for the relief of symptoms.

For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, breath and palate complexions, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend

ANTIGUA GOLD-COPPER Co.

Offers the Biggest and Most Attractive Mining Investment Now Before the Public.

ITS HOLDINGS ARE MINES--NOT PROSPECTS

With Vast Bodies of Ore Ready for the Mill, Now Nearing Completion.

THOMAS W. LAWSON

"Copper stocks offer the biggest opportunity for money making in the world to-day. A good copper mine is really a safe-deposit vault of stored up dividends which cannot be stolen or destroyed by fire, flood or famine."

CECIL RHODES

said: "Mining offers greater inducements than any other business in the world to make quick and great wealth."

CHARLES M. SCHWAB

says: "The big fortunes of the next twenty-five years will come from Mother Earth." Among all mining investments none stand ahead of copper for safety, permanency and profit.

Lay the Foundation for Your Fortune Today

THE ANTIGUA PROPERTIES

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company holdings consist of 531 acres, situated in Honduras, Central America, 100 miles southeast from Puerto Cortes, and midway between New Orleans and Panama. Development work is being pushed with all possible speed, and more than 1,500 feet of tunneling and shaft work has been completed. A 40 to 50-ton capacity gold-silver mill is in course of construction, and will be in operation before the close of the year.

Development work has conclusively proven that every acre of our holdings are rich in gold, copper and silver, and that every ton of this great ore body will yield a handsome profit on milling expense. The ore exposed on the surface does not require mining in the usual sense of the term, but may be obtained by quarrying. It can, according to estimates of experts, be quarried and treated for the gold and silver on an expensive scale at a cost of less than $1.00 a ton. Think of it! A solid mountain of rich ore, from the very grass roots of which may be washed gold.

Beyond a doubt Honduras has beneath her soil larger, richer deposits of copper, gold and silver than any other section of the American continent. Spain, during her sovereignty in that country, took out more than $300,000,000 in gold alone—and she scarcely scraped the Earth's surface. There is evidence that the pre-historic races knew how to mine and utilize copper—smelting it in their crude way.

The original incorporators of the Antigua Gold-Copper Company spent thousands of dollars of their own money in bringing this property to its present stage of development. They opened up the mine on every side with tunnels, crosscuts and shafts. They purchased machinery and began the erection of a gold-silver mill—now nearing completion. These men appreciated from the first that this mine was destined to become one of the greatest copper-gold-silver properties in America; and that it justified more extensive and more rapid development than they were able to make without the co-operation and financial assistance of the public.

WHY STOCK IS SOLD

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company finds itself in precisely the same position as the farmer who has a larger farm than he can cultivate with the capital in hand. He knows that with additional capital and assistance he could make the land yield abundant crops and enormous profits. In the same way we intend, by the investment of additional capital, to bring our enormous ore bodies to a highly profitable state of development at the earliest possible moment. For this reason a limited amount of treasury stock is offered the public. In this way funds will be available for immediate use in purchasing additional machinery and for continuing vigorous development of the property.

REPORT OF AN EXPERT

Much weight can justly be given the statement of a properly qualified and reliable mining engineer. Such is the character of T. W. Foster, from whose report on Antigua we make the following extracts:

"From the development work done and the indications shown by the croppings, I am convinced this is one of the largest gold-copper deposits in existence, and under proper development will make one of the richest mining properties in America. * * * I consider this ore an ideal smelting proposition, there being an abundance of iron, lime and silica in close proximity. There is plenty of water for power and milling purposes, and an abundance of timber on the property. * * *

"A large amount of development work has been done on this property in tunnels, drifts and shafts, ranging from 30 to possibly 200 feet in length. * * * This work has all been in ore—in fact, the ore body on the surface is shown to be fully one-half mile wide by two miles in length. To judge from the development work done, this property is all ore—no matter where work was started, ore was encountered.

"The company is erecting a mill, consisting of one five-stamp and three Huntingtons, to work the surface ore. This surface ore is mostly free milling, the copper and galena sulphides being oxidized, freeing the gold, and being readily amalgamated. But I am confident that at no very great depth copper sulphides will be encountered, as there are many places in this great ore body, where the sulphides crop to the surface. I have taken a dozen samples from various places on the lead, and from these made free gold tests, finding an average of over $4.00 a ton in FREE gold, and from 5 to 25 per cent copper. Native copper is frequently seen in this ore. If the Antigua mines continue in depth as on the surface, a 1,000 ton smelter will not work it out in 100 years. * * *

"* * * With good management and proper development, it will be but a short time until the stock of the company will be worth more than par. I fully believe that if this great ore body is properly developed there is a mine here worth many millions of dollars.

Something New in Copper

PITTSBURG - IDAHO

Mining and Milling Company

The mine is located 55 miles above Lewiston, Idaho, on the Clearwater river, and consists of 19 full claims, or 380 acres. It is developed by tunnels, shafts and open cuts for more than 2000 feet, disclosing thousands of tons of copper, gold and silver ores of both high grade and low grade. There are between 1000 and 2000 tons of ore ready for shipment. The entrance to the working tunnel is only 2000 feet from the track of the Northern Pacific railroad, to be reached by gravity tramway. There are seven parallel veins running lengthwise of the claims, one cropping out on the surface for 2000 feet and another for 3000 feet; while two veins cross these running into the mountain. These veins are from 30 to 200 feet wide. One ore chute has been crosscut 70 feet and is solid ore from wall to wall.

We are not asking you to buy in a prospect. That risk was taken by the promoters. We are asking you to buy in a developed, proven mine. Seven years of continuous work and the expenditure of dollars has proven up one of the greatest mines in Idaho. That mine is now ready to pour out its red and yellow wealth to the world with the installing of an up to date production plant. It is for this purpose that a block of its treasury stock, full paid and non-assessable, is offered for sale. We believe that within six months from the completion of a 100 ton plant the mine can be put on a dividend paying basis, and that those dividends will be substantial and permanent. There is no better investment proposition before the people at this time.

CAPITALIZATION $1,000,000. - PAR VALUE $1.

Jas. Schrum, of Dartmouth, Makes Valuable Discovery

Says the Most Obstinate Case of Stomach or Liver Trouble is Quickly Curable.

Dartmouth, N.S., Sept. 21.—There is a strong moral in the statement of James Schrum, of Pleasant street. Like thousands of people, he was failing in health because his stomach and digestive organs were out of repair. His vitality was slipping away, he was losing ground every day.

"I could not have held on much longer. I was wasting away simply because no remedy I used gave the tone and strength to my stomach that it craved for. The vital forces of my system seemed dead. I was advised to try Dr. Hamilton's Pills. What hidden weakness they searched out I don't know, but in a miraculous way they have made a new man of me. My stomach troubles are cured, rich blood now runs through my veins—clear skin and unmistakable evidences of health and vigor I feel every day. Dr. Hamilton's Pills have certainly mastered the source of curing the sickly enervated man and I strongly urge everyone in failing or lost health to use this grand remedy.

Dr Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut are purely vegetable—all the ingredients coming from the great store house of Nature, they can't help but Heal, Strengthen, Cure.

Lakefield Lookmaster's Escape from Death

Lockmaster McWilliams, of Lakefield, had as narrow an escape from death Friday evening as occurs during the progress of most men through this hard hearted and money-grasping vale of tears.

It seems that the break—the Lakefield Lock which occurred on Thursday, had been repaired by employing the services of a professional diver and on Friday night the damages were thought to have passed into ancient history. As the Lockmaster was busily engaged in turning the crank controlling the flow of water another unexpected break occurred and the handle of the crank suddenly flying round knocked the Lockmaster from his lofty perch into the lock below. In his long fall this official just missed striking a stone walling there, thus tumbling into the water.

Owing to the break referred to quite a fleet of local boats was laid up at Lakefield, including the Otonabee Navigation Company's steamer Water Lily with two stows of wood; steamer Dawn and stow of stone; Nicholls steam punt with empty stow; steamer Majestic with a crib of the Cavendish Lumber Co.; Steamer Rainbow with stow of bark and steamer Ajax with stow.

Feel "Stupid"

Brain Troubled by Coffee

People don't like to be considered stupid even if they feel that way, but many persons who persist in drinking coffee, year after year, have spells when they feel like thick ediots.

"I have been badly bothered with stomach trouble caused by coffee for many years," writes a Ky. man, "and many times felt like a "stupid", with a severe burning in my stomach after eating, and a great amount of sour belching."

"Four months ago I quit coffee and began to use Postum instead. I have had none of the old trouble since, have gained flesh and I don't think I have failed to eat a hearty meal since I quit coffee.

"I feel I can't praise Postum enough for the change it has made in me. I did not like it as well at first, didn't boil it enough, now we boil it according to directions on pkg., and I like it as well as coffee, which I shall never use again." Name given by Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich. Read the book, "The Road to Wellville", in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

City of Winnipeg in Need of Money

Winnipeg, Nov. 10.—In view of the probability that $4,500,000 of city debentures will have to be carried over until next spring, the promoters of several money bylaws are beginning to fear that the ratepayers will not approve of them.

Already the legislature actually authorized by law is as follows; Power plant, $3,250,000; gas plant, $600,000; Redwood bridge, $200,000; local improvements, $1,500,000; total, $5,550,000 Funds for these have to be provided, and in addition the floating indebtedness of the city, represented in bank loans, amounted to $3,924,755 on October 9 To this amount it is proposed to add another $740,000, as follows; Bathing station, $100,000; Brown and Brant street bridge, $240,000; play grounds, $200,000; abbattoirs and stock yards, $100,000; conduits, $100,000; total $740,000

When this list was shown to Acting Mayor Davidson, he said that he was opposed to the submission of any money bylaws at the forthcoming municipal elections for the reason that the city had enough on its hands at the present moment. "But as far as I can learn, there are more money bylaws to come," he added. Discussing with him the way in which taxes were being paid, he said that "the city was in good shape, and no better indication of this could be quoted than the fact that during October so far no less than $675,000 had been paid in taxes." But, although the people were paying their taxes promptly he was of the opinion that the city debts should not be added to until the present situation was cleared up somewhat.

In addition to the large expenditures authorized he said that they had $1,177,246 in debentures coming due in December To take care of these and at the same time pay off the current indebtedness was sufficient for the time being without the authorisation of any further expenditure.

Rare Opportunity in Copper Property

One of America's Richest Mines to be Exploited

For certain it has been known that the comparatively unknown countries of Central America are rich with ore bearing rock, from which in the days of Spanish Dominion galleons laden with gold, silver and other metals were shipped to the then naughty kingdom of Spain. Now however, vast deposits of rich copper ore have been discovered, the wealth of which, from the increasing demand for this metal, equals that of the gold and silver of former days

The Antigua Gold-Copper Co., owns and controls 631 acres of rich mineral lands in Honduras, 100 miles from Puerto Cortez, on the direct route between New Orleans and Panama, every acre of which is rich in gold, copper and silver, and on which much development work has already been accomplished More than 1,500 feet of tunnelling has been done and a city ton gold and silver mill is almost completed and will in a few weeks be in operation. The ore on the Company's property is most advantageously located and adapted to cheapest system of mining; it can be worked at approximately $1 per ton. The average assay of the Antigua ores from the surface to a depth of 200 feet shows over 5 per cent. of copper, or better than the world-famous Anaconda-Mines. The Antigua mine has in addition from $3 to $7 in gold and silver.

The Company owning this wonderfully rich property, for purposes of further and quick development are offering a limited number of Treasury Shares, par value $5, at $3.50 each, on easy terms of payment, and allows those who secure stock at the present price to participate in the advantages of such raises in price as take place whilst they are paying for said stock so secured. For full particulars write The Antigua Gold-Copper Co. 324 St. Charles street, New Orleans, La.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Former Local Teacher Dies in Los Angeles

Sudden Death of Mr. Geo. S. Beane Well Known Here

The many friends of Mr. Geo. S. Beane, Ph. D., who some years ago taught in the Peterborough Collegiate Institute will regret to learn that he died suddenly in Los Angeles, California, on Nov. 7th.

As well as causing regret here and in Toronto Prof. Beane's death caused great sorrow throughout Southern California. Dr. Beane was head of the department of physics and electrical engineering at the University of Southern California. In company with three of his children, who are attending the university, he left his home in the suburb of Barvanna, and ran to catch a street car. The effort was fatal, for Dr. Beane had hardly boarded the car when he fell and almost immediately expired.

Dr Beane leaves a widow and five children in California and his sister, Mrs. William Salisbury, formerly of this city, but now of Toronto, to mourn his loss.

What Ails You?

Do you feel weak, tired, despondent, have frequent headaches, coated tongue, bitter or bad taste in morning, "heartburn," belching of gas, acid risings in throat after eating, stomach gnaw or burn, foul breath, dizzy spells, poor or variable appetite, nausea at times and kindred symptoms?

If you have any considerable number of the above symptoms you are suffering from biliousness, torpid liver with indigestion, or kindred ills. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is made up of the most valuable medicinal principles known to medical science for the treatment cure of such abnormal conditions. It is a most efficient liver invigorator, stomach tonic, bowel regulator and nerve strengthener.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is not a patent medicine or secret nostrum, a full list of its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. A glance at its formula will show that it contains no alcohol, or harmful habit-forming drugs. It is a fluid extract made with pure, triple-refined glycerine, of proper strength, from the roots of the following native American forest plants, viz., Golden Seal root, Stone root, Black Cherrybark, Queen's root, Bloodroot, and Mandrake root.

The following leading medical authorities among a host of others, extol the foregoing roots for the cure of just such ailments as the above symptoms indicate: Prof. R. Bartholow, M. D., of Jefferson Med. College Phila.; Prof. H. C. Wood, M. D., of Univ. of Pa.; Prof. Edwin M. Hale, M. D., of Hahnemann Med. College, Chicago; Prof. John King, M. TERRIBLE TRAGEDY-- SUICIDE AND ATTEMPTED MURDER IN B. C.

Young American Cut His Own Throat After Shooting and Slashing the Girl Who Refused to Marry Him--Girl is in Hospital in Very Low State

Vancouver, B.C., Nov. 11. — "Are you going to marry me?" was the question that preceded the tragedy here last night, which resulted in the self murder of Sam Tota, an American, aged 25, while Lottie Dodds, aged 22, the girl he loved, lies at death's door in the hospital.

Tota was a cigar store assistant, carrying on his occupation between this city and Vancouver. He arrived yesterday, and, armed with a revolver and razor lay in wait for Miss Dodds, as she was going to church from St. Joseph's Hospital, where she was employed as a nurse. As she passed he sprang from his hiding place and confronted her, with the fatal question. She attempted to hurry past, when he fired two shots. These proving ineffective he pulled out the razor and commenced slashing the girl. Her screams brough assistance, when Tota turned the razor on himself and inflicted injuries from which he died at once.

The girl was carried to the hospital, where it was found that only the fur around her throat had saved her from instant death, such was the maniacal fury of her aggressor. She now lies in the hospital in a precarious condition.

The attentions of the dead man were directed towards the girl for over two years. When here he lodged in the house where she lived.

The London Election Bribery Cases to be Tried Monday

Toronto, Nov. 11.—The trial of Geo. M. Reid, John O'Gorman, Daniel Wiley and W. J. Molloy, charged with conspiracy in connection with the Hyman bye-election in London in June, 1905, has been set for Monday next before Judge Winchester without a jury. This date was named by his honor this morning after a brief argument on the application of the defendants to be tried by a judge on the grounds that they were not, at the time they appeared before the magistrate and committed for trial before a jury, given an opportunity to elect, and that they would be subjected to an unfair advantage if sent before a jury.

All four defendants were in court this morning. They were represented by Mr. E. F. B. Johnston, K.C., and Mr. George Wiley, while Mr. G. Lynch-Staunton, of Hamilton, appeared for the Crown, he having been Crown prosecutor before Mr. Justice Clute in January last when the grand jury returned the indictment.

Mr. Lynch-Staunton contended that section 823, sub-section 3, limited the right of the defendants to elect. He pointed out that where the judge or prosecuting officer was of opinion that it would not be serving the ends of justice to allow the prisoners to make a second election they should be proceeded against as if the first election had not been made.

"The Crown has no desire to take undue advantage," said Mr. Lynch-Staunton, "and I don't think I could urge before you any reason why it is not in the interests of justice that this case should not be tried before your honor. If I were satisfied that the case would proceed promptly, I would have no hesitation whatever if your honor's engagements will permit, to have it tried before you. I shall, however, reserve the right to interpose should anything turn up to postpone the case."

While not agreeing entirely with Mr. Lynch-Staunton's application of the section to the case, Mr. Johnston replied that he was just as anxious as any person that the trial should go on.

Judge Winchester suggested next Monday, and the day was agreed upon.

Counsel were of opinion that the intervening time would be ample in which to prepare the case, while the Crown will be in exactly the same position as if the case were going on at the assizes.

Over forty witnesses have already been summoned for the trial, and the number may eventually reach one hundred.

The defendants are still at liberty on their former bail. It is likely that new bonds will be required next Monday, and an effort will be made to place the bail in Toronto in order to do away with the necessity of London bondsmen coming to Toronto.

Charged with Defrauding the State Out of Several Millions of Dollars.

Rome, Nov. 12.—Before the senate, sitting as a high court of justice, the trial of Sig. Nunzio Nasi was commenced to-day, with Nasi, who formerly was minister of public instruction, on the stand.

Sig. Nasi, with Michael Lambardo, former under secretary of finance, are charged with defrauding the state out of several million lire. In addition to being Italy's first great "graft" scandal, the case has been made remarkable by the impeachment of the minister of public instruction, the first incident of the kind in the country's history. The trial has been preceded by great excitement through Italy and Sicily. Both the accused men are Sicilians, and there claim of innocence and charge of political persecution have led to the fear of a serious uprising in Sicily in the event of their conviction.

VACATION HUNT BY CHARGES.

The voting for and against the accused has been so great from the time the prosecution was determined upon that authorities allowed them to be imprisoned in their own homes instead of sending them to jail. This, however, did not prevent serious rioting in Sicily in the prisoners' favor, as well as at Reggio di Calabria. At one time the agitation in Sicily was so intense that 30 marks a were landed at Messina from the battleship Sardegna in order to maintain order, and artillery was posted in the streets of Palermo.

The Italian supreme Court of June last decided that the ordinary court was incompetent to try the charges against Nasi. This decision was celebrated throughout Sicily, and Nasi was given the freedom of his native town, Trapani. It finally was decided to try the two men before the senate, sitting as a high court of justice.

Sig. Nasi's appearance before that body yesterday furnished a remarkable spectacle. He did not appear as an accused man, but as a powerful and fascinating orator. During his speech many senators, including Visconti Venosta, left their seats and drew near his chair, the better to hear him.

ACCUSED MINISTER'S DEFENCE.

Sig. Nasi spoke eloquently for five hours. He denied all the accusations brought against him. He insisted that he be judged as a minister, and that the duties and responsibilities inherent to that position be taken into consideration. He maintained that what appeared to be peculations was in reality money spent for certain purposes that he would never reveal were it not necessary to do so for his own defence. He declared that part o f the money in question had been spent to succor the family of Deputy Voris, a republican, after his death, while other sums had been used to subvention a scholastic newspaper published in Milan to support the policy of the government in the matter of education.

Sig. Nasi then alluded to the money that had been paid out to carry on the government's plans for the peaceful penetration of Tripoli. This statement created a profound impression. Referring to Tripoli the speaker said:

"If Italy to-day did not have a single man on the shore opposite Sicily she would have to send men over to occupy this territory."

SIR CHAS. TUPPER,

Appointed to Imperial Privy Council.

Right Hon. Sir Charles Tupper, P.C., is the son of the late Rev. Charles Tupper, D.D., and was born at Aylesford, N.S., July 2, 1821. He was educated at Edinburgh University and for 14 consecutive times was returned as M.P., for his native county, Cumberland, N.S., which he represented for 31 years. He was premier of Nova Scotia at the time of Confederation, 1867, and entered the Dominion Cabinet in 1870. He was president of the Privy Council 1870-72, minister of inland revenue 1872-3, minister of customs 1873, minister of public works 1878-79, minister of railways and canals 1879-84, high commissioner to Canada in England 1883-87, minister of finance 1887-88 [illegible] appointed high commissioner 1888, and prime minister of the Dominion of Canada 1896. He is one of the few surviving fathers of Confederation.

D. J. Turner O.H.A. Pres.

Dwight J. Turner of Toronto, who was first vice-president of the Ontario Hockey Association last year, was today elected by acclamation as president for the season of 1907-8, the other nominee, J. C. Makins of Stratford, retiring from the contest.

All the leading offices are therefore filled by acclamation.

Wm. Wyndham of Toronto, formerly of Hamilton, was nominated for the council, but withdrew his name today. The nominations:

President—Dwight J. Turner, Toronto (acclamation).

First vice-president—Louis Blake, Duff of Welland (acclamation).

Second vice-president—H. E. Wettlaufer, Berlin (acclamation).

Secretary—W. A. Hewitt, Toronto (acclamation).

Treasurer—A. W. McPherson, Peterborough (acclamation).

Executive, four to be elected—J. W. Chowen, Stratford; J. L. Creasen, Cobourg; A. M. Edwards, Galt; H. B. Housser, Paris; Dr. G. E. Gilfillan, Uxbridge, Bert Short, Toronto; Dr. F. A. Weismiller, Parkdale.

The annual meeting will take place next Saturday morning at nine o'clock at the Temple Building. Delegates must be on hand half an hour earlier.

Desperate Men were Caught at the Soo-- "The Black Hand."

Sault Ste Marie, Ont., Nov. 11.—On Saturday afternoon the "Soo" police made two arrests which are considered by them to be the most important made here in years. The first man arrested was caught red-handed in the act of passing a forged check, and when arrested attempted to draw a revolver. The authorities are all but convinced that the men are the imitators of the "Black Hand" who have been operating here for two weeks. Their inability to raise money in the manner they hoped compelled them to adopt other means, leading to their undoing.

In the baggage taken with the men were found papers, railway guides, and other evidence showing that they had come to the "Soo" directly from Medicine Hat, from which place the letters to the "Soo" were mailed. The strongest evidence against the men, which the police hope will connect them directly with the crime, was the discovery of handwriting identical with that contained in the "Black Hand" letters.

Cold Storage Co. Is Now Assured

A company composed of Messrs. Geo. Lennert, of Lockport, N.Y., Jas. Ruth, F. Stabler, H. C. Stabler and W. A. Stabler of this city, have had the project of a large abbatoir and cold storage plant, under consideration for some time and are now prepared to proceed with the work. These gentlemen have an option on a suitable lot in the southern part of the city just outside the corporation, besides other locations approved of.

The company intend to go into the wholesale meat business and cold storage business. Should they, as expected, go ahead with their enterprise, a small if not medium or large fortune, awaits the result of their work. Such a business to absolutely requisite to the growing demands of this city's provision and meat merchants.

Mrs. Coleman Sustains A Severe Accident

A Warsaw despatch of yesterday says that a serious runaway took place in that village, owing to a broken horse's bit. The horse in question belongs to a nearby resident of Warsaw, Mr. D. Miller of Deure. It seems that Mr. and Mrs. Miller and the latter's mother, Mrs. Coleman were driving towards the Deure church when the bit broke just as the horse was crossing the bridge and the animal made a dash for liberty. The occupants were thrown out against a fence and Mrs. Coleman's collar bone broken.

The others were somewhat injured and the buggy badly smashed. Mrs. Coleman is the mother of Miss Coleman, assistant superintendent of the Nicholls hospital.

We are pleased to learn that the well known residents were not more seriously injured.

Peterboro Boy Left His Home

A boy of nine years who gave the name as Herbert Stokwinder, was found walking on the railroad track near Pontypool Sunday afternoon. Mr. Jas. Chambers first noticed him and thinking that he looked tired and hungry, brought him to his home, where he is at the present time. The lad said that he had walked from Peterborough and was on his way to Toronto, where his father was employed as a cooper. He said that he had lived with his aunt in this city but refused to give her name. The boy was comfortably dressed in a black overcoat and wore a red toque. Mr. Chambers informed the chief of police and friends of the boys in this city may communicate with Mr. Chambers. The lad is being well cared for.

The boy also carried a parcel containing a shirt and coat, and on the outside of the wrapper was endorsed, "James Leahy, Deure. For Berbby."

Local Ladies Have Narrow Escape

A few night's ago a serious accident occurred at a late hour near Christie's Corners. It seems that whilst returning home from Dundas, Messrs. A. L. and G. V. P. Shaver, in company with Mrs. Jas. Hewitt and Miss L. Lightheart, two young ladies from Peterborough, had a narrow escape. As the night was damp and rainy the horses were unable to keep the track.

In their endeavor to keep the road, they fell over an eleven foot embankment. The wagon was turned completely over, imprisoning the occupants under the heavy box. How all escaped serious injury is miraculous. As it was a few bruises were the lot of everyone. The horses ran away and after sometime were found in a deep ditch.

Girls' Guild Reception a Big Success

Congregation of St. John's Church Delightfully Entertained by the Young Ladies Last Night

A very pleasing function was held in the school house of St. John's church last night, when the members of the Girls' Guild, of which Miss Pratt is president, were at home to the congregation.

The building was very prettily decorated with curtains and draperies, which gave to the hall a comfortable and homelike appearance. These decorations were kindly loaned by Mr. Might, of J. C. Turnbull & Co.

The reception consisted of social intercourse, refreshments and an exceedingly acceptable program of instrumental and vocal selections, readings and recitations.

The entertaining numbers were generously contributed by Misses Sisson, Dawson and Fraser of the Peterborough Conservatory of Music, Mr. F. D. Kerr, Misses English, Mrs. Seward, Mr. C. Coleman, and Miss Lancaster. Rev. Dr. Langfeldt also kindly gave a neat address very appropriate to the event.

Rev. Canon Davidson was also present, and Mr. D. Hughes-Charles made a very acceptable chairman, who materially enhanced the pleasure of the evening with his affability and wit.

All Saints' Church Weekly Meetings

The Girls' Guild of All Saints' church met last night at 7.30, and the Woman's Guild at the same hour. This evening the Men's Association, at 8 o'clock; Wednesday, the Boys' Club at 7.30; Thursday, the Week, at 2.30, the week night service at 7.45, and the choir practice at 8.30. On Friday the New England supper under the auspices of the Junior Auxiliary will be held.

A Remarkable Discovery

Rays of Blue Electric Light Render Tooth-pulling Painless

London, November 12.—According to Consul Bayliss, of Hamburg, a remarkable discovery has been made by a Geneva dentist, Dr. Tellard. He claims that by concentrating the blue rays of electric light on the human eye he has obtained complete narcosis and that dental operations can be performed under the conditions without giving the patient the slightest pain. If the doctor's discovery is workable a trip to the dentist will come to be regarded in the light of a pleasure excursion.

Student Put In Grave Escapes

Appleton, Wis., Nov. 11.—While being initiated into a fraternity of Lawrence university Henry Jefferson of Appleton was placed in a shrowd and rough box and carried to Neenah at midnight, where he was placed in a grave and told he would be left there until morning. He kicked off the cover of the box and escaped.

Aged Bank President Gets Five Years

Kansas City, Mo., November 11.—Dr. F. J. Lygard, president of the Gates National Bank of Lutier, Mo., which failed a year ago, was sentenced yesterday to five years in the penitentiary. The conviction was on the charge of misappropriation of funds of the bank.

Lygard is past 76 years of age and is practically paralyzed. He pleaded guilty to the charges, and was given the minimum sentence.

Rare Opportunity In Copper Property

One of America's Richest Mines to be Exploited

For certain it has been known that the comparatively unknown country of Central America are rich with ore bearing rock, from which in the days of Spanish Dominion galleons laden with gold, silver and other metals were shipped to the then haughty kingdom of Spain. Now however, vast deposits of rich copper ore have been discovered, the wealth of which, from the ever increasing demand for this metal equals that of the gold and silver of former days.

The Antigua Gold-Copper Co., owns and controls 931 acres of rich mineral lands in Honduras, 100 miles from Puerto Cortez on the direct route between New Orleans and Panama, every acre of which is rich in gold, copper and silver, and on which much development work has already been accomplished. More than 1,500 feet of tunnelling has been done and a stamp for gold and silver mill is almost completed and will in a few weeks be in operation. The ore on the Company's property is most advantageously located and adapted to cheapest system of mining; it can be worked at approximately $1 per ton. The average assay of the Antigua ores from the surface to a depth of 300 feet shows over 6 per cent. of copper, or better than the world-famous Anaconda Mines. The Antigua mine has in addition from $2 to $4 in gold and silver.

The Company owning this wonderfully rich property, for purposes of further and quick development are offering a limited number of Treasury Shares, par value $5, at $2.50 each, on easy terms of payment, and allows those who secure stock at the present price to participate in the advantage of any rise in price as take place whilst they are paying for said stock as secured. For full particulars write The Antigua Gold-Copper Co., 324 St. Charles street, New Orleans, La.

CUNARD LINE MAY RUN SHIPS ON BOTH OCEANS FOR G.T.R.

Negotiations are on Foot Between the Two Companies for Joint Handling of the Canadian Passenger and Freight Traffic

Liverpool, Nov. 11. — Negotiations are on foot between the Cunard Line and the Grand Trunk Railroad of Canada for joint handling of the Canadian passenger and freight traffic.

The scheme, which is still in its initial stage, contemplates running a line of Cunard steamers direct from Liverpool to Canada, and a Cunard Line service from the Pacific coast to Japan, China and Australia.

SECRETARY KNOWS NOTHING.

London, Nov. 11.—Mr. Norman, the secretary of the Grand Trunk Railway, says he has heard nothing regarding negotiations between the Cunard Line and the Grand Trunk.

HAYS ALSO DOESN'T KNOW.

Montreal, Nov 11.—In regard to the story that the Cunard Line were about to run to Canada and have made special arrangements with the Grand Trunk, Mr. C. M. Hays, general manager of the company, states that he has heard nothing of it.

"I know nothing whatever about the matter," was Mr. Hays' brief response when questioned this morning.

Fewer Failures in Canada Than For Several Years

The opinions of those who would have us believe that trade is likely to be quiet in Canada for some time are not in any way substantiated by reports from wholesalers or retailers whose business comes from all parts of the country.

In fact the very opposite is the case. Tight money may naturally be producing some effect upon manufacturing, but the growth in Canada's population and the general expansion and development in all directions—while possibly, and surely, held in check by a disposition not to rush into expenditures not absolutely necessary at present—cannot be permanently influenced. The critical fourth of November has been passed with fewer failures than for some years.

Chaos in Russian Schools

No Work is Being Done and They Are Hotbeds of Revolution

London, November 12.—Veritable chaos reigns in Russian schools to-day. For at least two years past no work has been done in the schools of Russia, except, perhaps, the rural common schools. From the universities and other higher schools of equivalent rank down to the secondary schools of all characters, teaching has been impossible, and learning entirely lost sight of. Instead of pursuing the regular course of university students, ninety-nine out of every hundred students have been engaged in filling their brains with theories of government. All the political "demonstrations", "manifestations", etc., of the past few years—even those of the Black Gang—have been engineered by students. They have wrested from the Government a nominal autonomy for the universities. But instead of utilizing the new privilege to the full, they have been absorbed in political agitation and there will be a deficiency of men qualified to fill university chairs for years to come.

The secondary schools are in no better case. Little fellows of eight decline to stay in the morning, declaring, "We must get up; we are on strike," in the flap of childhood.

Playing truant, "strikes" mutinous outbreaks, with smashing of windows and furniture, occasional attacks on the gendarmes and so on, are the ordinary everyday events of secondary schools throughout Russia. "Demonstrations" in the streets, processions which would only be ridiculous if the police would leave them alone, but are turned into political events when Cossacks, mounted police gendarmes, with whips, sabers, revolvers, are ordered to disperse these "dangerous revolutionaries"—the scene may be imagined, occupy the minds of boys—aye, and of girls, too—for weeks before they take place, and for months afterwards, to the utter exclusion of mere work."

Obituary

This morning at 8.30 a.m., the last mortal remains of the late Mr. Patrick Sheridan, who passed away on Sunday morning at the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. John Lynch, Chamberlain street, will be conveyed, accompanied, as a tribute of natural respect by his many friends from the residence of Mr. John Lynch, 57 Chamberlain street, and proceed to St. Peter's cathedral, and thence to St. Paul's cemetery, Norwood.

At Advanced Age of 60 He's a Truant

Newburyport, Mass., Nov. 10.—After running away from his home in Seabrook, N.H., Dennis Eatenig, aged sixty-six, has been found in New Hampshire, returns to his ninety-two-year-old father, who had advertised in a local paper for several days offering a liberal reward for the return of his son.

It is alleged that the father punished the son, and that he went away as a result. The son was born in Amesbury, near the home of the poet John G. Whittier, and it was while en route to Lowell that has wanderings took him through this place. He showed great surprise at the tall buildings, street railways and especially at the uniform of the policemen.

Theatrical

The H. Wilmot Young Company

The productions at the Grand this week by the H. Wilmot Young company are said to be the best playing the popular price theaters, and last night's bill surpassed any the company have ever shown here. Mr. Young has got together one of the best companies which is composed of splendid actors and actresses. There are more novelties and specialties introduced than are ordinarily seen. There are songs, dances and specialties in fact all accessories that go to make up a strong and terrible company.

The company had a flattering greeting last night in the opening presentation, when the opera house was packed to the doors, with a well pleased and appreciative audience.

"A Broken Heart" was the offering and was presented in excellent style, the cast as a strong one headed by H. Wilmot Young and Margie Adams, who are not only very clever but very popular. Margie Adams did some clever work, and were some awesome gowns. Baby Marguerite, Mr. Young's little daughter made quite a hit.

Harry Lindley the veteran comedian pleased everybody.

The specialties are excellent and seldom if ever did a stock company give such entire satisfaction as did H. Wilmot Young and his clever company. He is to be congratulated and deserves bumper houses for the next three nights.

"The Danites" will be presented tonight with an entire change of specialties. Joe, the high diving dog, will make his leap at 7.30, at the south side of the opera house.

Shredded Wheat Concert Tonight

Tonight is the event of the season in Charlotte street church sunday school, when the long heralded and assuredly successful shredded wheat banquet will be held. A splendid menu has been provided and a fine evening is assured. There is no doubt but what the members of this popular place of worship will turn out in large numbers.

PECULIAR WEAKNESS IN MANY WOMEN

Is Promptly Overcome by the Regular Use of Ferrozone

Many women suffer untold torture from nervous debility arising from disorders of the feminine organs.

Day by day they grow worse.

A false sense of modesty prevents them using a good remedy like Ferrozone.—and it would cure them.

Every pale, sickly woman can be cured and built up back to health by Ferrozone.

Think of it. Lost nerve force is brought back.

New vital energy is supplied.

The blood is not only enriched and purified, but is properly circulated throughout the body.

Impossible for any woman who uses Ferrozone to be seriously ill, to suffer from weakness, irregularities or functional derangements, because Ferrozone acts directly on the organs that maintain the balance of health.

Because free from alcohol, Ferrozone can be used by young or old with absolute safety. It causes the spirits to flow, supplies ambition, cheerfulness and new sense of strength that adds much to the pleasure of life.

Prepared in the form of a chocolate coated tablet, Ferrozone is sold by all dealers, 50c. per box or six for $2.50.

UNION LABEL

PETERBOROUGH, NOVEMBER 13, 1907

A SOLUTION OF ORIENTAL PROBLEM

The Canadian Gazette of London, Eng.; evidently thinks that it has found a solution of Canada's problem as regards Asiatic labor in British Columbia. It points out that the Australian Commonwealth seeks to eliminate Oriental labor by excise regulations, and proceeds:

"The experiment was begun in two acts of the Commonwealth Parliament in 1905, under which Australian manufacturers of harvesters and other agricultural machinery were called upon to pay an excise duty imposed upon imported goods of the same kind, unless they could show that they paid wages of a recognized standards. What Mr. Deakin and his colleagues have now done is to extend the principle of this excise duty to other branches of Australian manufacture. Under the new regulations an excise duty equal to one-half the customs duty is imposed on all goods manufactured in Australia, this excise being remitted in all cases where it is certified by the Board of Excise (a new body created for the purpose) that the goods have been manufactured under fair and reasonable conditions of labor. If, for instance, makers of ready-made clothing in Sydney, continue to employ Chinese labor, paying Chinese rates, they will have to pay an excise duty of no less than 22 1-2 per cent., and if they wish to escape that excise duty they must either get rid of their Chinamen or pay them the standard rates, which are presumably the trade union rates.

"It will at once be obvious how the adoption by Canada of a similar device might affect the Oriental labor question in such provinces as British Columbia. The Chinaman and the Jap in the province could no longer be used in the industrialism of the province to debase the industrial standard of living. Australia has paid Canada the high compliment of imitating and extending her Empire Free List idea, perhaps Canada will return the compliment by adopting the Australian excise device. If it is objected that trade unionism in Canada has not reached a stage which would permit such a regulation to be worked as it can be worked in industrial centres in Sydney, where trade unionism is strong, there is the reply that the Canadian Minister of Labor would only need to put the regulations into force in one or two glaring cases to effect the end. The value of a law depends far more upon its moral weight than upon its actual restrictive powers."

In British Columbia, however, Asiatic labor is employed chiefly upon works of construction. It seems hardly possible to apply such a series of duties to the products of men who build roads or cultivate vegetable gardens.

BRIDGE BUILDING

In his 11th annual report A. W. Campbell, Deputy Minister of Public Works gives some excellent advice to municipal councils having bridge-building under their supervision. With regard to the erection of steel bridges in municipalities other than those in which competent engineers are permanent municipal officials, he says:—"Councils when erecting steel bridges should secure competent engineering advice to prepare specifications, examine the tenders and supervise construction. Councils cannot be expected to judge as to the qualities of a steel bridge as they can of timber, with which they are all familiar, and they are all fully justified in obtaining proper engineering advice in the matter.—in fact, a council is not justified in doing otherwise."

ROUGH ON THE PROVINCIAL AUDITOR

That's a very serious situation Berlin finds itself in, with its Town Treasurer $800 or more short in his accounts for 1906.

Not long ago the Provincial Auditor, in response to a request from the Berlin Town Council, investigated the Town Treasurer's books and gave that official a clean bill. The Town Auditors had done the same thing in their annual inspection.

Mr. Aletter had apparently been so faithful in the discharge of his duties that many supposed the Provincial Auditor's certificate would settle the matter for the Town Treasurer. However, the Council contained members who were not satisfied with the reports they had received and they forced another investigation by Mr. J. M. Scully, one of the best accountants in Canada. He soon found discrepancies and in the end the Town Treasurer confessed to a shortage for 1906 of $817.

Berlin has suspended the Treasurer, and dismissed the Town Auditors, who will receive no remuneration for the past year.

The result of Mr. Scully's investigation is not very complimentary to Provincial Auditor Laing. It places that official in a somewhat humiliating position. Civic bodies will cease to put confidence in his reports, with the Berlin fiasco before them.

Rare Opportunity In Copper Property

One of America's Richest Mines to be Exploited

For certain it has been known that the comparatively unknown countries of Central America are rich with ore bearing rock, from which in the days of Spanish Dominion galleons laden with gold, silver and other metals were shipped to the then haughty kingdom of Spain. Now however, vast deposits of rich copper ore have been discovered, the wealth of which, from the increasing demand for this metal equals that of the gold and silver of former days.

The Antigua Gold-Copper Co., owns and controls 631 acres of rich mineral lands in Honduras, 100 miles from Puerto Cortez, on the direct route between New Orleans and Panama, every acre of which is rich in gold, copper and silver, and on which much development work has already been accomplished. More than 1,500 feet of tunnelling has been done and a 100 ton gold and silver mill is almost completed and will in a few weeks be in operation. The ore on the Company's property is most advantageously located and adapted to cheapest system of mining; it can be worked at approximately $1 per ton. The average assay of the Antigua ores from the surface to a depth of 200 feet shows over 6 per cent. of copper, or better than the world-famous Anaconda Mines. The Antigua mine has in addition from $2 to $4 in gold and silver.

The Company owning this wonderfully rich property, for purposes of further and quick development are offering a limited number of Treasury Shares, par value $5, at $3.50 each, on easy terms of payment, and allows those who secure stock at the present price to participate in the advantages of such raises in price as take place whilst they are paying for said stock so secured. For full particulars write The Antigua Gold-Copper Co, 234 St. Charles street, New Orleans, La.

At Advanced Age of 60 He's a Truant

Newburyport, Mass., Nov. 10.—After running away from his home in Seabrook, N.H., "Bennie" Eaton, aged sixty-six, has been found in Lowell, Mass., and returned to his Ninety-two-year-old father, who had advertised in a local paper for several days offering a liberal reward for the return of his son.

It is alleged that the father punished the son, and that he went away as a result. The son was born in Amesbury, near the home of the poet John G. Whittier, and it was while en route to Lowell that his wanderings took him through this place. He showed great surprise at the tall buildings, street railways and especially at the uniform of the policemen.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans;

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother).

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

TENDERS FOR PULPWOOD CONCESSIONS

Tenders will be received by the undersigned up to and including the 16th of December next for the right to cut pulpwood on certain areas tributary to the Nepigon river, in the district of Thunder Bay, and Rainy Lake, in the district of Rainy River, and make the same into paper. Tenderers should state the amount they are prepared to pay as bonus in addition to such dues as may from time to time be fixed for the right to operate a paper making industry on the areas referred to. Separate tenders must be made for each area or territory, and the successful tenderers will be required to erect a mill or mills on each of the territories or in such other localities as may be approved by the Government of Ontario.

Parties tendering for the pulpwood rights shall accompany their tenders with a marked cheque for 25 per cent of the amount tendered, payable to the Treasurer of Ontario, and to be forfeited in the event of their failing to enter into agreements to carry out conditions, etc.

With respect to the Rainy Lake Pulp Concession, tenderers will be required to make a tender for the right to cut the pine, tamarac and cedar on the territory offered. Parties making tender for these timbers to state the amount they are prepared to pay per thousand feet B.M. as bonus in addition to Crown dues of $2.00 per thousand feet B.M. A marked cheque for $5,000.00 payable to the Treasurer of Ontario must accompany the tender for pine timber, and is to be forfeited in the event of their failing to enter into agreements to carry out conditions, etc.

No timber shall be cut on either of the concessions of a less diameter than nine inches, two feet from the ground.

The successful tenderers to enter into agreements with the Government for the erection of the mills, expenditure of money, etc.

For full particulars as to the conditions, etc., application should be made to the undersigned.

AIKENSIDE

BY MARY J. HOLMES

Author of "Dora Deane," "The English Orphans," "Lena Rivers," "The Rector of St. Mark's," "Tempest and Sunshine," Etc.

"Ah, Mr. Remington, I didn't expect this. I am so glad, and how kind it was of you to wait for me!" she exclaimed, her voice expressing her delight, and amply repaying the young man, who had not been very patient or happy through the six long hours waiting he had endured.

But he was both happy and patient now with Maddy's hand in his, and pressing it very gently he led her into the ladies' room; then making her sit down before the fire, he brushed her snowy garments himself, and dashing a few flakes from her disordered hair, told her what she so eagerly asked to know. Her grandmother had had a paralytic stroke, and the only word she had uttered since was "Maddy." Guy had not been down himself, but had sent Mrs. Nosh as soon as Farmer Green had brought the news. She was there yet, he said, the storm having detained her.

"And grandma?" Maddy gasped, fixing her eyes wistfully on him. "She is not dead?"

No, Guy answered, and asked if he should not remove from the dainty little feet resting on the stove hearth the overshoes, so full of melting snow. Maddy cared little for her shoes, or herself, just then. She hardly knew that Guy was taking them off, much less that as he bent beside her, her hand lay lightly upon his shoulder as she continued her questionings.

"She is not dead, you say; but do you think—does anybody think she'll die? Your telegram said 'dying.'"

Maddy was not to be deceived, and thinking it best to be frank with her, Guy told her that the physician, whom he had taken pains to see on his way to the depot, had said there was no hope. Old age and an impaired constitution precluded the possibility of recovery, but he trusted she might live till the young lady came.

"She must—she will! Oh, grandma, why did I ever leave her?" and burying her face in her hands Maddy cried passionately, while the last three years of her life passed in rapid review before her mind—years which she had spent in luxurious ease, leaving her grandmother to toil in the humble cottage, and die at the last, it might be, without one parting word for her.

The feeling that perhaps she had been guilty of neglect was the bitterest of all, and Maddy wept on, unmindful of Guy's attempts to soothe and quiet her. At last, as she heard a clock in the adjoining room strike eight, she started up, exclaiming, "I have stayed too long. I must go now. Is there any conveyance here?"

"But, Maddy," Guy rejoined, "you cannot go to-night. The roads between here and Honedale are one unbroken snowbank. It would take hours to break through; besides, you are too tired. You need rest, and must come with me to Aikenside, where you are expected, for when I found how late the train would be, I sent back word to have your room and the parlors warmed, and a nice hot supper to be ready for us. You'll surely go with me, if I think best."

Guy's manner was more like a lover than a friend, but Maddy was in no state to remark it. She only felt an intense desire to go home, and turning a deaf ear to all he could urge, replied:

"You don't know how dear grandma is to me, or you would not ask me to stay. She's all the mother I ever knew, and I must go. Would you stay if the one you loved best was dying?"

"But the one I love best is not dying, so I can reason clearly, Maddy."

Here Guy checked himself, and listened while Maddy asked again if there was no conveyance there as usual.

"None but mine," said Guy, while Maddy continued faintly:

"And you are afraid it will kill your horses?"

"No, it would only fatigue them greatly; it's for you I fear. You've borne enough to-day."

"Then, Mr. Remington, oh, please send me, I shall die at Aikenside. John will drive me, I know. He used to like me. I'll ask him," and Maddy was going in quest of the Aikenside coachman, when Guy held her back, and said:

"John will go if I bid him. But you, Maddy, if I thought it was safe."

"It is. Oh, let me go," and Maddy grasped both his hands beseechingly.

If there was a man who could resist the eloquent appeal of Maddy's eyes at that moment, the man was not Guy Remington, and leaving her alone, he sought out John, asking if it would be possible to get through to Honedale that night.

John shook his head decidedly, but when Guy explained Maddy's distress and anxiety, the negro began to relent, particularly as he saw his young master, too, was interested.

"I'll kill them horses," he said, "but mabby that's nothin' to please the girl."

"If we only had runners now, instead of wheels, John," Guy said, after a moment's reflection. "Drive back to Aikenside as fast as possible, and change the carriage for a covered sleigh. Leave the grays at home and drive a pair of farm horses. They can endure more. Tell Flora to send my traveling shawl. Miss Clyde may need it, and an extra buffalo, and a bottle of wine; and my backskin gloves, and take Tom on with you, and a snow shovel; we may have to dig."

"Yes, yes, I know," and tying his muffler about his throat, John started off through the storm, his mind a confused medley of ideas, the main points of which were, bottles of wine, snow shovels, and the fact that his master was either crazy or in love.

Meanwhile, with the prospect of going home, Maddy had grown quiet, and did not refuse the temporary supper of buttered toast, muffins, steak, and hot coffee, which Guy ordered from the small hotel just in the rear of the depot. Tired, nervous, and almost helpless, she allowed Guy himself to prepare her coffee, taking it from his hand and drinking it as his mother or sister might have done, and there was a feeling of delicious rest in being cared for thus, and but for the dying one at Honedale she would have enjoyed it vastly. As it was, though, she never for a moment forgot her grandmother. She did forget, in a measure, her anxiety, and was able to think how kind, how exceedingly kind Guy was. He was like what he used to be, she thought, only kinder, and thinking it was because she was in trouble, she accepted all his little attentions willingly, feeling how pleasant it was to have him there, and thinking once with a half-shudder of the long, cold ride before her, when Guy would no longer be present, and also of the dreary home where death might possibly be a guest ere she could reach it.

It was after nine ere John appeared, his crisp wool powdered with snow which clung to his outer garments, and literally covered his cap.

"'Twas mighty deep," he said, bowing to Maddy, "and the wind was getting colder. 'Twas a hard time Miss Clyde would have, and hadn't she better wait?"

No, Maddy could not wait, and standing up she suffered Guy to wrap her cloak about her, and fasten more securely the long, warm scarf she wore around her neck.

"Drive close to the platform," he said to John, and the covered sleigh was soon brought to the point designated. "Now then, Maddy, I won't let you run the risk of covering your feet with snow. I shall carry you myself," Guy said, and ere Maddy was fully aware of his intentions, he was bearing her to the sleigh.

Very carefully he drew the soft, warm robe about her, shielding her as well as he could from the cold; then pulling his own fur collar about his ears, he sprang in beside her, and, closing the door behind him, bade John drive on.

"But, Mr. Remington," Maddy exclaimed in much surprise, "surely you are not going too? You must not. It is asking too much. It is more than I expected. Please don't go."

The Story of a Rifle Shot.

Perhaps no one knows, or ever will know, how much in the Spanish-American war a single rifle ball accomplished toward bringing the conflict to an early close. It was a sergeant of the Ninth infantry who fired the shot, at a distance of more than 1,500 yards, that nearly severed the left arm of General Linares from his body and gave the supreme command at Santiago to General Toral. Sergeant McInarney was the most advanced soldier of the American forces, and took position in a tree. Beyond, within the breastworks, he noticed an officer upon a gray horse, apparently making an inspection of the entire line. Though the order had gone out that day that no firing should be indulged in, McInarney drew a bead upon the horseman and brought him down. Later it was learned that the sergeant's target was General Linares, regarded as the best of Spain's fighters in Cuba. Toral, a commander who was anxious for a speedy termination of hostilities, assumed command, and a few hours later Santiago capitulated to the Americans.—New York Tribune.

The Last Cigar in the Box.

"The last cigar in the box is the hardest to sell," was the remark of a Front street dealer. "Not because it is not as good as any other cigar, but because of the superstition of the average man against taking the last of anything. As a result we often take one cigar, or even two cigars, of the last cigars in a box and put them on top of the cigars in a full or almost full box. On the other hand, I ought to mention that there are men who prefer the last cigars and who ask us to save the last cigars in the boxes for them every day, sometimes to the number of six or seven daily, for which they call every evening. We have them no trouble in disposing of these last cigars, but the contrast in the conduct of the two styles of customers is curious."—Philadelphia Record.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific nerve sickness—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now world famous Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—dealing direct to the stomach nerves, alone bringing the lasting cure and ever to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative will goes that original and highly vital principle, to which instinctively all nerve-sick folk turn.

For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness in breath and sallow complexion try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We will also cheerfully recommend

ANTIGUA GOLD-COPPER Co.

Offers the Biggest and Most Attractive Mining Investment Now Before the Public.

ITS HOLDINGS ARE MINES--NOT PROSPECTS

With Vast Bodies of Ore Ready for the Mill, Now Nearing Completion.

THOMAS W. LAWSON
"Copper stocks offer the biggest opportunity for money making in the world to-day. A good copper mine is really a safe-deposit vault of stored up dividends which cannot be stolen or destroyed by fire, flood or famine."

CECIL RHODES
said: "Mining offers greater inducements than any other business in the world to make quick and great wealth."

CHARLES M. SCHWAB
says: "The big fortunes of the next twenty-five years will come from Mother Earth." Among all mining investments none stand ahead of copper for safety, permanency and profit.

Lay the Foundation for Your Fortune Today

THE ANTIGUA PROPERTIES

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company holdings consist of 631 acres, situated in Honduras, Central America, 100 miles southeast from Puerto Cortez, and midway between New Orleans and Panama. Development work is being pushed with all possible speed, and more than 1,500 feet of tunneling and shaft work has been completed. A 40 to 50-ton capacity gold-silver mill is in course of construction, and will be in operation before the close of the year.

Development work has conclusively proven that every acre of our holdings are rich in gold, copper and silver, and that every ton of this great ore body will yield a handsome profit on milling expense. The ore exposed on the surface does not require mining in the usual sense of the term, but may be obtained by quarrying. It can, according to estimate of experts, be quarried and treated for the gold and silver on an extensive scale at a cost of less than $1.00 a ton. Think of it! A solid mountain of rich ore, from the very grass roots of which may be washed gold.

Beyond a doubt Honduras has beneath her soil larger, richer deposits of copper, gold and silver than any other section of the American continent. Spain, during her sovereignty in that country, took out more than $300,000,000 in gold alone—and she scarcely scraped the Earth's surface. There is evidence that the pre-historic races knew how to mine and mill the copper—smelting it in their crude way.

The original incorporators of the Antigua Gold-Copper Company spent thousands of dollars of their own money in bringing this property to its present stage of development. They opened up the mine on every side with tunnels, crosscuts and shafts. They purchased machinery and began the erection of a gold-silver mill—now nearing completion. These men appreciated from the first that this mine was destined to become one of the greatest copper-gold-silver properties in America, and that it justified more extensive and more rapid development than they were able to make without the co-operation and financial assistance of the public.

The average assay values of Antigua ores, ranging from the surface to a depth of 200 feet, is over 8 per cent copper. This is above the average of the ore of the world's greatest producers, the famous Anaconda yielding ore which averages only a little over 3 per cent. The Anaconda has little other ore value, while our property, in addition to the copper, carries $2.00 to $1,400 a ton in gold and silver.

WHY STOCK IS SOLD

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company finds itself in precisely the same position as the farmer who has a larger farm than he can cultivate with the capital in hand. He knows that with additional capital and assistance he could make the land yield abundant crops and enormous profits. In the same way we intend, by the investment of additional capital, to bring our enormous ore bodies to a highly profitable state of development at the earliest possible moment. For this reason a limited amount of treasury stock is offered the public. In this way funds will be available for immediate use in purchasing additional machinery and for continuing vigorous development of the property.

THERE ARE NO PREFERRED SHARES AND NO BONDS TO COME FIRST IN THE DIVISION OF PROFITS.

and your shares will earn as much as a like number of shares owned by any other stockholder in the company. Each share CARRIES WITH IT THE RIGHT TO VOTE, so that with a single share you have every right, privilege and protection possessed by any other stockholder.

Stock is now being sold at $2.50 a share, and this stock, we firmly believe, will, within a year, be selling at its par value of $5.00 a share, or higher; nor will it stop there. If you are desirous of permanently increasing your income, of making an investment that is not only secure, but immensely profitable, reserve shares TO-DAY.

Such an investment opportunity can scarcely be repeated. It is made possible only by extraordinary natural conditions. Millions of dollars of copper, gold and silver will be marketed from the mines—fortunes will be reaped as a result of the prompt seizure of the opportunity we offer you to-day.

REPORT OF AN EXPERT

Much weight can justly be given the statement of a properly qualified and reliable mining engineer. Such is the character of T. M. Foster, from whose report on Antigua we make the following extracts:

"From the development work done and the indications shown by the croppings, I am convinced this is one of the largest gold-copper deposits in existance, and under proper development will make one of the richest mining properties in America. * * * I consider this ore an ideal smelting proposition, there being an abundance of iron, lime and silica in close proximity. There is plenty of water for power and milling purposes, and an abundance of timber on the property. * * *

"A large amount of development work has been done on this property in tunnels, drifts and shafts, ranging from 25 to possibly 300 feet in length. * * * This work has all been in ore—in fact, the ore body on the surface is shown to be fully one-half mile wide by two miles in length. To judge from the development work done, this property is all ore—no matter where work was started, ore was encountered.

"The company is erecting a mill, consisting of one five-stamp and three Huntingtons; to work the surface ore. This surface ore is mostly free milling, the copper and galena sulphides being oxidized, freeing the gold, and being readily amalgamated. But I am confident that at no very great depth copper sulphides will be encountered, as there are many places in this great ore body where the sulphides crop to the surface. I have taken a dozen samples from various places on the lead, and from these made free gold tests, finding an average of over $4.00 a ton in FREE gold, and from 5 to 25 per cent copper. Native copper is frequently seen in this ore. If the Antigua mines continue in depth as on the surface, a 1,000 ton smelter will not work it out in 100 years. * * *

"* * * With good management and proper development, it will be but a short time until the stock of the company will be worth more than par. I fully believe that if this great ore body is properly developed there is a mine here worth many millions of dollars.

Something New in Copper

PITTSBURG - IDAHO

Mining and Milling Company

The mine is located 58 miles above Lewiston, Idaho, on the Clearwater river, and consists of 19 full claims, or 380 acres. It is developed by tunnels, shafts and open cuts for more than 2100 feet, disclosing thousands of tons of copper, gold and silver ores of both high grade and low grade. There are between 1000 and 2000 tons of ore ready for shipment. The entrance to the working tunnel is only 2000 feet from the track of the Northern Pacific railroad, to be reached by gravity tramway. There are seven parallel veins running lengthwise of the claims, one cropping out on the surface for 2000 feet and another for 3000 feet; while two veins cross these running into the mountain. These veins are from 30 to 200 feet wide. One ore chute has been cross-cut 70 feet and is solid ore from wall to wall.

We are not asking you to buy in a prospect. That risk was taken by the promoters. We are asking you to buy in a developed, proven mine. Seven years of continuous work and the expenditure of thousands of dollars has proven up one of the greatest mines in Idaho. That mine is now ready to pour out its red and yellow wealth to the world with the installing of an up to date production plant. It is for that purpose that a block of its treasury stock, full paid and non-assessable, is offered for sale. We believe that within six months from the completion of a 100 ton plant the mine can be put on a dividend paying basis, and that those dividends will be substantial and permanent. There is no better investment proposition before the people at this time.

Wonderful Miracles Worked By Dr. Hamilton's Pills

Halifax, N.S., Sept. 21.—That unusual knowledge is possessed by Dr. Hamilton is evidenced by the statement of Mrs. MacLeod, of 514 Campbell Road, of this city. For years this lady suffered with recurring reeling headaches that could only be allayed by strong narcotics. "Different physicians," she states, "failed, so I decided to see what Dr. Hamilton could do. I purchased a few boxes of his Mandrake and Butternut Pills and their use immediately gave the most grateful relief. Headache and their depressing influence left me. Spells of fainting weakness, loss hours of sleeplessness, fear of nervous collapse, all these disappeared after treating with Dr. Hamilton's Pills. My restoration to vigorous health is complete and no remedy could do more than Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut.

By searching out all weak spots, by enriching the blood, nourishing and fortifying the system, Dr. Hamilton's Pills work marvels for the sick and weak. 25 cents per box at all dealers.

Hunting Stories Postponed

Yesterday afternoon a Times representative asked Mr. M. C. Tooley, of the Queen's Hotel, "Say, Mr. Tooley, can't you give me a story of the hunting trip you have just returned from?" Mr. Tooley replied "Well say, I could, but I guess you'd better wait till William Snowden and the rest get home. My stories might not be accepted by the rest of the bunch. When those witheld stories are published they will make good reading.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

No Cause for that Diphtheria Report

The report in Saturday's issue of the Review, stating that there was black diphtheria in Pontypool as incorrect, so said a resident of that village yesterday. The young lady who was said to have the disease was the late Miss Pollard, who passed away last week. Her death was due to blood poisoning caused by applying coal oil to her neck for a sore throat. It was also stated in the article that she had a public funeral. This was not the case as it was of a private nature. There are no cases of diphtheria in Pontypool at the present time, and the medical health officer states that there was no foundation for the diphtheria report.

—Yesterday evening a family bet was made, won and paid. The whole thing arose out of a bet made in a local factory. It seems that a certain local factory employs a man about 50 years of age who is engaged to be married. The engaged man happened to say on Saturday that he was going to take a certain married woman to the theater last night. His pals put up a bet that he would not dare do so. However, the finance, even though his name might be Green, took the married woman to the show; still his wife that is to be has no kick coming and need not wear yellow spectacles of jealousy, as his heart is all in his keeping and "that's no lie."

A tickling cough, from any cause, is quickly stopped by Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. And it is so thoroughly harmless and safe, that Dr. Shoop tells mothers everywhere to give it without hesitation, even to very young babes. The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a lung healing mountainous shrub furnish the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough, and heals the sore and sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. Simply a resinous plant extract, that helps to heal aching lungs. The Spaniards call this shrub which the doctor uses "The Sacred Herb." Demand Dr. Shoop's. Take no other. All dealers.

Police Court

At yesterday's police court, Mr. W. A. Edwards, manager of the "Crystal," a five-cent show on George street, gave evidence in the case against the Peterborough Examiner, charged with having printed the advertisement of an alleged lottery, run by said witness. Prior to Mr. Edward's evidence, an employe of the paper testified to a certain advertisement of Edwards' having been in the paper but they did not know that any lottery was involved.

Mr. Edwards said that up to Friday the 8th inst., no means had been established of settling who won or might have won the watch. The show here keeps stubs of the coupons on their tickets. Up to the time of the prosecution they ran the watch contest, and on Friday advertized that the watch would be awarded by a bean guessing contest.

The watch contest was to have been decided on Saturday 9th. It started on the 4th. Before date of the prosecution the coupons simply had a number printed on them. Afterwards ticket buyers had to sign their names on the coupons. The coupons were numbered from 1 to 5000. They could give the watch to any one previous to date of prosecution. The way after that was for purchasers of tickets to sign their names on the coupons and mark thereon their guess as to the number of beans there were in a bottle.

Here an altercation between Mr. Gordon, counsel for the defendant, and the magistrate as to certain evidence taken down by the latter, and which Mr. Gordon objected to, when read, for signature, was in evidence. Mr. Gordon advised witness to not sign the evidence unless certain words be eliminated. The magistrate refused to do this but said witness could give any explanation of his former testimony or add what he wanted to.

Here Mr. Wood, county Crown attorney suggested a four days' enlargement and that witness be committed during such time. Then after further argument was on between Mr. Gordon and his worship, the latter said he would commit witness unless he signed the evidence. A compromise was struck, by leaving the original evidence but noting later that the words objected to were incorrect.

The magistrate said he found Mr. Stratton, proprietor of the Examiner guilty as charged. Mr. Wood suggested that this really meant a commitment for trial at next court of competent jurisdiction.

The case against the Peterborough Review was then taken up. This was dealt with on the same evidence as last case to save time. The magistrate suggested that by carrying these cases to the higher court would involve heavy legal expenses and offered to decide them summarily. Mr. Gordon however, noted that these cases might result in a $2000 fine and decided to go to the higher court.

Here Mr. Wood remarked to Mr. Gordon, "I suppose you are aware that in the case of the Review Co., if committed, the case could not be tried by the county judge."

Mr Gordon then said he would have some evidence taken so he would have the chance of an option for trial by the county judge.

Mr Dobbin, managing director of the Review, said the advertisement causing the trouble was charged to Mr. Edwards of the "Crystal."

Here Mr. Gordon consented to agree to a commital for the Review Co., which will be tried by the county judge.

No bail was asked of either of the two defendants committed.

The cases against Mr. Edwards for running a lottery was then tried. The first witness was a young woman who sells tickets at the Crystal. She never saw the adv. in the Review and Examiner. She gave no coupons until Wednesday. She recognized a coupon produced in court as the kind she sold on Wednesday.

Cecil Sugle the next witness, said he was at the Crystal on either Tuesday or Wednesday of last week. A friend of his bought the tickets. They had coupons handed them as they entered the place.

The result of the trial was that Edwards was committed for trial as in the previous cases, and Edwards will appear before his honor Judge Weller at the latter court.

Yesterday morning Chief Rozel received a letter from Chief Constable Rudd, of Cobourg, informing him of the imprisonment of "Mousie" McDonald. McDonald was arrested here on Thursday evening last, shortly after his arrival from Cobourg, and was sent back with a warning not to return. The magistrate in Cobourg was very much surprised as he looked over his book on Saturday and saw his old customer back again, and sentenced him to Cobourg jail for six months.

Irrespective of and over and above the "cause celebre," tried at the police court yesterday, viz., those cases against the manager and chief owner of a George street place of amusement for selling tickets having a nearer relationship than that of 47th cousin to a lottery deal, or so alleged and against two of our E.E.C.'s, at yesterday's session of the local police court, three drunks who had imbibed a little too freely on Saturday last, were brought before his honor.

One of the drunks, Owen McCue, did not answer to his name, and will appear this morning to explain. The other two drunks pleaded guilty and were fined $2.00, one of them who was a stranger in town, by name, Charles Davis, was a little short of the long green. The magistrate gave him ten days to pay it.

Charlotte Street Church Events

Things will be lively this week in the Charlotte street Methodist church, as meetings are arranged for almost every week night including the annual meeting of the Young Men's Guild on Thursday night; the Class Leaders' Association at the George street Methodist church this evening; the Cottage Prayer meeting at the home of Mrs. Danks this evening, and the meeting tomorrow night to hear the report of the delegates, Mrs. Kennedy and Mrs. Carver, who were at the Brampton convention. This evening the Shredded Wheat Concert will be held under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid and choir.

Do You Open Your Mouth

Like a young bird and gulp down whatever food or medicine may be offered you? Or, do you want to know something of the composition and character of that which you take into your stomach whether as food or medicine?

Most intelligent and sensible people now-a-days insist on knowing what they employ whether as food or as medicine. Dr. Pierce believes they have a perfect right to insist upon such knowledge. So he publishes broadcast and on each bottle-wrapper, what his medicines are made of and verifies it under oath. This he feels he can well afford to do because the more the ingredients of which his medicines are made are studied and understood the more will their superior curative virtues be investigated.

For the cure of woman's peculiar weaknesses, irregularities and derangements, giving rise to frequent headaches, backache, dragging-down pain or distress in lower abdominal or pelvic region, accompanied, oftimes, with a debilitating, pelvic, catarrhal drain and kindred symptoms of weakness, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a most efficient remedy. It is equally effective in curing painful periods, in giving strength to nursing mothers and in preparing the system of the expectant mother for baby's coming thus rendering childbirth safe and comparatively painless. The "Favorite Prescription" is a most potent, strengthening tonic to the general system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. It is also a soothing and invigorating nervine and cures nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, chorea or St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing nervous symptoms attendant upon functional and organic diseases of the distinctly feminine organs.

A host of medical authorities of all the several schools of practice, recommend each of the several ingredients of which "Favorite Prescription" is made for the cure of the diseases for which it is claimed to be a cure. You may read what they say for yourself by sending a postal card request for a free booklet of extracts from the leading authorities, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., and it will come to you by return post.

DEFENCE WILL ASK THE JUDGE TO DISCHARGE LONDON MEN

Counsel will Argue That the Case is Out-Lawed

It is Stated that the Attorney-General's Dept. was Asked to be Lenient

Toronto, Nov. 12.—When the case against George Reid, John O'German, Daniel Wylie, and William J. Mullov, the four men charged with conspiracy to bribe in connection with the London bye-election of 1905, is called for summary hearing before Judge Winchester without a jury on Monday next, counsel for the defence will make application for the discharge of the accused.

On an accusation of bribery the statute provides a one-year limitation. The charge must be preferred within twelve months after the alleged commission of the offence. For this reason the Crown has been unable to charge the men with bribery, but has, according to the defence, sought to evade the outlawing of the offence by instituting a charge of "conspiracy to bribe," which is not contemplated in the criminal calendar, and which, consequently, has no statute of limitations.

The defence will argue that such a charge as is preferred is clearly within the meaning of the Dominion statute of limitations, inasmuch as there can be no electoral bribery without conspiracy, and that the case is accordingly outlawed.

Other technical grounds for the abandonment of the case will likely be urged by the defence, in view of the Crown's apparent determination to push the case to the bitter end.

It is claimed by those in a position to know that the action of the defendants in seeking immediate trial before Judge Winchester was the result of the failure of all efforts to secure a settlement or staying of the case, and the fact that the expenses of it to the accused has been enormous—so much so that they were unable to further carry it on.

The total expenditure of the defence is estimated at close to $10,000. In personal railway fares the four defendants have paid out over $100 each. They have been in attendance at the police court in Toronto for 30 different days, and, being away from home, have been put to hotel expenses. They have had to engage counsel in both London and Toronto, subpoena and pay the expenses of over 100 witnesses, engage legal men to look up evidence in Brockville, West Huron, West Elgin, and three London elections, secure a special commissioner to take evidence in Hong Kong, and scores of other details.

It was felt by the defence that a trial by jury in Toronto necessarily meant at least a preponderance of Conservatives on the jury, and, consequently, the best that could be hoped for was a disagreement, in which case all the expense would have to be borne again.

Viewing conditions as they have existed in London for years, and the fact that both parties are said to have equally recognized the fact that political battles in the Forest City were not to be won by prayers, it was hoped by friends of the defendants that a stay of proceedings would have been secured, particularly subsequent to the supposed righting of any wrong done by the election of Major Beattie to the parliamentary seat occupied by Hon. Mr. Hyman, the victor in the bye-election upon which the case hangs.

It is stated authoritatively that many Conservatives in London voiced their belief that the ends of justice had been sufficiently served, that the defendants had been adequately punished by financial loss, loss of time and personal worry, and that, in an informal way, an effort was made by Conservatives to test the feeling of the Crown as to a lenient dealing with the case.

The response of the attorney-general, as quoted, is unmistakable. Mr. Foy is alleged to have stated that the "day of saw-offs and settlements in cases involving electoral immorality, whether sought by one party or the other, or by both parties, was ended in Ontario."

The case will accordingly go on. The defence, however, professes confidence in having it thrown out upon the statute of limitations or other counts which they have ready. These will probably be argued on Monday.

Throngs of Immigrants Out of Work

Toronto, Nov. 12.—The immigration offices are being regularly besieged by men anxious to obtain work for the winter, who, though willing to take almost any position, can find nothing to do. They are generally unskilled men from the larger English and Scotch cities, who refuse to leave Toronto for any other city or to go out on farms. The railway yard officials state that every morning at seven o'clock, large numbers of men throng the entrances, looking for work, which they are unable to give them.

Forty Persons Hurt in Street Car Wreck--- Several May Die

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 12.—Forty men, women and children were injured, 28 seriously, in a street car accident yesterday, when two speeding cars crashed into each other in a dense fog. Both cars were crushed.

The accident was due to the attempt of the conductor and motorman of one car to steal a switch from an outbound car.

The track ran over a trestle above the tide flats, and the couches narrowly escaped toppling over into deep water. Several of the victims may die.

Woman Passed as a Man

Trinidad, Colo., Nov. 12.—Miss Catherine Vosbaugh, who for nearly 60 years passed as a man, died at a hospital today. Miss Vosbaugh was born in France 83 years ago. When a young woman she found it difficult to make her way on account of her sex. Adopting men's clothes, she obtained employment as a bookkeeper in Joplin, Mo. This position she held for nine years, and then accepted a position in a St. Joseph, Mo., bank. While in St. Joseph she married a woman with whom she lived for 30 years as "Charles" Vosbaugh. The two women as man and wife came to Trinidad two years ago. After the death of the "wife," Miss Vosbaugh worked in various capacities until she became so feeble that last year she was taken to a hospital. It was then that her sex was discovered. But even after her recovery she refused to change her clothing and continued to wear her masculine habiliments to the end.

Hurt at Kinmount in Gas Explosion

Mr. William Watson of Kinmount, who was seriously injured in the explosion of the acetylene lighting plant in the Northern Hotel of that village, was brought here yesterday from the north and was met at the station by the hospital ambulance and conveyed to that institution. On inquiry we learn that while Mr. Watson's burns about the face and hands are very serious and painful, no permanent results are anticipated, as with the careful dressing and attention his injuries will receive at the hospital, he will be about again in a short time.—Lindsay Post.

Large Lynx Killed at Coe Hill

A brother of Mr. Wm. Watt of Perry street, who resides near Coe Hill, recently had several midnight calls at his hen house by a lynx. Mr. Watt's chickens were rapidly being depleted so that he got busy after the thief. A few evenings ago, Mr. Watt, whilst on the watch after the despoiler of his poultry, discovered a huge lynx at work and at once shot the animal.

The lynx was eight feet in length from the tip of the tail to the nose, and is reported to be the largest ever captured in that district. People in the neighborhood are almost terrorised lest the lynx killed should have a companion still at large.

Astronomists Met Last Night at Y.M.C.A.

Last night the Astronomical Society met in the Y.M.C.A. Hall, for the first of a series of class studies. Dr. Marsh conducted the class, and promised to give every possible assistance to the students hereafter in individual study. No admission fee was charged. Last night's meeting considered the fundamental principles and precepts of Astronomy. Still much valuable information was adduced and a most interesting evening enjoyed by all present.

Money to Move the Crops.

Ottawa, Nov. 12.—Hon. W. S. Fielding, minister of finance, who returned from Montreal tonight, stated with reference to the alleged difficulties in connection with financing the movement of the western grain crop in the short space of time between now and the close of navigation, that he had been in communication with leading bankers on the subject, and that such an arrangement had been made as enabled him to say that the banks would be able to meet all the reasonable demands of the situation.

McParland Used Bible Stories to Get Steve Adams' Confession

Rathdrum, Idaho, Nov. 12.—At the second trial of Steve Adams for the murder of Fred Tyler, a claim-jumper, Attorney Darrow, of the defence, followed out the scheme used at the first trial, called James McParland, of the Pinkerton agency, for cross-examination. McParland said he got Adams to acknowledge his part in the murder of former Governor Frank Steunenberg.

"I told Adams," he said, "that he would better make a clean breast of the whole affair, as he would feel much better, and that it was a debt that he owned to the State and to law and order, that he was a tool and he admitted it. I used the Bible stories of David and St. Paul as illustrations of what it benefitted a man when he repented of a crime and he might be redeemed."

"By whom?" asked Mr. Darrow.

"By God, of course," said McParland.

"You did not tell him that you would forgive him, and that you would save his soul?" asked the lawyer.

"I have not the power of absolution," replied McParland.

"Did you make Adams any promise?"

"I told him I believed the State would be fair; I told him of Jerry the Bum, of the "Mollie Maguires," who was not prosecuted when he turned State's evidence after he had a hand in the killing of Daniel W. Ray."

S. C. Thiel said that Adams confessed to the Tyler murder to him three weeks after he had confessed to McParland, his part in the Steunenberg murder. Thiel told of joining the Western Federation of Miners at Butte in 1901, but he was working there for the Pinkertons.

Twelve Hour Walking Race

Toronto, Nov. 13.—All arrangements have been made for the big walk on November 23 in Toronto, between Reynolds of Port Hope and Hartley of Peterborough. The walk will be for twelve hours, commencing at eleven o'clock Saturday morning and finishing at eleven the same evening.

As no events are allowed to take place in the armories except under the auspices of the Garrison Athletic Club, the match will be pulled off on the Mutual Street Rink on a sawdust track. The rink is altogether too small for an event of this kind and twelve hours' continuous walking on such a small course will be very difficult.

There will be twenty-two laps to make a mile. However, it is as fair for one as the other and Reynolds is willing to take the chance. The fifty per cent. of the gross receipts which go to the contestants will be divided 60 per cent. to the winner and 40 to the loser.

"Cousin Paid My Fare and Tax" Says Wily Ghinaman

Vancouver, B.C., Nov. 13.—Strange is similar stories were told last night to Immigration Investigator King by twelve Chinamen he questioned out of seventy-two, who arrived on the Empress and paid the admission tax of five hundred dollars each.

"I have no money. am promised work here, will board with friends, pay him off when I get work. Cousin in China give me toll tax and steamer fare. It takes me four years to pay him back."

This was the general story in answer to King's queries.

"Why did you come?"

"Who brought you?" etc.

The inference is they are practically contract laborers, coming in violation of the alien labor law. Only three of the twelve had money, and the richest of these three possessed ten dollars. All had verbal or written promises of work.

"I make margain when I see cousin," was favorite reply.

"My cousin tell me good wages here."

Two of the Chinese are going to Toronto.

The Shredded Wheat Complimentary Banquet and Concert a Great Success

The Shredded Wheat complimentary banquet and concert under the auspices of the Ladies' A.I. and choir of Charlotte street church last night, was one of the most unique and successful affairs ever held in Peterborough.

The menu for the banquet was arranged and served by the Shredded Wheat Co., Ltd., of Niagara Falls, Ont., under the supervision of Mr. F. Hewitt, the company's representative. The good things that ladened the table were of a most recherche nature as will be seen by the menu, and the numerous delicacies served in their various forms made of shredded Wheat, all were in keeping with the company's motto, "It's all in the shreds."

There was a large crowd present to partake of the company's generosity, who have taken this plan to advertise Shredded Wheat, and by so doing endeavor to help along charitably. The school room of the church was decorated with bunting and flags and the tables laid to present a look of fete. During the banquet Misses Clarry and Campbell rendered music.

The program was an excellent one and was much enjoyed by those present, every number bringing forth an encore.

Following is the program.

Solo—Mr. D. Campbell.
Recitation—Greta Lellarr.
Solo—Mr. B. Morphet.
Reading—Miss L. Thomas.

Gets $200 More Than Entitled To

Mr. Thos Brown of the local cattle buying firm of Morris & Brown, who has recently been in Montreal on business tells a story worth repeating. It seems that a cattle [illegible] Montreal had business on the [illegible] that there, and received a check for four hundred dollars, with the writing in French likewise to cash the cheque at the banks, where he rushed in.

Later in the day the bank clerk found out that he was two hundred dollars short, and looking over his checks, noticed one which he had redeemed for the cattle dealer. On close inspection he found that he had misinterpreted the figures. The bank manager and clerk corralled the cattle dealer at the latter's hotel and [illegible] a return of the $200 paid, [illegible] express. The cattle buyer [illegible] give [illegible] but went home to consult his lawyer.

SAMUEL GOMPERS DEALS WITH LABOR CAUSE IN CANADA

Is Part and Parcel of American Labor Movement Hostile Bill Killed at Ottawa--126 Out of 1,433 Strikes Were Lost.

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 12.—President Gompers in his annual report to the American Federation of Labor calls attention to the growth of the organization during the year, which he says has been one of the busiest in his life time.

Every effort will be made during the coming year to organize the unorganized all over the country. The efforts begun last year by President Gompers to bring the Western Federation of Miners into the A. F. of L. will be renewed.

"No reductions in wages" is still the watchword. This policy, Mr. Gompers says, has had a good effect on industries, and at no time has it had a greater effectiveness than during the recent weeks of financial stringency.

ORGANIZE THE WOMEN.

Mr. Gompers declares that the laws of supply and demand had a place in nature, and in primitive conditions, but with the onward rush of science, man has made nature conform to his wants and the original conception of supply and demand has been overcome. He asks for the abolition of child labor, the organization of women workers, and for further spread of the eight hour work day.

He remarks that the recent commercial telegraphers' strike was inopportune. He says that he advised the officers of the organization in advance of the impracticability of the strike.

FARMERS CO-OPERATING.

Farmers in the Southern and Western States are organizing, pledging to give their patronage to the products of union labor.

The law reducing the hours of labor for men working on the railroads is a step, but it is not satisfactory.

Referring to the labor movement in Canada Mr. Gompers said; "It has been our purpose to aid and assist to the fullest extent of our movement our Canadian fellow-workmen. In the transaction of our affairs we have regarded them as being part and parcel of the American labor movement, as much as our movement is part and parcel of theirs. Geographical lines have in no way interferred with the fullest development of fraternal relations.

OPPOSITION IN CANADA

"Ignorant or prejudiced opposition to the beneficent work of the labor movement finds its counterpart in Canada. It does somewhere in Canada an expression of that feeling was illustrated in a bill by Senator Loughead, the purpose of which was to make it a criminal act for any person not a Canadian, or a British subject to "incite workmen to go out on strike in Canada."

"Of course, it is well known to those who participate in our movement and others who are not hostile, that as a matter of fact our unions, our officers, and our representatives do not "incite" workmen to go on strike either in the United States, or in Canada; that strikes entered into by workmen of their own volition after they themselves have determined upon that action, and when no other recourse is open.

KILLED IN THE SENATE.

"The men of labor in Canada have as much right to conduct their own affairs as have any members of organized labor in the United States. It is not difficult, however, to discern that if such laws as Senator Loughead proposed were possible of enactment, any act which the labor men of Canada might ask of the United States trade unionists to go there and give, would be constructed as an act to "incite" other workmen in Canada to go out on strike. Organized labor of Canada, true to its own interests and to the welfare of all the people of the Dominion, as well as justice toward the labor movement of the United States, protested so emphatically that Senator Loughead's bill was killed by an overwhelming majority in the senate, and hence did not reach the House."

HAVE A BIG STRIKE FUND.

Secretary Morrison in his report says the Federation has just completed the most successful year since its organization in 1881. The strike fund totals $308,078 89. During the year, 273 charters have been granted. There are now 7 central bodies for 1,723 federal unions.

In the year there were 1,433 strikes, involving 130,251 men. The strikes cost $3,090,651.34. Of this number 1,071 of the strikes were successful; 86 were compromised; 126 lost. Of the men involved 93,225 were benefitted. The voting strength of the Federation has grown from 2,747 in 1897 to 16,419.

The paid membership of the Federation is 1,538,970. This is a gain of 1,274,155 over the membership of 1897.

Treasurer Lennon reports that the total funds now in his hands are $127,910 02.

Went Hunting and was Lost

Mr Andrew Hall, of the east ward, went out deer hunting about a week ago, on a lone hunt. He was stopping at a farm house, which he left on Friday morning on a still hunt through the woods. He went farther and farther away from the farm house, and morning found him still in the woods. Fortunately a "threshing bee" was in progress at the farm where he boarded and, on his not returning, those present at the farm organized a search party, which found him. Whilst wandering through the brush, Mr. Hall's eye was pierced by a thorn, an accident which may result in the loss of sight in that optic.

Musicians' Union and The Regimental Bands

Victoria, B.C., November 11.—The Musicians' Union was fined $25, with the option of the secretary spending ten days in jail, for interfering with the members of the Fifth Regiment band while in the uniform of the Canadian militia.

The decision will affect every member of the regimental bands in Canada, and has given the union a decided setback.

In the past the union has endeavored to govern the regimental band in this city, but the decision will prevent any action in the future.

Theatrical

A large and interested audience attended the Grand last night, to see the Wilmott Young Co. produce the "Danites." Peterborough theater goers have had many opportunities of appreciating the dramatic productions of many stock companies, but the bills presented Monday night and last night by Mr. Young, who has the advantage of being supported by a very clever and bright leading lady and a competent staff of actors and actresses, is one of the best that has been put on here.

There is just sufficient of the sensational in the plays produced by the company to meet the demands of patrons of the melodrama houses, while the specialties are far above the average and appeal to the lover of the vaudeville.

The play last night "The Danites" abounds with stirring events from start to finish. In the first act the murderer is given a hot chase, and the scenic productions of the howling wilderness, the exterior of Widder's Cabin, etc., are very attractive. Frederick A. Bigelow as the parson, played his role well, and is an actor of much ability. Harry Lindley came in for well merited applause; this actor always makes a hit with the Peterborough audience. Mr. E. Chas. Morse as the Chinaman, kept the audience in a roar.

"East Lynn" will be the offering for tonight.

They Turn Around At Owen Sound

Toronto, Nov. 12.—Local option is having a strong time of it in Owen Sound.

Two Toronto detective agencies men employed as detectives by the temperance interests were on their way to Owen Sound this morning to give evidence at the trial this afternoon. Their train was met at Orangeville by a mob of fifty men, and it was some time before order was restored.

The chief license inspector at Owen Sound went to Orangeville and it was owing to his efforts that the two detectives got through to the local [illegible].

Last Friday a number of men operating [illegible] cornered one of the detectives in a down town hotel in Toronto, and severely endeavored to get him to tell what he would say at the trial. The man was forced to telephone his office for reinforcements before he managed to make his escape.

They have an original way of advising a man to have a drink in Owen Sound. Instead of "Let's have something," it is "Let's turn around." When they reach the place where [illegible] or ale, they say to the waiter, "Can we turn around?" The waiter turns around to his big pocket which does duty for the wine cellar and everybody "turns around."

Reduce Flour Price

Lake of the Woods Milling Company Lower Price 20c. a Barrel

Montreal, Nov. 9.—The Lake of the Woods Milling Company to-day reduced flour 20 cents per barrel. This reduction in price is on account of the lower wheat market, caused by the financial conditions existing at present, not by any means by supply and demand.

They have not yet advanced the price of feed, although they have cable offers for large quantities of bran, which would net them a much higher price than they are now receiving in the domestic market. The foreigner appears to be a large buyer of flour and feed.

Great Britain Leads the World

Washington, D.C., Nov. 13.—An interesting statement showing the relative order of warship tonnage of the principal powers has been compiled at the office of naval intelligence. It shows that Great Britain leads the world with a tonnage of 1,653,116, the United States following with a tonnage of 611,616, France is third with a tonnage of 609,879, Germany, fourth with a tonnage of 374,641, Japan next with a tonnage of 374,701, and Russia, Italy, and Austria following in the order named.

However, were the war vessels building by the various nations now completed the United States would be third in the list with a tonnage of 771,700, following closely France, which would be second with a tonnage of 777,112, and Great Britain the leader with a tonnage of 1,931,650.

The other naval powers would stand in the same relative position as they do with their tonnage of to-day, although each would show a substantial increase.

Disease in Persia

Consumption Spread by Introduction of Western Ways of Living

London, November 13.—In Tabris, Persia, the increase of pulmonary disease is alarming foreign physicians. This is due to the introduction of western ways of living. Heretofore the housing problem has been a simple one. The edifice furnished was all both cheap and convenient. Every family had its own little house and court. The door and the hole in the roof were open as all summons. Even in winter no attempt was made to heat rooms. An open fire or what might be called a foot warmer—a pan of ashes containing a few red coals—was all.

To make a visit on a Persian in midwinter, when the snow was falling, was something like taking a sleigh ride indoors. The doors and windows were wide open. Host and guest sat on cushions, a wool filled comforter tucked around them, with their feet toward the foot warmer. No boisterous crowds were found in the city streets—they were dark and deserted. No one sat up by artificial light or lay abed when the sun was shining. Now that the comparatively prosperous Armenians and Mahommedans are building houses like ours and trying to heat them with wood stoves, and light them with lamps, a change is beginning to take place in all this. Fuel is scarce and expensive, so every crevice for fresh air has been closed lest any of the precious heat escape. The result as far as health is concerned has been just what might have been expected.

A man is in the General Hospital as a result of injuries sustained in putting up stovepipes. Serves him doing woman's work, anyway!

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

YOU FEEL TIRED ALL THE TIME

High comes and it's hard to keep Morning down and the anxious tired feeling is still there. Unwilling to get up, a strong desire to rest just a little longer.

Unwise to neglect this gradual decline. It can't cure itself,—but Ferrozone by forming rich pure blood at once supplies nutriment for building up the system. This extra nourishment is distributed throughout the entire body, gives force to the nerves, strength to the muscle, and power to the digestive organs.

At once you feel braced, mind and strengthened. You know a powerful force is building up depleted energies, you realize what it means to have the vim and spirit of robust health.

Search the world over and you won't find a tonic to nourish, build up, and fortify a weak, lazy man Ferrozone. Physicians claim it is the best all round strengthening medicine ever discovered.

To take Ferrozone regularly is an insurance policy of health, a guarantee that you will be free from vexatious spells of tiredness and debilitating sickness of every kind. Surely it is worth while trying a medicine that Mrs. H. S. Gold, of Bowsman, Man., speaks of as follows:

"I want to state my case, because I think it may be the means of assisting other suffering woman back to health. A year ago I was almost a wreck. I was pale and emaciated, suffered from nervousness and nervous fits. Little things that went wrong in the house bothered me. The doctor advised different treatments, but they didn't help. He said that my low condition of health was due to weakness that might never be cured. Ferrozone had a peculiar grateful effect and built me up quickly. The ills I suffered from are cured. I am now strong and vigorous, and was made so by Ferrozone." (Signed) Mrs. H. S. Gold.

Before your ill-health assumes a chronic or malignant form build up with Ferrozone. Sold everywhere, 50c. per box or six for $2.50, at all dealers.

GROWTH OF TEMPERANCE

The most striking feature of contemporary social life in Canada is the steady growth of temperance sentiment. Almost every election that is held shows its triumph somewhere. Parts of the country which, in popular notion, have now practically prohibition territory. When the conditions in the several provinces of the Dominion are examined the extent to which the movement for the abolition of the saloon has developed compasses surprise and astonishment.

The result has been attained by the people themselves. There has been no attempt at imposition of prohibition laws from the outside. Provinces and the municipalities have taken up the matter for themselves. The principle of local option has been the controlling factor. The county, the township, the town, or village have voted "wet" or "dry" without outside interference. In some cases there has been a temporary reversal of the decision to be followed later by a return to prohibition. But a score of years has popular sovereignty had long been applied to the question until an examination of the net results seems to show of time not far distant when the communities outside of the larger cities which permit the sale of intoxicating drink may be the exceptions.

Another significant thing is that this result has not been attained because of any community wave which has swept people from their feet. No changes of sentiment have been going up and down throughout the land producing a crusade and leading men by the thousands to sign the pledge. The influences at work have been quiet ones. The increased interest in manual resultant from the study of sociological problems may have had much to do with it. The attitude of the religious forces has been great. The faithfulness of women in their long fight has accomplished much. Whatever the causes of the remarkable movement may be, the facts are plain. That temperance sentiment in the country is stronger than it has ever been.

To many this a political question has not been figured. The great triumphs of temperance have been nonpartisan. It has been a social movement rather than a political one. If the present rate of progress is maintained the provinces and the local communities will solve the problem before many years.

PATRIOTISM IN THE SCHOOLS

The announcement that in the compilation of the new public school readers for Ontario a considerable amount of attention will be paid to patriotic selections has been well received. As a contemporary puts it:

The idea, if carried out, in giving our school children a reader strongly savoring of British and Canadian sentiment and love for their country, is a good one. Not that the Canadian child can not and does not shout lustily on occasions when the unfurling of a Union Jack or the anniversary of some important event in our history occurs, but it is desirable that the child mind should become familiar through literature with those events and those men that have been associated, with the foundation and growth of this Canada of ours. It is proper that there should be a knowledge of the origin of the British and Canadian flags of their triumphs. In times of peace and war, of the brave hearts and strong arms that abandoned the comforts of the homeland to lay deep and mold the national foundations, of the trend of events that have moulded the country and have welded many provinces into one great nation, of the greatness of the country in its resources, its trade relations and its power for good amongst the nations of the world.

It is not enough that the Canadian youth should be taught how delightsome a thing it is to die for one's country; it is more to him to be taught how delightsome a thing it is to live for one's country.

Out of patriotism for our own beloved land should come a respect for the nations about us. Flag incidents do not betoken that hearts heave with patriotism, but rather that gross ignorance and misdirected zeal abound. The true patriot does not attempt to elevate his nation to greatness by decrying his neighbors, but by a loyal support of his country's institutions and laws, irrespective of their relationship to the outside world.

The hope of the nation is in the school room. Therefore every influence that can be brought to bear upon the Canadian child to create and develop a genuine Canadian citizenship should be brought into play.

Fortunately, there is abundance of material, drawn from Canadian history and British history, to accomplish the purpose in view. Nor is patriotism the only thing we could well have something more of in the schools than we have at present. Ethics is a neglected study, regarding which nothing is heard unless the subject is one of sufficient interest to the teacher to lead him to introduce it in an incidental way.

It may easily be taught by means of biography, which can be readily resorted to for the purpose of inculcating great moral truths and inspiring high ideals.

A tickling cough, from any cause, is quickly stopped by Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. And it is so thoroughly harmless and safe, that Dr Shoop tells mothers everywhere to give it without hesitation, even to very young babes. The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a lung healing mountainous shrub furnish the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough, and heals the sore and sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. Simply a resinous plant extract, that helps to heal aching lungs. The Spaniards call this shrub which the doctor uses, "The Sacred Herb." Demand Dr. Shoop's. Take no other. All dealers.

He Saw the Game.

The office boy had buried countless grandmothers, brothers, sisters, aunts and cousins, but he felt an enthusiasm for the baseball game that day which would not be downed.

Suddenly an idea struck him. Approaching the easy boss with an air of familiarity which had been nurtured by long usage he asked:

"May I leave at noon today, sir?"

"And why, my boy?"

"There is a fancy fair at our church and mother wants me to go this afternoon. She was so anxious that she bought me a ticket which cost a dollar, as she was sure you would allow me the few hours off. I have to assist at the refreshment stall, and it seems a pity to waste"—

"But surely you are above such things as that which take you away from your work. Why not give the ticket to one of your sisters?"

"Well, you see, sir, that wouldn't be fair, for I'm the only one of our family who can be depended upon to eat a dollar's worth, and"—

His supreme nerve won the day.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or sub-agency for the district in which the land is situated. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother).

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

TENDERS FOR PULPWOOD CONCESSIONS

Tenders will be received by the undersigned up to and including the 16th of December next for the right to cut pulpwood on certain areas tributary to the Nepigon river, in the district of Thunder Bay, and Rainy Lake, in the district of Rainy River, and make the same into paper. Tenderers should state the amount they are prepared to pay as bonus in addition to such dues as may from time to time be fixed for the right to operate a paper making industry on the areas referred to. Separate tenders must be made for each area or territory, and the successful tenderers will be required to erect a mill or mills on each of the territories or in such other localities as may be approved by the Government of Ontario.

Parties tendering for the pulpwood rights shall accompany their tenders with a marked cheque for 25 per cent. of the amount tendered, payable to the Treasurer of Ontario, and to be forfeited in the event of their failing to enter into agreements to carry out conditions, etc.

With respect to the Rainy Lake River Concession, tenderers will be required to make a tender for the right to cut the pine, tamarac and cedar on the territory offered. Parties making tender for these timbers to state the amount they are prepared to pay per thousand feet B.M. as bonus in addition to Crown dues of $2.00 per thousand feet B.M. A marked cheque for $5,000.00 payable to the Treasurer of Ontario must accompany the tender for this limit, which will be forfeited in the event of their failing to enter into agreements to carry out conditions, etc.

No timber shall be cut on either of the concessions of less diameter than nine inches, two feet from the ground.

The successful tenderers to enter into agreements with the Government for the erection of the mills, expenditure of money, etc.

For full particulars as to the conditions, etc., application should be made to the undersigned.

AIKENSIDE

BY MARY J. HOLMES

Author of "Dora Deane," "The English Orphans," "Lena Rivers," "The Rector of St. Mark's," "Tempest and Sunshine," Etc.

"Would you rather I should not—that is, aside from any inconvenience it may be to me—would you rather go alone?" Guy asked, and Maddy replied:

"Oh, no. I was dreading the long ride, but did not dream of your going. You will shorten it so much."

"Then I shall be paid for going," was Guy's response, as he drew still more closely around her the fancy buffalo robe.

The roads, though badly drifted in some places, were not as bad as Guy had feared, and the strong horses kept steadily on; while Maddy, growing more and more fatigued, at last fell away to sleep, and ceased to answer Guy. For a time he watched her drooping head, and then carefully drawing it to him, made it rest upon his shoulder, while he wound his arm around her slight figure, and so supported her. He knew she was sleeping quietly, by her gentle breathings; and once or twice he involuntarily passed his hand caressingly over her soft, round cheek, feeling the blood tingle to his finger tips as he thought of his position there, with Maddy Clyde sleeping in his arms. What would Lucy say, could she see him? And the doctor, with his strict ideas of right and wrong, would he object? Guy did not know, and, with his usual independence, he did not care. At least, he said to himself he did not care, and so, banishing both the doctor and Lucy from his mind, he abandoned himself to the happiness of the moment—a singular kind of happiness, inasmuch as it merely consisted in the fact that Maddy Clyde's young head was pillowed on his bosom, and that, by bending down, he could feel her sweet breath on his face. Occasionally there flitted across Guy's mind a vague, uneasy consciousness that though the act was under the circumstances, well enough, the feelings which prompted it were not such as either the doctor or Lucy would approve. But they were far away; they would never know unless he told them, as he probably should, of this ride on that wintry night; this ride, which seemed to him so short that he scarcely believed his senses when, without once having been overturned or called upon to use the shovels so thoughtfully provided, the carriage suddenly came to a halt, and he knew by the dim light shining through the low window that the red cottage was reached.

Grandma Markham was dying, but she knew Maddy, and the palsied lips worked painfully as she attempted to utter the loved name; while her wasted face lighted up with eager joy as Maddy's arms were twined about her neck, and she felt Maddy's kisses on her cheek and brow. Could she not speak? Would she never speak again? Maddy asked despairingly, and her grandfather replied: "Never, most likely. The only thing she's said since the shock was to call your name. She's missed you despatly this winter back, more than ever before, I think. So have we all, but we would not send for you—Mr. Guy said you was learning so fast."

"Oh, grandpa, why didn't you? I would have come so willingly," and for an instant Maddy's eyes flashed reproachfully upon the recreant Guy, standing aloof from the little group gathered about the bed, his arms folded together, and a moody look upon his face.

He was thinking of what had not yet entered Maddy's mind, thinking of the future—Maddy's future, when the aged form upon the bed should be gone, and the two comparatively helpless men be left alone.

"But it shall not be. The sacrifice is far too great. I can prevent it, and I will," he muttered to himself, as he turned to watch the gray dawn breaking in the east.

Guy was a puzzle to himself. He would not admit that during the past year his liking for Maddy Clyde had grown to be something stronger than mere friendship, nor yet that his feelings toward Lucy had undergone a change, prompting him not to go to her when she was sick, and not to be as sorry as he ought that the marriage was again deferred. Lucy had no suspicion of the change, and her childlike trust in him was the anchor which held him still true to her in intentions at least, if not in reality. He knew from her letters how much she had learned to like Maddy Clyde, and so, he argued, there was no harm in his liking her too. She was a splendid girl, and it seemed a pity that her lot should have been so humbly cast. This was usually the drift of his thoughts in connection with her, and now, as he stood there in that cottage, Maddy's home, they recurred to him with tenfold intensity, for well he foresaw that a struggle was before him if he rescued Maddy, as he meant to do, from her approaching fate.

No such thoughts, however, intruded themselves on Maddy's mind. She did not look away from the present, except it were at the past, in which she feared she had erred by leaving her grandmother too much alone. But to her passionate appeals for forgiveness, if she ever had neglected the dying one, there came back only loving looks and mute caresses, the aged hand smoothing lovingly the bowed head, or pressing fondly the girlish cheeks where Guy's hand had been. With the coming of daylight, however, there was a change; and Maddy, listening intently, heard what sounded like her name. The tired tongue was loosed for a little, and in tones scarcely articulate, the disciple who for long years had served her Heavenly Father faithfully, bore testimony to the blessed truth that God's promises to those who love Him are not mere promises—that He will go with them through the river of death, disarming the fainting soul of every fear, and making the dying bed the very gate of heaven. This tribute to the Saviour was her first thought, while the second was a blessing for her darling, a charge to seek the narrow way now in life's early morning. Disjointed sentences they were, but Maddy understood them all, treasuring up every word even to the last, the words the farthest apart and most painfully uttered, "You—will—care—and—comfort—"

She did not say whom, but Maddy knew whom she meant; and without then realizing the magnitude of the act, virtually accepted the burden from which Guy was so anxious to save her.

CHAPTER XVIII.

Grandma Markham was dead, and the covered sleigh, which late in the afternoon plowed its way heavily back to Aikenside, carried only Mrs. Noah, who, with her forehead tied up in knots, sat back among the cushions, thinking not of the peaceful dead gone forever to the rest which remains for the people of God, but of the wayward Guy, who had resisted all her efforts to persuade him to return with her, instead of staying where he was not needed, and where his presence was a restraint to all save one, and that one Maddy, for whose sake he stayed.

"She'd be vumined," the indignant old lady said, "if she would not write to Lucy herself if Guy did not quit such doin's," and thus resolving she kept on her way, while the subject of her wrath was, it may be, more than half repenting of his decision to stay, inasmuch as he began to have an unpleasant consciousness of himself being in everybody's way.

In the first hour of Maddy's bereavement he had not spoken with her, but had kept himself aloof from the room where, with her grandfather and Uncle Joseph, she sat, holding the poor aching head of the latter in her lap and trying to speak a word of consolation to the old, broken-hearted man, whose hand was grasped in hers. But Maddy knew he was there. She could hear his voice each time he spoke to Mrs Noah, and that made the desolation easier to bear. She did not look forward to the time when he would be gone; and when at last he told her he was going, she started quickly, and with a gush of tears, exclaimed: "No, no! oh, no!"

Your health is surely worth this simple test.

An English Amenity.

A striking difference between our manners and those of our English cousins was shown one day at a garden party. The hostess, an American, was speaking to one of her guests, an Englishwoman of rank.

"Dear Lady B.," she said, "here are some sandwiches which I made with my own hands, particularly for you. You know I've often told you about our American sandwiches and how good they are. Here are different sorts, lettuce and cucumbers. If you care for 'grass,' or if you like a savory better try the cream cheese ones with pimentoes. I've some sweet ones, too, raisins and nuts chopped together—which will you try first?"

She held a plate in each hand, a plate filled with dainty looking sandwiches, and they were extended invitingly toward her guest, who looked at them critically, then said in the clear, high pitched voice of the well bred Englishwoman:

"Oh, thank you, so kind of you, but do you know I never touch the nawsty things?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Chance For a Home Run.

A clever teacher who has the power of calling out originality in her pupils says that she would have no use for text books if she took time to answer all the startling questions asked in the classroom. One day the attraction of gravitation was under discussion when one of the boys said that he didn't see any need of it, anyway.

"It seems to me," said he, "there's no particular use in having the earth attract things. Now, when the apple fell and made Newton think out the reason for it, that apple might just as well have stayed where it was until somebody gathered it."

"You play ball, don't you?" asked the teacher. "Well, suppose you knock the ball very high, what happens?"

"It falls."

"But if there were no attraction toward the earth it wouldn't fall. Don't you think that might prove inconvenient?"

"My," cried the boy, "what a belly chance for a home run!"

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys usually point to weak Kidney nerves. The Kidneys, like the Heart, and the Stomach, need their regulation, not in the organs itself, but in the nerves that control and guide and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the Kidneys alone, is futile. It is a waste of time, and of use of no avail.

If your back aches or is weak, if the urine spoils, or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms of Bright's or other disordering or dangerous kidney disease, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month. Tablets or Liquid—and see what it can and will do for you. Druggists recommend and sell

ANTIGUA GOLD-COPPER Co.

Offers the Biggest and Most Attractive Mining Investment Now Before the Public.

ITS HOLDINGS ARE MINES--NOT PROSPECTS

With Vast Bodies of Ore Ready for the Mill, Now Nearing Completion.

THOMAS W. LAWSON

"Copper stocks offer the biggest opportunity for money making in the world today. A good copper mine is really a safe-deposit vault of stored up dividends which cannot be stolen or destroyed by fire, flood or famine."

CECIL RHODES

said: "Mining offers a greater inducements than any other business in the world to make quick and great wealth."

CHARLES M. SCHWAB

says: "The big fortunes of the next twenty-five years will come from Mother Earth." Among all mining investments none stand ahead of copper for safety, permanency and profit.

Lay the Foundation for Your Fortune Today

THE ANTIGUA PROPERTIES

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company holdings consist of 551 acres, situated in Honduras, Central America, 100 miles southeast from Puerto Cortez, and midway between New Orleans and Panama. Development work is being pushed with all possible speed and more than 1,500 feet of tunneling and cross cuts has been completed. A 40 to 50-ton capacity gold-silver mill is in course of construction, and will be in operation before the close of the year.

Development work has conclusively proven that every acre of our holdings are rich in gold, copper and silver, and that every ton of this great ore body will yield a handsome profit on milling expense. The ore exposed on the surface does not show the usual signs of the form, but may be obtained by quarrying, and can, according to estimates of experts, be quarried and treated for the gold and silver on an extensive scale at a cost of less than $1.00 a ton. Think of it! A solid mountain of rich ore, from the very grass roots, of which may be washed gold.

Beyond a doubt Honduras has beneath its soil larger, richer deposits of copper, gold and silver than any other section of the American continent. Spain, during her occupancy in that country, took out more than $800,000,000 in gold alone—and she scarcely scraped the Earth's surface. There is evidence that the pre-historic races knew how to mine and utilize copper—smelting it in their crude way.

The original incorporators of the Antigua Gold-Copper Company put thousands of dollars of their own money in bringing this property to its present stage of development. They opened up the mine on every side with tunnels, crosscuts and shafts. They purchased machinery and began the erection of a gold-silver mill—now nearing completion. These men appreciated from the first that this mine was destined to become one of the greatest copper-gold-silver properties in America; and that it justified more extensive and more rapid development than they were able to make without the co-operation and financial assistance of the public.

The average assay values of Antigua ores, ranging from the surface to a depth of 200 feet, is over 5 per cent copper. This is above the average of the ore of the world's greatest producers, the famous Anaconda yielding ore which averages only a little over 3 per cent. The Anaconda has little other ore value; while our property, in addition to the copper, carries $7.00 to $11.00 a ton in gold and silver.

WHY STOCK IS SOLD

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company finds itself in precisely the same position as the farmer who has a larger farm than he can cultivate with the capital in hand. He knows that with additional capital and assistance he could make the land yield abundant crops and enormous profits. In the same way we intend, by the investment of additional capital, to bring our enormous ore bodies to a highly profitable state of development, at the earliest possible moment. For this reason a limited amount of treasury stock is offered the public. In this way funds will be available for immediate use in purchasing additional machinery and for continuing vigorous development of the property.

THERE ARE NO PREFERRED SHARES AND NO BONDS TO COME FIRST IN THE DIVISION OF PROFITS.

and your shares will earn as much as a like number of shares owned by any other stockholder in the company. Each share CARRIES WITH IT THE RIGHT TO VOTE, so that with a single share you have every right, privilege and protection possessed by any other stockholder.

Stock is now being sold at $2.50 a share, and his stock, we firmly believe, will, within a year, be selling at its par value of $5.00 a share, or higher; nor will it stop there. If you are desirous of permanently increasing your income, of making an investment that is not only secure, but immensely profitable, reserve shares TO-Day.

Such an investment opportunity can scarcely be repeated. It is made possible only by extraordinary natural conditions. Millions of dollars of copper, gold and silver will be marketed from the mines—fortunes will be reaped as a result of the prompt seizure of the opportunity we offer you to-day.

REPORT OF AN EXPERT

Much weight can justly be given the statement of a properly qualified and reliable mining engineer. Such is the character of T. M. Foster, from whose report on Antigua we make the following extracts:

"From the development work done and the indications shown by the croppings, I am convinced this is one of the largest gold-copper deposits in existence, and under proper development will make one of the richest mining properties in America. * * * I consider this ore an ideal smelting proposition, there being an abundance of iron, lime and silica in close proximity. There is plenty of water for power and milling purposes, and an abundance of timber on the property. * * *

"A large amount of development work has been done on this property in tunnels, drifts and shafts, ranging from 30 to possibly 200 feet in length. * * * This work has all been in ore—in fact, the ore body on the surface is shown to be fully one-half mile wide by two miles in length. To judge from the development work done this property is all ore—no matter where work was started, ore was encountered.

"The company is erecting a mill, consisting of one five-stamp and three Huntingtons, to work the surface ore. This surface ore is mostly free milling, the copper and galena sulphides being oxidized, freeing the gold, and being readily amalgamated. But I am confident that at no very great depth copper sulphides will be encountered, as there are many places in this great ore body where the sulphides crop to the surface. I have taken a dozen samples from various places on the lead, and from these made free gold tests, finding an average of over $6.00 a ton in FREE gold, and from 5 to 7% per cent copper. Native copper is frequently seen in this ore. If the Antigua mines continue in depth as on the surface, a 1,000 ton smelter will not work it out in 100 years. * * *

"* * * With good management and proper development, it will be but a short time until the stock of the company will be worth more than par. I fully believe that if this great ore body is properly developed there is a mine here worth many millions of dollars.

PITTSBURG - IDAHO

Mining and Milling Company

The mine is located 58 miles above Lewiston, Idaho, on the Clearwater river, and consists of 19 full claims, or 380 acres. It is developed by tunnels, shafts and open cuts for more than 2100 feet, disclosing thousands of tons of copper, gold and silver ores of both high grade and low grade. There are between 1000 and 2000 tons of ore ready for shipment. The entrance to the working tunnel is only 2000 feet from the track of the Northern Pacific railroad, to be reached by gravity tramway. There are seven parallel veins running lengthwise of the claims, one cropping out on the surface for 5500 feet and another for 3000 feet; while two veins cross these running into the mountain. These veins are from 30 to 200 feet wide. One ore chute has been crosscut 90 feet and is solid ore from wall to wall.

We are not asking you to buy in a prospect. That risk was taken by the promoters. We are asking you to buy in a developed, proven mine. Seven years of continuous work and the expenditure of thousands of dollars has proven up one of the greatest mines in Idaho. That mine is now ready to pour out its red and yellow wealth to the world with the installing of an up to date production plant. It is for that purpose that a block of its treasury stock, full paid and non-assessable, is offered for sale. We believe that within six months from the completion of a 100-ton plant the mine can be put on a dividend paying basis, and that those dividends will be substantial and permanent. There is no better investment proposition before the people at this time.

Drastic Purgatives Destroy the Intestines

If you burn your hand you have a good example of the sort of inflammation that the Drastic Purgatives excite in the intestines. Yet many people consider the virtue of purgative pills depends upon their activity.

Dr. Hamilton was the first to produce a pill that would cleanse the system not by drastic action, but by exciting normal secretion of kidneys liver, and bowels.

The deepest recesses of the system are searched by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Poisonous and depressing accumulations whether stored in the lymphatic, kidneys, liver or bowels are driven out—forward cleanliness is effected.

You are sure to feel better, sure to experience the buoyancy of robust health that comes with Dr. Hamilton's Pills. No medicine is more gentle, more searching, or surer to give that buoyant feeling of sound health. For the family no remedy is so universally satisfactory as Dr. Hamilton's Pills. 25 cents per box at all dealers.

Tenders for Snow Ploughing

At a meeting of the city Board of Works, the city engineer was instructed to advertise for tenders for snow plowing on the same terms, and for the same districts, as last year. In the discussion on the subject, it was pointed out by the engineer that the city's supply of iron plows was too small. At present there are five of these plows, while the engineer thought that there should be ten, at least.

The steamer Monarch came up the river Monday night with a cargo of potatoes and grain and the same day the Water Lily brought down the tow of cribs from Carlisle's Bay, above the lift lock for the Peterborough Lumber Company. The steamer Rainbow passed through yesterday with a scow load of tanbark from Buckhorn which goes to the tannery at Hastings. The Dawn arrived in part Monday morning from Clear Lake with a scow load of stone.

Praise for Nicholls Hospital

Nicholls hospital is gaining much ground in the confidence of the public, so that the wards are continually filled to the utmost capacity. Under the able management of Miss De la Mater many improvements have been made, and the hospital is, today, one of the best equipped. The Protestant public of Peterborough should loyally support this institution, which, through the generosity of the late Mrs. Nicholls, is absolutely no expense to the community. At the graduating exercises held at the Y.M.C.A. on October 8th, five nurses graduated. The attendance was so large that hundreds were turned away on account of the limited room. — St. Luke's Parish Magazine.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Former Peterboro Citizens Robbed

It seems that the fact of having come from the city of Peterborough, where all citizens are supposed to be good, does not save her citizens who emigrate from being victims of robbers. Daughters of Mr. and Mrs. John Craig, Hunter street east, went to Buffalo, and a few days ago were robbed there of some diamond rings.

Burglars got into their residence at night, and stole a diamond ring belonging to Mrs. Hay, and also one the property of her sister, Miss Craig. The whole house was ransacked and many valuables stolen. Mr. and Mrs. Craig of East Side have been informed of the theft. No clue has yet been had as to the identity of the burglars.

FATHER AND SON.

Pathetic Tragedy of the War Between the States.

Not all the sad stories of wartime come from the battlefield. Many a heartbreak is not recorded on the list of the killed and wounded. The civil war knew no more tragic occurrence than the following incident, taken from the New York Sun: A soldier had enlisted from his home in Georgia, where his father remained undisturbed through the struggle. The young man fought through the war without a scratch, save a slight wound which left him a little deaf. This affliction he never mentioned in his letters.

After the surrender he sent his father word that he would reach home about a certain date. Travel then was uncertain, and he could not tell just when he would arrive.

His father prepared to receive him. He had brought out the best plate, which had been secreted for a long time, and with gold which had been exhumed he bought such substantials and delicacies as the southern market at that time afforded. As many of the old time neighbors as were living in the vicinity were invited to the home coming.

The young soldier arrived on the plantation the night before the earliest date he had mentioned. It was late, and the family had retired, but the dog heard the noise and began to bark. The sound roused the father, who rose and got his shotgun. The country was overrun at the time with stragglers and sneak thieves. The father, gun in hand, went to the door, saw the approaching figure and challenged it. The young man, being deaf, made no reply, but still advanced, whereupon the father raised his gun and fired. His son fell, shot through the heart.

It was a pitiful sight to see that almost crazed father carrying his lifeless son into the home which had been made ready to welcome him. The next day the guests arrived. Instead of joyously greeting the returned soldier they gazed at the still form, wrapped in the flag for which the young man had bravely fought. Every private burial ground had in it a grave made by the war, but no funeral like that ever took place in the vicinity or possibly in the whole south.

HAILSTONES.

The Part Electricity is Said to Play in Their Formation.

The formation of hail through electrical action, according to the theory of scientists attached to the weather bureau at Washington, is an interesting and even wonderful process.

The wind draws out a cloud into a long, narrow strip. In that form, owing to the great amount of surface exposed to the air, the cloud evaporates rapidly, and the rapid evaporation produces intense cold. Dry particles of snow are then formed, and these, by friction with the water drops, quickly become charged with negative electricity. But the water drops themselves carry positive electricity, and, since negative attracts positive, a film of water is formed upon each snow particle and is instantly frozen into a layer of ice.

At this thickness its outer surface remains moist, the water not freezing there so rapidly, whereupon the electrical charge changes from negative to positive, and the particle is repelled by the water drops and driven to the outer parts of the cloud. Here the increased cold covers it with snow again, and friction charges it anew with negative electricity. Repulsion is now once more changed for attraction, and the particles rush back into the cloud, receiving upon their surfaces another film of water, which is turned into second ice layers.

Thus the growing hailstone darts zigzag through the clouds, piling up its alternate layers of snow and ice until gravitation gains control and sends it, with a jingling crowd of its fellows, spinning to the ground.

The Spanish Duchess.

A duchess enters a shop. Do you imagine she will be more courteously received than a little milliner? Not at all, for both are instantly made at home and treated to the hidalgo's finest manner. But she will never be the less a duchess because she and the shopkeeper are on the best of terms. Her unconsciousness of her rank in everyday relations, which would stupefy an English duchess, comes from the fact that she belongs to a prouder race. Had she a mind to sport her coronet in a shop the owner and his attendants would speedily make short work of her decorative dignity. To them it would simply mean an underbred and foolish exhibition, for impertinence and vulgar haughtiness are not defects the Spaniards will tolerate.

An Old Timer.

In an old diary bearing the date of 1775 several pages are devoted to cash accounts. On one of these is a quaintly worded statement, duly witnessed and dated.

The spelling is not particularly commendable, but spelling was an uncertain art in those days and even now is a gift denied to some:

Market Clerk Gets Two Deer

Mr. W. A. McIlmoyle, the city market clerk, succeeding in killing two deer while hunting in the vicinity of Buckhorn. He left the city Saturday and started out early Monday morning. The day spent in the woods was certainly well rewarded, and Mr. McIlmoyle will no doubt have some good stories of the chase to relate to the crowd that daily warms its shins about the stove in the market weigh scales office.

Is very careful about her churn. She scalds it thoroughly after using, and gives it a sun bath to sweeten it. She knows that if her churn is sour it will taint the butter that is made in it. The stomach is a churn. In the stomach and digestive and nutritive tracts are performed processes which are almost exactly like the churning of butter. Is it not apparent then that if this stomach-churn is foul it makes foul all which is put into it?

The evil of a foul stomach is not alone the bad taste in the mouth and the foul breath caused by it, but the corruption of the pure current of blood and the dissemination of disease throughout the body. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes the sour and foul stomach sweet. It does for the stomach what the washing and sun bath do for the churn—absolutely removes every tainting or corrupting element. In this way it cures blotches, pimples, eruptions, scrofulous swellings, sores, or open eating ulcers and all humors or diseases arising from bad blood.

If you have bitter, nasty, foul taste in your mouth, coated tongue, foul breath, are weak and easily tired, feel depressed and despondent, have frequent headaches, dizzy attacks, gnawing or distress in stomach, constipated or irregular bowels, sour or bitter risings after eating and poor appetite, these symptoms, or any considerable number of them, indicate that you are suffering from biliousness, torpid or lazy liver with the usual accompanying indigestion, or dyspepsia and their attendant derangements.

[illegible] known to medical science [illegible] conditions, as attested by the writings of leading teachers and practitioners of all the several schools of medical practice, have been skillfully and harmoniously combined in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. That this is absolutely true will be readily proven to your satisfaction if you will but mail a postal card request to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for a free copy of his booklet of extracts from the standard medical authorities, giving the names of all the ingredients entering into his world-famed medicines and showing what the most eminent medical men of the age say of them.

Said to Be Jacob's Well.

A German traveler, writing from Palestine to a Cologne paper, says: "Our guide, a tall, swarthy, long bearded man, who could earn much money as a model, grew eloquent when we came to Schechem, a place which should be sacred to the Hebrews because its history is so closely interwoven with theirs. Here we saw what is known as Jacob's well, which is in the shadow of Mount Gerizim. It is about seventy feet deep, they told us, and eight feet in diameter. 'Here,' said our guide, 'stood the oak of Moreh, where Abraham, when he came to Canaan, built the first altar. In the days of Jacob, Schechem had become a business town, and here it was that the traders of that time came with their live stock and products of the field to trade.' All its commercial greatness has vanished, but it will attract religious people as long as the well, which is still in a good state of preservation, remains."

Jesse's Adventure.

Jesse, who is just learning to talk, always speaks of himself as "she." Not long since he ran in, trembling with excitement, and announced:

"Oh, mamma, she 'tum to de house, an' she see me, an' she hum, an' she shake her wing at she, an' she run away."

THE HALF OF CHINA WOULD COME OVER BUT FOR POLL TAX

If $500 Poll Tax were Removed Chinese Multitudes Would Pour In--Yip Sang's Sharp Reply

Vancouver, B.C., Nov. 14. — Yip Sang, Vancouver's wealthiest Chinaman, told Immigration Commissioner King yesterday afternoon that he believed half of China would come over here if it were not for the practically prohibitive head tax. Yip continued: "If that head tax were removed, I would import Chinese laborers just as did Onderdonk 25 years ago, when the fare was only thirty-five dollars But the companies here cannot afford importations at five hundred each."

Commissioner: "There's no tax on Japs. Are the companies bringing them over?"

"I not tell too fast what I think" replied the witness sharply, and the examination ended.

Earlier in the enquiry Yip said: "Wages are too high here. That's what brings them. Chinese laborers now wants $2.50 per day, when we got them few years for half that. All over China they know of good wages here, and would come if could afford it."

The result of the examination yesterday went to show that if the Chinese tax were removed there would be a tremendous influx of Chinese that would put in the shade the Japs and Hindoos combined.

The Government Has a Plan to Relieve the Crop Situation

Ottawa, Nov. 13.—Mr. Fielding declines to make public the details of his plans for relieving the Western crop situation. The situation thus remains rather vague, as everything depends on the measures to be adopted and these he is unwilling as yet to disclose. The announcement made is that a large portion of the crop is peculiarly dependent upon rapid movement—which was known—and that the government has decided to "co-operate with the banks"—but how it is to co-operate is the whole point of interest. It is fairly to be guessed that the government has adopted the plan brought down from Winnipeg by a small but influential deputation consisting of Senator Young, Senator Watson and Mr. C. C. Castles, chief warehouse commissioner. This deputation first communicated with Sir Richard Cartwright and then with the finance department; Mr. Fielding's visit to Montreal and the announcement followed.

REMOVE BANKS' EMBARGO.

Speaking generally, it is to be surmised that the project is to induce the banks to remove their embargo on grain transactions. They have shut down on everything but actual out-and-out purchases, thereby disorganizing the usual course of business; the object of the government is to induce them to greater liberality in this respect; the means whereby this is to be effected remains Mr. Mr. Fielding's secret.

The steps that were being taken, Mr Fielding said, gave assurance that the banks which usually handled this class of business would be able to meet all reasonable demands, and be believed the crop would now move quickly.

INCREASE NOTE CIRCULATION

In other quarters it is said that the banks will be temporarily permitted to increase their note circulation beyond the limit prescribed by the Banking Act. If they are permitted to exceed this for a limited period, and for the purpose of assisting the farmer to market his crop, it is thought by some that the desired end will be attained.

It is understood that the government were informed that in order to get the maximum quantity of grain out of the country before the close of navigation additional funds to the extent of from five to ten million dollars would be required. By the co-operation of the banks it is believed this can be done.

The chief difficulty has been in moving grain east of Port William to the seaboard.

There are some 22,000,000 or 25,000,000 bushels of Western wheat unfit for milling, which must be marketed forthwith. This wheat is excellent food for cattle now, but if allowed to remain in the elevators until the spring it will be absolutely spoiled.

Shipment of Bison From the New York Zoo to Oklahoma

New York, Nov. 14.—Time was when the plains of the west were covered with bison and the very earth shook beneath the tread of these noble animals as they moved in herds of thousands and tens of thousands over the rich grass of the prairies. For centuries the Indians lived upon the bison, getting from it their food and raiment and in many cases their fuel supply and dwellings or tents. But now the bison in the wild state is practically extinct. Small herds are found in the national park and in zoological gardens, but the great herds which once roamed the fertile plains are as extinct as the dodo. Mans rascally practically exterminated them. They were killed for their hides, for their food value and often were slaughtered for the mere lust of slaughter. Great herds were wantonly stampeded over precipices and thousands killed. The prairies of the west are covered with their bones.

Only a few bison remain, as said, in national and private parks and in zoological gardens; and the singular spectacle is now seen of shipping bison from the New York Zoological Park to Oklahoma, where the government has set aside a park of 10 acres for the purpose of raising them. This is like shipping coal to Newcastle with a vengeance. The shipment from New York consisted of ten cows and five bulls, taken from a herd of 46.

The Know How

When a man happens to be late to breakfast he is liable to cripple himself for the morning's work by eating too fast, he can't digest it or perhaps is with but half enough.

If he happens to know that he can get all the nourishment he needs for strength of brain and body, and get it in a few minutes by eating Grape-Nuts and cream, he's all right. A Mass. man writes:

"About 3 years ago I was taken with a pain in my back and legs that got so bad I had to rest two or three times on the road to work. Finally, after trying various doctors and hospitals, I had to give up my work and go to the country.

"I spent most of my money this way, tried electric belts, too, but all to no good. They called it rheumatism, but after reading up a good deal on the subject, I came to the conclusion it was a weakness of the nerve centres, and began to look for something to strengthen them.

"By chance I got a package of Grape-Nuts and read the "Road to Wellville," I found inside. After eating a few packages my lameness began to get better and finally left me, which is worth at least $2000.00 to me.

"I can now work hard, walk as far and as much as most men years you greater than I am, which is 60. When my friends come to visit me I give them the booklet, "The Road to Wellville" with the advice that they'll get there if they travel that road." There's a Reason". Warsaw Hunter Gets Bears and Deer

The Payne hunting party from Norwood, who are out on the northern wilds a hunting, have had some experiences that were thrilling. The first day of their arrival at the hunting grounds, they captured two bears. The animals were fine specimens from reports received here and their captures are said to be of an exciting character. The party also got four deer the same day.

Important Papyri Discovered in Egypt

London, Nov. 13.—None of the recent archaeological discoveries in Egypt is more interesting than that just reported by Prof. Clermont Ganneau, who tells how the German scientific mission, working on the Island of Elephanta, in the Nile, has dug up some papyri which, translated, turn out to be an authentic page to be added to the Scriptural Book of Nehemiah.

According to Prof. Flinders Petrie, this latest discovery seems to furnish indisputable proof that the Jews were in Egypt far earlier than has commonly been supposed.

Last month the discovery of the "Logia" of Jesus, taking us back to the origin of Christianity, was followed by the excavation of a lost comedy of Menander. Indeed, until recently explorers were almost daily unearthing relics of the Greek and Egyptian eras, but it was seldom that any Jewish fragment was turned up.

This latest discovery is an official document of the seventeenth year of Darius, addressed to the Persian governor of Judea by the Jewish priests who had been attached to the temple of Elephanta up to the time of its destruction by order of one of the Egyptian officials, procured from him by a bribe furnished by economics of the Jews. The permission was granted and the temple was rebuilt.

Deserted by Husbands and Fathers They Seek Relief

Toronto, Nov. 13.—With a babe of two months clasped tightly to her breast for warmth, and another poorly clad tot of two years tugging at her threadbare skirts, a young woman from Ottawa, called at the office of Mr. Taylor, the city relief officer, this morning, and requested assistance.

She said her husband deserted her five months ago. Since then she had heard nothing from him, and had striven hard to get a decent living in Canada's wealthy capital for herself and two children. The other day a friend told her that her husband was in Toronto, and she sold her scanty furniture and came down here to look for him, all to no purpose.

WANTED TO WORK.

Almost discouraged she found her way to the city hall this morning and asked Mr. Taylor to help her to get the children into a home there so that she could go out to work. As she is nursing the baby this would be a difficult proposition. Mr. Taylor offered to secure her transportation to Ottawa, and she will probably go back.

ANOTHER CASE.

Another deserted wife called on Mr. Taylor this morning. She has been living on Eastern avenue and has one child, six years old. Five months ago with her husband and boy they came from England, a happy and hopeful trio. Two months ago, the husband went away—the wife doesn't know where—and the unfortunate woman, in the face of winter and want does not know what to do.

Mr. Taylor will see what can be done toward helping her out with the necessities of life.

Selling Cattle at Bargain Prices

Kingston, Nov. 13—A panic has struck the farmers in the rear of Addington over the probable shortage of fodder, and there was a wholesale slaughter of stock, meat and hides being sold at most ridiculously low prices. A farmer says more loss to stock has occurred unnecessarily than will take the next five years to redeem. Fodder is fairly plentiful and pasturage has been unusually good all fall, but high prices tempt the farmer to part with his fodder and sell his stock. Beaver hay sells at $15 a ton and cows from $5 to $8 each. Who ever heard of the like before.

Complaint That Bridge is Unsafe

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Dear Sir,—I remember seeing in your paper some months ago several articles about the Black Bridge. This possibly refers to the bridge at Smith street. Editor, calling attention to its unsafe condition. Have you noted that the city engineer who had had the bridge closed to traffic, was seemingly impelled by public pressure to allow traffic to pass over the structure.

Now, Sir, on Tuesday night I and my wife, with a young lady in the buggy passed over the bridge. I tell you, Mr. Editor, that while only in a light trot and driving carefully, we could feel the bridge perceptibly sway under our weight. In fact both myself, my wife and our friend were frightened and feared that the bridge might collapse at any moment. The structure as we drove across swayed manifestly, and reminded me of crossing a bending plank stretched over some gap.

While there may be a number of people to whom the use of the bridge is a convenience, is it right for the city or its engineer to allow public traffic to over a bridge that sways from the weight of a single rig lightly loaded?

Will this not, sooner or later result in a terrible catastrophy, where lives will be lost, limbs broken and horses killed simply because city officials let things run along in the mean time it will be too late to "investigate" after a load of stone, brick, hay, potatoes or some such produce falls through into the river and two or three men are maimed or drowned.

Would it not be better to close this bridge up altogether against traffic until such time as the city is willing or financially able to rebuild this obsolete and dangerous structure with a safe and modern structure.

Yours truly,

N. C. MENTICE

Hundreds of Arrests Being Made of Men in Big Lottery Scheme

Biggest Scheme Yet for Making Millions Out of Public Discovered

Arrests Made in Chicago St. Louis, Fort Wayne and Other Places

Chicago, Nov. 13.—A morning paper today says; "The biggest lottery in operation in the United States, which has been running for more than twenty years, with headquarters in Chicago, is claimed to have been exposed last night by arrests in this and other cities. The United States secret service men assert that the promoters of the scheme have made millions of dollars, and that there are big men behind it, who will be reached through the prosecution of the men now under arrest.

"Under the name of the Old Reliable Guaranty Loan and Trust Company, it is alleged the lottery maintained three luxuriously furnished offices and a large printing establishments here.

HELD UNDER HEAVY BAIL.

"Secret Service Agents Harry T. Donaghy, Otto F. Klinke, and Lawrence Richey, raided all four of these establishments last night, and obtained thousands of tickets, lottery paraphernalia, checks, and returns from agents, and the blanks from which the tickets were printed.

"D. N. Jones, alias D. N. Kissam, was arrested as the head of the concern, and John F. Miner as a partner. Miner claimed to be in the real estate business. Warrants were issued for Miss Cora Green, confidential secretary of Jones and Walter Schimbky, the bookkeeper at the local headquarters. At midnight Jones, Miner, and Miss Green were arraigned before United States Commissioner Mark Moote, and held under heavy bail for trial.

SEVERAL ARRESTS MADE

George E. Geisler, the St. Louis agent of the concern, was arrested in that city, and a large number of lottery tickets and records confiscated.

"Frank Falkyr, agent at Fort Wayne, Ind., was arrested by Agent Donaghy.

"Charles and Royal Hummer were arrested at Indianapolis by Agent Klinke.

"John T. Markland was arrested at McKeesport, Pa. All were held under heavy bonds.

"The secret service men, from the records that they have obtained, expect to make more than 100 arrests in various cities of the country.

EXPRESS COMPANIES, TOO

"An attempt will also be made to involve express companies as agents or accomplices under the Federal Act of 1895, forbidding the operation of lotteries.

"Under its various names the lottery has been conducted on the regular lottery scheme, except that the prizes have been all out of proportion to the receips and the commissions have been heavy."

Another Trent Valley Canal Contract Let

Superintending Engineer Grant of the Trent Valley canal, yesterday announced that the contract for section No. 1 of the canal has been awarded to Mr. Louis P. Nott of Montreal, an English firm, for the contract price of $870,000.

Section No. 1, of the Trent Canal, is practically all that portion extending from the Bay of Quinte, until the second section is met with. Strictly speaking, it begins at the point that marks deep water above the Trenton bridge, about one-half a mile above the bay, to one mile above Glen Miller Bridge. This distance is estimated at 4 1-2 miles in length, and in the construction of it there will be three dams and three locks necessary.

The first two locks will have a lift of 20 feet each, and the third a lift of 27 feet. The first one will be situated at the crossing of the main line of the G.T.R. at Trenton, near the station; the second, one-half mile above, on the Trent river, and the third at Glen Miller bridge.

The contract work will begin as soon as the plant has been installed on the ground. It is probable, therefore, that the excavation work on the rock, etc., will begin this winter. The agreement with the contractors stipulates that the work must be completed by March 31, 1909.

Storms, Floods, Quakes, Eruptions

Rome, Nov. 13.—Signor Alfani, director of the Florence Observatory, says that the sun spots, which he calculated are twelve times the size of the earth, and which will reach the solar meridian about the middle of November, are likely to lead to violent magnetic disturbances, resulting in storms, floods, volcanic eruptions, and earthquakes.

The warning has attracted attention from the fact that former predictions of Signor Alfani have been realized.

Found Germ of Hydrophobia

Washington, Nov. 14.—Hydrophobia is pronounced a real disease, germ generated and infectious. Such is the conclusion reached by the government scientists at Bethesda Farm, an experiment station of the Department of Agriculture in the suburbs of Washington, at which place many strange experiments with the idea of finally settling the mooted question.

In two instances mad dogs have been killed in the neighborhood, and these, with the horses and cows they had bitten, have formed the basis of the experiments. The bitten animals have been retained at the farm, and the development of rabies carefully followed. Aside from this, microscopic examinations of the dead dogs have successfully isolated the germ responsible for the disease. Inoculations of rabbits were made. In every case the inoculated animal developed rabies and died. The last of the series of experiments terminated recently, resulting in the death of a dozen rabbits.

Decline of the Freak Car

Paris, Nov. 12.—The tenth automobile exposition at the Grand Palace here was inaugurated today by President Fallieres. It is on a more magnificent scale than ever before, the electrical display in the palace being especially striking. The exposition this year is noticeable for the great increase in the number of low-powered, moderate-priced vehicles. The increasing popularity of the motor cycle and speed is evidenced by the large number exhibited and general use of from thirty to forty per cent. Low frame designs are shown, the leading firms showing a disposition to work out further lines, but several firms continue to say, a petrol engine working a dynamo, which transmits power to the motor.

W. H. Wilbur of the village of Delhi has brought an action against the G.T.R. for $400 damages for the detention of a piano and for the return of $23.21 freight charges.

CANADA STILL PROSPEROUS---NO NEED FOR ALARM EXISTS

Industries are Exercising Caution, and Adopting a Policy of Retrenchment, but Hard Times are not Expected

Toronto Nov. 13.—Correspondents of the Star in different parts of Canada have sent despatches indicating the state of industry in their districts. The reports indicate general prosperity, but also a feeling that caution should be shown lest the remarkable activity of the last year be followed by a period of comparative slackness. A number of places report a policy of retrenchment affecting employees, some of whom have been laid off, and others put on shorter hours. A brief summary is as follows:

Ottawa—Several thousand laborers on railway construction in Canada will be laid off for winter, but hundreds will find work in lumber camps. A quieter period everywhere is possible, but hard times not expected.

Montreal—500 men discharged.

London—Foundry 100 laid off, and working hours reduced.

Stratford—300 men employed.

Sydney—Everybody kept working.

Halifax—Full staffs retained.

Walkerville—Some firms "running light."

Windsor—All men working.

St. John, N.B.—Factories busy.

Guelph—Some curtailment.

Hamilton — Most plants working full.

Winnipeg—North-West is hustling.

Phoenix, B.C. — 2,000 men laid off.

Owen Sound — Factories working overtime.

Ottawa, Nov. 13.—The department of labor's survey of the labor situation throughout the country shows the same slackening in the demand for unskilled labor that usually occurs at this season of the year. October is always a busy month in pushing through all manner of outdoor work before the advent of winter, but November means the laying off of many workmen, and this year is no exception to the rule. In fact there are indications of reduction in various lines of industry such as occurred in 1904 after the unprecedented industrial activity that prevailed throughout the country in 1903.

The season just drawing to a close has been the busiest that the Dominion has ever known, busier even than that of four years ago, and the reaction which is bound to follow these periods of exceptional development and expansion is already beginning to make itself felt. At the same time the most conservative financiers in the Dominion see no reason for serious apprehension, believing that the check will be but temporary in its influence, and that there is no reason for expecting anything in the nature of commercial or industrial depression.

HAVE TO DELAY PLANS.

Several of the largest railway companies in the States have had to forego for a time the plans they formed for further expansion and extension of their operations, and it would not be surprising if the same thing happened in our own country.

4,000 TO BE RELEASED.

There are four thousand men at present employed in construction work on the western division of the new transcontinental railway. Most of these will be laid off as soon as the winter has set in, but should have no trouble whatever in finding their way into other employment. Some of them will be taken on, no doubt, to help in the rock work on the eastern division between Winnipeg and the great lakes, of which there is still a great deal to be done.

Mr. D. D. Mann of the Canadian Northern System who is in Ottawa today, was asked whether the C.N.R. was contemplating any reduction of its operations. His answer was an emphatic negative. Naturally, the construction forces on the prairies would not be able to work throughout the winter, but as soon as their present employment was over they would have no difficulty in finding something else to do. There was room for many in the lumber camps and on the rock work on the G.T.P., for his own part he had no anticipation whatever of hard times.

TO-DAY & GOD OFF.

There are between eight and ten thousand men working on the new transcontinental line east of Winnipeg, and most of these will be laid off.

BUSINESS WORLD SOUNDS

Hamilton, Nov. 13—Enquiries made among the manufacturers here this morning showed that few of them were laying off men any more than is usual with the approach of the brisk season in the various trades. The consensus of opinion seems to be that while newcomers to Canada this year will have rather a difficult time, that on the whole there is nothing to justify real hard times throughout the Dominion. There are a great many unemployed foreigners in the city and surrounding country, though, through the official interpreter, a number of the large concerns say they have constant enquiries from farmers in Brantford, Niagara Falls and other parts of the province for help for work.

J. Orr Callaghan of the Canada Screw Company, said: "I can see no reason for alarm. There may be a little closer attention on the part of buyers. They will not stock up as much as in former years; but with 150,000 more people in Canada this year the consumption will be no less. The country is sound, business men are sound and the financial world is more scared than hurt."

That about sums up the opinion of large manufacturers here.

ALL BUSY AT SYDNEY.

Sydney, N.S., Nov. 13.—All big industries of Sydney are working to their full capacity, and while daily press reports state that both American and Canadian concerns are laying off men, either on account of dull season or a stringency in money, the larger concerns here are giving employment to all the men that ask for it. The Dominion Iron and Steel Company's plant is going in full swing, and upwards of 3,000 are constantly employed here on both day and night shifts. With city merchants real cash is not at all as available as formerly, but there are no fears expressed for the future.

A. D. Ingraham, proprietor of one of the largest mercantile establishments in the city, with regard to trade conditions, stated that his new money is a little tight, but there is no fear for the future.

"Sydney's finances are sound," said Mr. Ingraham, "and in a couple of weeks I expect to see ready money in exchange as freely as formerly."

"Once a Hobo" But Pays Up

Mr. F. Sandy, of the G.T.R., has received a letter enclosing payment for a stolen ride. It runs as follows:

November, 1907.

Dear Mr. Sandy—

Kindly put the enclosed $4 in the Grand Trunk treasury in payment of a stolen ride once taken by me from Toronto to a western town.

Yours truly,

"ONCE A HOBO."

Theatrical

The H. Willmott Young Company's offering at the Grand last night was the popular and strongly dramatized novel "East Lynne," which is well known to local theater goers. The story is so interesting and the situations so dramatic that the audience was held spellbound from start to finish.

Mr Young with his able supporters interpreted all the features that the story contains, and the large audience that saw the production last night, say it is the best that this clever company has yet given.

The specialities certainly did upset to the favor of the audience, and many distinct hits were made by the performers.

Ferocious Ruler of Annam Deposed by French

Paris, Nov. 11.—One of the most inhuman monsters who ever ruled a state Than-Tai, King of Annam, has been deposed by the French, who exercise a protectorate over that country, and an 8-year-old boy, the King's second son, has been selected to rule in his stead. This will mean of course a long regency, during which the government will be administered by the French.

Than-Tai was perhaps never surpassed in cruelty. His favorite pastime was found in torturing his subjects with the most extraordinary refinement of cruelty, and on many occasions the victims were his own wives. Recently, it is stated, he had seven of them executed at once, and the body of one of them, a woman, who had incurred his special enmity, was cooked and served up at dinner to his household. Others of his wives were boiled in oil, and various members of the royal household were thrown into the cages of wild beasts, the King looking on with delight.

Than-Tai was placed on the throne in 1883 and was then 10 years old. From the first he exhibited a character of a fiendish nature and it seems incomprehensible that the French should have tolerated his cruelty. With his own hand he is said to have shot and killed a prince 70 years old, a member of the council of the royal family and the last surviving son of a former king. Than-Tai's harem contained 1,000 wives and other women and numerous servants. Once they entered the royal household they were never permitted to leave it.

CHINA FOR THE CHINESE

Another highly significant and intrinsically important step in the awakening of China is indicated in the announcement that the Peking Syndicate will relinquish to the Chinese government all the concessions which were some years ago granted to it in the province of Shan-Si. The granting of these concessions was commented upon at the time in these columns as of exceptional interest to China and to the entire industrial and commercial world. Shan-Si in the great province which lies just west and south of Chi-Li, bounded on the west and south by the Yellow River and it is said on excellent authority to contain probably the largest and richest deposits of both iron and coal in all the world, much of the coal being the finest quality of anthracite. Making desirable and prudent allowances for the overstatements of speculators and enthusiasts, we may pretty safely believe that there are in that province very large deposits of iron and coal in such close proximity to each other as to afford exceptional facilities for the development of great industries on the spot, while their nearness to the Yellow River will enable easy shipment of products to the coast and thence to all parts of the world—for that treacherous stream, called the Woe of China, is susceptible of control and improvement into a useful and commodious route of transportation.

The intrinsic value of concessions covering practically all the mineral resources of that province, and the consequent importance of the relinquishment of them, must be obvious. But still more worthy of consideration is the significance of this relinquishment as a part of the process of restoring China to the Chinese. The animosity of the Chinese populace against "foreign devils" and their devices has been chiefly because the foreigners seemed to be acquiring proprietorship of the country. Thus the building of railroads was opposed because they were to be built and owned by aliens. Much of the inclination to depose the present imperial dynasty arose from the readiness and profusion with which it granted important concessions to foreign corporations, some of which not only conveyed resources and opportunities of vast wealth, but also bestowed upon aliens a certain police and administrative authority over the regions affected. Indeed, the granting of some concessions, such as this in Shan-Si and that for the Kuan Hsi Hsiang-Canton railroad came perilously near provoking open insurrections, and probably would actually have done so had not the government changed its policy, stopped granting such concessions and taken steps for getting back as many as possible of those which it had granted.

The Hamow-Canton railroad and the Shan-Si mines are the most important of the concessions thus regained—they are probably the most important ever granted—but they are only two among a great many which the Chinese government has thus taken back. By this process dissatisfaction has been allayed and the dynasty has been strengthened. More important still, China has shown herself capable of developing her own resources, for most if not all of these works are now being prosecuted by the Chinese themselves with about as much energy and success as foreign concession holders could have shown. Of course, the value of the change to China, to the Chinese spirit of nationality and independence, is simply inestimable. A country which has to farm out or alienate its resources to foreigners for exploitation is in an inferior, we might say a degraded, position. The consciousness of sovereignty and the most symmetrical and complete development of nationality must come from the realization of self-sufficiency. There could thus be nothing more auspicious of political and civic good to China than this resumption of ownership and control of her own resources. It means, in the fullest possible degree, China for the Chinese.

Emigration Companies Must Reduce Activities

London, Nov. 12. — The Standard's Tokio correspondent states that the Government's regulations of emigration companies, whose exaggerations were responsible for emigration to Canada and the United States, must reduce their activities to the vanishing point, even if a restriction to emigration has not been enforced. As a matter of fact, conditions now are such that the emigration problem as an international issue, bids fair to be entirely removed.

The Journal says that quite the most successful section of the Dublin Exhibition, which closed on Saturday, was the Canadian pavilion, which compared brilliantly with the foreign sections.

Great Britain Leads the World

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—An interesting statement showing the relative order of warship tonnage of the principal powers has been compiled at the office of naval intelligence. It shows that Great Britain leads the world with a tonnage of 1,633,116, the United States following with a tonnage of 611,616. France is third with a tonnage of 649,879, Germany fourth with a tonnage of 574,482, Japan next with a tonnage of 374,701, and Russia, Italy, and Austria following in the order named.

However, were the war vessels building by the various nations now completed the United States would be third in the list with a tonnage of 771,788, following closely France, which would be second with a tonnage of 836,113, and Great Britain the leader with a tonnage of 1,821,616.

The other naval powers would stand in the same relative position as they do with their tonnage of to-day, although each would show a substantial increase.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans;

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required homestead duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother).

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

TENDERS FOR PULPWOOD CONCESSIONS

Tenders will be received by the undersigned up to and including the 16th of December next for the right to cut pulpwood on certain areas tributary to the Mattagon river, in the district of Thunder Bay, and Rainy Lake, in the district of Rainy River, and make the same into paper. Tenderers should state the amount they are prepared to pay as bonus in addition to such dues as may from time to time be fixed for the right to operate a paper making industry on the areas referred to. Separate tenders must be made for each area or territory, and the successful tenderers will be required to erect a mill or mills on each of the territories or in such other localities as may be approved by the Government of Ontario.

Parties tendering for the pulpwood rights shall accompany their tenders with a marked cheque for 25 per cent of the amount tendered, payable to the Treasurer of Ontario, and to be forfeited in the event of their failing to enter into agreements to carry out conditions, etc.

With respect to the Rainy Lake Pulp Concession, tenderers will be required to make a tender for the right to cut the pine, tamarac and cedar on the territory offered. Parties making tender for these timbers to state the amount they are prepared to pay per thousand feet B.M. as bonus in addition to Crown dues of $2.00 per thousand feet B.M. A marked cheque for $5,000.00 payable to the Treasurer of Ontario must accompany the tender for pine timber, and is to be forfeited in the event of their failing to enter into agreements to carry out conditions, etc.

No timber shall be cut on either of the concessions of a less diameter than nine inches, two feet from the ground.

The successful tenderers to enter into agreements with the Government for the erection of the mills, expenditure of money, etc.

For full particulars as to the conditions, etc., application should be made to the undersigned.

AIKENSIDE

BY MARY J. HOLMES

Author of "Dora Deane," "The English Orphans," "Lena Rivers," "The Rector of St. Mark's," "Tempest and Sunshine," Etc.

"Maddy," Guy whispered, bending over the strange trio, "would you rather I should stay? Will it be pleasanter for you, if I do?"

"Yes—I don't know I guess it would not be so lonely. Oh, it's terrible to have grandmother dead'" was Maddy's response; after which Guy would have stayed if a whole regiment of Mrs. Noahs had confronted him instead of one.

Maddy wished it; that was reason enough for him, and giving a few directions to John, he stayed, thereby disconcerting the neighboring women who came in to perform the last offices for the dead, and who wished the young man from Aikenside was anywhere but there, watching them in all their movements, as they vainly fancied he did. But Guy thought only of Maddy, watching her so carefully that more than one meaning glance was exchanged between the women, who even over the inanimate form of the dead, spoke together of what might possibly occur, wondering what would be the effect on Grandpa Markham and Uncle Joseph. Who would take care of them? And then, in case Maddy should feel it her duty to stay there, as they half hoped she would, they fell to pitying the young girl, who seemed now so wholly unfitted for the burden.

To Maddy there came no definite idea of the future during the two days that white, rigid form lay in the darkened cottage; but when, at last the deep grave made for Grandma Markham was occupied, and the louver in the little front room was empty—when the Aikenside carriage, which had been sent down for the use of the mourners, had been driven away, taking both Guy and Mrs. Noah—when the neighbors, too, had gone, leaving only herself and the little hired girl sitting by the evening fire, with the grandfather and the imbecile Uncle Joseph—then it was that she first began to feel the pressure of the burden—began to ask herself if she could live thus always, or at least for many years—as long as either of the two helpless men was spared. Maddy was young, and the world as she had seen it was very bright and fair, brighter far than a life of laborious toil, and for a while the idea that the latter alternative must be accepted made her dizzy and faint.

As if divining her thoughts, poor old grandpa, in his prayers that night, asked in trembling tones, which showed how much he felt what he was saying, that God would guide his darling in all she did, and give her wisdom to make the proper decision; that if it were best she might be happy there with them, but if not, "Oh, Father, Father!" he sobbed, "help me and Joseph to bear it." He could pray no more aloud, and the gray head remained bowed down upon his chair, while Uncle Joseph, in his peculiar way, took up the theme, begging like a very child that Maddy might be inclined to stay—that no young men with curling hair, a diamond cross, the smell of musk, might be permitted to come near her with enticing looks, but that she might stay as she was and be an old maid forever! This was the subject of Uncle Joseph's prayer, a prayer which set the little hired girl to tittering. And would have wrung a smile from Maddy herself had she not felt all the strange petition implied.

With waywardness natural to people in his condition, Uncle Joseph that night turned to Maddy for the little services his sister had formerly rendered, and which, since her illness, Grandpa Markham had done, and would willingly do still. But Joseph refused to let him. Maddy must untie his cravat, unbutton his vest, and take off his shoes, while, after he was in bed, Maddy must sit by his side, holding his hand until he fell away to sleep. And Maddy did it cheerfully, soothing him into quiet, and keeping back her own choking sorrow for the sake of comforting him. Then, when this task was done she sought her grandfather, still sitting before the kitchen fire and evidently waiting for her. The little hired girl had retired, and thus there was no barrier to free conversation between them.

"Maddy," the old man said, "come sit close by me, where I can look into your face, while we talk over what must be done."

With a half-shudder, Maddy drew a stool to her grandfather's feet, and resting her head upon his knee, listened while he talked to her of the future; told her all her grandmother had done; told of his own helplessness; of the trial it was to care for Uncle Joseph, and then in faltering tones asked who was going to look after them now. "We can't live here alone, Maddy. We can't. We're old and weak, and want someone to lean on. Oh, why didn't God take us with her, Joseph and me, and that would leave you free to go back to school and the life which I know is pleasanter than to stay here with us. Oh, Maddy! it comforts me to look at you—to hear your voice, to know that though I don't see you every minute, you are somewhere, and by and by you'll come in. I shan't live long, and maybe Joseph won't. God's promise is to them who honor father and mother. It 'll be hard for you to stay, harder than it was once; but, Maddy, oh, Maddy! stay with me, stay with me!—stay with your old grandpa!"

In his earnestness he grasped her arm, as if he thus would hold her, while the tears rained over his wrinkled face. For a moment Maddy made no response. She had no intention of leaving him, but the burden was pressing heavily and her tongue refused to move. Maddy was then a stranger to the religion which was sustaining her grandfather in his great trouble, but the teachings of her childhood had not been in vain. She was God's covenant child. His protecting presence was over and around her, meeting her to the right. New York, with its gay sights, her school, where in another year she was to graduate, the trip to the Catskills which Guy had promised Mrs. Agnes, Jessie, and herself, Aikenside with its luxurious ease—all these must be given up while worse than all the rest, Guy, too, must be given up. He would not come there often; the place was not to his taste, and in time he would cease to care for her as he cared for her now. "Oh, that would be dreadful!" she groaned aloud, while her thoughts went backward to the night ride in the snowstorm and the numberless attentions he had paid her then. She would never ride with him again—never; and Maddy moaned bitterly, as she began to realize for the first time how much she liked Guy Remington, and how the giving him up and his society was the hardest part of all. But Maddy had a brave young heart, and at last, winding her arms around her grandfather's neck, she whispered: "I will not leave you, grandpa. I'll stay in grandmother's place."

Surely Heaven would answer the blessings whispered over Maddy by the delighted old man, and the young girl taking so cheerfully the burden from which many would have shrunk, should be blessed of God.

With her grandfather's hand upon her head, Maddy could almost feel that the blessing was descending; but when, in her own little room, the one where she had lain sick for so many weeks, her courage began to give way, and the burden, magnified tenfold by her nervous weakness, looked heavier than she could bear. How could she stay there, going through each day with the same routine of literal drudgery—drudgery which would not end until the two for whom she made the sacrifice were dead.

"Oh, is there no way of escape, no help?" she moaned, as she tossed from side to side. "Must my life be wasted here. Surely——"

Maddy did not finish the sentence, for something checked the words of repining, and she seemed to hear again her grandfather's voice as it repeated the promise to those who keep with their whole souls the Fifth Commandment.

Her Purse and His Handkerchief.

"The thoughts of youth are long, long thoughts." The other day a young woman who had dropped her purse, full of pay money for the corps of girls under her charge, considered the thoughts of youth to be rather too "long."

She was in one of the large department stores, and as her hands were occupied she let her purse lie for a few moments where it had fallen. But her eye was on it. In the meantime a bright little fellow not more than nine or ten years old left his parents near by and deftly covered the purse with a handkerchief.

The woman, who is a perfectly self possessed young person, could hardly believe her eyes, but she waited to see what the boy would do. Just as he was stooping to his prize she placed her foot quietly upon it. The youngster slipped back without a word to the well dressed "respectable" people with whom he was.

When the woman picked up her purse and, taking the handkerchief over to the lad, handed it to him, saying, "There is no reason why you should lose your handkerchief just because you didn't get my purse!"

Too Good to Miss.

"Theater audiences have improved in recent years," said a manager. "Why, with provincial touring companies in the past maltreatment was regularly expected. In fact, the companies profited by it in more ways than one.

"I know of a company that was playing 'The Broken Vow' in Paint Rock, a one night stand. The audience didn't like 'The Broken Vow,' and eggs, cabbages and potatoes rained upon the stage.

"Still the play went on. The hero raved through his endless speeches, dodging an onion or a baseball every other minute and pretty sore from those missiles that he hadn't been able to dodge.

"But finally a gallery auditor in a paroxysm of rage and scorn hurled a heavy boot, and the actor, thoroughly alarmed, started to retreat.

"'Keep on playing, you fool,' hissed the manager from the wings as he hooked in the boot with an umbrella. 'Keep on till we get the other one.'"

Catarrh

To prove to unquestionably, and beyond any doubt, that Catarrh of the nose and throat can be cured, I am furnishing patients through druggists, small free Trial Boxes of Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure. I do this because I am so certain, that Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure will bring actual substantial help. Nothing certainly, is so convincing as a physical test of any article of real, genuine merit. Not that article must possess true merit, else the test will condemn, rather than endorse it. Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure is a snow white, healing antiseptic balm, put up in sanitary nickel capped glass jars. Soothing, healing agents as Oil Eucalyptus, Thymol, Menthol, etc., are dynamically blended into a velvety, cream like Petrolatum, imported by Dr. Shoop from Europe. If Catarrh of the nose and throat has extended to the stomach, then by all means take my internality, Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Stomach distress, a lack of general strength, bloating, belching, biliousness, bad taste, etc., surely call for Dr. Shoop's Restorative.

For unparalleled catarrh only of the nose and throat nothing else, however, need be used but

ANTIGUA GOLD-COPPER Co.

Offers the Biggest and Most Attractive Mining Investment Now Before the Public.

ITS HOLDINGS ARE MINES--NOT PROSPECTS

With Vast Bodies of Ore Ready for the Mill, Now Nearing Completion.

THOMAS W. LAWSON

"Copper stocks offer the biggest opportunity for money making in the world to-day. A good copper mine is really a safe-deposit vault of stored up dividends which cannot be stolen or destroyed by fire, flood or famine."

CECIL RHODES

said: "Mining offers greater inducements than any other business in the world to make quick and great wealth."

CHARLES M. SCHWAB

says: "The big fortunes of the next twenty-five years will come from Mother Earth." Among all mining investments none stand ahead of copper for safety, permanency and profit.

Lay the Foundation for Your Fortune Today

THE ANTIGUA PROPERTIES

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company holdings consist of 531 acres, situated in Honduras, Central America, 100 miles southeast from Puerto Cortez, and midway between New Orleans and Panama. Development work is being pushed with all possible speed, and more than 1,500 feet of tunneling and shaft work has been completed. A 40 to 50-ton capacity gold-silver mill is in course of construction, and will be in operation before the close of the year.

Development work has conclusively proven that every acre of our holdings are rich in gold, copper and silver, and that every ton of this great ore body will yield a handsome profit on milling expense. The ore exposed on the surface does not require mining in the usual sense of the term, but may be obtained by quarrying. It can, according to estimates of experts, be quarried and treated for the gold and silver on an extensive scale at a cost of less than $1.00 a ton. Think of it! A solid mountain of rich ore, from the very grass roots of which may be washed gold.

Beyond a doubt Honduras has beneath her soil richer, richer deposits of copper, gold and silver than any other section of the American continent. Spain, during her sovereignty in that country, took out more than $300,000,000 in gold alone—and she scarcely scraped the Earth's surface. There is evidence that the pre-historic races knew how to mine and utilize copper—smelting it in their crude way.

The original incorporators of the Antigua Gold-Copper Company spent thousands of dollars of their own money in bringing this property to its present stage of development. They opened up the mine on every side with tunnels, crosscuts and shafts. They purchased machinery and began the erection of a gold-silver mill—now nearing completion. These men appreciated from the first that this mine was destined to become one of the greatest copper-gold-silver properties in America; and that it justified more extensive and more rapid development than they were able to make without the co-operation and financial assistance of the public.

The average assay values of Antigua ores, ranging from the surface to a depth of 200 feet, is over 5 per cent copper. This is above the average of the ore of the world's greatest producers, the famous Anaconda yielding ore which averages only a little over 3 per cent. The Anaconda has little other ore value, while our property, in addition to the copper, carries $2.00 to $1,400 a ton in gold and silver.

WHY STOCK IS SOLD

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company finds itself in precisely the same position as the farmer who has a larger farm than he can cultivate with the capital in hand. He knows that with additional capital and assistance he could make the land yield abundant crops and enormous profits. In the same way we intend, by the investment of additional capital, to bring our enormous ore bodies to a highly profitable state of development at the earliest possible moment. For this reason a limited amount of treasury stock is offered the public. In this way funds will be available for immediate use in purchasing additional machinery and for continuing vigorous development of the property.

THERE ARE NO PREFERRED SHARES AND NO BONDS TO COME FIRST IN THE DIVISION OF PROFITS.

and your shares will earn as much as a like number of shares owned by any other stockholder in the company. Each share CARRIES WITH IT THE RIGHT TO VOTE, so that with a single share you have every right, privilege and protection possessed by any other stockholder.

Stock is now being sold at $2.50 a share, and this stock, we firmly believe, will, within a year, be selling at its par value of $5.00 a share, or higher; nor will it stop there. If you are desirous of permanently increasing your income, of making an investment that is not only secure, but immensely profitable, reserve shares TODAY.

Such an investment opportunity can scarcely be repeated. It is made possible only by extraordinary natural conditions. Millions of dollars of copper, gold and silver will be marketed from the mines—fortunes will be realized as a result of the prompt seizure of the opportunity we offer you to-day.

REPORT OF AN EXPERT.

Much weight can justly be given the statement of a properly qualified and reliable mining engineer. Such is the character of T. W. Foster, from whose report on Antigua we make the following extracts:

"From the development work done and the indications shown by the croppings, I am convinced this is one of the largest gold-copper deposits in existence, and under proper development will make one of the richest mining properties in America. * * * I consider this ore an ideal smelting proposition, there being an abundance of iron, lime and silica in close proximity. There is plenty of water for power and milling purposes, and an abundance of timber on the property. * * *

"A large amount of development work has been done on this property in tunnels, cliffs and shafts, ranging from 20 to possibly 200 feet in length. * * * This work has all been in ore—in fact, the ore body on the surface is shown to be fully one-half mile wide by two miles in length. To judge from he development work done this property is all ore—no matter where work was started, ore was encountered.

"The company is erecting a mill, consisting of one five-stamp and three Huntingtons, to work the surface ore. This surface ore is mostly free milling, the copper and galena sulphides being oxidized, freeing the gold, and being readily amalgamated. But I am confident that at no very great depth copper sulphides will be encountered, as there are many places in this great ore body where the sulphides crop to the surface. I have taken a dozen samples from various places on the lead, and from these made free gold tests, finding an average of over $6.00 a ton in FREE gold, and from 5 to 8 per cent copper. Native copper is frequently seen in this ore. If the Antigua mines continue in depth as on the surface, a $1,000 ton smelter will not work it out in 100 years. * * *

"With good management and proper development, it will be but a short time until the stock of the company will be worth more than par. I fully believe that if this great ore body is properly developed there is a mine here worth many millions of dollars.

Something New in Copper

PITTSBURG - IDAHO

Mining and Milling Company

The mine is located 18 miles above Lewiston, Idaho, on the Clearwater river, and consists of 19 full claims, or 380 acres. It is developed by tunnels, shafts and open cuts for more than 2100 feet, disclosing thousands of tons of copper, gold and silver ores of both high grade and low grade. There are between 1,000 and 2000 tons of ore ready for shipment. The entrance to the working tunnel is only 2000 feet from the track of the Northern Pacific railroad, to be reached by gravity tramway. There are seven parallel veins running lengthwise of the claims, one cropping out on the surface for 2,640 feet and another for 3600 feet; while two veins cross these running into the mountain. These veins are from 30 to 200 feet wide. One ore chute has been crosscut 50 feet and is solid ore from wall to wall.

We are not asking you to buy in a prospect. That risk was taken by the promoters. We are asking you to buy in a developed, proved mine. Seven years of continuous work and the expenditure of hundreds of dollars has proven up one of the greatest mines in Idaho. That mine is now ready to pour out its red and yellow wealth to the world with the installing of an up to date production plant. It is for that purpose that a block of its treasury stock, full paid and non-assessable, is offered for sale. We believe that within six months from the completion of which our plant the mine can be put on a dividend paying basis, and that these dividends will be substantial and permanent. There is no better investment proposition before the people at this time.

CAPITALIZATION $1,000,000 -- PAR VALUE $1.

All promotion stock pooled during the sale of this treasury stock.

Messrs. Thos. Patterson & Co., Peterborough, Ont., are authorized to receive subscriptions for this stock, to which all applications should be made

Pernoy Hirtzshman Tells His Part of Story

The Case Fully Reported, Proves the Work Was Done by Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Halifax, N.S., Sept. 25.—A well-known resident at 93 Sackville street, Mr. Pernoy Hirtzshman, who has been in a somewhat serious condition lately, has recovered, and says: "Six months ago my appetite fell off and my health became very poor. I had terrible attacks of indigestion and often was unable to sleep at night. My poor color showed what an ill man I was. I tried numerous remedies but the only genuine one was Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. Two boxes cured my indigestion. My appetite increased and my strength came back quickly. Today I have a free seat for my meals, I feel as strong and healthy as a young boy. Because they are so cleansing and so tonic in their effect I think Dr. Hamilton's Pills should be used by every person. My wife used them regularly with grand results.

Attempted Burglary on Water St.

A few nights ago an attempt was made by burglars to enter Mr. S. H. Baker's Water street barber shop. The enterprising midnight mechanics tried to gain access by a sliding window from the Munro House yards, but failed to connect with the interior of the shop and consequent cash till, as a door intervened that shut them off.

Improvements on Local Warehouse

It is rumored that the grain warehouse at the corner of Charlotte and Aylmer streets, formerly occupied by Mr. J. J. McElkins, has been sold to Mr George Mather, who is going to remodel and enlarge and make a thoroughly modern building. This is already one of the best equipped warehouses in the Midland district.

Prospects for City League Hockey

Things look bright for a successful hockey season here this winter as with Norwood, Keene, and Lakefield in the City League there should be some great hockey this season. All the outside teams will be strong and will no doubt put up a great fight for the league championship. All games will be played on Peterborough ice as usual. The season should be the best in the history of the league under these circumstances.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Owed $1.00 and Was Roughly Handled

A young man engaged on the fire brigade got into trouble yesterday afternoon in a local hotel. After the alleged trouble, the young man showed evident signs of a fray. His face and hands were covered with blood, his collar was parted and his clothes showed signs of a scuffle. He claims that he owed a certain man a dollar and that he was insulted in the bar room. He left the hotel and went to another bar, but was followed by his creditor. He was drinking at the second bar with another man when the man to whom he owed the dollar, entered, and more words took place. The creditor followed words by blows and a police court trial will probably result.

Death of Mr. Jas. Allen of Douro

Mr. Robert Allen of Douro, has received a telegram from Grand Forks, B.C., informing him of the death of his son, James, from typhoid fever. The deceased was only 24 years of age. He has been in the west but 18 months, and his death was entirely unexpected. Besides his parents he is survived by five brothers and three sisters. They are William, John, Joseph and Edmond in British Columbia, Edmund and Leo at home, and Mrs. William Young, Mary and Stella, in Douro. The funeral will take place today in Grand Forks.

Local Photographer's Work Commended

Mr Louis Mendel, the local photographer, has completed two large photographs of Messrs. F. R. Clarke & Son's jewellery store at the corner of George and Brock streets. The pictures include an exterior and interior view of the store. The interior view is possibly one of the best and clearest of its kind ever taken. It might be explained that in taking interior views, particularly where goods are displayed behind the plate glass of counter show cases or wall cases the refraction of the light rays from the polished surface of the glass makes such photographs particularly hard to outline and show clearly the goods. Great judgment and knowledge of the photographer's art must be displayed to ensure a perfect representation of the goods. In this interior view Messrs. Clarke & Son's store each and every article in their show cases appears perfectly outlined and distinctly discernible.

Even rings and the smallest articles can be perfectly seen and recognized So good is the photograph that the agent of Canada's leading jewellers' trade journal, has asked for a copy and will have a "cut" made for publication in his paper. This speaks well for the art of Peterborough, and the enterprise of her merchants. Messrs. Clarke will have these photographs on view in their store window in a few days.

Whitcroft Signs Wilson

Edmonton, Nov. 13.—Dick Wilson, the Kingston hockey player, arrived today from Houghton. He will play on the Edmonton professional team under Fred Whitcroft, the former Peterborough player.

At the Charlotte St. Rink

There was a large turnout at the roller rink last night. Considerable interest was taken in the competition for the prize for the ladies' skating in couples, which was won by Misses Jenny and Mary Brunskill. The judges were Messrs. Stantin, Perell and Bolwell.

Has Lumbering Season Been Slack?

It looks as though lumbering operations not only in this district, but all over Ontario will be greatly curtailed this year. It seems that the lumber operators have had a less successful season than for years. The trouble, it is alleged, arises from the high price offered and other commodities and higher prices of labor. Should these rumors have foundation many a man who has depended upon going to the shanties for his winter's wages, will come out "short." We hope the situation has been exaggerated.

New York Has Most Jews

A report recently published by the British government shows that there are 30,000 Jews in Cape Colony, 18,000 in India, 17,000 in Australia, 16,000 in Canada and 4,000 in Ireland. A Yiddish paper commenting on the report says: "These figures look large but they become small when compared with New York, there are in two wards more American Jews than there are British Jews all over the world."

A Woman's Back

Has many aches and pains caused by weaknesses and falling, or other displacement, of the pelvic organs. Other symptoms of female weakness are frequent headache, dizziness, imaginary specks or dark spots floating before the eyes, gnawing sensation in stomach, dragging or bearing down in lower abdominal or pelvic region, disagreeable drains from pelvic organs, faint spells with general weakness.

If any considerable number of the above symptoms are present there is no remedy that will give quicker relief or a more permanent cure than Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It has a record of over forty years of cures. It is the most potent invigorating tonic and strengthening nervine known to medical science. It is made of the glyceric extracts of native medicinal roots found in our forests and contains not a drop of alcohol or harmful, or habit-forming drugs. Its ingredients are all printed on the bottle-wrapper and attested under oath as correct.

Every ingredient entering into "Favorite Prescription" has the written endorsement of the most eminent medical writers of all the several schools of practice—more valuable than any amount of non-professional testimonials—though the latter are not lacking, having been contributed voluntarily by grateful patients in numbers to exceed the endorsements given to any other medicine extant for the cure of woman's ills.

You cannot afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for this well proven remedy of KNOWN COMPOSITION, even though the dealer may make a little more profit thereby. Your interest in regaining health is paramount to any selfish interest of his and it is an insult to your intelligence for him to try to palm off upon you a substitute. You know what you want and it is his business to supply the article called for.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the original "Little Liver Pills" first put up by old Dr. Pierce over forty years ago, much imitated but never equaled. Little sugar-coated granules—easy to take as candy.

SIR WILFRID LAURIER'S CHERISHED DREAM AT LAST TO BE REALIZED

Transportation of Grain Over Great Railway Cherished Project of Premier

Road is 130 Miles Long

Plans Under Way to Stop Blockades--Financial Conditions Easier in Canada

Ottawa, Can., Nov. 15.—(Special.)—Sir Wilfrid Laurier has lived to see the beginning of the realization of one of his most cherished projects. Grain is coming down over the rails of Canada's second transcontinental road between Fine and Portage la Prairie, Manitoba. The first freight schedule of the Grand Trunk Pacific railway, applying to this portion of the new system has been approved by the railway commission and is now in force.

Mr. Drewery, the Winnipeg inspector for the commission, in a recent report to the board on the completed part of the section, declares it to be one of the best pieces of new railway he ever has seen, so far as the track laying extends. The grain moving over the new rails is brought to Portage la Prairie and there taken by the Canadian Pacific or Canadian Northern until the line from Portage to Winnipeg is ready. The distance under operation is 130 miles. The grading between Portage and Winnipeg is proceeding rapidly, and between Winnipeg and Saskatoon over 800 teams with men in proportion, are at work.

PROGRESS IS RAPID.

The Portage-Rae track, over which the freight schedules are in operation, is part of the first link in the section between Portage and Edmonton, 770 miles, of which 600 miles will be graded and ready for the steel in a few days. The rest of the first link (Portage to Touchwood Hills, 276 miles) is ready for the steel. Beyond the 130 miles inspected and approved operation rails had been laid and spikes driven for another sixty miles up to the first of the month.

The track laying is now proceeding at the rate of one, two, and some instances three miles a day. From Touchwood Hills to Saskatoon, 146 miles, a distance of 126 miles was ready for the steel at the beginning of this month. From Saskatoon to Edmonton, 370 miles, one-half of the mileage is about graded and ready for the rails. The heaviest work on the immense bridges on this section is finished.

EFFORT TO PREVENT BLOCKADES.

Mr. Kilburn, chairman of the railway commission, who has spent most of the last three months in the west studying the conditions there, says all the railways have made extensive preparations to prevent a recurrence of last winter's blockade of grain traffic and supplies of fuel. The volume of freight for transportation in the coming winter months will be less than last winter, owing to the increased quantity of rolling stock available this fall for moving the crops as well as the coal supplies, leaving considerably less to be handled later on, and the deficiency in the harvests. As regards the latter, Mr. Oliver, minister of the interior, says while the total yield of western wheat may not be more than 80,000,000 bushels against 90,000,000 last year, and the average quality also is lower, prices average 50 per cent. higher, so that, taking everything on both sides of the account into consideration, the net return to the farmer will average little

Kidneys First to Wear Out with Age

Few Elderly People Know What to do and Continue to Suffer

The great majority of men and women at the age of 40 years begin to feel the first signs of advancing age in some form of kidney trouble and bladder weakness. Few are entirely free from that torturous disease, rheumatism, which is not a disease in itself, but a symptom of deranged function of the kidneys which have become clogged and sluggish, failing in their duty of sifting and straining the poisonous waste matter, uric acid, etc., from the blood, permitting it to remain and decompose, setting about the joints and muscles, causing intense pain and suffering.

The bladder, however, causes the old folks the most annoyance, especially at night and early morning.

A noted authority in a recent article stated that he has wonderful success with the old-time "vegetable treatment. He states: "Of sixteen cases of bladder troubles and rheumatism which have been treated with this treatment only one very complicated case failed to fully yield to its remarkable influence. It is the most harmless treatment I have ever found to clean the system of rheumatic poisons; remove irritation of the bladder and relieve urinary difficulties of the old people. It is a true building tonic to the entire kidney and urinary structure, invigorating the entire system."

What he terms "old vegetable treatment" consists of the following simple prescription, the ingredients which can be obtained from any good pharmacy at small cost. Compound Kargon, one ounce; Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and upon going to bed, also drink plenty of water. This prescription, though simple, is always effective in the disease and affliction of the kidneys and bladder

Jimmy Reynolds Still Talks

Toronto, Nov. 14.—Jimmy Reynolds, Port Hope's famous walking barber, has several propositions which he hopes to have taken up next May, providing that he can secure wagers worth while. He offers to walk over the course from Oshawa to Toronto and return to Peterborough via Port Hope, recently covered by Hartley of Peterborough, in 33 hours, or one hour and six minutes less than Hartley's time. One week later Reynolds offers to walk from Port Hope to Toronto and return, a distance of 130 miles, on which he made a record of 36 hours and 22 minutes, in 24 hours. In each instance Reynolds offers to wager $300 against $200. Again, a week later, Reynolds offers to wager $300 against $500. Again, a week later, Reynolds will walk against Hartley 139 miles or more; the course proposed by Reynolds is from Port Hope to Toronto and return to Cobourg. In this case, Reynolds must see $1,000 opposition money before he starts. The latter race may in a large measure depend upon the outcome of the 12-hour match race which is to take place in Toronto next week.

Philadelphia Tragedy May Rival Sensations of the Thaw Trial

Philadelphia, Nov. 15.—Rivaling in many of its sensational features the Thaw-White tragedy, the shooting of Harry Ferree by A. Jackson Detsch shortly after midnight yesterday developed phases during the investigation which seem to place it among the most startling crimes the Philadelphia police have ever had to deal with. With indisputable evidence of her perfidy and treachery to her husband in the possession of the detectives and brought face to face with it, the wife of Detsch confessed that the shooting had been done by a husband wronged and outraged beyond bearing, and that the dead man had met the fate he courted, he woman herself likened him to Stanford White.

Meanwhile Detsch sits sullenly in his cell in city hall, calmly giving the lie to his wife and declaring that his only reason for shooting Ferree was that he thought the man to be a burglar. He not only denies knowledge of the alleged despoiling of his home, but refuses to believe his wife's confession, declaring that, if there is any truth in it, he never knew, nor suspected it, and therefore could have had no such reason for the murder. He sticks to his first story that he heard Ferree moving about and mistook him for a burglar.

LURED TO DEATH.

Capt. Donaghy claims to have evidence in his possession tending to show that Ferree was deliberately lured to his death and that Detsch lay in ambush for him, pumping five shots from his heavy revolver into the unsuspecting man on his way to keep a tryst with Mrs. Detsch. Should the evidence of this be deemed conclusive enough for action, it is probable that another arrest will be made in the case before the inquest is held.

Andrew Jackson Detsch, a young traveling man and son of George Washington Detsch, one of the largest retail meat dealers in the city, lived at No. 1860 North Twenty-second street with his young wife, Josephine, and their 15-months-old baby. Harry Ferree, described as a "jack-of-all-trades," well-known amateur photographer, clubman and man about town, boarded with them. About 12.30 o'clock yesterday morning the attention of Policemen Driscoll and Thistle, of the Twenty-eighth district, was attracted to the house by the sound of five revolver shots. Hurrying to the place, they found Detsch and his wife looking out of the third-story windows.

POLICE HAD TO BREAK IN.

In reply to orders to open the door, they declared they were afraid to go to the first floor and the police broke the door open. In the third floor hallway, just outside the floor of the room occupied by the Detschs, they found Ferree prone on the floor, a pool of blood forming about him. Five bullet holes in the door indicated that he had been shot from behind protection. The door was closed. Detsch, who still held the smoking revolver in his hand, admitted the shooting, saying he heard Ferree moving about and thought he was a burglar. Detsch was locked up and later was taken to the central station.

Mrs. Detsch was so nervous and excited over the shootingt hat it was found impossible for her to be present when her husband was arraigned before Magistrate Scott, and he was committed to jail to await the action of the coroner. Subsequently, however, the woman recovered enough to be brought to city hall, where she was closeted with Capt. Donaghy for some time. It was in the course of this examination that she made her remarkable explanation of the shooting—an explanation which startled

Bank Robbers Made Cashier Open Safe--- Secured Over $4,000

Montreal, Nov. 14. — Four masked men entered the office of the Bank St. Jean, at Napierville, Que., last night, gaining entrance to the premises by breaking in through a window. They made their way upstairs to the room where the cashier and his wife, who lived above the bank, were sleeping. The robbers waked the cashier and forced him at the point of the revolver to go down stairs and open the safe. One of the men kept him covered with his revolver while another with a revolver stood sentinel over his wife, and the cashier was compelled to obey them.

The men secured the sum of $4,000 in gold and bills, which was all the safe contained, and made their escape.

The cashier was unable to give a description of the robbers as all four wore heavy masks. Provincial Chief Detective McCaskill has a number of men at work on the case.

The Peterborough Light and Power Company wishes to remind its customers that Friday, November 15th, is the last day discount will be allowed on October accounts. The office will be open during the evening of the 15th, from 8 to 11 o'clock.

if anything less than the previous year.

SCARCITY OF IRON AND TIES.

An official estimate of railroad construction in Canada this year places the mileage that will have been completed during the present year at 1,500 miles and the additional mileage besides actually under construction at 3,011 miles. The mileage completed would have been much larger but for delays from a scarcity of structural iron and railway ties, the supply of the last named not only being inadequate to the requirements but high in price.

About 250 miles of double tracking on the Canadian Pacific between Winnipeg and Fort William are available for the grain traffic of the present season. At the latter place a large increase in terminal facilities will be commenced shortly, the plans including the erection of another large elevator and six new freight sheds. Plans have been passed for extensive reductions of grades on the Canadian Pacific main line in British Columbia. A large number of contracts for new railroad construction in the west will be awarded as soon as the existing facilities for taking up the work can be increased.

FINANCIAL CONDITIONS EASIER.

Reports of banking and other financial institutions indicate easier conditions generally this week than prevailed in the early fall, but strictly conservative policy is still rigidly adhered to and exuberant expansion remains checked. The effects of the stringency are felt chiefly in the manufacturing industries and the building trades, while in the remaining industries and trades conditions continue active.

SIR WILFRID LAURIER

Premier of Canada

Killed a Week Before Wedding and Left His Fiancee $25,000

Huntsville, Nov. 14.—Wm. Knott, aged about 28 years, died at the home of his brother near Dorset, yesterday.

On Tuesday, in company with two companions, he went out for a hunt. While passing through a rough part of the thicket, one of the companions stumbled and fell. His rifle was accidentally discharged, and the ball entered Knott's knee.

Word was telephoned to Huntsville and a physician left immediately for Dorset, but the young man died from loss of blood before medical aid arrived.

Knott came originally from New Liskeard. He is known throughout New Ontario as the discoverer of the first rich find at Larder Lake and received $40,000 for his share of the claim.

He came to Dorset recently to marry a young lady, and the ceremony was to have been performed next week.

He left his fiancee $25,000 of his fortune.

BRITAIN'S PREMIER IS SERIOUSLY ILL

Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman Had Been Seized with Heart-Trouble

Was Compelled to Give Up All Engagements

Bristol, Eng., Nov. 14.—The premier, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, after addressing a political meeting was seized with a sudden illness last night at the residence here of William Howell Davis, Liberal member of parliament for South Bristol. Doctors attended the sufferer for over an hour, and although the sharpness of the attack has ceased the premier's condition is such that London physicians have been summoned. Heart trouble is believed to be the cause of the illness.

Sir Henry had planned to make several political speeches, but he has given up all his engagements and has requested Mr. Birrell, chief secretary for Ireland to take them up.

Later it was announced that the premier's sudden illness was due to a severe spasm of the heart, which gradually was relieved by restoratives. He was progressing favorably this afternoon.

Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman is prime minister and first lord of the treasury since 1905. He was born in 1836. He assumed office as premier, December 5, 1905.

Obituary

Yesterday morning the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Rider, 35 Chambers street, passed away, at the age of two months, at about nine a.m. after a short illness. The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Rider will extend their heartfelt commiserations over this sad bereavement. The funeral will take place from the family residence this afternoon at two o'clock to St. Peter's cemetery.

S.A. To Run Ships

London, Nov. 14.—It is stated that the Salvation Army will probably obtain its own steamers for the purpose of Canadian emigration.

The Allan Line has decided to inaugurate a winter service between Glasgow and Halifax.

Gold Lake Hunt Club Delayed by Ice

Yesterday a local contractor, whose name we will not give, Mr. Bob Jackeson, made a bet that he lost. Mr. Jackeson bet that the remainder of the Gold Lake Hunting party after Messrs Tooley and others returned, including Messrs. Wm. Rowell, Thos. Rutherford, the president of the Peterborough Exhibition, would arrive during the morning.

It seems, after Mr. Jackeson was made that this party certainly to have been expected at not being able to return home quickly as they had intended, reports that during the cold snap Gold Lake has frozen up, and the men were unable to cross in their canoes. The parties have secured boats and are going to break a path in order to allow their canoes through. Mr. Stowell and party have had excellent luck. The party expect to get home some time today.

Horse Causes Some Excitement

Yesterday evening a large crowd gathered on Simcoe street in front of Mr. D. H. Hamilton's grocery store watching the dying efforts of a horse belonging to a well known coal and cartage company. The horse was seemingly well fed and fed dropped between the shafts and was found [illegible] by Dr. Poole. V. S. the [illegible] quite a while over the unfortunate animal, which seemed to have heart failure.

HUGE ARMY OF IMMIGRANTS TO COME OUT TO CANADA

A Sudden Death

Writ Issued Against Mr. A. J. Small

A writ has been issued against Mr. A. J. Small of Toronto by Mr. [illegible] of Toronto, [illegible] the [illegible] of the Grand Trunk Railway [illegible] from an alleged business venture between Mr. Small and Mr. Small.

The late Mr. Whitney and Mr. Small, it is alleged, contracted the Grand Opera House in Hamilton and certain theatres in the cities of St. Thomas, St. Catharines, Chatham, Woodstock, Guelph, Galt, Stratford, Brantford, Peterborough, Belleville and elsewhere in the Province of Ontario.

The claim of the plaintiff is for an account of the profits derived from the operation, control and management of these theatres, and for commission booking percentages connected therewith.

Ald. Leary Now Threshing

Ald. R. H. Leary, of the firm of Storey & Leary, has begun threshing on his farm in Asburn. The [illegible] threshed are clover and [illegible] the latter now commands a very high price at present and Mr. Leary says he is [illegible] to [illegible] bushels. Last Friday [illegible] the work with a view to invite [illegible] Mr. William Rennie's steamer has been engaged to supply power for the [illegible] machine. Mr. Leary is much pleased with the crops on his farm this season.

Vanguard of Salvation Army Thousands will Cross the Continent

Ten Ships will Pump in the White Immigrants

Toronto, Nov. 14.—The Salvation Army [illegible] Rudyard Kipling's address, and will pump the white man into British Columbia. An immigration [illegible] has been inaugurated which is of the most immediate interest to British Columbia, but which will hardly exclude Ontario in its significance. This scheme, for which ten ocean ships have already been specially chartered, seems most fitly described as gigantic.

Commissioner Coombs left for British Columbia this afternoon. His visit has for [illegible] the completion of arrangements for the reception of suitable immigrants early next year. He describes the undertaking as "something unique in immigration," and his comment is not inapt. About [illegible] immigrants are now being gathered in the Old Country. The army will assemble them at Liverpool, where they will take ship on the specially chartered Kensington, of the Dominion line. Upon their arrival in Canada they will be taken direct across the continent on two special trains in charge of army officers. The trip from Halifax to the coast entirely under army auspices will be, as the commissioner says, unique.

This consignment of immigrants will be composed largely of Scotch people, and will include a good sprinkling of domestic servants. There will be a representation of North of Ireland[illegible], and a number farming contingents.

This is but the beginning of an invasion of Canada which will ultimately include all the provinces. The motto of the army in undertaking this work is brief but succinct; "Put them on the land." An effort will be made to secure a class of people fit for farming operations, and to put them where the soil will [illegible] repay their efforts.

The first consignment is being sent to British Columbia simply because the winter weather—say, in March—would make it inadvisable to place the newcomers in Ontario or the North-West. The more salubrious climate of the coast will, it is hoped, be found more suitable.

The early shipment of 1908 will be the first of many. After that comes the deluge.

Detroit Workmen Paid with Canadian Bills

Detroit, Nov. 14.—Almost every large corporation, manufacturer and merchant in Detroit, is sending the [illegible] of the Canadian banking system [illegible] of the present time. The Canadian banks are certainly helping [illegible] themselves a very [illegible] period.

The Detroit banks, both national and state, are almost absolutely out of funds and have had to force the [illegible] their [illegible] [illegible] even the [illegible] credit, [illegible] even get enough money to pay the wages of their employes and many have had to pay the weekly and half monthly wages in checks, hoping that some of the [illegible] stores or smaller merchants will be able to cash them.

But a number of the very large corporations like the Detroit United Railway Company, the Edison Electric Company, and some of the larger drug manufacturing companies, found that by paying a pretty good rate of interest they could get money at some of the branches of the Canadian banks at Windsor, Amherstburg, Sarnia and other points, and they only too eagerly availed themselves of it. The banks, of course, are making a very handsome profit on the transactions, but the Detroit people are quite prepared to pay it.

For the first time in the history of the Detroit United Railway, the entire pay roll, amounting to $115,000, was paid out the other day with brand new bills of a Canadian bank that has its head office in Toronto. Another concern got quite a large sum of Canadian silver and in this way was able to give their employes part of their salaries in cash.

HOW CHILDREN ARE QUICKLY STRENGTHENED

Develop Them with Ferrozone, Which Makes Rich Blood, Hardy Muscle, Steady Nerves.

Children brought up on Ferrozone are known by their strong, rugged frames their chubby cheeks and healthful appearance.

Mothers find it an indispensable tonic and body builder, and in thousands of homes no other remedy is used.

EVERY CHILD IMPROVES ON FERROZONE

Mrs. H. Montgomery, of Pittsburg, writes: "A little niece came to visit me, and noticing her pale and haggard looks, I started her on a course of Ferrozone. The change that girl underwent in a few weeks was marvellous. Her appetite chirped up, she had more spirit and strength, and a rosy color came into her cheeks that I never saw there before. I weighed my niece about the time she started to pick up, and in seven weeks she gained almost eight pounds, and just looked the picture of health. I think this should be an example to many mothers, and I hope that others will try Ferrozone for their little boys and girls. I am thoroughly convinced that it's the most strengthening tonic it has my strongest endorsement."

The reason Ferrozone works so specifically with Ferrozone is that it acts directly on the bloody frosing it of all unhealthy matter, at the same time giving it an additional supply of iron.

This at once results in more strength new spirit and renewed vitality. Just, one tablet at meal time works wonders.

Refuse to accept any article the druggist may say is just as good. Get Ferrozone, and the result we guarantee will be satisfactory. Price 50c per box or six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers.

THE FRUIT MARKS ACT

In the recent bye-election in East Northumberland the Conservatives sought to make party capital out of their opposition to the Fruit Marks Act, but the electors did not pay much attention to their demands for a repeal of a measure which has been one of the most advantageous ever placed upon the statute book for Canadian agriculturists. The Weekly Sun, of Toronto, which is the recognized organ of the farmers, says in this connection:

"The enforcement of the Fruit Marks Act had a most beneficial effect. Everyone interested in the fruit trade knows that before its adoption all sorts of rubbish was in many cases shipped to England bearing the inscription of XXX. Since the act has gone into full working order the practice of this sort of fraud has almost ceased. The result has been a marked improvement in the standing of our apples in the British market, and a corresponding advance in prices."

CANADIAN TRADE RETURNS

The trade of Canada continues to show satisfactory increases. For the month of September imports increased from $27,230,040 for the corresponding month last year to $28,397,478; while the duty collected increased from $4,699,-388 to $5,032,731. For the twelve months ending September, the imports in 1905 amounted to $255,537,981, in 1906 to $294,256,543, and in 1907, $343,450,907 while the duty collected amounted respectively to $42,614,512, $48,641,753 and $54,643,815. That is a good sign of our prosperity and purchasing power. The domestic exports for September also showed a satisfactory increase, being $25,700,536, as compared with $21,237,21 for September, 1906, while for the twelve months ending September, 1905 they were $187,215,479, for 1906, $244,-796,201, and for this year, $244,130,522, showing so far a slight decline this year, as compared with last year, on account, no doubt, for the most part, of the slower movement of wheat this fall. The exports of manufactures increased appreciably both for the month and the year, and the aggregate overseas trade of the country has increased from $673,796,517 for the twelve months ending September, 1906, to $644,797,701. That includes exports of foreign produce, and imports and exports of coin and bullion. Our domestic exports to Great Britain amounted to $126,865,565, to other British countries to $12,218,980, and to the United States to $89,951,440 for the twelve months ending September last year; while the imports from Great Britain amounted to $71,021,899 (dutiable, and $23,897,302 free; from the United States, $125,853,695 dutiable and $168,997,931, free; and from all other countries together, $36,302,849 dutiable, and $19,943,830 free. These figures especially are of interest for comparison and valuable to collect upon.

ENGLISH OF WILD WEST.

New and Picturesque Words — Old Time Buffalo Hunts.

In the West, which is the meeting place of many races, many new words have come into being, and not a few old ones have acquired a new sense by natural and half-natural processes, collectively defined as "evolution" by modern etymologists. Some of these Western colloquialisms which are as much used in Canada as in the United States are being gradually incorporated into the language for the cultured people. Among the words which have already "arrived" are coulee (a small valley), canon, or canyon, gulch, corrale an enclosure for cattle, shanty (French-Canadian chanties), tepee, lariat, etc.

Blood-Thirsty "Tepees."

The exact meaning of some of these words is unknown to an untraveled Englishman. For example, I remember the occasion of an English journalist visiting Western Canada for the first time, who mentioned in a descriptive letter the "blood-thirsty deeds of the Tepees, a tribe of Indians who are met with everywhere in the Great Northwest." Then there are the Western words which are arriving—not all of which will "get there." The list of these might include quirt (the cowboy's whip), chaps (his leathern breeches), maverick (a calf which, parted from its mother, cannot be assigned any particular brand-owner), and a variety of cunning terms.

Money Is "Otter Skins."

Anything hidden is "cached"—the words recalls the time when all the rivers of the West were occupied by French-Canadian fur-traders and trappers—while money is known as "otter-skins" or "velvet" (both fur-trading terms) or "dust." The other day a journal in the Western States, referring to the political Dianas who are hunting Mr Asquith, expressed the opinion that the Westminster debates were likely to remain "oratorical stag-dancers" for many years to come. A "stag-dance" was—and still is in the ultimate mining camps—a ball attended by gentlemen only, where, by the way, the "men" smoke their pipes and the "ladies" wear hats.

Here's a Ho!

The miner, anxious to "paint the town red," (a phase which is translated literally into the French of Quebec) asks his partner the mystic question, "Can you dig up?"

To "have a jag on" or to be "feeling lucky" are synonymous phrases. Perhaps the most interesting of all words and sayings entering into the ritual of "setting up drinks for the crowd" is the salutation used before emptying one's glass without taking breath, which is said to add to a man's carrying capacity. The Western old-timer always remarks "Waal here's a ho!" to which "Drink again!" is a favorite reply.

Buffalo Running Parties.

The reference is to the thunderous "Ho!" given by the captain of the great prairie buffalo-running parties of the first half of the last century as a signal to begin firing. In the olden days these parties consisted of thousands of persons—men, women and children — and practically the whole population of Red River—the seed-pot of Manitoba—took part in them, the fun being used to make a year's supply of pemican for all the outposts of the Hudson Bay Co. throughout the great domain of Rupert's Land. So this phrase is not a scrap of slang, but a key to the romantic history of the Farer West, "Canada."

A tickling cough, from any cause, is quickly stopped by Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. And it is so thoroughly harmless and safe, that Dr. Shoop tells mothers everywhere to give it without hesitation, even to very young babes. The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a lung healing mountainous shrub furnish the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough, and heals the sore and sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. Simply a resinous plant extract, that helps to heal aching lungs. The Spaniards call this shrub which the doctor uses, "The Sacred Herb." Demand Dr. Shoop's. Take no other. All dealers.

Ferocious Ruler of Annam Deposed by French

Paris, Nov. 14.—One of the most inhuman monsters who ever ruled a state Than-Tai, King of Annam, has been deposed by the French, who exercise a protectorate over that country, and an 8-year-old boy, the King's second son, has been selected to rule in his stead. This will mean of course a long regency, during which the government will be administered by the French.

Than-Tai was perhaps never surpassed in cruelty. His favorite pastime was found in torturing his subjects with the most extraordinary refinement of cruelty, and on many occasions the victims were his own wives. Recently, it is stated, he had seven of them executed at once, and the body of one of them woman, who had incurred his special enmity, was cooked and served at dinner to his household. Others of his wives were boiled in oil, and various members of the royal household were thrown into the cages of wild beasts, the King looking on with delight.

Than-Tai was placed on the throne in 1889 and was then 10 years old. From the first he exhibited a character of a fiendish nature and it seems incomprehensible that the French should have tolerated his rule. With his own hand he is said to have shot and killed a prince 70 years old, a member of the council of the royal family and the last surviving son of a former king. Than-Tai's harem contained 1,000 wives and other women and numerous servants. Once they entered the royal household they were never permitted to leave it.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land to be taken is situated. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

TENDERS FOR PULPWOOD CONCESSIONS

Tenders will be received by the undersigned up to and including the 16th of December next for the right to cut pulpwood on certain areas tributary to the Nepigon river, in the district of Thunder Bay, and Rainy Lake, in the district of Rainy River, and make the same into paper. Tenderers should state the amount they are prepared to pay as bonus in addition to such dues as may from time to time be fixed for the right to operate a paper making industry on the areas referred to. Separate tenders must be made for each area or territory, and the successful tenderers will be required to erect a mill or mills on each of the territories or in such other localities as may be approved by the Government of Ontario.

Parties tendering for the pulpwood rights shall accompany their tenders with a marked cheque for 25 per cent of the amount tendered, payable to the Treasurer of Ontario, and to be forfeited in the event of their failing to enter into agreements to carry out conditions, etc.

With respect to the Rainy Lake Pulp Concession, tenderers will be required to make a tender for the right to cut the pine, tamarac and cedar on the territory offered. Parties making tender for these timbers to state the amount they are prepared to pay per thousand feet B.M. as bonus in addition to Crown dues of $2.00 per thousand feet B.M. A marked cheque for $5,000.00 payable to the Treasurer of Ontario must accompany the tender for these timbers, and is to be forfeited in the event of their failing to enter into agreements to carry out conditions, etc.

No timber shall be cut on either of the concessions of a less diameter than nine inches, two feet from the ground.

The successful tenderers to enter into agreements with the Government for the erection of the mills, expenditure of money, etc.

For full particulars as to the conditions, etc., application should be made to the undersigned.

HON. F. COCHRANE,
Minister of Lands Forests and Mines.

AIKENSIDE

BY MARY J. HOLMES

Author of "Dora Deane," "The English Orphans," "Lena Rivers," "The Rector of St. Mark's," "Tempest and Sunshine," Etc.

"I will, I will," she cried, while into her heart there crept an intense longing for the love of Him who alone could make her task a light one. "If I were good like grandma, I could bear everything," she thought, and turning upon her pillow, Maddy prayed an earnest, childlike prayer, that God would help her do right, that He would take from her the proud spirit which rebelled against her lot because of its loneliness, that pride and love of her own ease and advancement in preference to others' good might all be subdued; in short, that she might be God's child, walking where He appointed her to walk without a murmur, and doing cheerfully His will.

Aikenside, and school, and the Catskill Mountains were easier to abandon after that contrite prayer; but when she thought of Guy, the fiercest, sharpest pang she had ever felt shot through her heart, making her cry out so quickly that the little hired girl who shared her bed moved as if about to waken, but Maddy lay very quiet until all was still again, when turning a second time to God she tried to pray, tried to give up what to her was the dearest idol, but she could not say the words, and ere she knew what she was doing she found herself asking that Guy should not forsake her. "Let him come," she sobbed, "let Guy come sometime to see me."

Once the Tempter whispered to her that had she accepted Dr. Holbrook she would have been spared all this, but Maddy turned a deaf ear to that suggestion. Dr. Holbrook was too noble a man to have an unloving wife, and not for a moment did she repent of her decision with regard to him. She almost knew he would say now that she was right in refusing him, and right in staying there, as she must. Thoughts of the doctor quieted her, she believed, not knowing that Heaven was already owning its submissive child, and breathing upon it a soothing benediction. The moan of the winter wind and the sound of the snow beating against her little window ceased to annoy her. Heaven, happiness, Aikenside, and Guy, all seemed blended into one great good just within her reach, and when the long clock below the stairs struck three, she did not hear it, but with the tear-stains upon her face, she lay nestled among her pillows, dreaming that her grandmother had come back from the bright world of glory to bless her darling child.

It was broad noon ere Maddy awoke and starting up she looked about her in bewilderment, wondering where she was and what agency had been at work in her room, transforming it from the cold, comfortless apartment she had entered the previous night into the cheery-looking chamber, with a warm fire blazing in the tiny fireplace, a rug spread down upon the floor, a rocking-chair drawn up before it, and all traces of the little hired girl as completely obliterated as if she had never been. In her grief Maddy seemed to have forgotten how to make things cosy, and as, during her grandmother's illness, her own room had been left to the care of the hired girl, Nettie, it wore a neglected, rude aspect, which had grated on Maddy's finer feelings, and made everything so uninviting. But this morning all was changed. Some skillful hand had been busy there while she slept, and Maddy was wondering who it could be, when the door opened cautiously and Flora's good-humored face looked in—Flora from Aikenside. Maddy knew now to whom she was indebted for all this comfort, and with a cry of joy she welcomed the girl, whose very presence brought back something of the life with which she had parted forever.

"Flora," she exclaimed, "how came you here? Did you make the fire and fix the room for me?"

"Yes, I made the fire," Flora replied, "and fixed up the things a little, hustlin' that young one's goods out of here; because it was not fittin' for you to be sleepin' with her. Mr. Guy was mad enough when he found it out."

"Mr. Guy, Flora? How should he know of our sleeping arrangements?" Maddy asked, but Flora evaded a direct reply, saying, "there was enough ways for things to get to Aikenside"; then continuing, "How tired you must be, Miss Maddy, to sleep so sound as never to hear me at all, though to be sure I tried to be still as a mouse. But let me help you dress. It's all but noon, and you must be hungry. Your breakfast's all ready."

"Thank you, Flora, I can dress myself," Maddy said, stepping out upon the floor, and feeling that the world was not as dark as it had seemed to her when last night she came up to her chamber.

God was comforting her already, and as she made her simple toilet, she tried to thank Him for His goodness, and ask for grace to make her what she ought to be.

"You have not yet told me why you came here," she said to Flora, who was busy making her bed, and who replied: "It's Mr. Guy's work. He thought I'd better come, as you would need help to get things set to rights, so you could go back to school."

Maddy felt her heart coming up in her throat, but she answered calmly, "Mr. Guy is very kind—as are you all; but, Flora, I am not going back to school."

"Not going back!" and Flora stopped her bedmaking, while she stared blankly at Maddy. "What be you going to do?"

"Stay here and take care of grandma," Maddy said, bathing her face and neck in the cold water, which could not cool the feverish heat she felt spreading all over them.

"Stay here! You are crazy, Miss Maddy! 'Tain't no place for a girl like you, and Mr. Guy never will suffer it, I know," Flora rejoined, as she resumed her work, thinking she "should die to be moped up in that nutshell of a house."

With a little sigh, as she foresaw the opposition she should probably meet with from Guy, Maddy went on with her toilet, which was soon completed, as it did not take long to arrange the dark calico dress and plain linen collar which she wore. She was not as fresh-looking as usual that morning, for excitement and fatigue had lent a paleness to her cheek and a languor to her whole appearance, but Flora, who glanced anxiously after her as she went out, muttered to herself, "She was never more beautiful, and I don't wonder an atom that Mr Guy thinks so much of her."

The kitchen was in perfect order, for Flora had been busy there as elsewhere. The kettle was boiling on the stove, while two or three little covered dishes were ranged upon the hearth, as if waiting for someone. Grandpa Markham had gone out, but Uncle Joseph sat in his accustomed corner, rubbing his hands when he saw Maddy, and nodding mysteriously toward the front room, the door of which was open, so that Maddy could hear the fire crackling on the hearth.

"Go in, go in," Uncle Joseph said, waving his hand in that direction. "My Lord Governor is in there waiting for you. He won't let me spit on the floor any more as Martha did, and I've swallowed so much that I'm almost choked."

Continual spitting was one of Uncle Joseph's worst habits, and as his sister had indulged him in it, it had become a source of great annoyance both to Maddy and to someone else of whose proximity Maddy did not dream. Thinking that Uncle Joseph referred to her grandfather, and feeling glad that the latter had attempted a reform, she entered the room known at the cottage as the parlor, the one where the rag carpet was, the six cane-seated chairs and the Boston rocker, and now the little round table was nicely laid for two, while cozily seated in the rocking-chair, reading last night's paper and looking very handsome and happy, was Guy!

The Name Lusitania.

The Cunard company, following its long established habit of naming its ships after the classic subdivisions of Europe, lighted upon "Lusitania" and "Mauretania." The first is the ancient name of the country inhabited by the Lusitanii, which included the greater part of modern Portugal and ran over into the present Spanish provinces of Estremadura and Toledo. The second, of about the same age, comes from across the strait of Gibraltar, where the Mauri lived, the present Morocco or thereabout.—New York Times.

An Ambitious Prince.

When Prince Edward, son of the Prince of Wales and heir apparent to the British throne, was about nine years old he said to his nurse one night before going to sleep: "You know that some day I shall be king. Well, when I am I shall do three things. First, I shall make a law that no one is to cut off puppy dogs' tails, for that is very cruel. Then I shall make a law that no one is to put bearing reins on horses, for that is another cruel thing. And I shall try to do away with all sin."

Collies as Scouts.

This year's army maneuvers in Italy are signalized by the introduction of the dog as an element in tactics. A small group of scouting and messenger dogs is attached by way of experiment to the First army corps, and if the results are deemed sufficiently good dogs are likely to be largely used by the intelligence department. It is worth noting, too, that the dogs selected as pioneers in this work are Scotch collies.—London Globe.

My Symphony.

To live content with small means; to seek elegance rather than luxury and refinement rather than fashion; to be worthy, not respectable, and wealthy, not rich; to study hard, think quietly, talk gently, act frankly; to listen to stars and birds, babes and sages with open heart; to bear all cheerfully, do all bravely, await occasions, hurry never. In a word, to let the spiritual, unbidden and unconscious grow up through the common. This is to be my symphony.—William Henry Channing.

Weak Women

To reach most ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential.

Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local.
Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional.

The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is topical? mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, making the repair of all nerve, all tissue, and all blood ailments.

The "Night Cure", as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weakness and discharges, while the Restorative, again nervous exhaustion, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, bringing about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well

ANTIGUA GOLD-COPPER Co.

Offers the Biggest and Most Attractive Mining Investment Now Before the Public.

ITS HOLDINGS ARE MINES--NOT PROSPECTS

With Vast Bodies of Ore Ready for the Mill, Now Nearing Completion.

THOMAS W. LAWSON

"Copper stocks offer the biggest opportunity for money making in the world to-day. A good copper mine is really a safe-deposit vault of stored up dividends which cannot be stolen or destroyed by fire, flood or famine."

CECIL RHODES

said: "Mining offers greater inducements than any other business in the world to make quick and great wealth."

CHARLES M. SCHWAB

says: "The big fortunes of the next twenty-five years will come from Mother Earth." Among all mining investments none stand ahead of copper for safety, permanency and profit.

Lay the Foundation for Your Fortune Today

THE ANTIGUA PROPERTIES

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company holdings consist of 831 acres, situated in Honduras, Central America, 100 miles southeast from Puerto Cortez, and midway between New Orleans and Panama. Development work is being pushed with all possible speed, and more than 1,500 feet of tunnelling and shaft work has been completed. A 40 to 50-ton capacity gold-silver mill is in course of construction, and will be in operation before the close of the year.

Development work has conclusively proven that every acre of our holdings are rich in gold, copper and silver, and that every ton of this great ore body will yield a handsome profit on milling expense. The ore exposed on the surface does not require mining in the usual sense of the term, but may be obtained by quarrying. It can, according to estimates of experts, be quarried and treated for the gold and silver on an extensive scale at a cost of less than $1.00 a ton. Think of it! A solid mountain of rich ore, from the very grass roots of which may be washed gold.

Beyond a doubt Honduras has beneath her soil larger, richer deposits of copper, gold and silver than any other section of the American continent. Spain, during her sovereignty in that country, took out more than $300,000,000 in gold alone—and she scarcely scraped the Earth's surface. There is evidence that the pre-historic races knew how to mine and utilize copper—smelting it in their crude way.

The original incorporators of the Antigua Gold-Copper Company spent thousands of dollars of their own money in bringing this property to its present stage of development. They opened up the mine on every side with tunnels, crosscuts and shafts. They purchased machinery and began the erection of a gold-silver mill—now nearing completion. These men appreciated from the first that this mine was destined to become one of the greatest copper-gold-silver properties in America; and that it justified more extensive and more rapid development than they were able to make without the co-operation and financial assistance of the public.

The average assay values of Antigua ores, ranging from the surface to a depth of 200 feet, is over 5 per cent copper. This is above the average of the ore of the world's greatest producers, the famous Anaconda yielding ore which averages only a little over 3 per cent. The Anaconda has little other ore value, while our property, in addition to the copper, carries $2.00 to $1.400 a ton in gold and silver.

WHY STOCK IS SOLD

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company finds itself in precisely the same position as the farmer who has a larger farm than he can cultivate with the capital in hand. He knows that with additional capital and assistance he could make the land yield abundant crops and enormous profits. In the same way we intend, by the investment of additional capital, to bring our enormous ore bodies to a highly profitable state of development at the earliest possible moment. For this reason a limited amount of treasury stock is offered the public. In this way funds will be available for immediate use in purchasing additional machinery and for continuing vigorous development of the property.

THERE ARE NO PREFERRED SHARES AND NO BONDS TO COME FIRST IN THE DIVISION OF PROFITS.

and your shares will earn as much as a like number of shares owned by any other stockholder in the company. Each share CARRIES WITH IT THE RIGHT TO VOTE, so that with a single share you have every right, privilege and protection possessed by any other stockholder.

Stock is now being sold at $2.50 a share, and this stock, we firmly believe, will within a year, be selling at its par value of $5.00 a share, or higher; nor will it stop there. If you are desirous of permanently increasing your income, of making an investment that is not only secure, but immensely profitable, reserve shares TO-DAY.

Such an investment opportunity can scarcely be repeated. It is made possible only by extraordinary natural conditions. Millions of dollars of copper, gold and silver will be marketed from the mines—fortunes will be reaped as a result of the prompt seizure of the opportunity we offer you to-day.

REPORT OF AN EXPERT

Much weight can justly be given the statement of a properly qualified and reliable mining engineer. Such is the character of J. W. Foster, from whose report on Antigua we make the following extracts:

"From the development work done and the indications shown by the croppings, I am convinced this is one of the largest gold-copper deposits in existence, and under proper development will make one of the richest mining properties in America. * * * I consider this ore an ideal smelting proposition, there being an abundance of iron, lime and silica in close proximity. There is plenty of water for power and milling purposes, and an abundance of timber on the property. * * * * *

"A large amount of development work has been done on this property in tunnels, drifts and shafts, ranging from 20 to possibly 200 feet in length. * * * This work has all been in ore—in fact, the ore body on the surface is shown to be fully one-half mile wide by two miles in length. To judge from the development work done, this property is all ore—no matter where work was started, ore was encountered.

"The company is erecting a mill, consisting of one five-stamp and three Huntingtons, to work the surface ore. This surface ore is mostly free milling, the copper and galena sulphides being oxidized, freeing the gold, and being readily amalgamated. But I am confident that at no very great depth copper sulphides will be encountered, as there are many places in this great ore body where the sulphides crop to the surface. I have taken a dozen samples from various places on the lead, and from these made free gold tests, finding an average of over $4.00 a ton in FREE gold, and from 5 to 2% per cent. copper. Native copper is frequently seen in this ore. If the Antigua mines continue in depth as on the surface, a 1,000 ton smelter will not work it out in 100 years. * * * * * * With good management and proper development, it will be but a short time until the stock of the company will be worth more than par. I fully believe that if this great ore body is properly developed there is a mine here worth many millions of dollars.

Something New in Copper

PITTSBURG - IDAHO

Mining and Milling Company

The mine is located 58 miles above Lewiston, Idaho, on the Clearwater river, and consists of 19 full claims, or 380 acres. It is developed by tunnels, shafts and open cuts for more than 2100 feet, disclosing thousands of tons of copper, gold and silver ores of both high grade and low grade. There are between 1000 and 2000 tons of ore ready for shipment. The entrance to the working tunnel is only 2000 feet from the track of the Northern Pacific railroad, to be reached by gravity tramway. There are seven parallel veins running lengthwise of the claims, one cropping out on the surface for 2,700 feet and another for 3000 feet; while two veins cross these running into the mountain. These veins are from 30 to 300 feet wide. One ore chute has been crosscut 70 feet and is solid ore from wall to wall.

We are not asking you to buy in a prospect. That risk was taken by the promoters. We are asking you to buy in a developed, proven mine. Seven years of continuous work and the expenditure of thousands of dollars has proven up one of the greatest mines in Idaho. That mine is now ready to pour out its reef and yellow wealth to the world with the installing of an up to date production plant. It is for that purpose that a block of its treasury stock, full paid and non-assessable, is offered for sale. We believe that within six months from the completion of the 100-ton plant the mine can be put on a dividend paying basis, and that those dividends will be substantial and permanent. There is no better investment proposition before the people at this time.

CAPITALIZATION $1,000,000. - PAR VALUE $1.

Pay Up Your Taxes Today

Today will be the last day on which the five per cent. will not be added in paying the city taxes. On Saturday morning those who have not paid over their money will have to pay five per cent. extra. During the past few days about $4000 has been added to the treasury, but there is yet about $14,000 to come in.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Local Musicians for Cobourg

Among former local men who will have instruments in the Cobourg new Salvation Army band, are; Bandsmen W. H. Wilson, Horton, James, Cown, Sutton and Darling, the last mentioned being leader. These efficient musicians have secured employment in Cobourg and are now working there, and will no doubt make a success of the Cobourg Salvation Army Band. The departure of these players from the local band will have no material effect on it, as there has been more musicians with the local corps than could be used. Therefore, although Bandmaster Greene has lost some good men the band has lost none of its noted talent.

If it was its heart that the horse threw up, why no blame attaches for subsequent carelessness as the horse must evidently have been heartless; if some of its veins or arteries were cast aside, why it is beyond the province of art and to vain to look for damages; should this heartless animal have——well its about time to quit this raw and less than a cent per line attempt at punning. We only trust that the horse in question did not throw up its bones because thus the "bone of ally, contention" is ended.

Will Rival Thaw Trial

even the detectives for its evidence of duplicity and wrong-doing.

FOUND EVIDENCE OF INTIMACY

Immediately upon being notified of the shooting, Capt. Donaghy had Ferree's room searched. There the joint families of letters and a number of pictures, all indicating an intimacy between Ferree and the woman, calculated to madden the young husband, and drive him to desperate measures. Numbers of the letters were from seaside resorts, telling Ferree of times when Detsch would be away and it would be safe for him to go down to see Mrs. Detsch. All were couched in the most endearing terms and some of them the detectives read disgusted them, accustomed as they are to evidence of immorality.

But probably the most nauseating and convincing evidence of all was a picture which the detectives declare appears to be of Ferree and Mrs. Detsch. Its unspeakable horror convinced the detectives that the letters were not misleading and that there was much more back of the shooting than a mistake.

WIFE ACKNOWLEDGED LETTERS.

Mrs. Detsch, at first denied to Capt. Donaghy that there was any intimacy between her and Ferree and stoutly stuck to the story of her husband. Capt. Donaghy asked if she had ever written to Ferree and she denied this also. He then presented the packet of letters and the woman, biting her lips, acknowledged them as hers. She was cool and self-possessed throughout the examination, the only emotion she displayed being a sudden rush of her words in offering an explanation.

"Yes, I wrote those letters," she said. "Ferree forced me to. He dictated them and I had to write them. I couldn't help it."

"How could he dictate them to you and force you to write them when you were at Asbury Park and he was in Philadelphia?" asked the detective.

A Toronto despatch of yesterday says that Mrs. Tilly Clarke-Rundle aged 40 years, while attending an at-home at Annesley Hall.

Dr. Temple was at once called in and pronounced what seemed to be a fainting fit as a fatal seizure.

Mrs. Rundle went to Toronto about a year and a half ago from Peterborough, and has since then been living with her friend, Mrs. G. A. Galloway, at 165 Park road. She had complained of dyspepsia, but had not shown signs of any serious illness. She went to the At-home at Annesley Hall. While there she appeared perfectly well. She was talking to friends at about half-past five, when she suddenly collapsed and died before medical assistance could be obtained. Mrs. Tilly Clarke-Rundle was the widow of the late Mr. Arthur L. Rundle of Peterborough. A sister who lives on Jarvis street, Toronto, survives her. The funeral service will be held tonight at eight o'clock, at 165 Park road, and afterwards the remains will be conveyed to Peterborough for burial, arriving in Peterborough on the 11.14 C.P.R. train, and being conveyed from there to the Little Lake cemetery.

"He dictated them and forced me to write them," was the only answer.

"Then, he did dictate this, and forces you to have this picture taken?" came the next question, as the worst picture, hitherto hidden, was suddenly held before the woman's eyes. She turned her head quickly, her cheeks flaming and her hand waving the picture away, refusing to look at it.

"Oh, don't show me that picture. I know enough about that now. I don't want to see it," she said.

"WORSE THAN STANFORD WHITE"

To further questioning regarding her relations with Ferree, Mrs. Detsch maintained a stolid silence, only breaking out once or twice with declarations that, whatever she might have done, she had not been unfaithful to her husband. Finally, in answer to urging by Capt. Donaghy to tell the truth and save more trouble, the girl, tense in every muscle, said:

"Well, I'll tell you this much—that man was worse than Stanford White."

In support of this appraisement of the dead man, Capt. Donaghy declared that he had evidence showing that Ferree was a debased harp, preying on young girls. He said that Ferree made some pretensions to being an art photographer, and was very fond of making studies from life, particularly in the nude. To accomplish this the detective said, the man lured girls to studios where he was known, and there made pictures of them in various attitudes, and on more than one occasion had procured photographs of young girls standing naked amid fields of daisies in secluded spots in Fairmount Park.

BAD CONFESSED TO HUSBAND

Mrs. Detsch told the detectives that her husband had discovered her correspondence with Ferree, and on Monday night had charged her with it, procuring a confession. On Tuesday he purchased a 38-calibre Colt's automatic revolver, telling her it was for her protection. Shortly after midnight of Tuesday, she said, she was awakened by hearing Ferree moving about, and she told her husband. He arose, procured his revolver and waited by the bedroom door. When he heard Ferree's hand on the knob he fired five shots, each one taking effect.

Theatrical

Last night "Monte Christo" concluded a most successful four nights' engagement at the Grand Opera house of the H. Wilmott Young Co., and the local theater goers have been more than pleased with the splendid performances. From their first appearance on Monday night, when a packed house greeted the company, they have presented wholesome and clean plays to their patrons, and Mr. Young has been highly commended upon getting together one of the strongest stock companies that has ever appeared in this city. Should the company pay a return visit they are certain to meet with large audiences as they have won great favor with the people.

Neither pains nor money has been spared to secure the best talent, both in proficiency and personality. The company carries with it some of the highest salaried specialities ever engaged by a repertore company. Verona, the electrical wonder, is a very strong feature of the show.

Mr. Young speaks in the highest terms of Mr. J. S. Turner, and says he is a capital manager of an opera house.

If You Read This

It will be to learn that the leading medical writers and teachers of all the several schools of practice recommend, in the strongest terms possible, each and every ingredient entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the cure of weak stomach, dyspepsia, catarrh of stomach, "liver complaint," torpid liver, or biousness, chronic bowel affections, and all catarrhal diseases of whatever region, name or nature. It is also a specific remedy for all such chronic or long standing cases of catarrhal affections and their resultants, as bronchial, throat and lung disease (except consumption) accompanied with severe coughs. It is not so good for acute colds and coughs but for lingering, or chronic cases it is especially efficacious in producing perfect cures. It contains Black Cherry bark, Golden Seal root, Bloodroot, Stone root, Mandrake root and Queen's root—all of which are highly praised as remedies for all the above mentioned affections by six eminent medical writers and teachers of Prof. Bartholow, of Jefferson Med. College; Prof. Harvey, of the Univ. of Pa.; Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Med. College, Chicago; Prof. Joh. King, M. D., of Cincinnati; Prof. Joh. M. Scudder, M. D., of Cincinnati; Prof. Edwin M. Hale, M. D., of Hahnemann Med. College, Chicago, and scores of others equally eminent in their several schools of practice.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is the only medicine put up for sale through druggists for like purposes that has any such professional endorsement—or one more than any number of ordinary testimonials. Open publicity of its formula is the best possible guaranty of its merits. A glance at this published formula will show that "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no poisonous, harmful or habit-forming drugs and no alcohol—chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine being used instead. Glycerine is entirely unobjectionable and besides is a most useful agent in the cure of all stomach as well as bronchial, throat and lung affections. There is the highest medical authority for its use in all such cases. The "Discovery" is a concentrated glyceric extract of native medicinal roots and is safe and reliable.

A booklet of extracts from eminent medical authorities, endorsing its ingredients mailed free on request. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

ROSSLAND MINES AND SMELTERS WILL LIKELY CLOSE DOWN

Report from British Columbia That They will Close Down--Town will be Badly Hit if Reports are Reliable

Rossland, B.C., Nov. 15.—Managers of Rossland mines and smelters at Trail and Northport, when seen today, stated that they had no instructions to close down at the end of the week, and, as far as they knew, operations were to be kept up.

Vancouver, B.C., Nov. 15.—H. G. Warren of Greenwood, said today that over two thousand men were thrown out of work by the present close down in the Boundary district. He says there was no alternative for the companies, owing to the low price of copper.

The Rossland mines and smelters at Trail and Northport, it is stated, will close indefinitely at the end of the week. Several large silver and gold mines will also be forced to close on account of lack of treatment facilities.

The report that the Trail and Northport smelters were to close down is not verified. Mr. A. J. Kitto of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company, which controls that at Trail, said this morning that he had received no advices, and hardly credited the report. The Snowshoe Mine at Phoenix has, however, been closed, throwing about 150 men out of work. Some five hundred are employed at the Trail smelter. Mr. Kitto thinks that a number of the copper furnaces, may be closed down there, but does not look for a total close-down. The Northport smelter is a smaller concern, controlled largely by the Le Roi people.

Mr. Kitto does not credit the story as to the closing down of the mines at Rossland, insofar as it might apply to his company's holding there, the War Eagle and Centre Star mines.

Following close upon the shut-down at the Granby smelter today a report indicates that the reduced price obtainable for copper is having a serious effect. It is said by those who know the situation that there will have to be a reduction in wages at the mines and smelters, and that those in control have decided that a closing down is the easiest way to impress the necessity of this upon the men.

PARTIAL CONFIRMATION.

Montreal, Nov. 15.—Montreal directors of the Consolidated Mining Company, who operate the principal mines about Rossland and the trail smelters have not as yet received any intimation that the mines would be shut down. Some such action is expected, however, owing to the unsatisfactory condition of the output of the different mines, and the difficulty in getting enough assistance from the banks to keep in operation.

According to a statement made by a prominent financial man late this morning, the Rossland mines and smelters at Trail and Northport will close down at the end of the week. The reasons given are similar to those given by the Western State Mine Owners' Association—the low price of metals and higher operating expenses.

Police Court

Eli Kidd and a kid named Bert McCaul, arrived in the city Thursday from Bewdley, and proceeded with that proverbial determination extant in all large and some small cities to make money on the "get rich quick" style. These are the men, whose arrest as noted in another column in the King and George streets Chinese restaurant, was facilitated and facilitated in by a local reporter. Kidd pleaded not guilty to peddling rings without a peddler's license.

It seems that Kidd went into a local jewellery store and bought two rings for thirty cents. He offered them to a street car conductor for 75 cents, but a telephone message soon after brought P. C. Newhall to the scene and Kidd was arrested.

Kidd said that he wanted a little money to get back to Toronto, and took this means of getting it. He did not think he was peddling.

"I'll let you go if you get right out of town," said his worship, whereupon the prisoner promised to go.

"He has no money to pay a fine and we will have the jail full before long if we send all these fellows up," remarked the magistrate.

Letter Writing Hints to Our Readers

Correspondent Must Put Full Address Including Street and Number

It will hereafter be up to both writers and recipients of letters sent to Peterborough addresses to see that, in addition to the name of the consignee of such correspondence, that the street number is given in the addresses. Whilst Col. Rogers, the efficient local postmaster and his staff have done, and are doing, all in his and their power to see that Peterborough addressed letters are duly delivered to their respective addresses, there is such a trifle as common sense to be mixed up in the ways and means of that solution, viz., the proper and prompt delivery of the correspondence.

Now in Toronto, par example, no letters are delivered to addresses unless the street and street number of such letters are written on the envelopes. Should even the street number be omitted on any letter, such letter is sent back to its writer for further and more complete information.

The local post office authorities claim, and, no doubt correctly, that large firms send out circulars, bills, etc., to say, Smith, Jones or Brown, Peterborough, and that such disseminators of correspondence are too lazy, too tired, too much in a hurry or too keen to let the post office staff do their, the senders' work, to hunt up the street number of their various addressees.

Now it is a matter of common sense, patent to a child of 10 years old, that "the post office staff in here as elsewhere throughout the wide world, too busy with common sense directed correspondence, to hunt up thousands of addresses, including streets and respective street numbers of the mail passing daily through their hands. It is up to our citizens to learn, read, mark and keep for future reference and application the common sense fact that the men or women writing to anyone in Peterborough or elsewhere, when there is a postal delivery staff, that such writer should, or, in plain English MUST inscribe the name and street number on such correspondence as they, the senders, want delivered.

Tea Coat Became Sold Yesterday

Yesterday several of the local hotelmen did a little Sherlock Holmes, Videcq, Pinkerton or Newhall diplomatic detective work to ascertain whether their contemporaries in the liquid refreshment business were transgressing the understanding attained between them all and so subscribed to. The result was that the new raised prices were practically universally adhered to. In conversation with a local luminose to ascertain results, a Times man was told by a George street hotelman that only two kickers "quit without trying."

Hanging Delayed Until Daylight at Prisoner's Request

St. John, N.B., Nov. 15. —At 7.25 o'clock this morning at Hopewell Cape, Albert County, Thomas Francis Collins was hanged by Radcliffe, paying the penalty for the murder in August, 1906, of Mary Ann McAulay, housekeeper and niece of Rev. Father McAulay, with whom Collins was employed. The prisoner received the ministrations of the Rev. E. B. Thomas of Dorchester, but made no confession. He went firmly to the scaffold. The execution was delayed until daylight, at the prisoner's own request, as he did not wish it conducted by lanterns.

Mayor McWilliams Will be a Candidate For Second Term

Mayor McWilliams has definitely decided to be a candidate for re-election for that honor at the coming municipal nominations. It was generally thought among those consulted by a Times representative yesterday that it would be a graceful compliment and a fitting recognition of past services, should his nomination be unopposed and his re-election thus made by unanimous choice of the electorate.

Another Correspondent Thinks Black Bridge Unsafe

(To the Editor of The Times.)

In your issue of Thursday, appeared a letter over a local citizen's name that conveyed a whole lot of truth and truth of a character that should be shown up before every ratepayer of the town. The letter I refer to, was about the evident danger incurred by all who drive over the Smith street, or as your correspondent of Thursday, calls it, the Black bridge.

Your correspondent is no alarmist or a man seeking for newspaper notoriety in inserting his letter. The bridge referred to is positively and beyond dispute unsafe for man, women, children or horses to cross. Mr. Mendice in his letter explained exactly the situation I encountered a few evenings ago. As I, with my wife and baby were crossing this bridge in a buggy, we could easily feel a perceptible shaking of the structure. This bridge is unsafe for people to cross in rigs, and if the city engineer does not have it shut up against public traffic, Mr Hays will have a case of homicide on his conscience. The Smith street bridge is unsafe. If the city, whether from a desire to accede to demands of certain citizens who want it left open to traffic for their individual convenience, or from reasons of public policy persist in letting people cross the structure before it is repaired, the authorities of Peterborough, will have the moral, if not the legal onus of having, for policy's sake, caused the death of innocent victims.

I do not, Mr Editor, claim for a minute, that any city official would for policy's sake, or any other cause be a party to risking the lives of our citizens, but this bridge is certainly unsafe and not in condition for public service. If the city, with its enormously increased assessment for taxation purposes cannot, or does not wish to, afford more expenses for municipal improvements why, in the name of humanity and common sense close this bridge until such time as the city can replace this rickety and shaking structure by a modern and reliable stone and iron bridge, over which both citizens and country folk may pass in their wagons without danger of a plunge into the rock embedded waters of the Otonabee river.

Yours truly,

RATEPAYER.

DESPERADO FINISHED BY CONSTABLE KILLED H. WILLIAMS

Died in His Treachery--After Surrendering One Revolver He Drew Another and Fired --Two Constables Replied

Kamloops, B.C., Nov. 15.—H. Stout alias Williams, murderer of Bob Williams, the Cariboo trader, was himself shot and instantly killed by Donald Gordon, special constable, out with one of Chief Constable Fernie's posses last night.

The chase for the murderer had been a hard one, and he eluded his pursuers some days, leaving no traces to work on. He had abandoned the stolen horses, and the police were of the opinion that he had hidden in the mountains waiting for an opportunity to double back to Edmonton.

On Tuesday night an Indian woman, procuring water from the river, saw a canoe slip by in the darkness, and this gave the clue that he was attempting to escape. Constable Fernie put other posses out at the lower end of the North Thompson on both sides and a strict watch was kept on the river and all trails in the valley.

Last night Donald Gordon and Duncan McLean came upon the man crouching in the brush. They immediately covered and placed him under arrest. He gave up one revolver, and with the words "I have another gun" drew a .44 from its holster and shot point blank at McLean at such close range that the side of the constable's head was seared and powder burned. Both specials shot, and Gordon's bullet penetrated the outlaw's neck, severing the jugular vein. The dead man left a cache above Fish Trap rapids, and had walked to a point within 18 miles from town when he met death.

The Late John J. Patterson

Death Occurred on Thursday Evening at 8 O'clock

The death occurred on Thursday evening last of Mr. John J. Patterson, son of Mr. G. Patterson. The deceased was 38 years of age, and leaves a wife and three young children. He had been ailing about a year, and his demise was therefore not unexpected.

The funeral will leave the family residence, 495 King street, this afternoon, (17th inst) at 2.30. Interment in Little Lake cemetery.

P. C. Newhall Found Lost Pomeranian

It was noted in the local press yesterday that a lady travelling west, through Peterborough, had whilst en route lost her valuable and valued brown Pomeranian dog. The canine's whereabouts was wrapped in as dense a mystery as is "The man who struck Billy Patterson," and the latter has been an unsolved conundrum for many years. The lady losing the dog at once entered an action against the railroad for losing her pet.

Fortunately for the road and the lady, but possibly not relished by the lawyers who might have gotten fees in the fight, P. C. Newhall, saw and recognized from description the dog, which he captured and promptly forwarded to the owner's address in Toronto. Whilst this might be a dog-gone low down trick to play on the legal fraternity, it reflects credit upon the watchfulness of the local officer.

Karnot Hockey Club Organized

The Karnot Hockey team held their organization meeting last night at the Y.M.C.A. and elected their officers for the coming season as follows,

Hon. Pres.—Mr. Wm. Irwin.
Pres.—Fred Craig.
Vice-Pres.—J. Meagher.
Sec.-Treas.—N. Geate.
Executive Committee—H. Cameron, E. Fox, F. Geroux.
Manager—F. Kelley.

The Kernots have splendid material for a winning team, and are right out after championship honors.

A Lazy Liver

May be only a tired liver, or a starved liver. It would be a stupid as well as savage thing to beat a weary or starved man because he lagged in his work. So in treating the lagging, torpid liver it is a great mistake to lash it with strong drastic drugs. A torpid liver is but an indication of an ill-nourished, enfeebled body whose organs are weary with over work. Start with the stomach and allied organs of digestion and nutrition. Put them in working order and see how quickly your liver will become active. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has made many marvelous cures of "liver trouble" by its wonderful control of the organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the normal activity of the stomach, increases the secretions of the blood-making glands, cleanses the system from poisonous accumulations, and so relieves the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the defection of other organs.

If you have bitter or bad taste in the morning, poor or variable appetite, coated tongue, foul breath, constipated or irregular bowels, feel weak, easily tired, despondent, frequent headaches, pain or distress in "small of back," gnawing or distressed feeling in stomach, perhaps nausea, "risings" or "vomiting" in throat after eating, and kindred symptoms of weak stomach and torpid liver, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will relieve you most promptly. Or, if you buy Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser will be present a part of the above symptoms will be present at one time and yet point to torpid liver or biliousness and weak stomach. Avoid all hot bread and biscuits, griddle cakes and other indigestible food and take the "Golden Medical Discovery" regularly and stick to it for some until you are vigorous and strong.

The "Discovery" is non-secret, non-alcoholic, is a glyceric extract of native medicinal roots with a full list of its ingredients printed on each bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. Its ingredients are endorsed and extolled by the most eminent medical writers of the age and are recommended to cure the diseases for which it is advised.

Don't accept a substitute of unknown composition for this non-secret medicine of KNOWN composition.

Local Reporter Acts as Policeman

Followed an Officer for News and Had to Assist in an Arrest

Yesterday a local reporter had to stand some good natured jollying over his police adventures of the night before. It seems that this scribe suspected early in the evening that P. C. Newhall had something "on the string," from seeing the officer making extra quick trips between certain localities in the center of the city.

The officer with his proverbial close-mouthed reticence as to matter of duty would give no information, so the scribe did a sleuth act all by his lonely, and followed the policeman, a short distance behind. At last Mr. Newhall entered a Chinese restaurant at the corner of George and King streets. The reporters casually dropped in, just in time to see the policeman placing two guests of the place, under arrest. "Here," said the officer to the scribe, "just collar this man and bring him to the station."

The scribe hesitated, but the officer was insistent, so that Mr. Scribbler had to obey. He grabbed the prisoner by one arm and his coat collar and hung on as though the prisoner was a long lost rich uncle suffering with symptoms of an early demise. To the station wended the officer with one prisoner and the scribe with another. This reporter after this will be none the less keen in his search for news but will take other means of getting those "scoops." The men arrested by the police-reportorial combination were wanted for peddling jewellery without having gone through the necessary formalities of procuring peddlers' licenses.

Chas. T. Barney Commits Suicide

New York, Nov. 16.—Chas. T. Barney, for many years one of the most prominent financiers of New York City, committed suicide at his residence, 36th street, and Park avenue, today. Mr. Barney shot himself in the head this morning and lived four and a half hours. His death was reported to the coroner's office shortly after three p.m., first as a case of sudden death and later as one of suicide.

Mr. Barney was president of the Knickerbocker Trust Company, up to a day or two before that institution closed its doors, with liabilities amounting to from $60,000,000 to $70,000,000. It was understood, at the time the company closed, that Mr. Barney had been heavily involved by this summer's sharp decline in the prices of all securities. He had not been seen at his office for several days, and it was known to his friends that he was in a state of physical and mental collapse so that his friends were prepared for the announcement of his tragic death.

Mr. Barney was 55 years old and a native of Cleveland, Ohio. In addition to his various other connections, he was a member of the house of Rogers and Gould, a New York Stock Exchange firm. He had made large investments in New York real estate. He was president of the Knickerbocker Trust Co., which closed its doors at the beginning of the recent financial crisis.

The institution was one of the largest trust companies in the city. Mr. Barney's wife is a sister of the late William C. Whitney.

A Day, Not of Doom but Discounts

Yesterday was the last day in which local taxpayers could pay their local taxpayers could pay their way towards supporting the civic government of Peterborough, and thereby or therein save the five per cent. allowed by the city as a bait for prompt payment. Notwithstanding the frequent cries of "hard times," the payments came in fast and Collector Green, with his staff, were kept busy all day. Yesterday also saw hundreds of patrons of the Peterborough Light & Power Co., out with their purses, pocketbooks, pockets or cheque books laden more or less with coin or its equivalent, anxious to pay up their light bills in time to make the discount allowed for prompt payment.

Western Grain Moving Out at Rate of 360,000 Bus. Daily

Winnipeg, Nov. 14. — A statement with respect to the present car shortage extracted from the latest C.P.R. reports available, for the week ending Nov. 12th, indicates that there are now fifty per cent. more cars available daily for grain loading during this period than during the same period in 1905 and 1906, and that the average amount of wheat loaded is fifty per cent. greater than in the year 1906 and about equal to that of 1905.

A VERY LATE START.

Although grain started to move much later this year than last, in fact, three weeks later in Saskatchewan, the amount of grain in store in country elevators on Nov. 12th this year is exactly half the amount in store on that date in 1905, and a little better than one-third of the amount in store at this time last year.

The figures show that there is now estimated to be stored at interior points 6,183,730 bushels of grain, as against 16,708,286 bushels last year, and 12,139,509 bushels in 1906.

640 CARS PER DAY.

Six hundred and forty-three cars are available at the various stations per day for loading grain, as against 413 last year. The number of bushels now being shipped per day is 360,000, while a year ago the daily shipments were 236,500 bushels. Loading is taking place at 144 stations, the average daily marketings being 316,000 bushels. Last year loading was being done at 128 points, and 235,500 bushels were being marketed every day.

GRAIN FROM BUFFALO

New York, Nov. 14.—As a result of the representations frankly and forcibly presented by a special committee of grain interests, the railroad embargo placed about a month ago on grain from Buffalo has been raised and all the Buffalo-New York lines will co-operate in a movement to aid in the exportation of grain from this country. It is a matter of distinct importance in connection with the gold import movement that is now under way. The traffic manager and other important managers of the road met representatives of the grain trade and of the Produce Exchange and agreed to ship out 1,000,000 bushels of grain per week from Buffalo to New York up to the close of navigation.

Curlers Awakening From Their Slumbers

Judging by the temperature and weather conditions of the past two days it looks as though the wielders of stone and besom will be ready for the strenuous life, as seen through curlers' spectacles on or possibly before the 1st of December.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Curling Club will be held next Tuesday night at eight o'clock at the rink, Charlotte street, and all the members are asked to be on hand. Reports for the past year will be read and officers elected for the coming season. The Curling Club can have the rink after December 1st. Last year was one of the best in the history of the Peterborough Curling Club and it is intended to make the present season an even better one.

Why Mr. Patterson's Shop Closed

As quite a number of customers of Mr. Bruce Patterson's barber shop, in Mr. Mike Pappas cigar and pool room on George street, next The Times offices, yesterday called only to find the chairs covered up as on a Sunday, it might be explained that this temporary cessation of business was due, and due only, to the lamented death Thursday morning of "Bruce's" brother at his residence on King street, a full report of which appears in another column of this issue.

Manitobia Challenge Has Been Accepted For Stanley Cup

Ottawa, Nov. 15.—The challenge of the Manitoba Hockey League for the Stanley Cup has been accepted by Trustees Ross and Foran. Word to this effect has been sent to the secretary of the league. But, despite the acceptance of the challenge, it is not considered likely that the Manitoba champions will meet Wanderers during the coming season for possession of the famous trophy.

It appears that the challenge was forwarded to Mr. Foran while he was acting trustee in the absence of Mr. Ross last February. The Winnipeg team won the championship, but when the challenge was sent in the Stanley Cup was in possession of Kenora, and the Winnipeg hockeyists did not expect that they would have to come east in quest of it. The challenge was filed, and later the trustees decided to accept it, writing to the league to ascertain when the challengers would like to meet the Wanderers. No answer to this has as yet been received, and it is presumed that Winnipeg does not want to play at Montreal. The Manitoba challenge was in before those of Ottawa Victorias or Renfrew, and has prior rights if the Westerners wish to come east.

Toronto, Nov. 14.—The O.H.A. Executive will meet at the Temple Building Saturday morning at 8.30 prior to the convention, which starts at 9 o'clock. pp

Secretary Hewitt announced this morning that the Toronto Rowing Club and the Ayr Hockey Club had applied for admission to the intermediate series, while the 14th Regiment team of Kingston intends placing teams in both senior and intermediate ranks. St. Michael's College will be again found in the junior series.

Great Athletic Contest Almost Assured Here

It seems that athletics in this city are recently on the upward curve, as it has practically been decided to hold an indoor athletic meeting here soon, at which it is expected that Tom Longboat, Tom Coley, O'Rourke and several others of the Irish-Canadian toe-notchers will be present.

The committee in charge are meeting with every encouragement in their commendable efforts.

A representative of the Harriers' Club is going to Toronto today to interview John C. Flanagan of the Irish-Canadians, with a view to having Longboat, Coley and several others appear here. Other athletic bodies in Toronto will also be interviewed regarding sending representatives to Peterborough.

The date for the meet will be announced in a few days.

While Longboat's manager has announced that the fleet-footed Indian will not race any more until the Olympic games in London next summer, he would no doubt consent to let the running marvel give an exhibition of his speed.

Mr. Green After W. Hamilton Pass

It was rumored currently yesterday that Mr. G. Walter Green may purchase the plant of the Hamilton Company. He is said to be negotiating for it, and may have others associated with him in the purchase. He has had a very successful and prosperous career in his own business. He has greatly enlarged his plant and buildings, until his establishment on Midland street, is now one of the best known in the province.

Trial Catarrh treatments are being mailed out free, on request, by Dr. Sheop, Racine, Wis.. These teas are proving to the people—without a penny's cost—the great value of this scientific prescription known to druggists everywhere as Dr. Sheop's Catarrh Remedy. Sold by all dealers.

YOU NEED STRENGTH

Vitality is Lacking and You Must Have a Bracing Tonic at Once.

You're sick and need medicine.

Not an emulsion to sicken the stomach, not a "dope" cure, nor bitters—but a nourishing tonic that will increase weight, strength and spirits.

Try Ferrozone and watch the result.

Because it gives instant effect and steadily builds up new flesh, it is used by thousands in ill-health.

No other medicine contains more nutriment, supplies better building material, makes you feel well and strong as quickly as it did Mrs. Charles Beuny of Cloyne, Ont.

HER STATEMENT.

"I was sick.

"I was broken down, had no strength, couldn't eat. I was sleepless.

"My nerves were irritable. I was thin-blooded and continually unhappy."

"I tried Ferrozone.

"It gave me new energy, force, vim. It brought me comfort, strength—it made me well."

It's by making the appetite good, by instilling iron and ozone in the blood by fortifying the system with reserve strength, that Ferrozone accomplishes so much.

You'll have new life by a week, in a month you'll be like a new beauz. Try Ferrozone, it always justifies itself 50c per box or six for $2.50 at all dealers.

ARCTIC EXPLORATION.

Dr. Bruce Does Splendid Work in Northern Regions.

Severe hardships and exciting adventures attended Dr. W. S. Bruce's explorations in the Arctic regions. Dr. Bruce, with two other members of his party, Mr. Stewart Ross and Mr Gilbert Kerr, have returned to Newcastle on the conclusion of their expedition, which had for its object the exploration of Prince Charles Foreland. The explorer was met by Mr. V. Burn Murdoch, a member of the expedition who returned to England recently, when disquieting reports were received concerning the safety of the expedition. Dr. Bruce and his companions are in the best of health, and express their surprise and annoyance at the sensational rumors, for which they declare there was no foundation. Discussing first the aims of his expedition, Dr. Bruce said to a representative of Reuter's Agency: "The object was the exploration of Prince Charles Foreland, an island to the west of Spitzbergen, to make a topographical survey, and to study its geology and natural history. Although Prince Charles Foreland was the first part of Spitzbergen to be discovered it is the last part where systematic exploration has been carried out. The coast is shown only in dotted lines on the British Admiralty and other charts. As a result of our expedition we have been able to give a detailed survey of the whole of the west coast, of the interior with its mountains, and of a considerable portion of the east coast. Whereas previously we had very meagre knowledge of the geology of the island, the expedition has brought to light many interesting new facts, and has succeeded in acquiring detailed information of animal and plant life of which previously nothing was known. Prince Charles Foreland is about 60 miles long and five to seven miles broad. It consists of three portions, the northern two-thirds being entirely mountainous, with hills rising to nearly four thousand feet, the section to the south of this consisting of an extensive flat and low tract, at no point higher than 60 feet, separating the northern mountainous region from a smaller mountain part which to ships passing not very far off appears exactly like a separate island. A considerable portion is bare rock, with patches in places of very fine vegetation, brilliantly verdant, with many species of Arctic plants, especially in those parts where there are great rookeries of birds. The mountain ranges in the middle part of the island are very much glaciated, especially on their eastern slope. The stormy nature of the coast made boat work often difficult and sometimes impossible, while the land traveling was excessively rough and extremely hard, especially with our heavy loads. The report of insufficiency of food was untrue, the expedition being well supplied with all necessaries, in case of some accident necessitating wintering on the island. We had plenty of food, clothing, and house accommodation. We were in no danger, but the expedition involved a great deal of hard work, first on account of the rough nature of the ground, and also owing to the impossibility of using our boat during heavy weather. Often we were knee deep in bogs which alternated with rock and rough ground. Our zoological collections are good, and include a specially fine set of bird skins. We also have a few seal skins and the skeleton of a whale. The geological collections represent rocks and fossils, which make the geology of the Foreland very much more interesting than we expected. We also have an extremely interesting botanical collection. Our work is entirely finished, and I hope to have a further opportunity another season to complete the exploration of the Foreland."

LESS CRIME IN LONDON

RECORD OF YEAR'S WORK BY POLICE IN EMPIRE'S CAPITAL.

Striking Figures of Life in the Metropolis — Marked Improvement in Public Morals — Convictions Are Fewer—Some Unsolved Mysteries—Murders Numbered Seventeen—Finger Print System Satisfactory.

A very satisfactory feature of the report for 1906 of the commissioner of police for the metropolis, which has just been issued, is that there was a decrease in the number of offences committed during the year, though, curiously enough, 430 persons were sentenced to penal servitude, as compared with 374 in 1905.

The number of persons apprehended during the last year was 118,897, a decrease of 7,420 as compared with the preceding years. Of these, 3,418 were convicted at Sessions, 96,335 were convicted by magistrates, 630 were acquitted, bills ignored, etc., at Sessions, and 19,459 were discharged by magistrates.

There was a decrease of 1,141 in the number of criminal offences reported during the year, and a decrease of 1,316 in the number of felonies relating to property. The apprehensions for these offences decreased by 426 and 585 respectively. The proportion of felonies to each 1,000 of the estimated population was 2,391, and was the lowest recorded during the period for which statistics are available.

Burglaries decreased from 512 to 445 in 1906. House-breakings decreased from 1,523 to 1,459, but the number of apprehensions increased by 60, and the convictions by 49. Violence to the person was used in only three cases of burglary and one case of house-breaking. Of these offences, 713 were committed in houses left with no person in charge.

There were seventeen cases of murder of persons over one year of age during 1906. In only two cases were no arrests made. In the case of the "Studio Mystery," where Archibald Wakley, a young artist, was brutally murdered, the report says that after prolonged inquiry evidence to justify an arrest was not forthcoming. The other unsolved mystery was the death of a woman in the Edmonton Infirmary after an illegal operation.

The "finger prints" system continued to give unqualified satisfaction, not only in the United Kingdom, but also, it is said, in all other countries where introduced. Identifications still show an upward trend, although signs are not wanting that high-water mark has almost been reached. At Scotland Yard, 6,776 identifications were effected in the year (as against 6,186 in 1905). Of these, 2,982 were for the metropolitan police and 3,794 for provincial forces.

KIER HARDIE IN INDIA.

Feared In London Mutiny May Take Form of Gigantic Strike.

Considerable apprehension is felt in London as to the result of Kier Hardie's ebullitions on the inflammable temperaments of India.

The wordy Labor leader has told the natives of Bengal that conditions in India are worse than in Russia, and the atrocities committed there, if known in England would provoke more horror than did the Turkish outrages in Armenia.

All India, with its teeming millions, certainly had been disturbed during the last few months; there had been a long series of murderous assaults upon Europeans, and attempts had been made to corrupt the native troops. One authority, whose views has attracted considerable attention, makes the prediction that, while there will be "no second Indian rising in our time, there is likely to be something more dangerous and baffling."

"The modern weapon of revolution," says this authority, "is the strike. In one way caste is, strictly speaking, a form of trade union. There are among the Hindoos the bakers' caste, the cooks' caste, the washerman caste, and so on. No baker may wash his own clothes; no washerman may prepare his own food. If the Hindoos strike, what would become of the native army and the whole business of India? Again, the telegraph department is mostly Hindoo, and the postal service is entirely Hindoo. Indeed, almost all the subordinate officials in India are Hindoo. No strike conceivable in England could have half the effect as a caste strike in India.

"The engine drivers are Parsees, Eurasians, and Mohammedans, but everywhere else the Hindoo has increased. At present the Mohammedans are numerically only a thirteenth part of the subordinate officials. This is the danger of the service—the vast predominance of the Hindoo—and if omens are true, he naturally will use his advantages while he can. When Chandra Pal was arrested, he said the time to strike had not yet come. He meant strike in both its meanings."

Made Money in Colonies.

A gentleman who admits to having succumbed to what he is pleased to call "that Carnegie feeling" is visiting Manchester.

Stylishly dressed and wearing a fur-trimmed overcoat, the unknown visitor approached a policeman at midnight and asked to be directed to a neighborhood in which common lodging-houses abound. The constable was startled by the request, but gave the desired information.

Shortly afterwards the policeman noticed the gentleman walking up Deansgate with a little crowd of wretchedly-clad and half-starved creatures around him. Invited to explain, the man with the fur coat said:

"The fact of the matter is I have only arrived back in Manchester today after an absence of eighteen years in the Colonies. My last night in Manchester was spent on one of the infirmary seats. I have just been up there now to invite as many outcasts as I could find to have a bed and a square meal."

AN EMPIRE FOR SALE.

Thirty Wives Thrown In—Throne of Human Bones.

The announcement was recently made from Paris of a kingdom for sale for a paltry $200,000, and it is conjectured that Jacques Lebaudy is going out of business.

According to the advertisements the kingdom which can be picked up for this trifle of $200,000 is the beautiful region of Ayshonia, which is located in Africa, presumably on that part of the map of the dark continent which still shows vast tracts upon which the geographers have not yet got in their fine work.

With the kingdom goes the power of life and death over the population. The throne is made of human skulls, and the crown, which also is a memento, consists of human bones. The retiring monarch will throw his 30 wives into the bargain.

It is some time since the Emperor of Sahara disappeared from public view, and as Mlle. Delberre, Empress of Sahara, not long ago returned to her native village in France, declaring that she had had enough of imperial existence, it is thought that she may have left Lebaudy because she did not care to be thrown in with the thirty wives whom he is now thought to be offering for sale with his kingdom.

Depository ..... JOHN S. COOK & CO.
Bank of Goldfield, Nevada.

This company owns 4 claim (80 acres) of some of the best proven mineral land in the Goldfield district, consisting of the Accidental and Accidental No. 2 lode claims, situated two and one-half miles south of the great Goldfield Consolidated Mines (comprising the Mohawk, Goldfield, Combination, Red Top, Jumbo and Laguna) the richest in the world; and the Broadway and Beauty lode claims situated three and one-half miles north of the Consolidated and about one and one-half miles northwest of the Great Bend and Daisy Mines near the Zion group in the Diamondfield section second only in richness to the great Mohawk portion of the camp. Phenomenally rich strikes have recently been made out he Consolidated, the Great Bend and the Daisy Mines.

The company has also succeeded in securing the Sure Thing lode claim (20 acres) in the Cuprite district, which has an immense gold bearing ledge, running the entire length of the claim 1,500 feet, outcropping in places over 30 feet wide, and met by several cross dykes all carrying fine values in gold, and is without doubt rightly named "Sure Thing."

All of these claims are located in the same mineral belt as the other noted mines of Goldfield that have astonished the world by their production of millions in high grade ore, and will with the same development give equally profitable returns.

The money derived from the sale of this stock will be used at once for the active development of the property and the fact that all the directors are residents of Goldfield with years of successful mining experience who will give their personal attention at all times to the progress of the work goes to show that the first issue of 100,000 shares will meet with a quick and ready sale at the initial price of 10 cents per share.

We advise immediate action if you wish to participate in the vast profits of this Bonanza Mine.

Stock will be listed as soon as possible on the Goldfield and San Francisco Stock and Exchange Boards. Would therefore advise purchasers to buy in board lots of 1,000 shares when convenient to do so.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even-numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother).

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Astronomical Observatory, Toronto, Ont.," will be received at this office until Thursday, November 21, 1907, inclusively, for the construction of an Astronomical Observatory at Toronto, Ont.

Plans and specifications can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department and at the office of Burke & Horwood, Architects, Toronto, Ont.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank made payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering declines to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or if he fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By Order,
FRED. GELINAS,
Secretary.

Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, October 29, 1907.

Newspapers will not be paid for this advertisement if they insert it without authority from the Department.

TENDERS FOR PULPWOOD CONCESSIONS

Tenders will be received by the undersigned up to and including the 16th of December next for the right to cut pulpwood on certain areas tributary to the Nepigon river, in the district of Thunder Bay, and Rainy Lake, in the district of Rainy River, and make the same into paper. Tenderers should state the amount they are prepared to pay as bonus in addition to such dues as may from time to time be fixed for the right to operate a paper making industry on the areas referred to. Separate tenders must be made for each area or territory, and the successful tenderers will be required to erect a mill or mills on each of the territories or in such other localities as may be approved by the Government of Ontario.

Parties tendering for the pulpwood rights shall accompany their tenders with a marked cheque for 25 per cent of the amount tendered, payable to the Treasurer of Ontario, and to be forfeited in the event of their failing to enter into agreements to carry out conditions, etc.

With respect to the Rainy Lake Pulp Concession, tenderers will be required to make a tender for the right to cut the pine, tamarac and cedar on the territory offered. Parties making tender for these timbers to state the amount they are prepared to pay per thousand feet B.M. as bonus in addition to Crown dues of $2.00 per thousand feet B.M. A marked cheque for $5,000.00 payable to the Treasurer of Ontario must accompany the tender for pine timber, and is to be forfeited in the event of their failing to enter into agreements to carry out conditions, etc.

No timber shall be cut on either of the concessions of a less diameter than nine inches, two feet from the ground.

The successful tenderers to enter into agreements with the Government for the erection of the mills, expenditure of money, etc.

For full particulars as to the conditions, etc., application should be made to the undersigned.

AIKENSIDE

BY MARY J. HOLMES

Author of "Dora Deane," "The English Orphans," "Lena Rivers," "The Rector of St. Mark's," "Tempest and Sunshine," Etc.

When Maddy prayed that he might come and see her she did not expect an answer so soon, and she started back in much surprise, while Guy came easily forward to greet her, asking how she was, once telling her she looking tired and thin, then making her take the chair he had vacated, he stood over her, smoothing her hair, while he continued:

"I have taken some liberties, you see, and have made myself quite at home. I knew how unaccustomed you were to the duties of a house, and as I saw that girl was wholly incompetent, I denied myself at least two hours' sleep this morning for the sake of getting here early, bringing Flora with me and a few things which I thought would be for your comfort. You must excuse me, but Flora looked so cold when she came down from your chamber, where I sent her to see how you were, that with your grandfather's permission I ordered a fire to be kindled there. I hope you liked it. This house is very cold."

He kept talking on, and Maddy in a delicious kind of bewilderment listened to him, wondering if ever before there was a person so kind and good as Guy. And really Guy was doing great violence to his pride by being there as he was, but he could do anything for Maddy, and so he had forced down his pride, trying for her sake to make the cottage as pleasant as possible. With Flora to assist he had succeeded wonderfully, and was really enjoying it himself. At first Maddy could not thank him, her heart was so full, but Guy was satisfied with the expression of her face, and calling Flora he bade her serve the breakfast.

"You know my habits," he said, smilingly, as he took a seat at the table, "and breakfasting at daylight, as I did, has given me an appetite; so, with your permission, I'll carve this nice bit of steak for you, while you pour me a cup of coffee, some of Mrs. Noah's best. She"—Guy was going to say, "sent it," but as no stretch of the imagination could construe her "calling him a fool" into sending Maddy coffee, he added instead, "I brought it from Aikenside, together with this strawberry jelly, of which I remember you were fond;" and he helped Maddy lavishly from the fanciful jelly jar which yesterday was adorning the sweetmeat closet at Aikenside.

How chatty and social he was, trying to cheer Maddy up and make her forget that such a thing as death had so lately found entrance there; talking of Jessie, of Aikenside, of the pleasant little time they would have during the vacation, and of the next term at school, when Maddy, as one of the graduating class, would not be kept in as strictly as heretofore, but allowed to see more of the city. Maddy felt as if she should die for the pain tugging at her heart, while she listened to him and knew that the pictures he was drawing were not for her. Her place was there; and after the breakfast was over and Flora had cleared the dishes away, she shut the door, so that they might be alone, and then standing before Guy, she told him of her resolution, begging of him to help her and not make it harder to bear by devising means for her to escape what she felt to be an imperative duty. Guy had expected something like this and was prepared, as he thought, to combat all her arguments; so when she had finished, he replied that of course he did not wish to interfere with her duty, but there might be a question as to what really was her duty, and it seemed to him he was better able to judge of that than herself. It was not right for her to bury herself there while her education was unfinished, when another could do as well. Her musical talents were given to her to improve, and how could she improve them in Honesdale; besides her grandfather did not expect her to stay. Guy had talked with him while she was asleep, and the matter was all arranged; a competent woman was to be hired to take charge of the domestic arrangements, and if it seemed desirable, two should be procured; anything to leave Maddy free.

"And grandpa consented to this willingly?" Maddy said, feeling a throb of pleasure at thoughts of release. But Guy could not answer that the grandfather consented willingly.

"He thinks it best. When he comes back you can ask him yourself," he said, just as Uncle Joseph, opening the door, brought their interview to a close by asking very meekly, "if it would please the Lord Governor to let him spit?"

The blood rushed at once to Maddy's face and she could not repress a smile, while Guy laughed aloud, saying to her softly: "For your sake, I tried my skill to stop what I knew must annoy you. Pardon me if I did wrong"; then turning to Uncle Joseph, he gave the desired permission, together with the promise of a handsome spittoon, which should be sent down on the morrow. With a bow Uncle Joseph turned away, muttering to himself, "High doings now Martha's gone; but new lords, new laws. I trust he's not going to live here"; and slyly he asked Flora if the Lord Governor had brought his things!

At this point Grandpa Martham came in, and to him Guy appealed at once to know if he were not willing for Maddy to return to school.

"I said she might if she thought best," was the reply, spoken so sadly that Maddy's arms were at once twined around the old man's neck, while she said to him:

"Tell me honestly which you prefer. I'd like so much to go to school, but I am not sure I should be happy there, knowing how lonely you were here at home. Say, grandpa, which would you rather now, honor bright?" and Maddy tried to speak playfully, though her heart-beats were almost audible as she waited for the answer.

Grandpa could not deceive. He wanted his darling sorely, and he wanted her to be happy, he said. Perhaps they would get on just as well without her. When Mr. Guy was talking it looked as if they might, he made it all so plain, but the sight of Maddy was a comfort. She was all he had left. Maybe he shouldn't live long to pester her, and if he didn't wouldn't she always feel better for having stayed with her grandpa?

He looked very pale and thin, and his hair was white as snow. He could not live many years, and turning resolutely from Guy, who, so long as he held her eyes, controlled her, Maddy said:

"I've chosen once for all. I'll stay with grandpa till he dies," and with a convulsive sob she clung tightly to his neck, as if fearful that without such hold her resolution would give way.

It was in vain that Guy strove to change Maddy's resolution. She was wholly decided, and late in the afternoon he rode back to Aikenside, a disappointed man, with, however, the feeling that Maddy had done right, and that he respected her all the more for withstanding the temptation.

CHAPTER XIX.

It was arranged that Flora should for the present at least remain at the cottage, and Maddy accepted the kindness gratefully. She had become so much accustomed to being cared for by Guy that she almost looked upon it as a matter of course, and did not think of what others might possibly say, but when, in as delicate a manner as possible, Guy suggested furnishing the cottage in better style, even proposing to modernize it entirely in the spring, Maddy objected at once. They were already indebted to him for more than they could ever pay, she said, and she would not suffer it. So Guy submitted, though it grated upon his sense of the beautiful and refined terribly, to see Maddy amid so humble surroundings. Twice a week, and sometimes oftener, he rode down to Honesdale, and Maddy felt that without these visits life would hardly have been endurable.

New Chinese Shadows.

The following is a very simple method of producing on the wall a series of new Chinese shadows, the operator as well as the little folk delineated remaining behind the lookers-on, which is sometimes an advantage.

Place a candle on a table and on the wall opposite affix a sheet of foolscap for a screen. Between the candle and the screen interpose some opaque body, such as a cardboard calendar or a large volume. Now, how are you going to project your shadows on the screen when it is already dark? Very simply—by means of a mirror fixed at the edge of a table. The reflection of the mirror will be thrown on the wall either in a parallelogram or in an oval, and if your screen is in the suitable position and you work your pasteboard dolls correctly between them, the mirror and the wall, your audience will see the figures dance without finding out the way it is done.—Magical Experiments.

Alcohol From Garbage.

That the method of garbage disposal is about to be revolutionized by the manufacture of denatured alcohol is the statement made to the common council of Milwaukee by Dr. W. A. Boyd of Rockford, Ill. Milwaukee now pays $1.89 a ton for burning its garbage at a municipal plant, and Dr. Boyd has offered to do the work at 70 cents a ton and at the end of ten years give the city his plant. Milwaukee gets no return in the way of byproducts from

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain in blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and he proves it by his prescription of a little pink tablet. These tablets—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets—remove blood pressure away from pain centers. No other is so charming, pleasingly delightful to take, though safely, surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure.
If it's painful periods with women, same cause.
If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, same.
If pain—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets—is in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply destroy the unnatural blood pressure.
Bridge your finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it is here pain is always. It's simply Common Sense.

ANTIGUA GOLD-COPPER Co.

Offers the Biggest and Most Attractive Mining Investment Now Before the Public.

ITS HOLDINGS ARE MINES--NOT PROSPECTS

With Vast Bodies of Ore Ready for the Mill, Now Nearing Completion.

THOMAS W. LAWSON
"Copper stocks offer the biggest opportunity for money making in the world to-day. A good copper mine is really a safe-deposit vault of stored up dividends which cannot be stolen or destroyed by fire, flood or famine."

CECIL RHODES
said: "Mining offers greater inducements than any other business in the world to make quick and great wealth."

CHARLES M. SCHWAB
says: "The big fortunes of the next twenty-five years will come from Mother Earth." Among all mining investments none stand ahead of copper for safety, permanency and profit.

Lay the Foundation for Your Fortune Today

THE ANTIGUA PROPERTIES

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company holdings consist of 631 acres, situated in Honduras, Central America, 100 miles southeast from Puerto Cortez, and midway between New Orleans and Panama. Development work is being pushed with all possible speed, and more than 1,500 feet of tunneling and shaft work has been completed. A 40 to 50-ton capacity gold-silver mill is in course of construction, and will be in operation before the close of the year.

Development work has conclusively proven that every acre of our holdings are rich in gold, copper and silver, and that every ton of this great ore body will yield a handsome profit on milling expense. The ore exposed on the surface does not require mining in the usual sense of the term, but may be obtained by quarrying. It can, according to estimates of experts, be quarried and treated for the gold and silver on an extensive scale at a cost of less than $1.00 a ton. Think of it! A solid mountain of rich ore, from the very grass roots of which may be washed gold.

Beyond a doubt Honduras has beneath her soil larger, richer deposits of copper, gold and silver than any other section of the American continent. Spain, during her sovereignty in that country, took out more than $900,000,000 in gold alone—and she scarcely scraped the Earth's surface. There is evidence that the pre-historic races knew how to mine and utilize copper—smelting it in their crude way.

The original incorporators of the Antigua Gold-Copper Company spent thousands of dollars of their own money in bringing this property to its present stage of development. They opened up the mine on every side with runnels, crosscuts and shafts. They purchased machinery and began the erection of a gold-silver mill—now nearing completion. These men appreciated from the first that this mine was destined to become one of the greatest copper-gold-silver properties in America; and that it justified more extensive and more rapid development than they were able to make without the co-operation and financial assistance of the public.

The average assay values of Antigua ores, ranging from the surface to a depth of 200 feet, is over 5 per cent copper. This is above the average of the ore of the world's greatest producers, the famous Anaconda yielding ore which averages only a little over 3 per cent. The Anaconda has little other ore value, while our property, in addition to the copper, carries $2.00 to $1,400 a ton in gold and silver.

WHY STOCK IS SOLD

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company finds itself in precisely the same position as the farmer who has a larger farm than he can cultivate with the capital in hand. He knows that with additional capital and assistance he could make the land yield abundant crops and enormous profits. In the same way we intend, by the investment of additional capital, to bring our enormous ore bodies to a highly profitable state of development at the earliest possible moment. For this reason a limited amount of treasury stock is offered the public. In this way funds will be available for immediate use in purchasing additional machinery and for continuing vigorous development of the property.

THERE ARE NO PREFERRED SHARES AND NO BONDS TO COME FIRST IN THE DIVISION OF PROFITS.

and your shares will earn as much as a like number of shares owned by any other stockholder in the company. Each share CARRIES WITH IT THE RIGHT TO VOTE, so that with a single share you have every right, privilege and protection possessed by any other stockholder.

Stock is now being sold at $2.50 a share, and this stock, we firmly believe, will, within a year, be selling at its par value of $5.00 a share, or higher; nor will it stop there. If you are desirous of permanently increasing your income, of making an investment that is not only secure, but immensely profitable, reserve shares TO-DAY.

Such an investment opportunity can scarcely be repeated. It is made possible only by extraordinary natural conditions. Millions of dollars of copper, gold and silver will be marketed from the mines—fortunes will be reaped as a result of the prompt seizure of the opportunity we offer you to-day.

REPORT OF AN EXPERT

Much weight can justly be given the statement of a properly qualified and reliable mining engineer. Such is the character of T. W. Foster, from whose report on Antigua we make the following extracts:

"From the development work done and the indications shown by the croppings, I am convinced this is one of the largest gold-copper deposits in existence, and under proper development will make one of the richest mining properties in America. * * * I consider this ore an ideal smelting proposition, there being an abundance of iron, lime and silica in close proximity. There is plenty of water for power and milling purposes, and an abundance of timber on the property. * * *

"A large amount of development work has been done on this property in tunnels, drifts and shafts, ranging from 20 to possibly 200 feet in length. * * * This work has all been in ore—in fact, the ore body on the surface is shown to be fully one-half mile wide by two miles in length. To judge from the development work done, this property is all ore—no matter where work was started, ore was encountered.

"The company is erecting a mill, consisting of one five-stamp and three Huntingtons, to work the surface ore. This surface ore is mostly free milling, the copper and galena sulphides being oxidized, freeing the gold, and being readily amalgamated. But I am confident that at no very great depth copper sulphides will be encountered, as there are many places in this great ore body where the sulphides crop to the surface. I have taken a dozen samples from various places on the lead, and from these made free gold tests, finding an average of over $6.00 a ton in FREE gold, and from 5 to 7% per cent copper. Native copper is frequently seen in this ore. If the Antigua mines continue in depth as on the surface, a 1,000 ton smelter will not work it out in 100 years. * * *

"* * * With good management and proper development, it will be but a short time until the stock of the company will be worth more than par. I fully believe that if this great ore body is properly developed there is a mine here worth many millions of dollars.

Nine Cattle Shipped Yesterday

Three carloads of cattle were shipped yesterday morning to Montreal from this city. They were of highest grade, and were all raised in Peterborough County. Messrs. W. Morris and Thomas Brown were the shippers and this is the largest shipment they have made this year. One load was bought from T. Joplin, of Smith.

Important Notice

As the authorities desire a further investigation of the fur cape which was left in the Grand Trunk station on Tuesday, the two little girls who called for it saying their aunt sent them will save further trouble by reporting at the ticket office of the station at once, and bringing the cape back.

Local Barber's War on Prices

Dave Hall, the Charlotte street fashionable artist, who, a few days ago was fined $6 and costs for removing sundry unwelcome evidences of barbaute appendages from a customer after Crossed hours, as per the Barbers' Union scale, adopted by and incorporated in a city by-law, has decided, he having quit the Union, "To carry the war into Africa," and will hold, as do the drygoods stores, certain bargain days throughout the week. Mr. Hall has determined to reduce the charges for hair cutting on Tuesdays and Fridays as well as the price for shampooing. Whilst shaving these prices he will not alter the prices for shaving. It will now be interesting to learn how this "cut-rate" war will end.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

IN SHORT FORM FOR BUSY READERS

—Come to the Times Bookstore for your Sunday reading, all the latest magazines and novels at three for 25 cents.

—Rev. A. H. Brace, pastor of Park street Baptist church, conducted the evangelistic service in Mark street Methodist church yesterday evening.

—Yesterday the last consignment of cheese for this year was weighed at the market scale. Almost every local factory had a load of cheese pass the scales yesterday. It was all shipped per G.T.R.

—Customers will find a nice assortment of extra high clear glass vases; just the thing for carnations or roses. Prices only 15 and 25 cents.

—Whiskey went up from five cents to ten cents per glass yesterday. Judging by the average boozerinski sold previously at five cents per glass, both dosters and undertakers will regret this raise, i.e., if quality changes in proportion to price.

—The steamer Water Lily, which has been at Stoney Lake for several days went down the river yesterday afternoon to bring up the Rice Lake and lower river people to market today.

—Dan Blea, the game warden for the Parry Sound district, reports to Chief Game Warden Tinsley that a Rev. Mr. Clements, of South River has been fined $30 and costs for shooting deer out of season.

—The annual meeting of the Young Men's Guild of the Charlotte street Methodist church, which was to have been held Thursday night, did not materialize, owing to the small attendance. The meeting has now been indefinitely postponed.

—Gospel Hall is making arrangements for three days of special meetings, which will be held on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, December 27, 28 and 29. It is expected that a number of noted speakers will be present.

—Mr. Williams Collins, lockmaster, state that the last lockage at the Peterborough lock last year was on November 24th. The Monarch came up the river on December 1st, but did not come past the Street Railway wharf.

—Monday night is your or any one's last chance to go before the Court of Revision and enter your assessment appeal. If you are over assessed, which is more than possible, and have not already made your kick, do so Monday night.

—Did you pay your second tax bill yesterday? If not, why? But don't tell why, the story is sad enough without repitition. Those who did not whack up can sing that old ballad entitled, "There are others."

—Don't fail to visit the Times Bookstore next week during four days' sale. Bargains for everybody and big saving in buying Christmas presents. Come with the crowd.

—Mr. R. M. Roy yesterday took a photograph of the Southern Hotel for the ulterior purposes of having an electrotype made for the Merchants' and Manufacturers' issue of The Times.

—Yesterday the last of the debris left when that huge load of hay stuck in the market weigh scales the day before, was removed. The owner of the load, after getting two teams at work to extricate his load from the evidently too low arched approaches to the scales, declared, as his rig, his rack, his harness and his temper were all but the last broken and the last named, badly strained that he will weigh no more hay on the local market scales.

Newsboys at a Great Feast

Those early rising, for The Times and later working boys for the evening papers, who carry the latest news of city or the wide world to subscribers or purchasers throughout the neighborhood, viz., the newsboys of Peterborough—will be entertained to a dinner in Gospel Hall on Monday evening, December 30. A committee has been appointed by Gospel Hall to make final arrangements for the event. After supper has been transferred to the departments of the interior, the boys will be given a short address by some speaker yet to be decided upon. This will be the first dinner ever given the "newsies" of Peterborough, and will doubtless be greatly appreciated.

Wedding Bells

A quiet wedding was celebrated on Thursday evening, when Miss Stella Cummings became the bride of Mr. Chester C. Mowry, Rev. G. G. Patter officiating. The bride and groom were unattended. The bride was becomingly attired in navy blue silk, with blue velvet hat, and white plumes. Many handsome presents were received, among them being a handsome chair from the armature department of the C.G.E. The groom's present to the bride was a diamond ring and sable scarf. Mr. and Mrs. Mowry will reside at 457 Cedar St.

Hartley-Reynolds Race

Since Peterborough has won the O.R.F.U. senior championship, Ernie Wilson has beaten Tom Coley, and Dave Hartley has set the walking fans a-thinking, the canoe race is getting "sheesty." A report comes from Peterborough to the effect that Hartley is making special preparations to beat Jimmy Reynolds of Port Hope, when the veteran pair meet at the Mutual Street Rink a week from Saturday night. Port Hope has always stuck loyally to the walking barber, and his friends have won liberal wagers as a result of his walking prowess. In Peterborough Hartley is regarded as a "good thing," and "there will be plenty of Peterborough greenbacks here to cover the Port Hope currency on the night of the race. It is the first occasion on which two pedestrians have come together in an actual contest since the walking craze, revived by Jimmy Reynolds took its recent strong hold on the public.—Globe.

Puts Blame on Fielding's Shoulders

Winnipeg, Nov. 15.—Hon. Robert Rogers, in an interview tonight, claimed that Hon. W. S. Fielding, in his announcement that the Dominion government would come to the aid of the west, was too late. He said that it confirmed his opinion that the prevailing crisis is due to the Dominion government's policy of tieing up and using for their own purposes the savings of the people deposited in the Dominion and post office savings banks.

Had the government some time ago appropriated and placed in the banks of Canada these savings, aggregating over $60,000,000, and borrowed funds for their own requirements from the money markets of the world our condition would be very different today. We would not have to complain of a loss of $10,000,000 or $15,000,000 to the farmers of western Canada, a loss which will be felt by the people in western Canada, and all because of sheer mismanagement upon the part of the finance department at Ottawa.

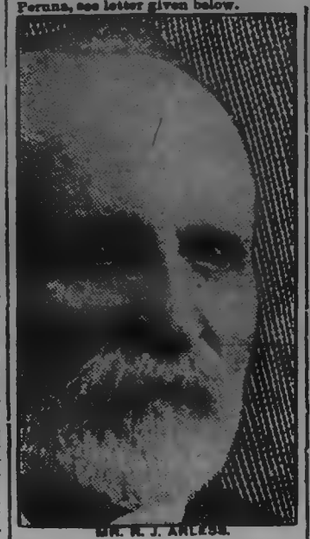
NASAL CATARRH PRODUCES DEAFNESS RELIEF IN PE-RU-NA

Mr. R. J. Arless, 401 City Hall Ave., Montreal, Quebec, is an old gentleman of wide acquaintance, having served thirty-eight years in the General Post-office of Montreal, a record which speaks for itself. Concerning his use of Peruna, see letter given below.



MR. R. J. ARLESS.

"I have been afflicted with nasal catarrh to such a degree that it affected my hearing.

"This was contracted some twenty years ago by being exposed to draughts and sudden changes of temperature.

"I have been under the treatment of specialists and have used many drugs recommended as specifics for catarrh in the head and throat—all to no purpose.

"About three years ago I was induced by a confrere in office to try Peruna.

"After some hesitation, as I had doubts as to results after so many failures, I gave Peruna a trial, and am happy to state that after using eight or ten bottles of Peruna I am much improved in hearing, and in breathing through the nostrils."

KING OF ASSASSINS, THE DREADED CHIEF OF THE CAMORRA, FACES TRIAL

Amazing History of the Crimes of Enrico Alfano

Arrested in New York

Will be Put on Trial with Forty Others for Murder

Naples, Nov. 16—A little man, with a weak face and withered, crippled limbs, will be taken from the vault of the Naples dungeon in a few days, and put on trial with forty other men for murder.

The name of the man about to be put on trial is Enrico Alfano, chief of the world-dreaded Camorra, and the sentence of death that will surely be passed upon him will mean a halt to, if not the end of the reign of organized assassination and blackmail that has extended from the shadow of Rome's Quirinal to the shade of New York's skyscrapers.

With Alfano executed, the Italians of America will lose much of their dread of the terrible Long Hand, and that organization will lose much of its power. In Italy the police regime will equal that held when the old vendetta was swept away.

ALFANO THE LEADER OF IT ALL.

"The forty thieves" who will face death with Alfano may all escape. Nobody cares about them. The five thousand other murderers whose stiletto have been used at Alfano's bidding may also go scot free. They will be less dangerous than the ordinary housebreaker when Alfano shall have been put to death.

Alfano is the head and hoof and brain and body of the Camorra. In ten years the society has not planned a murderous campaign or a wholesale robbery without his sanction. Most of them he devised himself. Sitting in his secret den like the fabled Moriarty of Conan Doyle's fictions—with agents and emissaries working in every great city of the world—this paltry looking man has decreed alike the assassination of an Italian baron in Rome, the stabbing of a "wealthy Italian contractor" in New York and the invasion of a castle on the Rhine.

Alfano dictated the atrocious murder of Signor and Signora Cavallo on the outskirts of Rome, picked the assassins, marked the scene, and on the same night he wrote the Black Hand letter that, disregarded, made "Push Cart" Peddler Gaetano Terrata a victim of five stilettos on a street of Williamsburg, N.Y.

A COMMON CRIMINAL.

It must be a bitter blow to the pride of the Camorra chief when he remembers that he was caught tamely by a single policeman in a Mulberry Bend outcellar of New York, for Alfano in the zenith of his power, with his Camorra more feared than ever and with nearly twenty thousand trained murderers at his back and call, was bundled like a common tramp from the scene of his capture to the Tombs in a police wagon and then shipped abroad like an ordinary suspect.

Now Alfano lies in the Efrem prison in the same dungeon that is doomed victim of the Doges were smouldered in, and possibly with the same chains about his ankles and arms. The trial he is to undergo is specifically for the murder of the Cuocolos, but only five of the forty thieves who will be tried with him had a hand in that. But if Alfano is not convicted on this first count he is to be tried also for complicity in the crimes with which the other thirty-five are charged.

In America his execution upon one

Mother Parts with Her Children for Her Strange Faith

New York, Nov. 16—Refusing to abandon the practice of fire worship at the request of her daughter and her new son-in-law, Mrs. Anna Maier parted yesterday with her two daughters, the only relatives she has in the world.

One of the daughters, Helen, who on Saturday became the wife of Theobald Fuchs, an employe at the Hotel Savoy moved yesterday into an apartment on East Seventy-ninth street. She went to live with her there her mother, Mrs. Anna Maier.

Their mother remained in the apartment, where two of her children, Mrs. Maier has kept burning for six years as part of the ritual of her worship of fire, were kept burning last night.

Mrs. Fuchs, who is a [illegible] and at one time was governess in a family of distinction in Germany, [illegible] would never leave [illegible] of the fire.

KEEPS TWO LAMPS BURNING

"I have been a worshipper of fire, which is the purest and cleanest [illegible] ment in the world. I have kept burning on the table in the middle of my room two fires, which represent to me all the fire in the world. These flames supply me with an altar. Because of my belief in the worship of fire I have been made a happier woman, and although I love Mr. Fuchs, I cannot bring myself to recede from my religion."

The hero of the hour was found to be none other than Mr. Chas. Guy, formerly a well-known resident of this city, who was made the recipient of many congratulatory expression on the part of those who had witnessed the heroic action which [illegible] doubt [illegible] Free Press at the occurrence of the event.

Ice on Rice Lake Stopped the Steamers

Steamer Water Lily Had to Plough Through Thick Ice to Mouth of the River

It looks as though navigation on the lower waters of the [illegible] is pretty nearly passed into ancient history as the steamer Water Lily, which started out from Harwood early Saturday morning, had a hard struggle crossing Rice Lake, as the ice in an inch thick had to be broken all across to the mouth of the Trent river. The boat reached the Water street wharf at one o'clock, whereas she was due at ten. Captain Brewer reported that he had an experience-ful trip through the night will be [illegible] as strenuous.

The steamer Monarch started out from Gore's Landing, but was forced to turn back owing to the ice.

The Rainbow from Bellells had not attempt to make her usual Saturday journey to Peterborough today.

About twenty freighters came up by the Water Lily.

Death of Mrs. Jos. Wright of Cavan

This morning the last mortal remains of the late Eliza Foster, wife of the late Mr. Jos. Wright of Emily township, will be laid to rest in the Little Lake cemetery, the funeral leaving the residence of Mr. Alex Henry, lot 20, con. 2 of Cavan, at 10.30 o'clock. The deceased, who passed away Saturday morning was 81 years of age and a native of Ireland, she came to this country with her parents in 1837, seventy years ago, and settled in South township, where she resided until about two years ago when she went to live with her son-in-law, Mr. Alex. Henry, of Emily township.

The late Mrs. Wright is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Alex Henry, of Emily, Mrs. Wm. Richardson, of Peterborough, and Mrs. Wm. Snider, of Mount Pleasant, and one son Mr. John Wright, of Smith township.

Thompson Seton's Canoe Capsized

New York, Nov. 16—Ernest Thompson Seton, the author who has returned to the United States from an exploration trip of seven months through North-West Canada into the most [illegible] of the Arctic region, is going [illegible] over that [illegible] Canadian [illegible] the Arctic zone. It is the white man's first opportunity settled by the Eskimos, he said, [illegible] state the enormous area of high class agricultural land which has been lying idle for so many centuries, and the rapidity with which it is now being developed he said, is marvelous.

Mr. Seton canoed in this [illegible] the Arctic region two thousand miles [illegible] he seven months' trip, having [illegible] narrow escape from death not only his dangers and all his travelling [illegible] maps, but his own log, which has come to light in the Athabasca river. He has brought back with him many rare botanical and zoological specimens, [illegible] waterfowl and hares. The party [illegible] he traversed he has discovered a number of lakes and rivers in the Arctic region which he is now naming, in conjunction with the geographical survey of Canada.

Among the animals which he studied especially during his trip and obtained pictures of, were the barren ground caribou, the lynx, the musk ox, wolverine, white wolf, Arctic fox, and wild buffalo.

Exit of Klaw and Erlanger

Chicago, Nov. 16—The Tribune today says: The exit of Klaw and Erlanger from the vaudeville field as theatrical producers now is a matter of days.

It was definitely announced last night from an authoritative source, that an agreement had been [illegible] under which the Auditorium of [illegible] and other playhouses of Klaw and Erlanger throughout the country, devoted to "advanced vaudeville" would be abandoned. It is understood the deal will consummated within a [illegible] that the public announcement will be made within two days.

Under the terms of the agreement, as understood, is that [illegible] an engagement [illegible] held by Klaw and Erlanger, [illegible] Keith and Proctor [illegible] Nora Bayes, Percy [illegible] Williams [illegible] Hammerstein. It was this [illegible] to the legitimate field [illegible] which precipitated [illegible] ville war that will go down [illegible] theatrical history.

There are [illegible] 250 vaudeville artists, mostly [illegible] under contracts with Klaw and Erlanger [illegible] and it is [illegible] that they will be [illegible] after by the Players' United Booking Offices of America and the Western vaudeville managers. The outstanding contracts represent in salaries, it is asserted, something like $1,000,000.

DETSCH CHEERED IN COURT FOR KILLING THE BLACKMAILER

Who Hounded His Wife and Other Women--20 Victims Reported to Have Been Threatened With Exposure by Ferree

Philadelphia, Nov. 16.—When Andrew Jackson Detsch, who on Saturday night shot and killed Harry Ferree, the blackmailer of his wife, was brought into the coroner's court today, the crowd that occupied every inch of space in the room cheered him to the echo.

Men and women crossed around him, [illegible] to shake [illegible] were [illegible] "You did right." "You gave him what he deserved," and it really became necessary to call extra police and expel a number of men from the room.

Mrs. Detsch was in court also, but neither she nor her husband testified. Only once did Detsch show his emotion. That was when the letters alleged to have been written to Ferree by Mrs. Detsch and the photograph showing her and Ferree together were produced. As Detective Arrowsmith took the letters from his coat and started toward His counsel, Samuel Clothier, [illegible] them and he took [illegible] seat.

"I've never seen those and I want to look at them."

PRISONER CLAIM IN COURT.

The remainder of the time he was absolutely calm, showing no emotion even when it was announced that he would be held for the grand jury.

Chief-Superintendent of Police Taylor and several patrolmen were called as witnesses. Every one of them swore [illegible] have discovered.

The witnesses told of finding the body of Ferree outside the door of the room occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Detsch at No. 1940 North Twenty-second street, and of the bullet holes in the door, showing that Detsch had fired through the panel. Detsch's story told to the police, was that he heard someone outside his room, and as the [illegible] opened the door he believing it was a burglar, fired five shots through the door.

LETTERS EXAMINED.

The letters were not read for the photograph shown in court. The coroner, the opposing counsel and the jury retired to a private room and examined them there. At the close of the examination it was announced that Detsch would be committed, to [illegible] and to await the action of the grand jury.

The grand jury is now in session and it is understood that District Attorney Rotan and Superintendent Taylor, after reviewing the case of the prosecution, will bring the Detsch [illegible] before it at once and attempt to get a [illegible] body trial if an indictment is found.

It is stated that there were about twenty other Philadelphia women, all young, who were being blackmailed by Ferree. The police have a large number of letters and photographs and are seeking these women, many of whom are said to have [illegible] served.

Government Measure for Relief of Canadian Financial Situation

Ottawa, Nov. 16.—The World correspondent is informed that the very first thing to be taken up by parliament will be some kind of government measure for the relief of the Canadian financial situation, and that it may take the direction of sanctioning an increase of the issue of national note and a change in the law as regards the gold reserve that must be held in the federal treasury against these national notes.

It is further stated that such legislation, as proposed, will be put through all the stages in one or two days, and immediately on the governor signing same full the government will in some way [illegible] a very considerable amount of these national notes with the banks, to be used in any way they may see fit for the relief of the present stringency, and especially for the moving of the Canadian crops.

The banks have confessed to the government that they cannot get back the sixty millions they have loaned on Wall street, and they have not sufficient available funds to move the crops. It is because of this situation that it is believed that the government will make some move, and most likely on the lines above suggested.

It is believed that as much as $35,000,000 additional currency could be made quickly available with the authorization of parliament.

Local Sportsman Slept on the Runway but The Deer Was Shot.

On Saturday evening a number of local huntsmen, who go annually to the northern lakes, met in a certain restaurant, and naturally, this time of year, [illegible] of adventures in the northern wilds. One gentleman told a story worth repeating that was corroborated by several local hunters, as follows.

"The senior member of a local professional firm and a leading [illegible] of his church, not to mention a man holding a prominent position, was out with a hunt club in the north.

The [illegible] P. & Q. and P.P. holder, one morning drew a certain runway for that particular day's hunt. The gentleman paddled to his post, [illegible] up his canoe, unlimbered his artillery and started in to [illegible] the possible entry of a deer to the water he was watching. Now whether the slowly falling snowflakes mesmerized this hunter or that his cup of [illegible] coffee before leaving camp created a feeling of peace with the world and consequent slumbers, [illegible] learned, as yet nor will it ever be known. Anyway the [illegible] of the church, went sound asleep at his [illegible] A deer [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

COST OF GOOD ROADS

In response to an enquiry as to the actual cost of Indiana good roads and their quality, Municipal Engineering gives some statistics showing that gravel roads in Indiana cost from $1,000 to $4,900 a mile and average $1,996 in twenty-one counties; and that macadam roads cost $1,500 to $4,000 and average $2,402 a mile. In 1905 Indiana spent $2,509,587 for building 1,025 miles of new roads, or $2,448 a mile. State Geologist Blatchley has collected and published statistics showing 13,285 miles of roads in the state, of which 23,937 miles or 35 per cent. have been improved, 20,582 with gravel and 2,355 with stone. He gives the average cost of all the gravel roads in the State as $1,603, and of the stone roads $2,221 a mile, the average of all being $1,507.

Municipal Engineering commends the Indiana system, which produces reasonably good roads in large quantities at low unit cost. Indiana spends as much money on its new roads as any state in the Union, with perhaps two or three exceptions, but it has many times as much good road to show for it as other states, few even approaching this state in mileage or percentage of improved roads. While road materials are comparatively cheap in many parts of the State, much of the excellent result is attributed to the system under which the roads are constructed.

A tickling cough, from any cause, is quickly stopped by Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. And it is so thoroughly harmless and safe, that Dr. Shoop tells mothers everywhere to give it without hesitation, even to very young babes. The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a lung healing mountainous shrub furnish the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough, and heals the sore and sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. Simply a resinous plant extract, that helps to heal aching lungs. The Spaniards call this shrub which the doctor uses, "The Sacred Herb." Demand Dr. Shoop's. Take no other. All dealers.

PARTIAL CONFIRMATION.

Montreal, Nov. 15.—Montreal directors of the Consolidated Mining Company, who operate the principal mines about Rossland and the trail smelters have not as yet received any intimation that the mines would be shut down. Some such action is expected, however, owing to the unsatisfactory condition of the output of the different mines, and the difficulty in getting enough assistance from the banks to keep in operation.

According to a statement made by a prominent financial man late this morning, the Rossland mines and smelters at Trail and Northport will close down at the end of the week. The reasons given are similar to those given by the Western State Mine Owners' Association—the low price of metals and higher operating

WOMAN MISER'S HOARD

DIES IN HOUSE OF SQUALOR WITH THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS.

Tragic Story of Old Lady's Solitary Life—Left Husband on Wedding Day Years Ago—Dog Her Sole Companion—Cash, Diamonds and Costly Clothes Hidden in the Death Chamber.

A tragic story of an old woman's solitary life in a house packed with money and valuables was told at a recent inquest on Mrs. Jane Chutton, a widow of 87, who was found dead in her house at Chiswick, near London.

Mrs. Chutton, it was stated, was married in 1851 to a man of independent means, but left him at the church door and never saw him again.

Twenty years ago, Mrs. Chutton took a house in Elliott road and she had lived there ever since with a dog as her sole companion. A woman obtained food for her and brought it to the house, but it was seldom that any one was allowed past the door.

As Mrs Chutton had not been seen for several days the police forced an entrance and found her dead.

The place was indescribably dirty, dust covering the floors and furniture to a depth of a quarter of an inch; but it proved to be a storehouse of treasures. A box in the bedroom contained bank notes to the value of $8,200 and consols amounting to $4,750. A check book showed that she had drawn $7,000 from the bank in 1902.

In a second box were heaped up diamond rings, brooches, bracelets, gold watches and precious stones, worth in all close on $15,000.

Another room contained several hundred yards of silk, valued at 10 shillings a yard, rare Indian shawls of silk and Paisley shawls. Three more boxes were full of beautiful old-fashioned clothing, while in the dirt lay many costly ornaments.

The only food in the house was a small piece of bread and a little sugar.

CRIMINAL APPEAL.

High Court Judges Criticise Newly Established Court.

The opinions of three High Court judges relating to the new Court of Criminal Appeal, which will come into operation next April, were given recently at the opening of various assizes, and they showed themselves rather opposed to the new institution.

At Devizes, Mr. Justice Darling said it did not provide for appeals against dismissals, so that an appeal was given to one side and not to the other.

There had been many very accomplished persons in the past who had a morbid dislike to having their decisions appealed against. When he was first made a judge the late Lord Justice A. L. Smith said to him, "Now here you are, and let me give you a bit of advice. Go straight on, give the best decisions you can, and don't care a scintilla about the Court of Appeal." The word used was not "scintilla"—it was a Scriptural word but he had substituted a forensic word for it.

Mr. Justice Jelf, at Berks Assizes, said the statute was only intended to provide an exceptional remedy for any exceptional wrong, which might otherwise have remained unredressed.

When all the powers of the new Act were exhausted the prerogative of mercy vested in the Sovereign would still remain intact, and in all probability the Home Secretary's discretion as to recommending pardon or commutation of sentence would in some cases be exercised even after the Court of Criminal Appeal had confirmed the verdict and sentence.

At Cambridge Assizes, Sir William Grantham declared that, in his judgment, the Act was unnecessary. The only thing he could say in its favor was that it was very creditable to the kind and good feelings of those who introduced it, and thought it necessary that criminals should have the same right of appeal as existed in civil cases, forgetting that the whole system of criminal jurisprudence had the effect of making the trial a final appeal.

He hoped the Act would not affect juries in the verdicts they gave, but he feared it would make them less mindful of giving prisoners the benefit of the doubt, because they would have the chance of appeal. That might lead to a miscarriage of justice, because if a man was unfortunately wrongly convicted it would be very difficult to get the matter set right again.

1,500 Mrs. Wiggses.

The Adelphi Theatre, London, England, housed a strange audience on a recent afternoon in the 1,500 Mrs. Wiggses, who entertained to a performance of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," by Mrs. Madge Carr Cook, who acts the name part in that play.

The English types in real life of the humble heroine of the American story were selected by ninety-five clergymen in various parts of London.

Soon after Mrs. Cook made it known that she was anxious for clergymen to co-operate with her in getting an audience of humble, hard-working, poor women, whose chances of seeing a play must be few, to attend a special matinee of Mrs. Wiggs," applications poured in, until the number of seats asked for amounted to 13,000.

The matinee began at two o'clock and after the first act tea was handed round to the visitors. At the conclusion of the performance Canon Horsley said a few words to the audience, and then the 1,500 Mrs. Wiggses departed for their homes, the expenses of those who come from poor and distant London parishes being defrayed by the management of the Adelphi Theatre.

The Bird Got Wise.

A gentleman by way of a joke placed a golf ball in the nest of his ancient parrot. Polly sat with exemplary patience on her novel egg and appeared pretty nearly heartbroken when the weeks went by and she found herself unrewarded. At last she could stand it no longer. A terrible screeching brought her owner downstairs at 4 o'clock in the morning.

"What's the matter, Polly?" he asked as he noticed that the bird's beak was chipped through trying to get at the interior.

"Matter!" screetched Polly. "Great Scott, I'm bunkered!"—London Telegraph.

Pedestrian Rights.

Only in Great Britain, so far as I know, does the law hold that a foot passenger has an equal right to the highway with the wheeled traffic and that it is the duty of the driver of the latter to avoid at all costs the former, even if he has to do so at considerable inconvenience and often danger. In other countries, on the contrary, it is the duty of the pedestrian to give way to the wheeled traffic.

Bank of Goldfield, Nevada.

This company owns 4 claims (80 acres) of some of the best proven mineral land in the Goldfield district, consisting of the Accidental and Accidental No. 2 lode claims, situated two and one-half miles south of the great Goldfield Consolidated Mines (comprising the Mohawk, Goldfield, Combination, Red Top, Jumbo and Laguna) the richest in the world; and the Broadway and Beauty lode claims situated three and one-half miles north of the consolidated and about one and one-half miles northwest of the Great Bend and Daisy Mines near the Zion group in the Diamondfield section second only in richness to the great Mohawk portion of the camp. Phenomenally rich strikes have recently been made on the Consolidated, the Great Bend and the Daisy Mines.

The company has also succeeded in securing the Sure Thing lode claim (20 acres) in the Cuprite district, which has an immense gold bearing ledge, running the entire length of the claim 1,500 feet, outcropping in places over 50 feet wide, and met by several cross dykes all carrying fine values in gold, and is without doubt rightly named "Sure Thing."

All of these claims are located in the same mineral belt as the other noted mines of Goldfield that have astonished the world by their production of millions in high grade ore, and with with the same development give equally profitable returns.

The money derived from the sale of this stock will be used at once for the active development of the property and the fact that all the directors are residents of Goldfield with years of successful mining experience who will give their personal attention at all times to the progress of the work goes to show that the first issue of 100,000 shares will meet with a quick and ready sale at the initial price of 10 cents per share.

We advise immediate action if you wish to participate in the vast profits of this Bonanza Mine.

Stock will be listed as soon as feasible on the Goldfield and San Francisco Stock and Exchange Boards. Would therefore advise purchasers to buy in board lots of 1,000 shares when convenient to do so.

SYNOPSIS Of CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother).

(3) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(4) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

AIKENSIDE

BY MARY J. HOLMES

Author of "Dora Deane," "The English Orphans," "Lena Rivers," "The Rector of St. Mark's," "Tempest and Sunshine," Etc.

During the vacation Jessie spent a part of the time with her, but Agnes resolutely resisted all Guy's entreaties that she would at least call once on Maddy, who had expressed a wish to see her, and who, on account of her grandfather's ill-health, and the childishness with which Uncle Joseph clung to her, could not well come up to Aikenside. Agnes would not go down, neither would she give other reason for her obstinacy than the apparently foolish one that she did not wish to see the crazy man. Still she did not object to Jessie's going as often as she liked, and she sent by her many little delicacies from the larder at Aikenside, some for grandpa, but most for Uncle Joseph, who prized highly everything coming from "the madam," and sent back to her more than one strangely worded message which made the proud woman's eyes overflow when sure that no one could see her. But this kind of intercourse came to an end at last. The vacation was over, Jessie had gone back to school, and Maddy began in sober earnest the new life before her. Flora, it is true, relieved her of all household drudgery, but no one could share the burden of care and anxiety pressing so heavily upon her, anxiety for her grandfather, whose health seemed failing so fast, and who always looked so disturbed if a shadow were resting on her bright face, or her voice were less cheerful in its tone, and care for the imbecile Joseph, who clung to her as a puny child clings to its mother, refusing to be cared for by anyone else, and often requiring of her more than her strength could endure for a great length of time. She it was who gave him his breakfast in the morning, amused him through the day, and then, after he was in bed at night, often sat by his side till a late hour, singing to him old songs, or telling Bible stories until he fell away to sleep.

Those were dark, wearisome days to Maddy, and when the long, cold winter was gone from the New England hills, and the early buds of spring were coming up by the cottage door, the neighbors began to talk of the change which had come over the young girl, once so full of life and health, but now so languid and pale. Still Maddy was not unhappy, nor was the discipline too severe, for by it she learned at last the great object of life; learned to take her troubles and cares to One who helped her bear them so cheerfully that those who pitied her most never dreamed how heavy was her burden. So patiently and sweetly she bore it. Occasionally there came to her letters from the doctor, but latterly they gave her less pleasure than pain, for as sure as she read one of his kind, friendly messages of sympathy and remembrance the Tempter whispered to her that though she did not love him as she ought to love her husband, yet a life with him was far preferable to the life she was living, and the receipt of one of his letters always gave her a pang which lasted until Guy came down to see her, when it usually disappeared. Agnes was now at Aikenside, and thus Maddy frequently had Jessie at the cottage, but Agnes never came, and Maddy little guessed how often the proud woman cried herself to sleep after listening to Jessie's recital of all Maddy had to do for the crazy man, and how patiently she did it. He had taken a fancy that Maddy must tell him stories of Sarah, describing her as she was now, not as she used to be when he knew her, but now. "What is she now? How does she look? What does she wear? Tell me, tell me!" he would plead, until Maddy, forced to tell him something, and having distinctly in her mind but one fashionable woman such as she fancied Sarah might be, told him of Agnes Remington, and Uncle Joseph, listening with parted lips and hushed breath, would whisper softly, "Yes, that's Sarah, beautiful Sarah; but tell me—does she ever think of me, or of that time in the orchard when I wove the apple blossoms in her hair, where the diamonds are now? She loved me then; she told me so. Does she know how sick, and sorry, and foolish I am?—how the aching in my poor, simple brain is all for her, and how you, Maddy, are doing for me what it is her place to do? Had I a voice," and the crazy man now grew excited, as, raising himself in bed, he gesticulated wildly, "had I a voice to reach her, I'd cry shame on her, to let you do her work, let you wear your young life and fresh, bright beauty all away for me, whom she ruined."

The voice he craved, or the echo of it, did reach her, for Jessie had been present when the fancy first seized him to hear of Sarah, and in the shadowy twilight she told her mother all, dwelling most upon the touching sadness of his face when he said, "Does she know how sick and sorry I am?"

The pillow which Agnes pressed that night was wet with tears, while in her heart was planted a germ of gratitude and respect for the young girl doing her work for her. All that she could do for Maddy without going directly to her, she did, devising many articles of comfort, sending her fruit and flowers, the last new book, or whatever else she thought might please her, and always finding a willing messenger in Guy. He was miserable, and managed when at home to make others so around him. The sight of Maddy bearing her burden so uncomplainingly almost maddened him. Had she fretted or complained he could bear it better, he said, but he did not see the necessity for her to lose all her spirit or interest in everything and everybody. Once when he hinted as much to Maddy, he had been awed into silence by the subdued expression of her face as she told him in part what it was which helped her to bear and made the rough places so smooth. He had seen something like this in Lucy, when paroxysms of pain were racking her delicate frame, but he could not understand it; he only knew it was something he could not touch—something against which his arguments beat helplessly, and so, with an added respect for Maddy Clyde, he smothered his impatience, and determining to help her all he could, rode down to Honedale every day, instead of twice a week, as he had done before.

Attentions so marked could not fail to be commented upon, and while poor, unsuspecting Maddy was deriving so much comfort from his daily visits, deeming that day very long which did not bring him to her, the Honedale gossips, of whom there were many, were busy with her affairs, talking them over at their numerous tea-drinkings, discussing them in the streets, and finally at a quilting, where they met in solemn conclave, deciding, that, "for a girl like Maddy Clyde it did not look well to have so much to do with that young Remington, who, everybody knew, was engaged to a somebody in England."

"Yes, and would have been married long ago, if it wan't for this foolin' with Maddy," chimed in Mrs. Joel Spike, throwing the chalk across the quilt to her sister, Tripheny Marvel, who wondered if Maddy thought he'd ever have her.

"Of course he wouldn't. He knew what he was about. He was not green enough to marry Grandpa Markham's daughter, and if she didn't look out, she'd get herself into a pretty scrape. It didn't look well, anyhow, for her to be putting on airs, as she had done ever since the big folks took her up, and she guessed she wouldn't be beholden to nobody for her larnin'."

All this and much more was discussed and to the tune the patchwork flourished, how there remained

When the Stomach, Heart, or Kidney nerves get weak, then these organs fail. Don't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That is simply a makeshift. Take a prescription known to Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. The Restorative is prepared expressly for the weak inside nerves. Strengthen those nerves, build them up with Dr. Shoop's Restorative—tablets or liquid—and see how quickly help will come. Free sample tests sent on request by Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. Your health is surely worth this simple test.

Jack Tar at a Christening.

A sailor went up to the font to have his baby baptised. Sailors as a class claim little stock in babies, and naturally enough this one presented the infant feet foremost.

"The other way," said the minister, and accordingly Jack turned the infant upside down.

"Excuse me," said the clergyman, "I mean the other way." So back came the embryo foretopman to the first position, to the discouragement of everybody.

"Wind it, Jack," said the nautical assistant, and with an "Aye, aye, sir," Jack promptly turned the baby end for end, and it was duly christened head first.—"On a Man-of-war."

The Alternative.

The Count—Doctor, I have such a fearfully bad cough. What can I do for it? Doctor—Well, sir, you must remember that you are no longer in your first youth and you must take care of your general health. So you had better leave off smoking; take no alcohol in any form and do not excite yourself in any way; do not— The Count—The mischief, doctor; what am I to do then? Nothing but cough?—Lustige Blatter.

The Virginia Plover.

The most wonderful bird flight noted in the migratory achievement of the Virginia plover, which leaves its haunts in North America and, taking a course down the Atlantic, reaches the coast of Brazil in one unbroken flight of fifteen hours, covering a distance of over 3,000 miles at the rate of four miles a minute.

Condensed.

"Here is an article on 'How to Live a Hundred Years.'"

"Yes, and the whole subject can be condensed into two words."

"What are they?"

"'Don't die.'"

Not the Music He Loved.

Mrs. Talkamore—Your husband is a great lover of music, isn't he? Mrs. Chatters—Yes, indeed, I have seen him get up in the middle of the night and try to compose. Mrs. T.—What? Mrs. C.—The baby.

Well Named.

"This is the parlor, eh?" tentatively remarked the real estate agent, who was looking over the house.

"Yes," replied the old man Kidder, "but I usually call it the courtroom. I've got seven daughters, you know."

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn bony growths back to flesh again. That is impossible. But I can now surely kill the pains and pangs of this dreadful disease.

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, it unfailingly cures all curable cases of this horrid-to-much dreaded disease. Those sand-like granular wastes found in Rheumatic blood soon bodily go and take away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and thus cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer without help. We will, and in confidence recommend

ANTIGUA GOLD-COPPER Co.

Offers the Biggest and Most Attractive Mining Investment Now Before the Public.

ITS HOLDINGS ARE MINES--NOT PROSPECTS

With Vast Bodies of Ore Ready for the Mill, Now Nearing Completion.

THOMAS W. LAWSON
"Copper stocks offer the biggest opportunity for money making in the world to-day. A good copper mine is really a safe-deposit vault of stored up dividends which cannot be stolen or destroyed by fire, flood or famine."

CECIL RHODES
said: "Mining offers greater inducements than any other business in the world to make quick and great wealth."

CHARLES M. SCHWAB
says: "The big fortunes of the next ten years will come from Mother Earth." Among all mining investments none stand ahead of copper for safety, permanency and profit.

Lay the Foundation for Your Fortune Today

THE ANTIGUA PROPERTIES

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company holdings consist of 511 acres, situated in Honduras, Central America, 100 miles southeast from Puerto Cortez, and midway between New Orleans and Panama. Development work is being pushed with all possible speed, and more than 1,500 feet of tunneling and shaft work has been completed. A 150-ton capacity gold-silver mill is in course of construction, and will be in operation before the close of the year.

Development work has conclusively proven that every acre of our holdings are rich in gold, copper and silver, and that every ton of this great ore body will yield a handsome profit, on milling expense. The ore exposed on the surface does not require milling in the usual sense of the term, but may be obtained by quarrying, as can, according to estimates of experts, be quarried and treated for the gold and silver on an extensive scale at a cost of less than $1.00 a ton. Think of it! A solid mountain of rich ore, from the very grass roots of which may be washed gold.

Beyond a doubt Honduras has beneath the soil larger, richer deposits of copper, gold and silver than any other section of the American continent. Spain, during her sovereignty in that country, took out more than $200,000,000 in gold alone—and she scarcely scraped the riches surface. There is evidence that the prehistoric races knew how to mine and utilize copper—smelting it in their crude way.

The original incorporators of the Antigua Gold-Copper Company spent thousands of dollars of their own money in bringing this property to its present stage of development. They opened up the mine on every side with tunnels, crosscuts and shafts. They purchased machinery and began the erection of a gold-silver mill—now nearing completion. They then appreciated from the first that this mine was destined to become one of the great copper-gold-silver properties in America; and that it justified more extensive and more rapid development than they were able to make without the co-operation and financial assistance of the public.

The average assay values of Antigua ores, ranging from the surface to a depth of 300 feet, is over 5 per cent copper. This is above the average of the ore of the world's greatest producers, the famous Anaconda yielding ore which averages only a little over 3 per cent. The Anaconda has little other ore value, while our property, in addition to the copper, carries $2.00 to $1.400 a ton in gold and silver.

WHY STOCK IS SOLD

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company finds itself in precisely the same position as the farmer who has a larger farm than he can cultivate with the capital in hand. He knows that with additional capital and assistance he could make the land yield abundant crops and enormous profits. In the same way we intend, by the investment of additional capital, to bring our enormous ore bodies to a mighty profitable scale of development at the earliest possible moment. For this reason a limited amount of treasury stock is offered the public. In this way funds will be available for immediate use in purchasing additional machinery and for continuing vigorous development of the property.

THERE ARE NO PREFERRED SHARES AND NO BONDS TO COME FIRST IN THE DIVISION OF PROFITS.

and your shares will earn as much as a like number of shares owned by any other stockholder in the company. Each share CARRIES WITH IT THE RIGHT TO VOTE, so that with a single share you have every right, privilege and protection possessed by any other stockholder.

Stock is now being sold at $2.50 a share, and this price, we firmly believe, will, within a year, be selling at its par value of $5.00 a share, or higher; nor will it stop there. If you are desirous of permanently increasing your income, of making an investment that is not only secure, but immensely profitable, reserve a share NOW—TO-DAY.

Such an investment opportunity can scarcely be repeated. It is made possible only by extraordinary financial conditions. Millions of dollars of copper, gold and silver will be marked within the mine's confines will be reaped as a result of the prompt seizure of the opportunity we offer you to-day.

REPORT OF AN EXPERT

Much weight can justly be given the statement of a properly qualified and reliable mining engineer. Such is the opinion of J. M. Foster, from whose report on Antigua we make the following extracts:

"From the development work done and the indications shown by the croppings, I am convinced this is one of the largest gold-copper deposits in existence, and under proper development will make one of the richest mining properties in America. * * * I consider this an ideal smelting proposition, there being an abundance of iron, lime and silica in close proximity. There is plenty of water for power and milling purposes, and an abundance of timber on the property. * * *

"A large amount of development work has been done on this property in tunnels, drifts and shafts, ranging from 20 to possibly 200 feet in length. * * * This work has all been in ore—in fact, the ore body on the surface is known to be fully one-half mile wide by two miles in length. To judge from the development work done, this property is all ore—no matter where work was started, ore was encountered.

"The company is erecting a mill, consisting of one five-stamp and three Huntingtone, to work the surface ore. This surface ore is mostly free milling, the copper and galena sulphides being oxidized, freeing the gold, and being readily amalgamated. But I am confident that at no very great depth copper sulphides will be encountered, as there are many places in this great ore body where the sulphides crop to the surface. I have taken a dozen samples from various places on the lead, and from these made free gold tests, finding an average of over $6.00 a ton in FREE gold, and from 5 to 7½ per cent copper. Native copper is frequently seen in this ore. If the Antigua mines continue to such as on the surface, a 1,000 ton smelter will not work it out in 100 years. * * *

"With good management and proper development, it will be but a short time until the stock of the company will be worth more than par. I fully believe that if this great ore body is properly developed there is a mine here worth many millions of dollars."

Mr. George Pratt, engine driver on the Toronto flyer, returned to duty on Saturday, after an absence of two weeks' deer hunting in the back country, with a Lindsay party that hunted in Haliburton county. He succeeded in obtaining his full share of deer and reports having a fine time. During his holiday his place on the flyer was filled by Messrs. Thomas Tutton and Wm. Chambers.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

History of Crimes

He kept the oath of secrecy, killed only in honor of Camorra by the secret bully be sheer villany arrest the chance for chief-ship to lift up to himself.

Within a year after his ascendency the Camorra had Naples almost literally by the throat. No citizen could take any important step in social or commercial life without its sanction.

The university even came under its spell, and taught its students that the Camorra was necessary to the preservation of the state.

Avowed enemies were put away safely and carefully, but with the unfailing design of the society upon their bodies as a warning to others still alive and unmarked. The warning was needed. The robbery found that it must either take sides with the Camorra or suffer blackmail or death.

The police were powerless. Not being comfortable, allied themselves to the murderous league. So did the judges, powerful membership and connection to the mysteries of the other world.

Settano thus became absolute over them all. Wore out the most corrupt garments and rode in state with outriders in the van and grandeurs in train through the city's streets he received the salaams of populace and leaders alike.

Cleared Away

Proper Food Put the Troubles Away

Our own troubles always seem more severe than any others. But when a man is unable to eat even a light breakfast, log bears, without severe distress, he has trouble enough.

It is small wonder he likes to tell of "food which cleared away the troubles.

"I am glad of the opportunity to tell of the good Grape-Nuts has done for me," writes a N.H. man. "For many years I was unable to eat even a light breakfast without great suffering.

"After eating I would suddenly be seized with a terrible attack of colic and vomiting. This would be followed by headache and misery that would sometimes last a week or two, leaving me so weak I could hardly sit up or walk.

"Since I began to eat Grape-Nuts I have been free from the old troubles. I usually eat Grape-Nuts one or more times a day, taking it at the beginning of the meal. Now I can eat almost anything I want without trouble.

"When I began to use Grape-Nuts I was way under my usual weight, now I weigh 20 pounds more than I ever weighed in my life, and I am glad to speak of the food that has worked the changes."

LONDON BRIBERY CHARGES WILL BE A CASE OF FIGHT

Both Sides are Equipped with an Array of Legal Talent--Mr. Johnston's Objections to the Indictment were not Recognized by the Crown

Toronto, Nov. 18.—The London bribery case will go on before Judge Winchester. During the preliminary argument this morning his honor repeatedly intimated that he was prepared to relinquish the responsibility, and the Crown took the attitude of not caring. The defence, however, conceded any ruling on its objections and on jurisdiction to proceed with the case.

It was made evident that the case is now to be a case of fight. Both sides were equipped with an array of legal talent, and the interchanges were spirited at times.

Counsel look for the case to last several days. Over one hundred witnesses have been summoned for the Crown, and it is anticipated that the defence will have over thirty.

Mr. H. H. Dewart, K.C., occupied a seat at the table with the counsel for the defence.

The Crown was represented by Messrs. G. Lynch Staunton, K.C., Crown Attorney Drayton, John Gould and J. C. Judd, while the defence was in the hands of Messrs. E. F. B. Johnston, K.C., Geo. Wilkie and J. M. McEvoy.

The four men, John O'Gorman, Geo. Reid, Daniel Wylie and Wm. J. Mufley, were all arraigned on the charge of conspiracy to bribe. Mr. Lynch Staunton intimated that the charge against E. J. Sifton would not be proceeded with. In the midst of reading the charge his honor, Judge Winchester, paused after the words "against the peace of our sovereign lord the King and, his crown and dignity."

"If you leave that in I cannot try this case," said the judge, addressing Mr. Lynch-Staunton.

"I certainly do not propose to take it out," replied the Crown counsel.

"Then I have no jurisdiction," observed the bench.

Mr. Johnston believed the court had jurisdiction in all cases not named in the specific exceptions to the act. A recess was taken and the statutes consulted.

"Are there any offences charged which are not covered by the code?" queried the court on resuming. "I cannot try conspiracy under the common law. If the charges are not all within the code that ends my jurisdiction."

The charge was read over again in view of this decision.

The charge took nine minutes to read and covered several pages of foolscap. The accused all elected to be tried by his honor.

"How do you plead?" queried the court.

"I have a motion to make first," said Mr. Johnston, rising.

WANTED CASE THROWN OUT.

Mr. Johnston made his motion for the throwing out of the case on three grounds.

He held, in the first place, that the indictment numbered twenty odd paragraphs, each a crime or a conspiracy in itself, and in different years. He maintained that no indictment was good on a charge for more than one conspiracy.

Mr. Johnston further pointed out that the individual counts contained in themselves several different crimes and offences. These charges, he said, should be preferred with particularity as to date and time.

Mr. Johnston held again, that the charges were no longer offences at law. They were barred by the lapse of time. The offence was not one recognized by law. Mr. Johnston claimed that the case of the Queen vs Bunn and Thompson, which were under repealed statutes, were not applicable to the present case. In the present case that statute declared the time limitations of the offence.

"The whole matter is dead, and has no longer any existence in law," he concluded.

Mr. Johnston also asked that the Crown be bound to elect the place of the conspiracy. "The Crown cannot charge a single conspiracy at two places," he observed. "This conspiracy cannot be at Toronto and London at the same time."

"What does the learned counsel ask for?" said Mr. Staunton, when the judge asked him what he had to say in reply to Mr. Johnston.

NO CHANGE IN INDICTMENT.

Mr. Johnston—"I have a right to ask that the indictment be quashed or to require that the Crown elect whether the charges of conspiracy be made conspiracy at either London or Toronto."

Mr Staunton—"I don't propose to change the indictment. Some of the charges are here, some at London, some at Brockville and elsewhere. These are the particulars. A general conspiracy is charged, entered into by these defendants and others for the purpose of defrauding the electors. They set about to do this in every election that came along. Then there are other charges relating to individual election cases. Several men may be guilty of a general conspiracy. There was a general conspiracy before the Brockville election, and the participants carried it out to the best of their ability subsequent to that. The charge is meant to cover the case in that way."

Mr Staunton then referred to the famous McGreevy case as containing a ruling of the courts in favor of the general conspiracy.

NOT AT TWO PLACES.

Mr. E. F. B. Johnston—"The conspiracy can't arise at two places. If it arises at London your honor would have no jurisdiction. And the Crown has no right to charge an offence taking place at both places."

Mr. Staunton—"It's a strange thing that the Divisional Court thought different."

Mr. Johnston — "The Divisional Court didn't come to that conclusion.

"My learned friend can't blow hot and blow cold at one and the same time," said Mr. Lynch-Staunton. "He better go to the Assize Court, where he will have no doubt as to jurisdiction."

"If there is any difficulty over the election I think I better reject it to the High Court," observed his honor.

PLEADED NOT GUILTY.

"Very well, then," said Mr. Johnston, "if the Crown refuses to take any position at all I plead not guilty, having had these formal objections noted."

The counsel for the defence asked that bail be granted. "These men have given themselves up, and are now in custody," he said.

The judge consented to a renewal of the bail bond, each in $2,000, and adjourned court till 2 o'clock.

Tips the Beam at 378 Pounds

London, Nov 18.—King Carlos of Portugal is generally accorded the weighty honors of being the heaviest royalty in Europe, but he has a rival who outweighs him by over three-score pounds. This Brobdignag an gentleman is Prince Charles Gustave, seventh son of the crown prince of Denmark.

King Carlos is 5 feet 10 inches high and weighs 300 pounds, but Prince Charles Gustave is six feet high and tips the scales at the tremendous weight of 378 pounds.

During her recent visit to Copenhagen Queen Alexandra used every endeavor to persuade her nephew, Prince Charles Gustave, to accept the hospitality of the King and become one of the many royal guests at Windsor during the month of November. Much as he loves his august aunt, the prince was obliged to refuse because his enormous girth has constantly made him an object of social ridicule.

The tremendous prince, who is only twenty-five years of age, has tried every known remedy for the reduction of superfluous flesh, but continues to expand. He has gone in for long courses of exercise and has rigorously punished himself in the matter of diet, living for many months on an anchorite's menu, but he still runs to fat. For this reason he accepts no social engagements, and though the Queen begged him not to be so sensitive, and assured him that his huge periphery would provoke no comment in England, he declined her invitation.

Only very recently, while walking abroad Prince Charles Gustave was plunged into blushing consternation by a street urchin, who, ignorant of the prince's rank, greeted him with: "Ho, Mister! Can you eat any more?" Since then the prince has taken his walks in the palace grounds, and Copenhagen society asks him but rarely.

Death of Mrs. John Rubidge

Death of One of Peterborough's Oldest and Most Respected Citizens

In the person of Mrs. John Rubidge, who died yesterday morning at her residence, 291 Stewart street, Peterborough, the city loses one of its very oldest and best known residents. Mrs. Rubidge, who had been suffering from heart trouble for the past five months, was a native of Ireland, coming to Canada early in life. Her husband, who has been dead some twelve years, was John De P. Rubidge, a son of the late Capt. Rubidge, R.N., well known as one of the original settlers in this county. A sister, Mrs. Cooper of Detroit, two married daughters, Mrs. Reginal Drayton of Lakefield, and Mrs. A. B. Lambe of Toronto; three unmarried daughters, Misses Minnie, Lizzie and Florence, and one son, Mr. J. D. Rubidge, of Keokuk, Iowa, are the survivors.

The funeral will be held from her late residence to the Little Lake cemetery on Wednesday afternoon at 2.30, and will be conducted by the Rev. Canon Davidson, as Mrs. Rubidge was a member of St. John's church.

Chinese Mercenaries in Formosa Murder Sixty-Three Men

London, Nov 18.—In a despatch from Tokio the correspondent of the Times says that the revolt of a company of Chinese troops in Formosa, resulted in the murder of 63 Japanese policemen and civilians. The incident has caused uneasiness in Tokio the correspondent declares, as the loyalty of the Chinese mercenaries had hitherto been unquestioned.

Pitched Battle with Armed Men--Bloodless Pistol Fight

Montreal, Nov. 18.—A pitched battle between city detectives and a band of supposed bank-robbing crooks occurred this evening at St. Lambert's, just across the river from Montreal, which resulted in the arrest of two of the crooks. Although there were six detectives and six crooks, all of whom were busy emptying revolvers at each other, not one of the whole party was injured, and the detectives scored a bloodless victory.

Chief Carpenter, of the city detective force, was this evening informed that a band of men, supposed to be robbers, were camped near St. Lambert's, and he despatched half a dozen of his men to gather them in, guided by the man who brought in the information. While on the way the detectives met four men on the road, but passed them, thinking they were not the men they were after. Later they found two of the gang sitting by a camp fire.

As soon as the detectives appeared the strangers opened fire on them with revolvers, and the detectives pulled their guns and fired back. The shots alarmed the men on the road, who were also members of the gang, and they at once ran back and attacked the detectives from the rear. The latter, however, won out, and the four desperados, leaving the original two to be arrested. The latter gave their names as John Brown and Will Hudson, but their names do not count for much as yet.

It is thought that the gang was composed of the men who have been traveling through the province, burglarizing banks and stores lately.

Hartley will Train at the Woodbine for Saturday's Big Race

Toronto, Nov. 18.—David Hartley, the Peterborough pedestrian, who lowered Jimmy Reynold's record for the 132-mile walk and is scheduled to meet Reynolds in a 12-hour match race at Mutual street rink on Saturday, is expected to arrive in town today along with his trainer. The two will put up at the Woodbine Hotel and will complete all training preparations on the Woodbine track. Reynolds is not expected to arrive until Thursday. While in town he will stay at the Grand Central under Tom Flanagan's fatherly wing. The 12-hour grind on Saturday is creating a big stir amongst the public who have become so enthused over walking and running this year and large crowds will swarm the rink to see the Port Hope walking barber, who is the one responsible for the boom in this sport. Line up against the old Peterborough favorite. That the race will be hard fought from start to finish is a foregone conclusion as both men are of the calibre fail to recognize defeat.

Which Bank will Do City's Business

A joint meeting of the Finance Committee of the Board of Education, the Water Commissioners and the City Trust Commissioners, will be held at four o'clock this afternoon for the purpose of discussing the question of which of the local banks will carry the city's account for the year. The order of the Bank of Toronto was accepted last fall and the bank has looked after the city's finances this year, but has intimated that it will not carry the account next year at the same terms, and has not sent in any new figures. The matter will, therefore, have to be talked over by the Joint Boards.

Chemong Lake Yacht Club Invitations Out

Cards of invitation were issued yesterday by the Chemong Yacht Club to an assembly, to be held under the club's auspices at the Conservatory of Music this evening, Nov. 19th. The cards are handsomely engraved and have a colored burgee or pennant of the club. This shows a blue cross on red ground the whole design being surmounted by a white crescent.

The lady patronesses are Mesdames T. H. G. Deane, Alex. Elliott, W. R. Barnhart, W. H. Hall, T. A. S. Hay, L. M. Hayes, W. J. Hopewood, L. Boyle-Charles, T. C. Matthews and Dr. Young. The commodore of the local yachting fleet is Mr. T. C. Matthews and Mr. W. S. Davidson, secretary. The assembly's success is assured both by the list of officers and lady patronesses as well as by the increasing interest taken in local yachting matters.

"Real Sod Widows" Would Rid the World of Single Loneliness

Late Matrimonial quotations:
Wives $5.00
Husbands $2.50
Cash strictly in advance
All matches guaranteed

San Francisco, Nov. 18.—Banks may fail and business may stagnate, but Mrs. Della Hughes is going to see to it that Dan Cupid's stock remains at par. Mrs. Della Hughes deals in a business way as a "matrimonial agency," and she constitutes the "whole thing."

She announces that she, with those tired of the "single and lonely life" She wants them all to enroll in her matrimonial clearing house. She guarantees women husbands for $2.50 and men wives for $5. With commendable consideration for the prevailing scarcity of ready money she puts her fee within the reach of the most humble. Single men and women should years no longer profitlessly for congenial life partners.

REAL SOD WIDOW

Mrs. Hughes' affairs would not be a matter of much public concern if she had not set out to flood the mails with her circulars. She had prepared handsome quarters for all who care to take a chance in her "lottery of love." She is a buxom, comely woman, a "real sod widow," as she pleasantly volunteers—and got right down to business when one of the circular victims of her solicitude approached yesterday to see just what a real live matrimonial agency was willing to attempt.

"There are so many lonely hearts seeking their mates," she purred, "that I am determined to do what I can to find out and bring them together. The fee is $5 for wives and $2.50 for husbands. I know the contentment of matrimony—although I am a real sod widow now—and I want no single or lonely man or woman to be so if I can help it.

GUARANTEED MATCHES.

"I stay with it until my clients are perfectly suited, and I guarantee all matches made by me."

With which rather daring guarantee Mrs. Hughes proffered one of her circulars, wherein it is stated that the object of the agency is to "bring together honorable people of both sexes who wish to marry." Private parlors are afforded where registered clients may meet and converse.

Mr. Tom Lee Given a Hearty Welcome

One of Peterborough's Best Known Experts in Market Products Welcomed on the Market

As is generally known there gathers about the local market weigh scales quite a number daily of hog and cattle buyers, hay dealers and others interested in market produce. The "market gang" as some of their friends call them in fun, whilst assembled yesterday, accorded a warm reception to Mr. Thos. Lee when he visited his old friends at the market yesterday, after being absent all summer. He returned from Davidson, Sask., on Saturday night, after a successful season in the Northwest. Mr. Lee is highly satisfied with the result of his trip. Some of the districts he visited, suffered heavily, but in the neighborhood of Davidson all the farmers had good crops, and Mr. Lee's acres gave more than a satisfactory return.

Speaking of the West, Mr. Lee said that the conditions are not as bad as what the eastern press make them out. The wheat district was seriously hurt by the frost only in parts.

$150,000,000 ARE ADDED TO UNITED STATES CURRENCY

Government to Issue Fifty Millions of Panama Bonds and $100,000,000 of Government Notes--Country is Saved

Washington, Nov. 18.—An announcement was made tonight by Secretary of the Treasury Cortelyou that for the purpose of relieving the financial stringency the Treasury Department would issue $50,000,000 in Panama Canal bonds, and issue, also, three per cent. interest-bearing Government certificates to the amount of $100,000,000, if necessary, to run for one year. The bonds sold will be available for collateral in taking out additional national bank circulation and the money realized on the sale of the certificates is to be placed where it will serve the best purposes in furnishing additional currency.

Coincident with the announcement this was made public a letter from President Roosevelt to Secretary Cortelyou, dated today, in which Mr. Roosevelt refers in terms of confidence to the solvency of banks and trust companies, assures the people that the business situation is fundamentally sound, and appeals to the public "to co-operate with us in restoring normal business conditions." The President says also, in his letter to Mr. Cortelyou, that the leaders in congress are considering a currency bill which will meet the needs of the situation in a permanent way. The president expresses the belief that the bill will be passed soon after congress assembles.

The measures of finance at relief determined upon by the administration are the outcome of much deliberation on the part of the president and Secretary Cortelyou, who did not hesitate to take advantage of the advice of some members of the Cabinet and leading financiers. There is a very hopeful, in fact, a confident, feeling in the official circles most concerned that no further steps will be necessary to bring about a restoration of normal conditions.

It is expected that the extension of the treasury, announced tonight, to issue certificates of indebtedness will have the immediate effect of causing to be released much of the money which is being held by banks, and that this will tend to restore public confidence to such an extent that people who are hoarding their currency will replace it in banks and otherwise permit it to get into general circulation. The issuing of hopefulness referred to is suggested in the qualifying phrase, "if necessary," in the statement of the government's intention to issue one hundred million dollars in interest-bearing certificates. There is a decided tendency here to believe, that it will not be an absolute necessity to make the issue that large, for the reason that the conditions which the issue seeks to relieve will be overcome before the total amount named has been put out.

ROOSEVELT'S LETTER.

The following is the letter of President Roosevelt to Secretary Cortelyou approving the proposal for the issue of Panama bonds and interest-bearing government notes:

My Dear Cortelyou,—I have considered your proposal. I approve the issue of fifty millions of Panama bonds, which will be available as the basis of additional currency, and also approve the issue of $100,000,000, or so much as you may find necessary, of 3% per cent. interest-bearing government notes, the proceeds of the sale of which can be at once deposited by you where the greatest need exists, and especially in the west and south, where the crops have to be moved. I have assurance that the leaders of congress are considering a currency bill which will meet in permanent fashion the needs of the situation, and which, I believe, will be passed at an early date after congress convenes two weeks hence.

What is most needed just at present is that our citizens should realize how unfundamentally business conditions are in our country, and how absurd it is to permit themselves to get into a panic and create a stringency by hoarding their savings, instead of trusting perfectly in sound banks. There is no particle of risk involved in letting business take its natural course, and the people can help themselves and the country most by putting back into active circulation the money they are hoarding. The banks and trust companies are solvent. There is more currency in the country today than there was a month ago when the supply was ample. Fifty-five million in gold has been imported, and the government has deposited another $60,000,000. These are facts; and I appeal to the public to co-operate with us in restoring normal business conditions. The government will see that the people don't suffer if only the people themselves will act in a normal way. Crops are good. And business conditions are sound; and we should put the money we have into circulation in order to meet the needs of our astounding prosperity. There is no analogy at all with the way things were in 1893. On November 30th of that year there was in the treasury but $104,000,000 in gold. On November 14th this year there was in the treasury $96,000,000 of gold. Ten years ago the circulation per capita was $23.23. It is now $33.33. The fact that you now take the ability of the government to back them up and the fact that no particle of risk is involved therein, gives the fullest guarantees of the sound condition of our people and the sound condition of our treasury. All that our people have to do now is to go ahead with their normal business in a normal fashion, and the whole difficulty disappears; and this end will be achieved at once if each man will act as he normally does act, and as the real conditions of the country's business fully warrant his now acting.

Sincerely yours,
THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

Hon. George B. Cortelyou,
Secretary of the Treasury.

C. P. R. Will Supply All Cars Needed

Winnipeg, Nov. 19.—The Saskatchewan grain growers have been assured by Mr. White, second vice-president of the C.P.R., that plenty of cars will be furnished for the purpose of sending damaged grain to Ontario, where it is needed for feed.

Bankers here refuse to discuss the government's proposition of furnishing money to facilitate the moving of the crops, as they have no official instructions as yet regarding the nature of the assistance. One ventured to say that buying would be helped, and that the price would go up, thus stopping the export movement. As it is the prevailing prices are above the export basis.

Another banker who received word tonight of the government's contemplated action, says it will have a beneficial effect.

May Stop Emigration of the Japanese

Tokio, Nov. 18. — Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, the Canadian postmaster general and minister of labor, who is here to consult with the Japanese authorities regarding emigration from this country, has established an office at the British embassy, and in frequent conference with the officials of the foreign office. He expects a favorable outcome to his mission. To a representative of the Associated Press he said:—"I am not proposing any change in the existing treaty, but desire to reach an agreement with a friendly nation, looking to the adoption of a programme for the future which will be mutually to both countries concerned."

The minister will be entertained by the municipality of Tokio next Tuesday, after the government is preparing an elaborate program for his entertainment during his stay in Japan.

The foreign office has notified the emigration agencies that 400 Japanese will be allowed to enter Hawaii this month and December. It is understood the government intends to exercise a close supervision over those going as students to San Francisco. There is reason to believe that considerable fraud has been practiced by registering laborers as students, and that this has escaped the notice of the emigration inspector.

The Japanese government is said to be considering the advisability of shutting off all emigration to the United States and Canada for the present, on the ground that economic conditions render it undesirable for citizens of Japan to visit foreign countries unless they are able to show that they are amply self-supporting.

Marriages with Protestants Forbidden by Archbishop Bruchi

Montreal, Nov. 18.—An important pastoral was read in the Roman Catholic churches yesterday, absolutely forbidding mixed marriages. Archbishop Bruchesi made an announcement that in so far as this province is concerned dispensations will no longer be granted to Roman Catholics wishing to marry Protestants. The custom hitherto in vogue is done away with. In strong and emphatic language his grace places a ban upon all such unions. Hereafter should Protestants and Catholics wish to marry they will not be able to secure the blessing of the Church upon their union.

Court of Revision Concluded Last Night

Last night was the last chance for making appeals against the assessment and those who are on the list of appellants, and who have not yet been heard by the court heads, have been on hand last night to air their grievances. The list was gone through once but there were a number of absentees and the court decided to give them this opportunity to state their case. After last night the court may or may not give judgment according as cases tried previously or possibly on those behind the allotted time for giving such applications or appeals.

WHY STAY RHEUMATIC?

Nothing Short of Folly When Cure is Guaranteed with Ferrozone.

Rheumatism can't be cured so long as your system is weak and run down. You must first build up and get strength to fight off the disease.

Ferrozone cures because it builds up, because it renews the blood and dissolves the uric acid and the poisons that cause rheumatism.

It is proved right here that Ferrozone does cure.

Col. H. M. Ross, of Edwards, St. Lawrence Co., one of the fine old heroes of the Civil War, was completely restored by Ferrozone. Read his statement:

"I couldn't get around without a cane and then only with difficulty.

"Rheumatism took complete control of my limbs.

"The suffering was more [illegible] than language can tell to tell you.

"When my doctor had done his best I got Ferrozone.

"Then came a quick change.

"Ferrozone gave me comfort at once, eased the pain and took the stiffness out of my muscles.

"I am well today. Ferrozone cured me completely. I can jump and run like I did forty years ago."

Be sensible about your case. Ferrozone is known on all sides to be a cure that does cure. Why not get a supply today. The sooner you begin Ferrozone the quicker you'll get well. Price 50c per box or 5 for $2.50, at all dealers.

Beauty's Downfall Talk of Paris Boulevards

Paris, Nov. 16.—"The Downfall of Beauty" is the title of an article by Marcel Prevost, which everybody is talking about on the boulevards, in the cafes, and in fashionable resorts.

Paris being considered the headquarters of beauty, Parisians are astonished when M. Prevost, the gifted novelist and essayist, tells them that pure physical beauty understood no longer exists in Paris—or at least is not admired with the enthusiasm of other days. Classical beauty is no longer woman's chief adornment. Dress is the supreme aim of the Parisienne, who does not care whether she is plain or pretty so long as she is elegant.

There is no longer that worship of beauty which existed a hundred or even fifty years ago. No Mme. Recamier, no Lady Hamilton, no Mme. de Castiglione receive the homage of the gallants; the dynasty of Queens Qof Beauty has died out. Elegance and intelligence are now the lures by which women attract their admirers.

With the great advance in the art of adornment and in "feminism," woman no longer needs to be beautiful, says Marcel Prevost, because artificial elegance, wit and conversation are her attractions. It being easier to acquire the art of conversation than a classical beauty of face—if that can ever be attained even in the beauty institutes—the present disposition to award the palm to intelligent and attractive plainness rather than to witless physical perfection is eminently suited to the great bulk of the feminine world.

With the advance of democracy in France, woman have become democratic in their charms, and the regime of despotic, imperial beauty is over.

Even the artists have joined in a conspiracy against beauty. At the Salon there is scarcely an example of radiant loveliness in woman. There is the "interesting" face, but the interesting face is very rarely pretty. Moreover modern corsets and costumes have destroyed the classical symmetry of line in the female figure.

A tickling cough, from any cause, is quickly stopped by Dr. Sheop's Cough Cure. And it is so thoroughly harmless and safe, that Dr. Sheop tells mothers everywhere to give it without hesitation, even a very young babe. The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a lung healing mountainous shrub furnish the curative properties to Dr. Sheop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough, and heals the sore and sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. Simply a resinous plant extract, that helps to heal aching lungs. The Spaniards call this shrub which the doctor uses, "The Sacred Herb." Demand Dr. Sheop's. Take no other. All dealers.

A BUSINESS LESSON.

How Peter Cooper Taught One Man the Value of Money.

Peter Cooper was one of the most successful, careful and prudent business men of his time. He was strongly opposed to the methods of many merchants who launched out into extravagant enterprises on borrowed money, for which they paid exorbitant rates of interest. The following anecdote illustrates this point very forcibly:

Once, while talking about a project with an acquaintance, the latter said he would have to borrow the money for six months, paying interest at the rate of 3 per cent per month.

"Why do you borrow for so short a time?" Mr. Cooper asked.

"Because the brokers will not negotiate bills for longer."

"Well, if you wish," said Mr. Cooper, "I will discount your note at that rate for three years."

"Are you in earnest?" asked the would be borrower.

"Certainly I am. I will discount your note for $10,000 for three years at that rate. Will you do it?"

"Of course I will," said the merchant.

"Very well," said Mr. Cooper. "Just sign this note for $10,000, payable in three years, and give your check for $800, and the transaction will be complete."

"But where is the money for me?" asked the astonished merchant.

"You don't get any money," was the reply. "Your interest for thirty-six months at 3 per cent per month amounts to 108 per cent, or $10,800. Therefore your check for $800 just makes us even."

The force of this practical illustration of the folly of paying such an exorbitant price for the use of money was such that the merchant determined never to borrow at such ruinous rates, and he frequently used to say that nothing could have so fully convinced him as this rather humorous proposal by Mr. Cooper.

HIS RULING PASSION.

Old Harpagon Carried It to the Brink of the Grave.

The following story is commonly related as true in France. Old Harpagon was fast approaching his end. His sufferings were very great, but he comforted himself with the thought that as he could not eat there was so much saved at any rate.

"Well, doctor," he said in a feeble voice, "how long have I yet to live?"

"Only half an hour. Would you like me to send for somebody—a clergyman, for instance?"

Harpagon was silent for a few moments. He passed his hand over his chin, bristling with a grisly beard of several days' growth, when a sudden thought struck him, and, turning to the doctor, he gasped excitedly:

"Quick—send for—a barber!"

The barber soon afterward arrived with his shaving tackle.

Harpagon, whose voice was getting weaker, asked him, "You—charge—twopence—for shaving?"

"That's the price," was the answer.

"And—how much—is it—for shaving—a corpse?"

The barber paused a moment and then said, "Five shillings."

"Then—shave—me—quickly," stammered old Harpagon, casting a feverish glance at the watch which the doctor still held in his hand.

He was too feeble to utter another word, but the doctor understood the mute appeal and said:

"Fifteen minutes more!"

A smile of satisfaction stole over the features of the patient. The barber set to work and in a very short time finished his task notwithstanding the nervous twitchings that distorted the face of the dying man. When the operation was over old Harpagon uttered a sigh of relief and was heard to whisper:

"That's a good thing—four shillings—and tenpence—saved!" And he breathed his last.—London Chronicle.

Sentiment in a Pawnshop.

A watch had just passed from the hands of a seedy young man into those of a pawnbroker. Before the young man got out of the shop the broker called him back.

"Here's a picture—a woman's picture—in the back of this watch," he said. "You'd better take it out."

The young man blushed.

"It isn't worth while," he said. "I'll redeem the thing in a week or two."

"Maybe you will and maybe you won't," retorted the broker. "You never can tell about these things. I may not be strong on sentiment, but one thing I insist on is that no man shall leave a woman's picture in a watch that he pawns here."

Ageless Love.

It is a splendid thing to think that the woman you really love will never grow old to you. Through the wrinkles of time, through the mask of years, if you really love her, you will always see the face you loved and won. And a woman who really loves a man does not see that he grows old. He is not decrepit to her. He does not tremble. He is not old. She always sees the same gallant gentleman who won her hand and heart.—Robert G. Ingersoll.

Union in Failure.

Men are united more by their vices than their virtues, observed Balzac. It is also true that they are more closely bound by their failures than their successes. How a man will love you if you have fallen down like himself when perhaps you should both have won out were there any real stuff in you.—Michael Monahan.

True honor leaves no room for hesitation and doubt.—Plutarch.

French Denominations.

There are today at the Public Bourse half a dozen usurers who voter the "paisses sonderaigues" on their block coats. We have also a guardian of the peace who is an officer of the academy, only this brave policeman modestly does not exhibit his ribbon. As for the holders of the paisses sonderaigues who scarcely knew how to read and write, they are legion.—Paris Entr'acte.

Doctors Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is a doctor's medicine. Doctors prescribe it, endorse it. Use it or not, as your doctor says.

You could not please us better than to ask your doctor about Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis. Thousands of families always keep it in the house. The approval of their physician and the experience of many years have given them great confidence in this cough medicine.

Depository ..... JOHN S. COOK & CO.
Bank of Goldfield, Nevada.

This company owns 4 claim (80 acres) of some of the best proven mineral land in the Goldfield district, consisting of the Accidental and Accidental No. 2 lode claims, situated two and one-half miles south of the great Goldfield Consolidated Mines (comprising the Mohawk, Goldfield, Combination, Red Top, Jumbo and Laguna) the richest in the world; and the Broadway and Beauty lode claims situated three and one-half miles north of the consolidated and about one and one-half miles northwest of the Great Bend and Daisy Mines near the Zion group in the Diamondfield section second only in richness to the great Mohawk portion of the camp. Phenomenally rich strikes have recently been made out he Consolidated, the Great Bend and the Daisy Mines.

The company has also succeeded in securing the Sure Thing lode claim (20 acres) in the Cuprite district, which has an immense gold bearing ledge, running the entire length of the claim 1,500 feet, outcropping in places over 30 feet wide, and met by several cross dykes all carrying fine values in gold, and is without doubt rightly named "Sure Thing."

All of these claims are located in the same mineral belt as the other noted mines of Goldfield that have astonished the world by their production of millions in high grade ore, and will with the same development give equally profitable returns.

The money derived from the sale of this stock will be used at once for the active development of the property and the fact that all the directors are residents of Goldfield with years of successful mining experience who will give their personal attention at all times to the progress of the work goes to show that the first issue of 100,000 shares will meet with a quick and ready sale at the initial price of 10 cents per share.

We advise immediate action if you wish to participate in the vast profits of this Bonanza Mine.

Stock will be listed as soon as feasible on the Goldfield and San Francisco Stock and Exchange Boards. Would therefore advise purchasers to buy in board lots of 1,000 shares when convenient to do so.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, except 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader lives permanently upon a farm in the vicinity of his homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother).

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

TENDERS FOR PULPWOOD CONCESSIONS

Tenders will be received by the undersigned up to and including the 16th of December next for the right to cut pulpwood on certain areas tributary to the Nepigon river, in the district of Thunder Bay, and Rainy Lake, in the district of Rainy River, and make the same into paper. Tenderers should state the amount they are prepared to pay as bonus in addition to such dues as may from time to time be fixed for the right to operate a paper making industry on the areas referred to. Separate tenders must be made for each area or territory, and the successful tenderers will be required to erect a mill or mills on each of the localities or in such other localities as may be approved by the Government of Ontario.

Parties tendering for the pulpwood rights shall accompany their tenders with a marked cheque for 25 per cent. of the amount tendered, payable to the Treasurer of Ontario, and to be forfeited in the event of their failing to enter into agreements to carry out conditions, etc.

With respect to the Rainy Lake Pulp Concession, tenderers will be required to make a tender for the right to cut the pine, tamarac and cedar on the territory offered. Parties making tender for these timbers to state the amount they are prepared to pay per thousand feet B.M. as bonus in addition to Crown dues of $2.00 per thousand feet B.M. A marked cheque for $3,000.00 payable to the Treasurer of Ontario must accompany the tender for pine timber, and is to be forfeited in the event of their failure to enter into agreements to carry out conditions, etc.

No timber shall be cut on a berth of less diameter than nine inches, two feet from the ground.

The successful tenderers to enter into agreements with the Government for the erection of the mills, expenditure of money, etc.

For full particulars as to the conditions, etc., application should be made to the undersigned.

AIKENSIDE

BY MARY J. HOLMES

Author of "Dora Deane," "The English Orphans," "Lena Rivers," "The Rector of St. Mark's," "Tempest and Sunshine," Etc.

but little to be said either for or against Guy Remington and Maddy Clyde which had not been said by either friend or foe.

Among the invited guests at that quilting was the wife of Farmer Green, Maddy's warmest friend in Honedale, and the one who did her best to defend her against the attacks of those whose remarks she well knew were caused more by envy than any personal dislike to Maddy, who used to be so much of a pet until her superior advantages separated her in a measure from them. Good Mrs. Green was sorely tried. Without in the least blaming Maddy, she, too, had been troubled at the frequency of Guy's visits to the cottage. It was not friendship alone which took him there, she was sure; and knowing that he was engaged, she feared for Maddy's happiness at first, and afterward, when people began to talk, she feared for her good name. Something must be done, and though she dreaded it greatly, she was the one to do it. Accordingly, next day she started for the cottage, which Guy had just left, and this, in her opinion, accounted for the bright color in Maddy's cheeks and the sparkle in her eye. Guy had been there, bringing and leaving a world of sunshine, but, alas! his chances for coming ever again as he had done were fearfully small, when, at the close of Mrs. Green's well-meant visit, Maddy lay on her bed, her white, frightened face buried in the pillows, and herself half wishing she had died before the last hour had come, with the terrible awakening it had brought; awakening to the fact that of all living beings, Guy Remington was the one she loved the best—the one without whose presence it seemed to her she could not live, but without which she now knew she must.

With the best of intentions Mrs. Green had made a bungle of the whole affair, but had succeeded in giving Maddy a general impression that folks were talking awfully about Guy's coming there, and doing for her so much like an accepted lover, when everybody knew he was engaged, and wouldn't be likely to marry a poor girl if he wan't; that unless she wanted to be ruined teetotally, and lose all her friends, she must contrive to stop his visits, and not see him so much.

"Yes, I'd do anything, only please leave me now," Maddy gasped, her face as white as ashes and her eyes fixed pleadingly upon Mrs. Green, who, having been young herself, guessed the truth, and, as she arose to go, laid her motherly hand on Maddy's head, saying kindly:

"Poor child, it's hard to bear now, but you'll get over it in time."

"Get over it," Maddy moaned, as she shut and bolted the door after Mrs. Green, and then threw herself upon the bed, "I never shall till I die."

She almost felt that she was dying then, so desolate and so dreary the future looked to her. What was life worth without Guy, and why had she been thrown so much in his way; why permitted to love him as she knew she did, if she must lose him now? Maddy could not cry; there was a tightness about her eyes, and a keen, cutting pain about her heart as she tried to pray for strength to do what was right—strength to cast Guy Remington from her heart, where it was a sin for him to be; and then she asked to be forgiven for the wrong she had unwittingly done to Lucy Atherstone, who trusted her implicitly, and who, in her last letter, had said:

"If I had not so much faith in Guy I should be jealous of one who has so many opportunities for stealing his heart from me, but I trust you, Maddy Clyde. You would not do a thing to harm me, I am sure, and to lose Guy now, after these years of cruel waiting, would kill me."

Sweet Lucy, there was in her heart a faint stirring of fear lest Maddy Clyde might be a shadow in her pathway, else she had never written that to her. But Lucy's cause was safe in Maddy's hands, although for a few brief moments Maddy abandoned herself to the bliss of fancying what it would be to be loved by Guy Remington, even as she loved him. And as she thought there crept into her heart the certainty that in some degree he did love her; that his friendship was more than a mere liking for the girl to whom he had been so kind. In Lucy's absence she was essential to his happiness, and that was why he sought her society so much. Remembering everything that had passed, but more particularly the incidents of that memorable night ride to Honedale with all that had followed since, she could not doubt it, and softly to herself she whispered, "He loves me, he loves me," while little throbs of joy beat all over her heart; but only for an instant, and then the note of joy was changed to sorrow as she thought how she must henceforth seek to kill that love, both for her own sake and Lucy's. Guy must not come there any more. She could not bear it now, even if the neighbors had never meddled with her. She could not see him as she had done, and not betray her real feelings toward him. He had been there that day he would come again to-morrow. She could see him now just as he would look coming up the walk, easy and self-possessed, confident of his reception, his handsome face beaming all over with kind thoughtfulness for her, and his voice full of tender concern as he asked how she was, and bade Flora see that she did not overtax herself—and all this must cease! She had seen it, heard it for the last time. No wonder that Maddy's heart fainted within her, as she thought how desolate would be the days when Guy no longer came. But the victory was gained at last, and strength imparted for the task she had to do.

Going to the table she opened her portfolio, the gift of Guy, and with her gold pen, also his gift, wrote to him what the neighbors were saying, and that he must come there no more; at least only once in a great while, because if he did, she could not see him. Then, when this was written, she went down to Uncle Joseph, beginning to call for her, and met by him as usual, singing to him the songs he loved so well, and which this night pleased him especially, because the voice which sang them was so plaintive, so full of woe. Would he never go to sleep, or the hand which held hers so firmly relax its hold? Never, it seemed to Maddy, who sat and sang, while the night-bird on a distant tree, awakened by the low song, uttered a responsive note, and the hours crept on to midnight. Human nature could endure no more, and when the crazy man said to her, "Now sing of Him who died on Calvary," Maddy's answer was a gasping cry as she fell fainting on the pillow.

"It was only a nervous headache," she said to the frightened Flora, who came at Uncle Joseph's call, and helped her young mistress up to bed. "one would be better in the morning, and she would rather be alone."

So Flora left her there, but went often to her door, until assured by the low breathing sound that Maddy was sleeping at last. It was a heavy sleep, and when Maddy awakened from it the pain in her temples was there still; she could not rise, and half glad that she could not, inasmuch as her illness would be a reason why she could not see Guy if he came.

"I can't see him, Flora," Maddy said, when the latter came up with the message that Mr. Remington was there with his buggy, and asked if a little ride would not do her good. "I can't see him, but give him this," and she placed in Flora's hand the note, baptized with so many tears and prayers, and the contents of which made Guy furious—not at her, but at the neighbors, the inquisitive, envious, meddlesome neighbors, who had dared to talk of him, or to breathe a suspicious word against Maddy Clyde. He would see; he would make them sorry for it; they should take back every word; and they should beg Maddy's forgiveness for the pain they had caused.

The Congregation Smiled.

Two country clergymen had agreed to exchange pulpits on a certain date. One of them made the following solemn announcement to his congregation on the Sabbath previous to the event:

"My dear brethren and sisters, I have the pleasure of stating that on next Sunday morning the Rev. Zachariah B. Day will preach for you. Let us now sing two verses of hymn No. 460, 'That Awful Day Will Surely Come.'"

And it took him some time to discover why the congregation smiled.

The First Boat.

At first when a man wanted to cross a deep stream he was compelled to swim across. But man at best is a poor swimmer, and it was not long before he invented a better method of traveling on water. A log drifting in a stream furnished the hint. By resting his body upon the log and plashing with his hands and feet he found he could move along faster and easier. Thus the log was the first boat and the human arm was the first oar.—S. E. Forman in St. Nicholas.

Witty Women.

Women have more wit than humor. They are more sensitive than men. Their minds are nimbler. Their thoughts flash instantly to an intuitive conclusion; hence wit is far more natural to them. They have hardly the intellectual patience to create or enjoy the less obvious and more deliberate moods of humor.

A Failure.

"So you don't believe in the mind cure?"

"No."

"Did you ever try it?"

"Well, I once tried to convince my wife that she didn't really want a new gown."

Looks That Way.

"I wonder if Mars really is inhabited."

"Don't know, but if Saturn is, I'll bet the politicians own it."

"Think so?"

"Certainly; can't you see the rings?"

Constipation

Baked sweet apples, with some cereal, prompt relief for Constipation. Well-cooked, coarse all-wheat cereal will have the same effect. Nature undoubtedly has a vegetable remedy for every ailment known to man, if we can but find it. Nature's way to health is generally the best. Certainly true with regard to Constipation.

The bark of a certain tree in California—Cascara Sagrada—offers a most excellent relief and cure. But, combined with Egg (plus sugar), Cascara Bark, Solid Extract of Prune, etc., as in Cascara Bark is given its greatest curative power to correct constipation. A Cascara Candy Tablet, called Lax-ets, is now recognized by Bishop Laboratories, from this ingredient the most effective prescription. Its effect on constipation, Biliousness, Sour Stomach, Bad Breath, Sallow Complexion, etc., is indeed pleasing and satisfying.

No griping, no unpleasant after effects are experienced, and Lax-ets are put up in attractive lithographed metal boxes at 5 cents and 25 cents per box.

Offers the Biggest and Most Attractive Mining Investment Now Before the Public.

ITS HOLDINGS ARE MINES--NOT PROSPECTS

With Vast Bodies of Ore Ready for the Mill, Now Nearing Completion.

THOMAS W. LAWSON

"Copper stocks offer the biggest opportunity for money making in the world to-day. A good copper mine is really a safe deposit vault of untold dividends which cannot be stolen or destroyed by fire, flood or famine."

CECIL RHODES

said: "Mining offers greater inducements than any other business in the world to make quick and great wealth."

CHARLES M. SCHWAB

says: "The big fortunes of the next twenty-five years will come from Mother Earth." Among all mining investments none stand ahead of copper for safety, permanency and profit.

Lay the Foundation for Your Fortune Today

THE ANTIGUA PROPERTIES

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company holdings consist of 531 acres, situated in Honduras, Central America, 100 miles southeast from Puerto Cortez, and midway between New Orleans and Panama. Development work is being pushed with all possible speed, and more than 1,500 feet of tunnels, cross-cuts and shafts have been completed. A 40 to 50-ton capacity gold-smelting mill is in course of construction, and will be in operation before the close of the year.

Development work has conclusively proven that every acre of our holdings are rich in gold, copper and silver, and that every ton of this great ore body will yield a handsome profit on milling expense. The ore exposed on the surface does not require mining in the usual sense of the term, but may be obtained by quarrying. It can, according to estimates of experts, be quarried and treated for the gold and silver on an extensive scale at a cost of less than $1.00 a ton. Think of it! A solid mountain of rich ore, from the very grass roots of which may be washed gold.

Beyond a doubt Honduras has beneath her soil larger, richer deposits of copper, gold and silver than any other section of the American continent. Spain, during her sovereignty in that country, took out more than $300,000,000 in gold alone—and she scarcely scraped the Earth's surface. There is evidence that the pre-historic races knew how to mine and utilize copper—smelting it in their crude way.

The original incorporators of the Antigua Gold-Copper Company spent thousands of dollars of their own money in bringing this property to its present stage of development. They opened up the mine on every side with tunnels, crosscuts and shafts. They purchased machinery and began the erection of a gold-silver mill—now nearing completion. These men appreciated from the first that this mine was destined to become one of the greatest copper-gold-silver properties in America; and that it justified more extensive and more rapid development than they were able to make without the co-operation and financial assistance of the public.

The average assay values of Antigua ores, ranging from the surface to a depth of 200 feet, is ore: 8 per cent copper. This is above the average of the ore of the world's greatest producers, the famous Anaconda yielding ore which averages only a little over 2 per cent. The Anaconda has little other ore value, while our property, in addition to the copper, carries $2.00 to $1,400 a ton in gold and silver.

WHY STOCK IS SOLD

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company finds itself in precisely the same position as the farmer who has a larger farm than he can cultivate with the capital in hand. He knows that with additional capital and assistance he could make the land yield abundant crops and enormous profits. In the same way we intend, by the investment of additional capital, to bring our enormous ore bodies to a highly profitable state of development at the earliest possible moment. For this reason a limited amount of treasury stock is offered the public. In this way funds will be available for immediate use in purchasing additional machinery and for continuing vigorous development of the property.

THERE ARE NO PREFERRED SHARES AND NO BONDS TO COME FIRST IN THE DIVISION OF PROFITS.

and your shares will earn as much as a like number of shares owned by any other stockholder in the company. Each share CARRIES WITH IT THE RIGHT TO VOTE, so that with a single share you have every right, privilege and protection possessed by any other stockholder.

Stock is now being sold at $2.50 a share, and this price we firmly believe, will, within a year, be selling at a par value of $5.00 a share, or higher; nor will it stop there. If you are desirous of permanently increasing your income, of making an investment that is not only secure, but immensely profitable, reserve shares TO-DAY.

Such an investment opportunity can scarcely be repeated. It is made possible only by extraordinary natural conditions. Millions of dollars of copper, gold and silver will be marketed from the mines—fortunes will be realized as a result of the prompt seizure of the opportunity we offer you to-day.

REPORT OF AN EXPERT

Much weight can justly be given the statement of a properly qualified and reliable mining engineer. Such is the character of T. W. Foster, from whose report on Antigua we make the following extracts:

"From the development work done and the indications shown by the croppings, I am convinced this is one of the largest gold-copper deposits in existence, and under proper development will make one of the richest mining properties in America. * * * Iron like this ore an ideal smelting proposition, there being an abundance of iron, lime and silica in close proximity. There is plenty of water for power and milling purposes, and an abundance of timber on the property. * * *

"A large amount of development work has been done on this property in tunnels, drifts and shafts, ranging from 20 to possibly 200 feet in length. * * * This work has all been in ore—in fact, the ore body on the surface is shown to be fully one-half mile wide by two miles in length. To judge from the development work done this property is all ore—no matter where work was started, ore was encountered.

"The company is erecting a mill, consisting of one five-stamp and three Huntingtons, to work the surface ore. This surface ore is mostly free milling, the copper and galena sulphides being oxidized, freeing the gold, and being readily amalgamated. But I am confident that at no very great depth copper sulphides will be encountered, as there are many places in this great ore body where the sulphides crop to the surface. I have taken a dozen samples from various places on the lead, and from these made free gold tests, finding an average of over $4.00 a ton in FREE gold, and from 5 to 7½ per cent copper. Native copper is frequently seen in this ore. If the Antigua mines continue in depth as on the surface, a 1,000 ton smelter will not work it out in 100 years. * * *

"With good management and proper development, it will be but a short time until the stock of the company will be worth more than par. I fully believe that if this great ore body is properly developed there is a mine here worth many millions of dollars.

Whole Systems Suffered From Stagnant Kidneys

Experience of a Man Who Almost Died Through Neglecting His Kidneys.

Severe and numerous are the aches and pains that warn us of kidney trouble

RHEUMATISM.—Almost sure to come in damp or changeable weather.

HEADACHES. — Blurring before the eyes, dizzy and faint sensations very common.

BACKACHES. — Sharp, stinging pains when bending, throbbing dragging weakness over the spine, lameness in the morning.

ACUTE PAINS. — Urinary and bladder disorders causing inconvenience day and night.

Such were the conditions through which Mr. McKee, of 24 Hurd St., Halifax, had to live. "Every day I suffered sharp pains across my loins, my back seemed strained and overworked. I was pale and looked haggard and sick. Such mental and physical discomfort was dreadful to endure. Nothing relieved till I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills and they put life into my kidneys at once. I grew stronger and felt better while using Dr. Dr. Hamilton's Pills and can recommend them as positive cure in advanced kidney trouble.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills always set the kidneys right, always remove the ache, stop the bladder complications and make you well.

A Good Rink for Bridgenorth

The Kelly Bros. of Bridgenorth, have under construction an out-door skating rink for this winter. They are laying pipes from the mill and will force the water for flooding the rink from the lake. The rink no doubt will be well patronized and appreciated by the skaters.

Rev. Anderson Allan to Speak Here

The Session of St. Andrew's Church has made final arrangements for the visit of the Rev. Andrew Allan, of Glasgow, Scotland, in his ten days' mission, beginning Dec. 8th. Letters received from the Revs. Alex. Beiler and A. L. Baggie, Toronto, speak in the very highest terms of Mr. Allans very valuable work in Cooke's Church and Dunn Avenue Church. The services will be conducted every night with song service, beginning at 7.30. Every afternoon Mr. Allan will conduct a course in Bible study.

Large Orange Funeral Yesterday

Yesterday the Orangemen of this county and city turned out in hundreds to attend the last sad rites connected with the burial of their departed brother W. A. McWilliams. At about ten minutes to four a long and solemn cortege passed down George street, led by the uniformed band of the Salvation Army, which played a funeral march new to most of our citizens, but well rendered. The funeral procession was one of the longest in many years and told otherwise unaccounted marks of the popularity of the deceased.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Local Citizen on Western Advances

Mr. Thos. Lee, one of Peterborough's most known citizens, who has recently returned from an extended and comprehensive tour through the North-western provinces of Canada, has high terms when speaking of the new town of Davidson. Mr. Lee says that Davidson, which is only about the size of Lakefield, is making rapid progress. This new town has just opened a new public school with High school annex, costing $40,000, which is equipped with modern improvements throughout. A new skating rink twice the size of Brock street has been built in this up-to-date burg.

Oil Fuel for the British Navy

London, Nov. 19.—The British Admiralty is constructing a 4,000,000-gallon oil fuel reservoir at Plymouth, and also large oil depots at the Medway and at Lagos, West Africa. Oil fields are being developed in Nigeria to supply fuel for the navy's oil burners. The admiralty has been carrying out extensive experiments with oil during the past five or six years, and during the manoeuvres in 1906-7 some of the largest battleships were using it. Several of the big vessels in the British navy have been equipped for the use of oil or coal, and this is also the case with ships of other powers. Sir Marcus Samuel, who was one of those who induced the admiralty to decide for liquid fuel, is chairman of the Shell Transportation & Trading Company, which has provided bulk storage at most of the leading ports throughout the east and the British Imperial Oil Company, which purchased the Australian interests of the former, has depots in Adelaide, Melbourne, and Sydney, and would be prepared to provide supplies for naval purposes if necessary.

Serious Uprising Feared in China

Washington, November 16.—A serious uprising in China was reported to the State Department to-day by Consul-General Denby, at Shanghai. The immediate cause of the trouble appears to be the crossing of native cemeteries by the British railroad, which is being constructed from Shanghai to Sa-Chow.

The Chinese, according to Denby's report, are pulling up the track laid and threatening violence to the men employed on the work. The conditions in that section of China confirm the reports recently received that China is on the verge of a serious crisis and that the widely advertised progress of Chinese people is largely superficial and confined almost entirely to imperial decrees. Unless further and more reassuring advices are received from Denby, the Navy Department will likely be asked to send some small gunboats now in the vicinity to Shanghai to protect American interests there and in towns further up Yangtse Kiang.

The impression has been given that the Chinese people had made such progress that they would further railroad building and that the superstition that the iron monster would disturb the sleep of their ancestors no longer obtained, but the latest development is regarded as indicating that China is still as barbaric as she was centuries ago.

Bernier Expects to Reach North Pole

Ottawa, Nov. 19.—Capt. Bernier, whose return from the far northern waters in command of the government steamer Arctic recently was chronicled, says he is more than ever convinced of the soundness of the theories on which his plans for reaching the north pole are based. He is urging the government to give him a chance to take out a discovery expedition next year, and saw Sir Wilfrid Laurier on the subject this week. He originally drafted two plans for reaching the pole, and plan No. 1 was endorsed by the leading members of the Quebec Geographical Society, Quebec provincial legislature, members of the Dominion government and parliament, the Canadian Institute, Toronto, the Canadian Land Survey Association, and the Royal Colonial Institute of London, England.

Lord Strathcona accepted the presidency of the committee formed to promote the expedition, of which a number of other influential Canadians became members. Plan No. 1 is based on observation of polar currents for the last thirty years or more, taken by Capt. Bernier or members of his family, who are seafaring men and have passed much of their lives in the arctic regions, and others. These records show that the currents flow as maintained by Capt. Bernier in a direction that, if followed without deviation, would take an exploring vessel as near to the pole as it is possible for any vessel to go.

Cures Woman's Weaknesses.

We refer to that boon to weak, nervous, suffering women known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Dr. John Fyfe one of the Editorial Staff of THE ECLECTIC MEDICAL REVIEW says of Unicorn root (Helonias Dioica) which is one of the chief ingredients of the "Favorite Prescription":

"A remedy which invariably acts as a uterine invigorator * * * makes for normal activity of the entire reproductive system." He continues "In Helonias we have a medicament which more fully answers the above purposes than any other drug with which I am acquainted. In the treatment of diseases peculiar to women it is seldom that a case is seen which does not present some indication for this remedial agent." Dr. Fyfe further says: "The following are among the leading indications for Helonias (Unicorn) root. Pain or aching in the back, with leucorrhoea (whites) conditions of the reproductive organs of women, mental depression and irritability, associated with chronic diseases of the reproductive organs of women; constant sensation of heat in the region of the kidneys; menorrhagia (flooding), due to a weakened condition of the reproductive system; amenorrhoea, suppressed or absent monthly period, arising from or accompanying an abnormal condition of the digestive organs and anaemic (thin blood) habit; dragging sensation in the extreme lower part of the abdomen."

If more or less of the above symptoms are present, no invalid would do better than take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, one of the leading ingredients of which is Unicorn root, or Helonias, and the medical properties of which it most faithfully represents.

Of Golden Seal root, another prominent ingredient of "Favorite Prescription," Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Medical College, Chicago, says:

"It is an important remedy in disorders of the womb. In all catarrhal conditions * * * and general enfeeblement, it is useful."

Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., late of Cincinnati, says of Golden Seal root:

"In relation to its general effects on the system, there is no medicine in use about which there is such general unanimity of opinion. It is universally regarded as the tonic useful in all debilitated states."

Prof. R. Bartholow, M. D., of Jefferson Medical College, says of Golden Seal:

"Valuable in uterine hemorrhage, menorrhagia (flooding) and congestive dysmenorrhoea (painful menstruation)."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription faithfully represents all the above named ingredients and cures the diseases for which they are recommended.

PETERBOROUGH

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Mumford Harbor Works," will be received at this office until Monday, December 2, 1907, inclusively, for the construction of an extension to Breakwater, the removal of portion of Landing Pier, the construction of a Pile and Concrete Revetment Wall, and a line of tongued and grooved Sheet Piling at the Town of Mumford, County of Grey, Province of Ontario, according to a plan and specification to be seen at the office of J. G. Sing, Esq., Resident Engineer, Confederation Life Building, Toronto, on Application to the Postmaster at Mumford, Ont., and at the Department of Public Works, Ottawa.

Tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed form supplied, and signed with the actual signatures of tenderers.

An accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honorable the Minister of Public Works, for four thousand dollars ($4,000.00), must accompany each tender. The cheque will be forfeited if the person tendering declines the contract or fail to complete the work contracted for, and will be returned in case of non-acceptance of tender.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

C.P.R.S.' COMPLAINT PUT CHILDREN ON LIST IN ORDERING THE CARS

Gross Abuses of Grain Act are Alleged by C.P.R.-- One Town Had 800 Applicants for Cars-- Farmers Resort to Tricks to Delay Cars

THE C.P.R.'S COMPLAINT.

Only 50 per cent. of the cars available for grain are loaded per day.

Some cars are held by farmers for six days before loaded.

Owing to delays 160 cars are needed where 100 would do two years ago.

So many bogus applications for cars are put in, a jury of innocent citizens could not be secured to try the guilty.

Farmers order cars before they are ready to load them and then throw in one bag in order to say that they have "started loading."

Some farmers have cars supplied to them ten or twelve different times before they are ready to load, and the railway has no redress.

Winnipeg, Nov. 19.—The practical working under the present conditions of the clauses of the Dominion Grain Act regulating the distribution of cars was frankly discussed yesterday by William Whyte, second vice-president of the C.P.R. Mr. Whyte claimed that abuses of the act were seriously hampering the railway in its efforts to move the crop expeditiously, and were, in reality, defeating the main purposes of the law.

"The great weakness of the Dominion Grain Act," said Mr. Whyte, "is that its framers had evidently been so strongly seized with the idea of protecting grain growers against the railway companies and elevator operators, that they evidently overlooked the rights of the latter to be protected against the abuse of privileges by grain growers.

USE OF AVAILABLE CARS.

"When it is pointed out that during the season of 1905 the Canadian Pacific was able to get 82 per cent. of cars available at grain stations loaded per day, that for the season of 1906 this had dropped to 63 per cent., and that this season we will average under 50 per cent., of available cars loaded per day, the evil effects of the act becomes apparent. In other words, it is evident from the above figures that it is taking this season 160 cars to get the same result that 100 accomplished two years ago. This downward tendency can be ascribed to no other cause than to the working of the act.

FICTITIOUS APPLICATIONS.

"Innumerable examples of the gross abuse of the act, or more properly speaking, of the workings of the act, for it provides no restrictions that will prevent these abuses, might be given. Two or three examples will serve to illustrate, however.

"At one town in Saskatchewan something over 800 applications had been made for cars. It was known by all that a large percentage of the names were fictitious. In fact, it was common talk that the order book contained the names of most of the school children in the district.

WHY NO PROSECUTIONS.

The agent in conformity with the grain act, was compelled to wade through this sea of names, getting the proportion of cars loaded, but in many cases placing cars uselessly, only to cancel the order after the car had been held the required length of time. Every such case, needless to say, costs the railway company money. The situation finally became so acute that the warehouse commissioner was asked to investigate the matter by one or two bona fide applicants. He did so, and many of the names which had been used to "pad" the order book were cancelled. No prosecutions followed, however, as the practice was so widespread it would have involved the whole community. In fact, it seemed to be the feeling that if the cases had to come before a jury at that point, there would not be found enough men themselves innocent of the practice to try the case."

THREW ONE SACK IN.

"At another point within the last few days a car was allotted and placed at the loading platform. The applicant on being advised in the usual way that the car had been placed for him, threw one sack of grain into the car, thus complying with that clause of the act which requires that an applicant must declare his intention and ability to load his car and must commence to load within 24 hours. The placing of the sack of grain in the car, the applicant claimed, was "commencing to load." The car was not completed until six days later. The above is a common practice, and many instances could be cited.

TWENTY-TWO CARS DELAYED.

"The grain-producing area west of Winnipeg is covered by four superintendents' districts. A check made within the last few days of one of these districts only showed that on one day's report a total of twenty-two cars had been delayed in loading from two to six days. When it is considered that the same thing is happening daily on each of the other four districts, the delay to the railway company's rolling stock from this source must be appreciated.

"Again, when the farmer has cut his crop," continued Mr. Whyte, "he figures that he will probably start to thresh at a certain date and he immediately goes to the railway station and puts down his name for a car for this date. He may not thresh for weeks. In the meantime, however, he will probably go to the railway station, find that the car has been allotted to him and, after being held for the required length of time, his application cancelled. He immediately puts down his name for another car. This performance may be legally repeated an indefinite number of times and the railway company has absolutely no redress. There are cases on record where one car has been thus placed and cancelled for different applications ten and twelve times.

Chief George I. Roszel After a Better Future Generation for Peterboro

Harriers Busy Over Their Great Meet

Everything Points Towards the Meet Being a Success

The date of the Harriers' [illegible] and in fact practically [illegible] from indoor athletic circles [illegible] been a matter, even possibly to themselves, of guess work. No matter what the date of the Harriers athletic competition it is beyond dispute assured of a large attendance. The Harriers have the confidence of the people and will keep faith in its entirety when their entertainment is pulled off.

Still, it might be mentioned, that it has practically been decided to hold the meeting on Tuesday evening, December 3rd. The matter was considered last night, when further arrangements for the big event were made. Owing to a matter of litigation it is impossible to secure the rink until after the first of December, and as it is desirable to have the meet as soon as possible, December 3rd will likely be the date select d.

One of the features of the meet will be a handicap race open to all runners in Peterborough. This should prove an exceedingly interesting event and would no doubt attract a big field of starters. The committee in charge are hard at work and will announce the program in a few days.

Dave Hartley Can Get Money Required

Local Merchant Says Mr. Stevens is Getting Out Hartley's Biography

Yesterday a local merchant told a Times representative that Mr. Geo. Stevens' representative [illegible] place of business in regard to a fund now trying to be raised for Dave Hartley the pedestrian, of whom this city is proud.

The merchant told The Times that his caller wanted him to take in a certain number of books or pamphlets descriptive of Hartley, giving pictures of Hartley's shoes worn during his great Peterborough-Toronto walk, the pants he wore, the collar both before and after the walk and other incidental portraits connected with Hartley's walk. How, whilst our informant may have been "in fun" to a certain extent, if there is any foundation in the getting up of a memorial or fund to help Hartley, there is no doubt but what every man with true sporting blood in him will help any fund to help out Peterborough's champion. Should Hartley enter the list against Reynolds there are many hundred of dollars of Peterborough money that will back his endeavor, if the production of good hard cash is necessary to get up such a match, why Dave won't find much trouble in raising it right here. Hope our starting this little article off with what was given to us as a joke.

A Number of Juveniles Guilty of Selling Stolen Copper

Justice for only by the investigations yesterday, when a number of boys were before his worship [illegible] were charged, and in some instances proved guilty of selling stolen copper or brass to a local junk dealer. Not by cases before and broadened common sense that more stringent legislation should be enacted and [illegible] whereto local junk dealers should be placed under far more [illegible] laws regarding their purchase of such goods. As the [illegible] now, junk dealers are practically teachers in a school of crime where [illegible] our boys are students taught to steal anything, not too big or too heavy to carry away. Our city fathers, apart from the protection they may want to give to owners of stealable stuff, should open their eyes to prevailing conditions and insist, through the leverage of strict bylaw, on the passage of such local legislation as will undoubtedly result in the permanent and [illegible] stoppage of the sale, and ergo the theft of goods now bought by the junkmen. While the junk dealers, who seem, by yesterday's police court evidence, to buy a ton of brass or copper they can get and obtain dispose on, there [illegible] apart from a higher principle or motive, a way of making them resist from buying stolen goods. At yesterday's police court, Chief Roszel's action was clearly visible to any intelligent man, Chief Roszel evidently wanted, not so much to convict them, as to get a ruling of law that would stand in the future and have a tendency to stop such sale or purchase of stolen goods. There is no doubt but what the chief's efforts will have the recommendation of the whole community and should he get his contention put into execution, result in the permanent and immediate stoppage of the petty larceny that has been in evidence in the past. Should such legislation be enacted as it should, and junk dealers be more limited in their purchases, more of our boys would be kept in the [illegible] and on row path of honesty and future good citizenship.

Japan and China Keep Up Dispute

Pekin, Nov. 20.—Although the temporary arrangement regarding the mail on the Imperial road is operative pending the proposed Russian, Japanese and Chinese conference intended to simplify the complicated postal situation existing in Manchuria, China's application two days ago of the [illegible] order forbidding the handling of Japanese mail on the Newchwang branch line has aroused the resentment of Japan and resulted in a postponement of the final settlement of the question until such time as the Japanese department of communication is disposed to consider new telegraph and postal conventions. It will probably be three months. The telegraph negotiations which have been going forward for a period of 18 months have made no headway, because Japan declares it will [illegible] the basis upon which China is negotiating, namely, that Manchuria is sovereign Chinese soil. Furthermore, Japan is maintaining telegraph lines in territory professedly ceded to China, and is granting special privileges to Japanese in violation of the policy of equal rights and [illegible] Open door." Japan also has exclusive control of the postal operations. It is apparent to-day that in view of the attitude taken by Japan, China is alarmed at her own action in excluding Japanese mail carriers from the Newchwang railway.

Mr. Geo. Stevens Selling Biography of Dave Hartley

Mr. George Stevens has returned from Toronto, and states that Dave Hartley is in fine shape for his match against Jimmy Reynolds on Saturday. He is staying at the Woodbine Hotel and will walk from 25 to 30 miles per day at the Mutual street rink in preparation for the contest. Mr. Stevens says Reynolds the Port Hope man in Toronto.

In connection with the match a souvenir program is being issued. It will contain a cut of the Peterborough walker, along with his record for the Oshawa, Toronto, Port Hope, Peterborough performance. The front page of the [illegible] will be devoted to advertising Peterborough. They will cost 25 cents each, and will be on sale Thursday, at the following places in the city, R. J. Soden's, F. C. Cobbett's, A. H. Stroud & Co.'s Times Bookstore, Review office, and Murphy's bookstore, Charlotte street.

The money derived from the sale of the programs will go towards a fund for Hartley. It is expected that $1,000 will easily be raised, and it is intended to buy a house and lot for the walking wonder.

NEW FOUR STOREY ADDITION WITH FRONT ON GEORGE STREET

Mr. Kinleyside Talks with a Times Representative Regarding Contemplated New Addition to the National Hotel

Yesterday morning a Times representative had a talk with Mr. W. Young Kinleyside, general manager of the North American Investment Company of Toronto, who was in the city yesterday, accompanied by Mr. A. F. Saunders, of the firm of Stroud & Saunders, architects, Toronto. Mr. Saunders is making plans and estimates for the extension of the new addition to the Hotel National, and it is expected these will be completed in a short time, when tenders for the execution of the plans will be called for.

In conversation with Mr. Kinleyside the latter gentleman, who is a most affable and pleasant speaker, with a clean shaven face, and whilst said to be of Scotch parentage carries about with him a broad English accent, told The Times man that it was absolutely assured that his company have secured an option on the property to the south of the Customs House, and will at once proceed to erect a four-story building, in connection with the present National Hotel, but facing on George street.

Campbell-Bannerman May Retire--Strength Has Been Overtaxed

London, Nov. 19.—Sir Thomas Barlow, physician to King Edward's household, made a lengthy examination of the premier, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, at Downing street, today, and an official announcement was subsequently issued to the effect that the patient's condition was satisfactory, but that, in view of the approaching session of parliament, it is necessary that he should have some weeks' complete rest and change. The premier, therefore, is going abroad almost immediately. He has not been the same man since his wife died last year, and his recent acute attack of heart trouble at Bristol was a signal that his political activities have overtaxed his strength.

It would be no surprise to the friends of the premier, who is 71 years of age, if much of his parliamentary work during the coming session is delegated to his colleagues in the cabinet, and the rumors of his possible retirement next year from the leadership of the Liberal party are revived, as, in view of his onslaught on the House of Lords, it is not thought likely that he will care to accept a peerage and continue in the leadership amid the less strenuous surroundings prevailing in the hereditary House of parliament.

The Eastern Ontario Farmers are Shipping All Their Stock

Toronto, Nov. 20.—"The farmers in the counties of Eastern Ontario from Belleville to Brockville have been compelled to sell fifty per cent. of their stock because of the scarcity of feed," said Mr. W. J. Paul, M.P.P., Tamworth, who arrived at the Palmer House last night.

"From Tamworth station 2,000 cattle have been shipped this fall, and from the next station six miles away 3,000 head have been shipped. Hay is selling for $22 and $23 per ton, and the farmers cannot afford to pay that price in order to winter their stock."

Langford, the Oshawa Walker, Making Fast Time in Early Stage

Oshawa, Nov 19.—David Langford started from the Commercial Hotel here this morning at eight o'clock to walk from Oshawa to Toronto, thence to Port Hope and back to Oshawa. This is the same trip made famous by Jimmy Reynolds he accompanied by Dieter Stephenson, his trainer, and Jas. Reed, driving a horse and buggy. He is in good condition and expects to make the 136 miles in 35 hours. He should reach Toronto about 3.30 p.m. today and arrive back at Oshawa at 12.30 tonight. He was given a good send-off by the citizens.

Langford is making the walk simply to try and secure the record, and not on a bet or for any purse. He is paying all his own expenses, which for the trip will be at least $50. He expects to sail for England in about a week.

MADE A GOOD START.

Whitby, Nov. 19.—D. Langford, the Renfrew young man who is trying to do the 136 mile walk from Oshawa to Toronto to Port Hope and back to Oshawa, started at Oshawa this morning at eight o'clock. He reached Whitby in 45 minutes. He was attired in green sweater, white duck knickerbockers, strong boots, and light cap. He had a pail on while passing through the town that would keep most fellows running. His pacer, however, led him by a step or two. The young man is slight of build, but does not walk with the straight-knees of step that one would look for in a long distance pedestrian.

WAS 45 MINUTES AHEAD.

Pickering, Nov. 19.—Langford passed through here at ten o'clock. He was in good shape and footing it well. He was 45 minutes ahead of his schedule.

19 MILES IN FOUR HOURS.

Highland Creek, Nov. 19.—Langford passed here at 11.45 today. He has about fifteen miles to go before reaching Toronto. He has gone about 19 miles in less than four hours.

POLICE

It seems that with a limited number of small boys in the city, and said boys encouraged to deeds, not of daring but destruction of futures by buyers of junk, the boys, or rather their fathers have a hard proposition to overcome in making the boys keep within the narrow paths of decency, honor and good citizenship.

Yesterday nine boys, ranging in age from nine to sixteen years, were arraigned before the magistrate in police court.

Some of the offenders were charged with having on Sunday last, stolen a quantity of brass, the property of the C.L.E. Company. They elected to be tried by the magistrate and pleaded guilty. "This is a serious offence," said his worship. "A manufacturing company being robbed by boys that the lads might satisfy their taste for cigarettes, cheap shows and sweets. These boys should have been at Sunday school, and this punishment shall not be treated as a joke. A fine of $40 will have to be paid before they go, or, in default of payment, 20 days in jail.

In view of the fact that one of the boys' mother was a widow, His worship reduced the fine to twenty dollars. The fine, $5 each, was paid, and the lads were allowed to go.

Three other boys were charged with stealing copper wire, while another trio faced a charge of the theft of three brass lugs from the Canadian Machine Telephone Co.

Both cases were enlarged until the afternoon at four o'clock.

During the afternoon session Mr. Doig denied that he had bought a certain piece of brass on Sunday last. One piece produced in court, Mr. Doig admitted buying on Sunday morning. He bought another piece of brass on Saturday night from some party unknown. The boys said they found the copper produced in court, between the street car tracks. He did not buy the copper on Sunday.

P. C. Newhall said that, from complaints made he went round the local junk shops. He went to Mr. Doig's and asked for a copper coupling as per sample in court. Mr. Doig at first said, "I have not got them." Witness said, "Yes, you have and I'm going to search." Doig upset a bag and in it were found two couplings sought. Doig explained their presence by saying, "I don't know the boy's name who brought them here. He came before I was out of bed and weighed them. I told him my price and paid him five cents" in reply to a question as to where he got the other coupling, Doig said he did not know, nor did he know from whom he purchased the goods. Witness got a hat of all here who were in Doig's place Sunday. Witness saw other brass at Doig's, and asked its history.

Here one of the boys charged, went into the box and identified a single piece of the copper castings in court and said a friend of his had picked same up on the street car tracks. They went to Doig's and sold it for five cents.

Still another of the boys went into the box and identified the piece recognized by former witness. They sold the goods to Doig. He denied seeing the other castings produced.

His worship said that the evidence was contradictory, so he would discharge the case.

Then another young boy, about 14 years of age, was asked as to his share in the stealing of the copper wire. The boy, who is intelligent passed a good examination.

Still another boy came on to the witness stand, and after acknowledging stealing certain copper wire, said he and his pals got the line for their sport from Doig. He and his pals went to get hickory nuts, but on the way home jumped the fence and stole the brass. Doig asked no questions as to where or from whom they got their copper. Doig gave them five cents a pound for it.

Then a small boy that might [illegible] was put upon the stand. If the cat were large enough, gave evidence as to the theft of the copper. He put a bag under his coat and went to the Carbon works [illegible] his pals carried the swag. He got 15 cents out of the sale to Doig, the whole sale amounting to $1.25. Doig asked no questions as to how or where they got the goods.

Again another small boy went before the bar and said he got 25 cents out of the sale of the brass stolen from the Carbon works.

P. C. Newhall then went into the witness box and said he had asked Doig about the brass. Doig had told

David Hartley's Career in the Athletic World

Peterboro Walker was at One Time an Expert Cricketer

Toronto, Nov. 19.—David Hartley, the Peterborough walker, who is to meet Jimmy Reynolds, the Port Hope barber, at Mutual street rink on Saturday in a 12 hours' walking match, heel and toe, arrived in Toronto yesterday, and went immediately to the Woodbine, where he has secured training quarters. He went for a five-mile walk on the track during the afternoon. He will walk from 20 to 30 miles daily, morning and afternoon, until the day of the race. A big crowd will come up from Peterborough to see the match.

Jimmy Reynolds, Hartley's opponent, was in the city on business yesterday. He went back last night, but will return early Thursday morning. He says Port Hope will be well represented at the match, as an excursion will be run to accommodate those who wish to see the contest.

Hartley's athletic career, as told by himself, will be interesting:

"I was born in the town of Peterborough fifty-four years ago, where I have always lived, with the exception of a few years. From a child I have always engaged in athletic sports. I was called an one time an expert cricketer. My first experience in walking before the public, was some twenty-six years ago. It was a three days' contest at twelve hours per day, with some ten other entries. There were three to finish. I finished second, a half a mile behind the first man. I was in good condition, and gained three miles the last days.

"My second contest was a month later with Pleward of Lindsay. I was fifteen miles ahead of him the second day, beating my former time by some miles. The following year I engaged in several running contests, and then I retired from the sporting world.

"My next contest after the course of years was on Civic holiday last, against time, a distance of 24 miles. I was to go from Peterborough to Bridgeburg, which feat I accomplished in 5 hours, 48 minutes.

"My next ambition was to beat the record of Mr. Reynolds. I was unable to obtain enough backing, but succeeded at last by most strenuous efforts, and brought before the country my staying powers and ability. I left a mile west of Oshawa at six o'clock in the morning, which walk I suppose everybody knows of. I finished the last 32 miles in nine hours, making my last mile before reaching Peterborough in ten minutes. I finished strong, and in good condition, and was working at my trade two days later."

His Wife and Child Burned in the Bush

Toronto, Nov. 19.—Seized with a fit of melancholia yesterday afternoon, George Lewis, a man of about 45 years of age, attempted to commit suicide in his room at 43 Ann street. About three weeks ago Lewis came to the house at the recommendation of the Y.M.C.A., and engaged a room by the week, and arranged for supper every Sunday evening. Yesterday the son of the landlady went to call him to supper, and noticed a strong smell of gas. Receiving no response to his knock, the son went to a front room and asked two men, who knew Lewis, to break in the door. On entering they found him in bed and unconscious, with the gas turned full on. They also found a morphine syringe on the dresser. The ambulance was immediately summoned and the unconscious man removed to St. Michael's hospital. His condition is still serious.

Lewis told the landlady that he was a messenger employed by a financial house down town. He two friends in the front room state that he was not quite right in the head, and that on two occasions he attempted suicide by cutting an artery in his arm and once by taking gas. His wife and daughter were burned to death in a bush fire in Australia, and it was this sad intelligence which brought on this fit of despondency. He will be placed under arrest when he recovers.

Could Not Save Drowning Boy

London, Ont., Nov. 19.—With two hundred people watching his efforts to [illegible] on the thin, breaking ice, eight-year-old Arch. Blackwell, son of Richard Blackwell, [illegible] street, was drowned at noon yesterday. With some companions he was playing on the river bank at the foot of Clarence street, and in venturing out some distance from shore the thin ice suddenly gave way and he was struggling in the icy waters. A nearby resident, seeing the accident, ran with a clothes line and others brought ladders. The line finally came to the scene and in a few minutes [illegible] efforts were made to save the boy. Nothing seemed to be able to reach him, and finally he sank, just as a fireman neared him in a boat. The fireman was able to grab him and haul him into the boat. Doctors worked over the child, but life was extinct within a few minutes after he was brought out. His parents were among the crowd on the bank who watched the efforts at rescue.

SICK WOMEN MADE WELL

Thousands Find the Way Back to Health Through Ferrozone.

No word for so many sick girls and women.

Their ills are curable if they give them proper treatment.

Nutrition must be supplied, blood must be enriched, nerves strengthened, and additional power given to digestion.

Ferrozone does this and more; it cures such cases as Mrs. N. E. Peabody of Trenton. She was a wreck,—never thought medicine was made that could restore her, yet Ferrozone was successful.

Among her troubles were;

Headaches, Weariness,
Nervousness, Weakness,
Palpitation, Loss of flesh,
Dizzy spells. Poor appetite,

HER STATEMENT.

"I was stricken with nervous disease of the heart and stomach. Violent headaches made life a torture. I was so nervous and weak I could scarcely walk. Work was impossible. I couldn't eat or digest anything. When completely wrecked Ferrozone cured me. Today I am vigorous and strong and well."

If you lack power of either mind or body it's an evidence you need Ferrozone.

If you have nervous spells, feeling of weakness in the limbs, tiredness in the morning, you are sure of cure with Ferrozone.

Think of it, Ferrozone gives back the energy of youth, restores vital stamina and creates a surplus of vigor simply because it supplies the concentrated nourishment your system needs. 50 cents a box or six for $2.50 at dealers.

PETERBOROUGH, NOVEMBER 16, 1897

A FLAG INCIDENT

The other day in Seattle a lady telephoned to the Chief of Police asking if he would not order her neighbor to pull down the Union Jack, which was flying on his premises. The Chief replied that he had no authority to do so. Then she wanted to know if she could not compel him to put the United States flag above the other, and once more the Chief replied that he could not. A few minutes later a man called at the residence of the offender and entered a protest on behalf of the lady, and the latter thereupon, being a man of peace, took down the objectionable piece of bunting. The matter is not important in itself. It is simply another instance of the ringwise narrowmindedness, which prevails in the United States; but there is a lesson in it for Canadians. The people of this country are very much given to flying the United States flag for decorative purposes, and sometimes out of compliment to visitors. No Canadian cares anything about it, or rather none would care, if there was a little reciprocity, but when they know, as many of them are beginning to understand, that what is meant as a compliment, or has really no meaning at all, is understood by people from the United States to be prompted by desire to acknowledge the surpassing greatness of that country, they do not like to see the Stars and Stripes flying in this country under any circumstances whatever except officially. No Canadian objects to the hoisting of the United States flag by the United States consul. In fact, if he should omit to display it, there would be a feeling of surprise. But there is a difference between the people of the two countries much the same as that between the man who knows that he is respectable and one who is not quite sure about it.

A tickling cough, from any cause, is quickly stopped by Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. And it is so thoroughly harmless and safe, that Dr. Shoop tells mothers everywhere to give it without hesitation, even a very young babe. The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a lung healing mountainous shrub furnish the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough, and heals the sore and sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. Simply a resinous plant extract, that helps to heal aching lungs. The Spaniards call this shrub which the doctor uses, "The Sacred Herb." Demand Dr. Shoop's. Take no other. All dealers.

BABY BY PARCEL POST.

Novel Ruse Played by Parents of Child They Abandoned.

One of the most striking ruses of recent years for the abandonment of a baby has been successfully carried out in London.

The story of how the infant, a daintily clad baby girl, was left to the tender mercies of the world is a dramatic one. The ruse was carried out at a comparatively late hour at night by a well dressed man and woman.

They succeeded in getting a post-office messenger to take the baby as an "express message" for immediate delivery. It was a clever trick cleverly effected.

A well-dressed man, it appears, entered the West Strand postoffice in the evening, wrote a hurried note on a telegram form, and placed it in an envelope.

Turning to the counter, he requested the clerk to send the message by express messenger to the matron in charge of the Lying-in Hospital, City road. Having paid the necessary fee, the well-dressed man made a hasty exit.

Gets His "Package."

The special message was handed to a commissionaire. As he left the post-office the author of the important dispatch accosted him "Are you taking that special message to the City road hospital?"

"Yes," answered the unsuspecting official "Well, I have a cab here, explained the excited customer. And, in spite of half-hearted attempts on the part of the messenger to explain that he had been given 4d for omnibus fares, he was inveigled into a cab.

Then, to his astonishment, a baby was thrust into his arms.

"This is the parcel," said the mysterious stranger. Although he did not quite understand, the commissionaire felt that everything must be in order. He had seen his employer in conversation with the postoffice clerk. He knew that he had to go to the City road.

Above all he was conscious of the fact that he was in a cab with a letter and a parcel to deliver. Though the parcel had developed into a singularly active baby, the commissionaire—accustomed to daily surprises in the ordinary routine of his business—proceeded on his mission.

The "gentleman" saluted the infant in perfunctory manner, and the lady who had handed the bundle of babyhood to the messenger, parted with it in a storm of passionate kissing. And the cab drove off.

Sent the Baby Back.

The note, written on a telegraph form, which accompanied the child and the commissionaire to the City Road Lying-in hospital read

"Please take in baby until to-morrow. Am writing."

It was addressed to the matron. Naturally the City road hospital authorities were astounded to receive such a message and such a charge. After consultation among the head officials the baby was refused, and the commissionaire advised to take it back to the place whence it came.

So back the unfortunate man went to the Strand postoffice. The commissionaire had to pioneer his little charge to Bow street, and from this centre of wisdom the baby derelict was forwarded in the arms of a nurse to the Strand workhouse. And there, foredoomed apparently to eternal charity, this 6 weeks old girl remains.

The foundling is a girl. A pretty little baby, about 6 weeks old, with dark gray eyes and quite a lot of dark brown hair.

She arrived at the workhouse clothed in a long nightgown, hand worked with silk, and wore silken shoes. A petticoat of thick wool and a pink and white shawl formed other important details of her outfit.

Her Queen's Letter.

In a secluded part of the Kurachi district in Scinde lives an old woman who is the envy of all her neighbours, the cause being that she is the possessor of a letter written by the late Queen Victoria.

A quarter of a century ago she came to England bent upon presenting a petition to the Queen. When she reached Buckingham Palace the Queen was preparing for a drive. The woman expressed her desire to see Her Majesty, and explained that she had come from India.

Permission was granted for her to present the petition, and the Queen then wrote a few words on notepaper bearing the Royal watermark, to the effect that she had seen the Indian beggar, who was an interesting personage.

When she arrived back at Scinde the woman showed the Queen's letter to the local authorities, who presented her with a piece of land, which she has cultivated very diligently.

She has more intelligence than the average village woman, and in spite of her seventy years she still rides a pony.

Ghost Wore Plug Hat.

A new ghost story is told by Lloyds Weekly, of London.

A party of Norwood machine minders, going home in the early hours of Saturday morning, were suddenly scared by a ghostly figure racing past them to the railway station.

The apparition was clothed only in a white nightshirt and a silk hat, and under its arm carried a book and a folded newspapers. One of the workmen tried to stop the seeming phantom, but it was too quick for him. As it reached the railway station the figure stopped suddenly. When the machine minders came up they found an awakened and much distressed somnambulist, who turned and ran for home while they unsympathetically laughed.

Antique.

Says a dealer in antiquities: "I had a fat woman in here the other day. Well, sir, she was a caution. She would have the antique all through her house, sir, nothing but the antique for her house decoration. Why, sir, judging by what that fat woman said and bought in this shop, I should judge she was heartbroken, sir, that she couldn't get the shades of her ancestors for her parlor windows."

Science and Cancer.

The results of the long and thorough research into the nature of cancer conducted at the Pasteur Institute in Paris are all, except as showing that the disease is neither contagious nor hereditary and that it can be combated only by a surgical operation. It means obvious that nearly everything yet remains to be learned about cancer.—Boston Globe.

Depository ..... JOHN S. COOK & CO.
Bank of Goldfield, Nevada.

This company owns 4 claim (80acres) of some of the best proven mineral land in the Goldfield district, consisting of the Accidental and Accidental No. 2 lode claims, situated two and one-half miles south of the great Goldfield Consolidated Mines (comprising the Mohawk, Goldfield, Combination, Red Top, Jumbo and Laguna) the richest in the world; and the Broadway and Beauty lode claims situated three and one-half miles north of the Consolidated and about one and one-half miles northwest of the Great Bend and Daisy Mines near the Zion group in the Diamondfield section second only in richness to the great Mohawk portion of the camp. Phenomenally rich strikes have recently been made out he Consolidated, the Great Bend and the Daisy Mines.

The company has also succeeded in securing the Sure Thing lode claim (20 acres) in the Cuprite district, which has an immense gold bearing ledge, running the entire length of the claim 1,500 feet, outcropping in places over 20 feet wide, and met by several cross dykes all carrying fine values in gold, and is without doubt rightly named "Sure Thing."

All of these claims are located in the same mineral belt as the other noted mines of Goldfield that have astonished the world by their production of millions in high grade ore, and will with the same development give equally profitable returns.

The money derived from the sale of this stock will be used at once for the active development of the property and the fact that all the directors are residents of Goldfield with years of successful mining experience who will give their personal attention at all times to the progress of the work goes to show that the first issue of 100,000 shares will meet with a quick and ready sale at the initial price of 10 cents per share.

We advise immediate action if you wish to participate in the vast profits of this Bonanza Mine.

Stock will be listed as soon as feasible on the Goldfield and San Francisco Stock and Exchange Boards. Would therefore advise purchasers to buy in board lots of 1,000 shares when convenient to do so.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader lives permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother).

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

(6) Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

N.B.—Unauthorized publication of this advertisement will not be paid for.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Mainard Harbor Works," will be received at this office until Monday, December 2, 1907, inclusively, for the construction of an extension to Breakwater, the removal of portion of Landing Pier, the construction of a Pile and Concrete Revetment Wall, and a line of tongued and grooved Sheet Piling at the Town of Meaford, County of Grey, Province of Ontario, according to a plan and specification to be seen at the office of J. G. Sing, Esq., Resident Engineer, Confederation Life Building, Toronto, on application to the Postmaster at Meaford, Ont., and at the Department of Public Works, Ottawa.

Tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed form supplied, and signed with the actual signatures of tenderers.

An accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, for four thousand dollars ($4,000.00), must accompany each tender. The cheque will be forfeited if the person tendering decline the contract or fail to complete the work contracted for, and will be returned in case of non-acceptance of tender.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
FRED. GELINAS,
Secretary.

Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, Nov. 2, 1907.

Newspapers will not be paid for this advertisement if they insert it without authority from the Department.

TENDERS FOR PULPWOOD CONCESSIONS

Tenders will be received by the undersigned up to and including the 16th of December next for the right to cut pulpwood on certain areas tributary to the Nepigon river, in the district of Thunder Bay, and Rainy Lake, in the district of Rainy River, and make the same into paper. Tenderers should state the amount they are prepared to pay as bonus in addition to such dues as may from time to time be fixed for the right to operate a paper making industry on the areas referred to. Separate tenders must be made for each area or territory, and the successful tenderers will be required to erect a mill or mills on each of the territories or in such other localities as may be approved by the Government of Ontario.

Parties tendering for the pulpwood rights shall accompany their tenders with a marked cheque for 25 per cent of the amount tendered, payable to the Treasurer of Ontario, and to be forfeited in the event of their failing to enter into agreements to carry out conditions, etc.

With respect to the Rainy Lake Pulp Concession, tenderers will be required to make a tender for the right to cut the pine, tamarac and cedar on the territory offered. Parties making tender for these timbers to state the amount they are prepared to pay per thousand feet B.M. as bonus in addition to Crown dues of $2.00 per thousand feet B.M. A marked cheque for $1,000.00 payable to the Treasurer of Ontario must accompany the tender for pine timber, and is to be forfeited in the event of their failing to enter into agreements to carry out conditions, etc.

No timber shall be cut on either of the concessions of a less diameter than nine inches, two feet from the ground.

The successful tenderers to enter into agreements with the Government for the erection of the mills, expenditure of money, etc.

For full particulars as to the terms, Plans, etc., application should be made to the undersigned.

AIKENSIDE

BY MARY J. HOLMES

Author of "Dora Deane," "The English Orphans," "Lena Rivers," "The Rector of St. Mark's," "Tempest and Sunshine," Etc.

All this, and much more, Guy thought, as with Maddy's note in his hand he walked up and down the sitting-room, raging like a young lion, and threatening vengeance upon everybody. This was not the first intimation Guy had received of the people's gossip, for only that morning Mrs. Noah had hinted that his course was not at all calculated to do Maddy any good, while Agnes had repeated to him some things which she had heard touching the frequency of his visits to Honesdale; but these were nothing to the calmly worded message which banished him effectually from Maddy's presence. He knew Maddy, and he knew she meant what she wrote, but he could not have it so. He must see her; he would see her; and so for the next half-hour Flora was the bearer of written messages to and from Maddy's room; messages of earnest entreaty on the one hand, and of firm denial on the other. At last Maddy wrote:

"If you care for me in the least, or for my respect, leave me, and do not come again until I send for you. I am not insensible to your kindness. I feel it all; but the world is nearer right than you suppose. It does not look well for you to come here so much, and I prefer that you should not. Justice to Lucy requires that you stay away."

That exiled it. That roused up Guy's pride, and writing back:

"You shall be obeyed. Good-by," he sprang into his buggy, and Maddy, listening, with head and heart throbbing alike, heard him as he drove furiously away.

These were long, dreary days which followed, and but for her grandfather's increasing feebleness Maddy would almost have died. Anxiety for him, however, kept her from dwelling too much upon herself, but the excitement and the care wore upon her sadly, robbing her eye of its luster and her cheek of its remaining bloom, making even Mrs. Noah cry when she came one day with Jessie to see how they were getting on. She had heard from Guy of his banishment, and now that he stayed away, she was ready to step in; so she came, laden with sympathy and more substantial comforts from the Aikenside larder.

Maddy was glad to see her, and for a time cried softly on her bosom, while Mrs. Noah's tears kept company with hers. Not a word was said of Guy, except when Jessie told her he was in Boston, and it was stupid at home without him.

With more than her ordinary discretion, Flora kept to herself what had passed when Guy was last there, so Mrs. Noah knew nothing except what he had told her, and what she read in Maddy's white suffering face. This last was enough to excite all her pity, and she treated the young girl with the most motherly kindness, staying all night, and herself taking care of grandpa, who was now too ill to sit up. There seemed to be no disease preying upon him, nothing save old age, and the loss of one who for more than forty years had shared all his joy and sorrow. He could not live without her, and one night, three weeks after Guy's dismissal, he said to Maddy, as she was about to leave him:

"Sit with me, darling, for a little while, if you are not too tired. Your grandmother seems near me to-night, and so does Alice, your mother. Maybe I'll be with them before another day. I hope I may if God is willing, and there's much I would say to you."

He was very pale, and the great sweat drops stood on his forehead and under his white hair, but Maddy wiped them away and listened with a breaking heart while the aged disciple almost home told her of the peace, the joy, that shone around his pathway to the tomb, and of the everlasting arm bearing him so gently over Jordan. Then he talked of herself, blessing her for all she had been to him, telling her how happy she had made his life since she came home to stay, and how for a time he had ached so with fear lest she should choose to go back and leave him to a stranger. "But my darling stayed with her old grandpa. She'll never be sorry for it, never. I've tried you sometimes, I know, for old folks ain't like young; but I'm sorry, Maddy, and you'll forget it when I'm gone, darling Maddy, precious child"; and the trembling hand rested caressingly on her bowed head as grandpa went on to speak of his affairs, his little property which was hers after the mortgage to Mr. Guy was paid. "I've kept up the interest," he said, "but I could never get him to take any of the principal. I don't know why he is so good to me. Tell him, Maddy, how I thanked and blessed him just before I died; tell him how I used to pray for him every day that he might choose the better part. And he will—I'm sure he will, some day. He hasn't been here of late, and though my old eyes are dim, I can see that your step has got slow, and your face whiter by many shades, since he stayed away. Maddy, child, the dead tell no secrets, and I shall soon be dead. Tell me, then, what it is between you two. Does my girl love Mr. Guy?"

"Oh, grandpa! grandpa!" Maddy moaned, laying her head beside his own on the pillow.

It would be a relief to talk with someone of that terrible pain, which grew worse every day; of that intense longing just for one sight of the beloved one; of Guy, still absent from Aikenside, wandering nobody knew where; and so Maddy told the whole story, while the dying man listened to her, and smoothing her silken hair, tried to comfort her.

"The worst is not over yet," he said. "Guy will offer to make you his wife, sacrificing Lucy for you, and if he does, what will you do?"

Maddy's heart leaped up into her throat and for a moment prevented her from answering, for the thought of Guy's really offering to make her his wife, to shield her from evil, to enfold her in his tender love, made her giddy with joy. But it could not be; she answered through her tears:

"I shall tell him no."

"God bless my Maddy! She will tell him right at last," the old man whispered, his voice growing very faint and tremulous. "She will tell him no," he kept repeating, until, rousing up to greater consciousness, he spoke of Uncle Joseph, and asked what Maddy would do with him, would she send him back to the asylum, or care for him there? "He will be happier here," he said, "but it is asking too much of a young girl like you. He may live for years."

"I do not know, grandpa. I hope I may do right. I think I shall keep Uncle Joseph with me." Maddy replied, a shudder creeping over her as she thought of living out all her youth and possibly middle age with a lunatic.

But her grandfather's whispered blessings brought comfort with them, and a calm quiet fell upon her as she sat there listening to the words of prayer, and catching now and then her own name and that of Guy's.

"I am drowsy, Maddy. Watch while I sleep. Perhaps I'll never wake again," grandpa said, and clasping Maddy's hands he fell away to sleep, while Maddy kept her watch beside him, herself falling into a troubled sleep, from which she was aroused by a clammy hand pressing on her forehead, and Uncle Joseph's voice, which said: "Wake, my child. There's been a guest here while you slumbered," and he pointed to the rigid features of the newly dead.

CHAPTER XX.

Of the days which followed, Maddy had no distinct consciousness. She only knew that other hands than hers cared for the dead, that in the little parlor a stiff, white figure lay, that neighboring women stole in, treading on tiptoe, and speaking in hushed voices as they consulted, not her, but Mrs. Noah, who had come at once, and cared for her and hers so kindly. That she lay all day in her own room, where the summer breeze blew softly through the window, bringing the perfume of summer flowers, the sound of a tolling bell, of grinding wheel, the

When the Stomach, Heart, or Kidney nerves get weak, then these organs fail. Don't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That is simply a makeshift. Get a prescription known to Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. The Restorative is prepared expressly for these weak inside nerves. Strengthen these nerves, build them up with Dr. Shoop's Restorative—tablets or liquid—and see how quickly help will come. Free sample tests sent on request by Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. Your health is surely worth this simple test.

CIRCUS RIDERS.

They Earn Good Salaries, but Their Careers Are Short.

A man horseback rider receives from $75 to $125 a week, and his career as a principal rider lasts about ten years. It is short not so much because these men get stiff and lose their agility as because they lose their nerve. Nearly all circus folk marry young, and with their added responsibilities comes a lively sense of danger which they ignored in younger days. A man rider who cannot turn a somersault on a horse cannot command more than $50 a week. A woman rider who can perform this feat gets from $130 to $200 a week if she is a finished rider.

This isn't much when all the disadvantages of the calling are taken into consideration, but it should be remembered that all the expenses are paid, including the care, feeding and of course the transportation of their horses. All they have to provide is their own clothing. For the men riders clothes do not constitute much of a factor, and the women nearly always make their own, except those provided by the management.

French Rags High Priced.

A collector of rags offered the manager of a large boarding house a certain price for a bag of wornout linen.

"These rags are worth more than that," said the shrewd landlord. "I run several houses in this neighborhood, and all are occupied exclusively by French guests."

The dealer apparently considered that remark sufficiently explanatory. He cast a hasty glance upon the contents of the bag, then raised the price.

"And he could well afford to raise it, too," said the landlord. "Even at that rate he will make money off the things. French rags the world over bring a higher price than any other. The reason why? French people wear a better quality of linen and their castoff garments are in demand by all manufacturers of high grade paper."

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Positively, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in fact, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. This otherwise nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more control'ng, more governing strength. Without that the Heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have to keep company, suffering.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing Hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this peculiar prescription—is alone directed to these weak and wasting nerve centers. It builds; it strengthens; it starts real, genuine heart help.

If you have symptoms of Hearts, Stomach, Kidneys, strengthen those nerves—re-establish them as needed, with

ANTIGUA GOLD-COPPER Co.

Offers the Biggest and Most Attractive Mining Investment Now Before the Public.

ITS HOLDINGS ARE MINES--NOT PROSPECTS

With Vast Bodies of Ore Ready for the Mill, Now Nearing Completion.

THOMAS W. LAWSON
"Copper stocks offer the biggest opportunity for money making in the world to-day. A good copper mine is really a safe-deposit vault of stored up dividends which cannot be stolen or destroyed by fire, flood or famine."

CECIL RHODES
said: "Mining offers greater inducements than any other business in the world to make quick and great wealth."

CHARLES M. SCHWAB
says: "The big fortunes of the next twenty-five years will come from Mother Earth." Among all mining investments none stand ahead of copper for safety, permanency and profit.

Lay the Foundation for Your Fortune Today

THE ANTIGUA PROPERTIES

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company holdings consist of 551 acres, situated in Honduras, Central America, 100 miles southeast from Puerto Cortez, and midway between New Orleans and Panama. Development work is being pushed with all possible speed, and more than 1,500 feet of tunneling and shaft work has been completed. A 40 to 50-ton capacity gold-silver mill is in course of construction, and will be in operation before the close of the year.

Development work has conclusively proven that every acre of our holdings are rich in gold, copper and silver, and that every ton of this great ore body will yield a handsome profit on milling expense. The ore exposed on the surface does not require mining in the usual sense of the term, but may be obtained by quarrying. It can, according to estimates of experts, be quarried and treated for the gold and silver on an extensive scale at a cost of less than $1.00 a ton. Think of it! A solid mountain of rich ore, from the very grass roots of which may be washed gold.

Beyond a doubt Honduras has beneath her soil larger, richer deposits of copper, gold and silver than any other section of the American continent. Spain, during her sovereignty in that country, took out more than $300,000,000 in gold alone—and she scarcely scraped the Earth's surface. There is evidence that the pre-historic races knew how to mine and utilize copper—smelting it in their crude way.

The original incorporators of the Antigua Gold-Copper Company spent thousands of dollars of their own money in bringing this property to its present stage of development. They opened up the mine on every side with tunnels, crosscuts and shafts. They purchased machinery and began the erection of a gold-silver mill—now nearing completion. These men appreciated from the first that this mine was destined to become one of the greatest copper-gold-silver properties in America; and that it justified more extensive and more rapid development than they were able to make without the co-operation and financial assistance of the public.

The average assay values of Antigua ores, ranging from the surface to a depth of 200 feet, is over 5 per cent copper. This is above the average of the ore of the world's greatest producers, the famous Anaconda yielding ore which averages only a little over 3 per cent. The Anaconda has little other ore value, while our property, in addition to the copper, carries $2.00 to $1,400 a ton in gold and silver.

WHY STOCK IS SOLD

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company finds itself in precisely the same position as the farmer who has a larger farm than he can cultivate with the capital in hand. He knows that with additional capital and assistance he could make the land yield abundant crops and enormous profits. In the same way we intend, by the investment of additional capital, to bring our enormous ore bodies to a highly profitable state of development at the earliest possible moment. For this reason a limited amount of treasury stock is offered the public. In this way funds will be available for immediate use in purchasing additional machinery and for continuing vigorous development of the property.

THERE ARE NO PREFERRED SHARES AND NO BONDS TO COME FIRST IN THE DIVISION OF PROFITS.

and your shares will earn as much per share as the like number of shares owned by any other stockholder in the company. Each share CARRIES WITH IT THE RIGHT TO VOTE, so that with a single share you have every right, privilege and protection possessed by any other stockholder.

Stock is now being sold at $2.50 a share, and this stock, we firmly believe, will, within a year, be selling at its par value of $5.00 a share, or higher; nor will it stop there. If you are desirous of permanently increasing your income, of making an investment that is not only secure, but immensely profitable, reserve shares TO-DAY.

Such an investment opportunity can scarcely be repeated. It is made possible only by extraordinary natural conditions. Millions of dollars of copper, gold and silver will be marketed from the mines—fortunes will be reaped as a result of the prompt seizure of the opportunity we offer you to-day.

REPORT OF AN EXPERT

Much weight can justly be given the statement of a properly qualified and reliable mining engineer. Such is the character of T. M. Foster, from whose report on Antigua we make the following extracts:

"From the development work done and the indications shown by the croppings, I am convinced this is one of the largest gold-copper deposits in existence, and under proper development will make one of the richest mining properties in America. * * * I consider this ore an ideal smelting proposition, there being an abundance of iron, lime and silica in close proximity. There is plenty of water for power and milling purposes, and an abundance of timber on the property. * * *

"A large amount of development work has been done on this property in tunnels, drifts and shafts, ranging from 20 to possibly 200 feet in length. * * * This work has all been in ore—in fact, the ore body on the surface is shown to be fully one-half mile wide by two miles in length. To judge from the development work done, this property is all ore—no matter where work was started, ore was encountered.

"The company is erecting a mill, consisting of one five-stamp and three Huntingtons, to work the surface ore. This surface ore is mostly free milling, the copper and galena sulphides being oxidized, freeing the gold, and being readily amalgamated. But I am confident that at no very great depth copper sulphides will be encountered, as there are many places in this great ore body where the sulphides crop to the surface. I have taken a dozen samples from various places on the lead, and from these made free gold tests, finding an average of over $6.00 a ton in FREE gold, and from 5 to 25 per cent copper. Native copper is frequently seen in this ore. If the Antigua mines continue in depth as on the surface, a 1,000 ton smelter will not work it out in 100 years. * * *

"With good management and proper development, it will be but a short time until the stock of the company will be worth more than par. I fully believe that if this great ore body is properly developed there is a mine here worth many millions of dollars.

A Woman's Suffering

Consultations With Doctors and Specialists Gave But Little Relief.

Halifax, N.S., Sept 20.—Mrs. R. J. Rawlings, of 12 Argyle street, gives the following statement which should be of interest to every reader. "No one could know what I have suffered with torturing headaches, faint feeling, and lassitude. In the mornings I was scarcely able to do my work and when night came I felt too miserable to sleep. The doctors did me little good, so I decided to buy Dr. Hamilton's Pills about which I have heard so much good. In a week I improved, my headaches were less severe, my appetite increased, and faintness passed away. Day by day I gained strength, and increased in weight. The trouble I am sure was in my stomach, and Dr. Hamilton's Pills did what was necessary. I used twenty boxes and in consequence will live twenty years longer.

Just take prescription for every tired, ailing woman,—try Dr. Hamilton's Pills and see if this isn't so. Sold by all dealers, 25c. per box.

CITY AND COUNTY NEWS

DASHES HERE AND THERE BY TIMES REPORTERS.

Hon. Geo. Foster at Lindsay Today

Lindsay will actually wake up today. Hon. Geo. E. Foster, the originator of that never to be obliterated or forgotten saying, "England's splendid isolation," is to speak there today, and apart from political leanings, pro, or con, the Sougeovillians will have an oratorical treat today.

Rice Lake not Ice Bound

The Rice Lake ice, as noted in yesterday's issue of The Times, is somewhat like the average politician's promises, possibly thickly laid on, but easily broken as the Water Lily is taking on a snow load of wood to bring to the city next Saturday. There are several orders for potatoes to be delivered from the lake ports to Peterborough, and the Rainbow, Water Lily and Monarch will run their trips here next Saturday.

Local Turfman Returns to the City

Mr. P. Clunan, president of the Peterborough Turf Club, and one of the best known horsemen of this district, who has been out at Denver, Col., visiting his daughter in that city, has returned home, looking hale and hearty as ever. "Pat" says that out in Manitoba he saw hundreds of acres where the grain was simply rotting on the stalk owing to wanted facilities for shipping said grain. He says that as one comes eastwards the wave of hard times now submerging this part of the country, the omens grow more visible. Hard times has not yet struck this far west, further than as noted.

Police will Investigate

If the lady who sent the two little girls to the Grand Trunk station last Tuesday, the 5th inst., for the fur emporium, will call at the station and prove ownership of the garment or explain, she will save further trouble; otherwise the matter will be placed in the hands of the police.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

The New Language

Letter from the Editor of Amerika Esperantisto, Chicago

November 17, 1907.

To the Editor of The Times:

Dear Sir,—Notwithstanding the immense amount of publicity which has been given to Esperanto, the international language, I find that at this time not more than one-tenth of the people of America have even a vague idea of its purpose and scope, and perhaps not one in a hundred has a reasonably definite conception of it. As a sort of counter-irritant to the irresponsible criticism which is occasionally circulated by the uninformed, I have printed for free distribution a second edition of 100,000 copies of a small primer, "Elements of Esperanto," setting forth the grammar, word-construction and purpose of the language, and will mail a copy to any person who requests it, sending stamp for postage. While you may not be personally interested, there are thousands of your readers to whom this movement for an international auxiliary language, which now covers EVERY COUNTRY ON EARTH, will appeal as something more than a fad, and they would appreciate your giving publicity to this letter.

Cordially yours,
ARTHUR BAKER,
Editor Amerika Esperantisto.

Police Court

him he knew nothing about the stuff.

The magistrate dismissed the case saying that there was no evidence against the defendant.

Mr. Goodwill of the Children's Aid Society, thought it a good opportunity, as many parents were present in court, to censure parents who let children run loose on Sundays. When children get into trouble and are arrested, why a petition is circulated asking for their release. It is the fault of the parents when children run wild this way.

His worship said that three of the boys had pleaded guilty to stealing goods at the morning session. "Such boys," the magistrate continued, "must be punished or they will go ahead and steal more and more valuables." He fined the boys $5 each.

At this juncture one of the boys said a mistake had been made and that he had pleaded "not" guilty at the morning session of the police court. To the magistrate, this boy said the brass had "run through the fence," so he took it.

The magistrate after hearing the boy's story, dismissed the case. The chief was, and the general consensus of opinion was with his efforts, seemingly determined to make Dog show up particulars as to the purchase of this and possibly other junk.

Chief Roesel wants the junk dealers to keep the law, evidently thinking that if this class of dealers observe the law, many boys would be saved the temptations, if not the act of theft.

Ye Olde Tyme Concerte

Ye olde tymie concerte given by ye menne and wimmene singers of ye meetynge house, in ye olde tyme costumes, with ye olde tyme scenes, last night, made another decided hits with the large crowd who gathered in the school room of St. Andrew's church. The program was the same as that rendered last week when the affair was such a decided success, and the program such a unique feature that it was repeated by request last night. The concert was under the auspices of the choir of the church, and they were assisted by members of the choir of St. John's.

New York Financiers Criminally Liable

New York, Nov. 19.—In obtaining the appointment today of receivers for three banks and three trust companies in New York and Brooklyn which recently suspended payment, State Attorney General Jackson declared that in the Borough Bank of Brooklyn and in the Jenkins Trust Company evidence has been found of illegal overloans, and of both civil and criminal liability. In the case of the Borough Bank Mr. Jackson said there is evidence also of over drafts, forged paper, and other criminal transactions, all of which will be presented to the grand jury. Of the Jenkins Trust Company the attorney general declares, the records show over loans to the president, John G. Jenkins, Jeffer, aggregating $887,000.

The applications for receivers were made before Justice Betts of the Supreme Court at Kingston, N. Y., and they were based upon affidavits of Clark Williams, superintendent of banking.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

What Do They Cure?

The above question is often asked concerning Dr. Pierce's two leading medicines, "Golden Medical Discovery" and "Favorite Prescription."

The answer is that "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most potent alterative or blood-purifier, and tonic or invigorator and acts especially favorably in a curative way upon all the mucous lining surfaces, as of the nasal passages, throat, bronchial tubes, stomach, bowels and bladder, curing a large per cent. of catarrhal cases whether the disease affects the nasal passages, the throat, larynx, bronchia, stomach (as catarrhal dyspepsia), bowels (as mucous colitis), bladder, uterus or other pelvic organs. Even in the chronic or ulcerative stages of these affections it is often successful in effecting cures.

The "Favorite Prescription" is advised for the relief and cure of disorders—functional weaknesses, irregularities and prostrations incident to women only. It is a powerful yet gently acting invigorating tonic and nervine. For weak worn-out, over-worked women—no matter what has caused the break-down, "Favorite Prescription" will be found most effective in building up the strength, regulating the womanly functions, subduing pain and bringing about a healthy, vigorous condition of the whole system.

A book of particulars wraps each bottle giving the formulas of both medicines and quoting what scores of eminent medical authors, whose works are consulted by physicians of all the schools of practice as guides in prescribing, say of each ingredient entering into these medicines.

The words of praise bestowed on the several ingredients entering into Doctor Pierce's medicines by such writers should have more weight than any amount of non-professional testimonials, because such men are writing for the guidance of their medical brethren and know whereof they speak.

Both medicines are non-alcoholic, non-secret, and contain no harmful habit-forming drugs, being composed of glyceric extracts of the roots of native, American medicinal forest plants. They are both sold by dealers in medicine. You can't afford to accept as a substitute for one of these medicines of known composition, any secret nostrum.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets, small, sugar-coated, easy to take as candy, regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels.

THE BOARD OF TRADE BANQUET WAS A SPLENDID FUNCTION

Hon. J. D. Rolland the Guest of the Evening--Representative Gathering of Politicians, Financiers, Manufacturers and Merchants

The large dining hall of the Oriental Hotel last night presented a charming scene of social festivity, song, oratory and wit, when the Board of Trade gave its first annual banquet. The whole function was an unqualified success, and of a nature to please the most fastidious fame, and leave one with pleasant memories. Apart from the festive character of the event, much valuable information was given by the several speakers, and the members of our local board should be stimulated to increased energy in the interest of trade and commerce, under the capable presidency of Dr. M. A. Morrison, who has certainly manifested a live realization of the importance of his responsible office. He also enjoys the hearty support of a strong council in the persons of G. A. Gillespie, chairman; D. Hughes Charles, D. W. Dunstle, T. A. S. Hay, W. H. Bradburn, R. E. Weed, F. D. Kerr, W. H. Moore, A. Stevenson, J. H. Larmouth, W. H. Denham, T. H. G. Deane.

Dr. Morrison's associate officers are: G. A. Gillespie, vice-president; W. H. Bradburn, treasurer; T. Q. Quartermaine, secretary; all of whom are not stinting in discharge of the duties they have assumed.

THE GUESTS.

Presented a representative galaxy of parliamentary, legislative, financial, manufacturing and mercantile gentlemen, amongst whom were the following: — Dr. Morrison, R. R. Hall, M.P., T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P., Mayor H. F. McWilliams, A. Montgomery, D. Hughes Charles, Peter Campbell, John Crane, J. H. Larmouth, J. O. Smeek, W. H. Denham, R. G. Patterson, F. D. Kerr, Col. Rogers, Ald. Bradburn, Ald. Leary, E. F. Mason, G. Shortly, W. H. Hill, M. Fair, J. W. Garvin, Richard Hall, W. H. Meldrum, A. H. Stratton, S. T. Medd, T. F. Matthews, Vincent Eastwood, R. M. Glover, E. Gliddon, H. F. Akerman, Dr. McNulty, H. R. F. Keenor, G. E. Layfield, H. Le Lievre, John Nugent, Gen. K. Martin, Wm. Medill, W. H. Moore, Dr. Scott, Wm. Lougford, Chas. Risher, Thos. Harris, L. M. Hays, Dickson Hall, G. Walter Greene, G. A. Gillespie, Jas. Edgar, G. B. Cowan, Toronto, editor Canadian Horticulturist and Canadian Dairyman; F. Dean, McFarlane Wilson, E. A. Peck, Alex. Gibson, J. Turner, D. S. McCrae, B. T. Huston, F. R. Yokome, Chas. H. J. Mitchell, G. S. VanSlarioom, T. Q. Quartermaine, Wm. Rodkins, W. Richmond, W. M. G. Biggins, W. R. Morris, J. Smith, W. S. Meredith, Jas. R. Hall, E. M. Rent, W. S. Dodds, W. Collier, Hamilton Hill, E. S. Clarry, Roland Deane, Walter Stocker, M. Comstock.

Covers were set for 160 guests, and there were about 85 present.

The chairman of the evening, Dr. M. A. Morrison, read letters of regret for the non-attendance of Senator Cox, Robert Stuart, of the Quaker Oats Co.; Frederick Nicholls of the C.G.E., Hon. J. R. Stratton, and Jas. Kendry, ex-M.P.

The hall was tastefully decorated with flags and bunting, and the west wall displayed the appropriate motto "Welcome," the tasteful work of Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons.

While the guests were satisfying the inner man Miss Kate Graham favored the assemblage with several pianoforte selections, which were very acceptably rendered.

THE TOAST LIST.

The following toast list was very satisfactorily adhered to, and while it did not include many numbers, they all were of a character to give satisfaction to all present, and in effect an interchange of exceedingly instructive and interesting opinions.

THE KING.

The Parliament of Canada, and the Legislature of Ontario.

Our Guest.

The Financial, Manufacturing, and Mercantile Interests.

Municipal Institutions.

Between the above toasts appropriate musical numbers were rendered by the St. Paul's church choir, Messrs. John Crane, Malcolm and Bennett, and Mr. Kingsley, the genial C.P.R. ticket agent. Each number was enthusiastically encored, to which the contributors readily responded.

THE KING.

This toast was proposed by Dr. M. A. Morrison, with a few appropriate remarks and was loyally responded to in the customary manner.

F. D. KERR

Proposed the toast of "The Parliament of Canada and the Legislature of Ontario," in the course of an eloquent speech, Mr. Kerr remarked that the present Dominion Parliament and the Legislature of of Ontario, are two political parties of which any country, be it empire or colony, might well be proud. "I believe," he said, "that 99 out of every 100 who goes to Toronto or Ottawa, are 99 hours out of a 100 endeavoring to do their whole duty to the state and to the people who sent them into office. We have indeed reason to be proud of the many men of distinction and ability who have since the inauguration of the first provincial legislature and subsequent Dominion parliament, devoted the best years of their lives to their country's interests."

R. R. HALL, M.P.

The foregoing toast was ably responded to by R. R. Hall, M.P., in his usual talented manner. After a lucid review of Canada's rapid trade progress, resulting in our present flattering record of four times as much trade per head as that enjoyed by the United States, he said, "We have no reason to fear any retiring ebb in the Dominion, for we shall recover from the present financial stringency stronger than ever. There is as much money in the North-west this year as last year." After paying a passing eulogistical tribute to the distinguished visitor, Hon. J. D. Rolland, and French-Canadians in general, Mr. Hall urged the Board of Trade to inculcate that feeling of friendship which should exist between our Fremch and English speaking peoples.

T. E. BRADBURN, M.P.P.

Next responded with a few happy remarks. He said all the legislation of the present local legislature has been of a first class quality. He also complimented the Board of Trade upon the success and excellence of this their first banquet.

HON J. D. ROLLAND.

President of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, the distinguished guest of the evening, was here toasted by Dr. Morrison, who characterized Mr. Rolland as the essence of a strenuous life; a long life during which he had served as mayor of one city, been a member of the Quebec legislature, held for years the office of chairman of finance for the Montreal Board of Aldermen, and also been connected with other manufacturing concerns, to say nothing of his interest in a railway. In fact, the doctor concluded, Mr. Rolland must sleep on the cars.

When Hon. J. D. Rolland rose to reply he was met with enthusiastic applause. He reviewed the history of the Board of Trade from its inception 20 years ago to the present time when it enjoys a membership of over 2000 with branches from the Atlantic to the Pacific. It keeps closely in touch with legislative measures bearing on the interests of manufacturers. It is a bureau of intelligence affecting foreign trade relations, which will in the future undoubtedly be vastly expanded. The speaker next went into an exhaustive eulogy of Peterborough, and Peterborenians, who he said are endorsed with a commendable progressive spirit and unquestionable loyalty to their King and country. Peterborough was first nationally known as the home of the canoe; it is now characterized as the home of Quaker Oats. The C.G.E. is a marvel in itself, and all other industries are a credit to Peterborough, than which no other city in the Dominion has made such rapid strides. The Trent Valley canal will be an advantage not only to this city but to the Dominion at large, especially Montreal, because all other waterways tap the American side, whereas this route will afford easy and cheap access to the sea via Canadian waters only and Montreal. The distinguished visitor urged the preservation of our forests, for should they and the mountains be denuded of timber our valuable waterways will gradually diminish and in many cases dry up altogether in time. Our water power must be protected in the interest of transportation, and also in the interest of electricity, the generations of which means so much to Peterborough and Canada at large.

The speaker here pointed out that Canada buys twice as much from the U.S. as the latter buys from Canada, and while he favored the promotion of foreign trade relations, he urged that the policy of Canadian people for Canadian consumers should have the precedence wherever practicable. Mr. Rolland concluded a very interesting address with thanks for the hospitality and courtesy shown him yesterday by the local Board of Trade, and resumed his seat amidst hearty applause.

T. F. MATTHEWS

Mr. G. A. Gillespie proposed the toast to "Financial, Manufacturing and Mercantile Interests," to which Mr. T. F. Matthews responded first. In a very neat and appropriate address, in a very neat and appropriate speech. He congratulated Hon. J. D. Rolland upon having secured the gold medal in Paris, for the excellence of his paper, against all competitors, and went into an exhaustive and able review of Canada's immense increase of exports the past twenty years. In conclusion he enquired of the bankers present why money was so tight in Canada when bankers were loaning it to Americans.

D HUGHES CHARLES.

Replied in the interest of "Finance." He eulogised on banking, insurance, loan and savings institutions, as worthy the pride of all Canadians. The rapid strides of Canada's trade could not have been accomplished without the financial aid of its banks. "You have reason," he said, "to be proud of the Canadian banking system which has been evolved by the brains of Canadians." It was, he continued, a disgrace to the U.S., that they should have to call for financial assistance from Canada, which they had described in the press as a "sleepy country." Turning to the apparent tightness of money, Mr. Hughes Charles remarked that he did not know of one genuine, legitimate enterprise that could not today get from the banks legitimate financial support. But we all have been living too fast, and many have invested out of their legitimate business and then want the banks to loan them working capital. "For one year each of us should live as though we anticipate that after this year we shall have hard times; such a course would be a wise one for all to take."

OTHER SPEAKERS.

Mr. W. H. Moore proposed the toast to "Our Municipal Institutions," and Mayor McWilliams replied.

The banquet broke up about one o'clock after singing the National Anthem.

> "You have reason to be proud of the splendid Canadian Banking System, which has been evolved by the brains of Canadian people."--D. Hughes-Charles at the Board of Trade Banquet.

2,000 Athletes will Take Part in the Next Olympic Games

Not that of the athletes and the sportsmen only, but the interest of the greater public is already stirred towards the subject of the Olympiad, which will be held in London in July of next year, and it is time that it should be properly understood, for it will be much greater than the majority of the people seem to imagine.

The spirit of the project is splendid. "In Ancient Greece," says the Rev. S. de Courcy Laffan, who, assisted by Capt. F. Whitworth Jones, is the enthusiastic hon.-secretary of the British Olympic Association, "the great athletic gatherings which will be held every four years at the Olympia, fostered through the entire Greek world a sense of kinship and a consciousness of the common ideals which even war between the different states could not destroy. It is our object to establish a periodical gathering which hold the same relation among civilized nations that the games at Olympia had to the Greek States and their widely scattered colonies.

"The sport pure and simple will bring into touch leading athletic associations of the world, and we hope to succeed in laying down common rules and definitions regulating the various games that will in turn be recognised as binding all over the world in the case of many games, but not in all, that is already an accomplished fact, and it is hoped that the program of the Olympiad of 1908 may be regarded in the future as such. It was most cordially approved at the international conference at the Hague in June. The general moral effect of gatherings such as these conducted in the way they are, will be regarded by many people as the most important of all.

"Such periodical meetings, at which men of all nations meet together in friendly rivalry, must do a great deal towards the promotion of friendship and to dissipate misunderstandings and to establish a sense of comradeship far more valuable to many minds, in uniting the nations, than any formal arrangements." That in brief is the case for the Olympic games in which over 2,000 athletes will take part.

Langford Failed to Reach Oshawa Within in Scheduled Time

Oshawa, Nov 21.—David Langford of Renfrew, who was making an attempt to break Jimmy Reynolds' record by one hour in the walk to Toronto and return, failed to complete his journey in the 35 hours' schedule time. To do this feat it was necessary for him to reach Oshawa at eight o'clock, but he did not arrive until a few minutes to nine. He was all in and in bad shape.

Port Hope, Nov. 20.—David Langford, of Renfrew, who walked from Port Hope to Toronto and return in 30 hours and 3 minutes on Oct. 5th last, and who is now attempting to cover the same distance in 35 hours, arrived at the Queen's Hotel at six minutes to eleven this morning.

He had a rub-down, and left at 11.15 in pitiable condition, having seven hours and 45 minutes left to complete the 32 miles of the journey within scheduled time.

Langford was in bad shape on reaching here, and it is safe to predict that he will not make the trip within the time-limit.

The muscles of his hip are partially paralysed, and every step was a limp, and caused him pain. He started off at a staggering pace.

His trainers were criticised for allowing him to attempt the remaining distance in the condition he is in.

Before starting out on this trip Langford allotted himself a schedule as a guide to go by, and, according to this, he was due in Port Hope at 11 o'clock, so that he was in reality five minutes earlier than expected.

AT TORONTO.

Toronto, Nov. 20.—Sam Langford, the Renfrew pedestrian, who is making his second attempt to lower Jimmy Reynolds' record for the Port Hope to Toronto walk, arrived in the city yesterday afternoon at 3.15, well ahead of his time. Langford set out to do the distance in 35 hours.

The walker made but a ten-minute stop at the King Edward, when, after partaking of a glass of lemonade, he resumed his journey. Pickering was reached on the return trip at 9.15, with the walker in excellent shape, and this condition was maintained when he arrived at Oshawa at 12.40, well ahead of Reynolds' time, and a mile ahead of the distance covered by David Hartley, of Peterborough.

AHEAD OF HARTLEY'S TIME.

At Oshawa a cup of tea and slice of toast was all the nourishment taken and the journey was resumed with with but slight delay. While Reynolds started and finished at Port Hope, Langford has changed his course a little. He started at Oshawa and will travel on to Port Hope and back to Oshawa.

The stations were reached as follows:—
Left Oshawa 8 a.m.
Arrived Whitby 9.45 a.m.
Arrived at Toronto 3.15 p.m.

Return Trip.

Reached Pickering 9.15 p.m.
Reached Oshawa 12.40 a.m.

Candidates for the Ministry Considered

Bay of Quinte Conference of Methodist Church Hold Meeting

Yesterday morning a meeting of the ministerial portion of the Bay of Quinte Conference special committee, was held in the parlors of the George street Methodist church. The meeting was presided over by Rev. Mr. Duke of Newburg, the president of the conference, and Rev. C. H. Coon, of Mark street, acted as secretary.

The other ministers present were Revs. H. M. Manning, Peterborough; McCullough, Omemee; Wm. Johnston, Warkworth; D. S. Doucet of Bloomfield; J. A. Connell; Thomasburg; D. W. Henderson, Port Hope; D. H. Mounteer, Cannington; George Brown, Colborne; and John Garbutt, Bowmanville.

The chief business considered was the endorsement of certain young men who wished to enter the ministry.

Mr. Lucas M. Sharp, of Mountain Grove Mission, near Napanee, was one of these. The others considered were Messrs. Hayeke and Sockett, who received special recommendation to administer the sacrament for one year.

Mount Julian Meeting was a Success

Mrs. Albert Reid, presided, in the absence of the president, at the November meeting of the Mount Julian Women's Institute, which terminated most successfully. The meeting opened by the singing of "God Save the King." The minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, Miss Jessie Reid.

The topic for the day was the "Preserving and Pickling of Sweet Apples," by Mrs. Wellie Sanderson. Papers on "A Young Girl's Duty at Home," were read by Mrs. Lauder and Mrs. Wm. Church.

A motion was made to send the president and secretary to the convention at Guelph in December, and carried.

The meeting closed by all singing "The Maple Leaf Forever."

Reserved Shot to Save a Life

Mr. R. A. Elliott has returned from a trip to the northern woods and is in a position to tell stories of what hunters have or might have done. Mr. Elliott tells of a story incidental to this fall's hunt. It seems that he was stalking through the wood and saw what he thought was deer behind some brushwood. Mr. Elliott thought he saw some deer but remembering that human beings might be beyond the brush he refrained from firing. Thus the deer got away but a man may have saved his life.

"Staying power" is one of the essentials to success. The ability to "hang on" till the last call's "Hung" has won out for many a man, otherwise handicapped.

You can store up energy and "grit" from the right kind of food. Grape-Nuts contains the vital elements from wheat and barley, that make for endurance and clear-headedness. It is fully cooked—ready to eat; is quickly absorbed and begins at once to repair waste tissue and store up energy for the "long strong pull" that wins.

FOUR MEN KILLED AND THREE INJURED IN TUNNEL SHAFT

Cable Snapped and Bucket in Which They Had Been Drawn Near to the Top Fell Ninety Feet--Accident at Toronto Island

DEAD.

Frederick Blackmore, a clipper, 78 Pelham avenue, Toronto Junction; 42 years of age; leaves wife and five small children; killed instantly.

Jack Neilson, helper, Hagersville, 30 years of age; killed instantly.

Huron Elliott, a half-breed Indian drilling boss at the shaft; 24 years of age, has wife at New Credit, near Hagersville, died on wharf.

George Francis Gordon Hogan, driller, boarding at 209 Richmond street, Toronto; his home at 1,035 Demontagny street, Montreal; unmarried; known at the shaft as Gordon, died in hospital.

INJURED.

George McHugh, driller, Sault Ste. Marie; 24 years of age; right thigh and left arm fractured; bruises about the head.

Toronto, Nov. 20.—Another misfortune has been added to those which have accompanied the sinking of shafts and carrying of a waterwork tunnel under Toronto Bay. This time the loss of four lives has been involved. A cable snapped in two at the Island shaft last evening, and seven men were dashed down nine feet to the bottom, a two hundred-pound sheaveloek falling on top of them. The three who were not killed were badly injured.

The seven men had been blasting in the tunnel, and at seven o'clock they started up the shaft in the bucket, an affair of simple construction weighing about six hundred pounds. They were the last to go up. A horse had been taken up only a short time before. The cable snapped when the men were almost at the top of the shaft. It broke clean off in a most remarkable way, just as it was being turned on to the drum.

A Successful Season

Mr. D. McMartin, of Deseronto, in the City

Mr. D. McMartin, superintendent of the Rathbun Company's lumber mill at Deseronto, is spending a few days in town renewing old acquaintances. Mr. McMartin was formerly prominently connected with the lumbering business in Peterborough, but some years ago removed to Deseronto with his family, where he has had charge of the large mills there. During the season just closed the cut has been fully up to the average, and was very successful, the mills running almost without a hitch during the season. Considerable hardwood lumber was manufactured, for which there is a ready market.

Mr. McMartin is a guest at the Munro House, where he will remain a few days. His many friends in Peterborough are pleased to see him looking so well.

Peterborough May Play Ottawa College Saturday at Ottawa

Ottawa, Nov 20.—Peterborough, champions of the Ontario Rugby Football Union and Ottawa College, inter-collegiate champions, will play off at Varsity Oval next Saturday for the Canadian Rugby Union championship.

This was practically decided upon last night in a long distance conference between the two clubs though it requires the consent of the college faculty which will give a definite decision today as to whether the team will be allowed to play. This is, however, regarded as certain.

Peterborough yesterday applied to the C.R.U. for permission to play College for the Union's championship and the Dominion body was to have met in Toronto last night to consider the proposition. But, in any event, their decision will not prevent the game being played, as the two clubs have decided to play off in any event, providing, of course, permission of the college faculty be forthcoming.

Without the C.R.U. sanction, however, there would be no Dominion trophy for the winning club.

Toronto, Nov. 20.—The Canadian Rugby Union met yesterday afternoon at the King Edward Hotel and arranged the final games as follows:

Saturday, Nov. 23—Ottawa College, Inter-Collegiate champions, at Peterborough, O.R.F.U. champions.

Saturday, Nov. 30.—Winners at Montreal, Inter-Provincial winners.

In the intermediate series Tammany Tigers will meet Varsity on Tammany grounds on Saturday next, the winners to meet Hamilton.

The probabilities are that the senior games will not be played, and there is also considerable doubt as to the outcome of the intermediate situation owing to the controversy arising out of the disqualification of the Inter-Provincial players by the C.A.A.U.

Ottawa College authorities have already announced that they would not sanction a game with Montreal, while the O.R.F.U., owing to its affiliation with the C.A.A.U., has also taken the same stand.

The Peterborough Club Executive will hold a special meeting today, to discuss the situation. Last night, in conversation over the long-distance 'phone, Ottawa and Peterborough agreed to play off in Ottawa on Saturday, but this arrangement will probably be changed owing to the order of the Canadian Union.

Those present at yesterday's meeting at the King Edward Hotel were; Dr. A. B. Wright, who presided; Secretary D. L. McKeand and H. C. Griffiths, who represented Dr. Hendry.

Chief Roszel will Not Take a Bluff

There seems to be a challenge issued by a future, i.e., possibly so, occupant of the local opera house, to the local police to the effect that the police cannot handcuff said challenger so he cannot escape from the grasp of said handcuffs.

Last night The Times called up Chief Roszel, and laid the challenger's proposition before him. Chief Roszel, in response, said to this effect, "If this man will act fair and let us put the handcuffs we have on him and he can get out of them he can have the cuffs."

A Local Reporter as Sherlock Holmes

That Prof. De Mateo, the travelling hand-cuff expert, with the Marks Co., here, has a rival in this city, in the person of John Hogan, a reporter on a local contemporary, will be seen by the part he took in the "Great Dash for Liberty." About ten o'clock last night, this local knight of the pencil, was seen tearing it off up McDonnell street, as Dave Hartley, gait, firmly clasped in the steel bands. Many, no doubt, thought him an escaped prisoner, but such was not the case. True, John was making a bold dash for freedom, not to evade the laws of justice, but to interview that king of handcuff experts, Chief Roszel, to be extricated from his present predicament.

It appears that John is "chumming" for a little bit of the sleuth work of Sherlock Holmes, and is watching for a misunderstuty of P. C. Newhall. Only last week he assisted the constable in rounding up a couple of prisoners at a south-end restaurant. Last night Mr. Hogan was drilled himself in the use of handcuffs, but used himself for an object lesson at the police station. He was warned by the police not to meddle with them as they were a special pair of the chief's, who carried the key. But John slipped the bracelets on and snapped the spring, only to be dismayed with the fact that it meant a walk through the city to the chief's residence, he having retired for the night.

Peterboro Cadets Under Inspection

Col. Gordon Inspects Collegiate Institute Cadets

Yesterday morning about 10.30 the Cadets of the local Collegiate Institute and school turned out in good numbers and marched over to Riverside Park under command of Lieut. Hodgson, their instructor for inspection by Col. Gordon, D.A.A.G., of Kingston, commander of the Canadian forces of Eastern Ontario. The boys marched over in as good order and as in regular step as army veterans could have done. On the way to the place of inspection the smaller boys marched in the front ranks and the rear ranks were filled by the older boys bearing each an obsolete Martini-Henry rifle, with bayonet at side and knapsack at his back. On arrival at Riverside park, the hundred odd future defenders of the country displayed and formed into lines for further orders.

Col. Gordon, D.A.A.G., assisted by Lieut.-Col. Miller and Capt. Mills, put the youthful battalion through its facings and the evolutions were well performed.

The wheeling, right-about, and other orders were performed by the battalion as though by one man.

Among those present to watch the proceedings were Mayor McWilliams, Dr. Young, Rev. Canon Davidson, chaplain of the 57th Regiment, School Board, members, Dr. Morrison, Robt. Fair, Major Clegg and others.

DEATH FROM HEART DISEASE

A Case of Neglecting a Weak Heart and Tired Nerves.

If your heart flutters, be careful. An attack is liable to come on at any time. Excitement, over-exertion or emotion may cause it.

If blood rushes to the head, if palpitation and short breath are noticeable, there's cause for alarm.

If you want a good honest remedy try Ferrozone. We recommend Ferrozone because we know it's just right for heart trouble. It cured A. F. Beattie, who lives at Allen Hotel, Bay City, Mich. See if your symptoms resemble these:

SYMPTOMS OF WEAK HEART.

Nervousness	Palpitation,
Trembling,	Dizziness,
Sinking Feeling,	Heart Pains,
Short Breath,	Weakness.

Mr. Beattie says: "

"I was weak and miserable.

"I was subject to heart palpitation and dizziness.

"As I grew worse I began to have trembling and sinking sensations.

"Ferrozone strengthened my heart, gave vigor to my nerves, soon made me well. It's a great rebuilder."

By strengthening the muscles of the heart, giving proper circulation and causing a general rebuilding of the whole system, Ferrozone is bound to do grand work in heart trouble; try it. 50c per box, or six for $2.50, at all dealers.

TEMPERANCE IN UNITED STATES

The progress made by the temperance movement in the United States is astonishing. There are very few states in which the principle of local option has not been adopted, by many counties has not been adopted by many counties, and in some instances the whole state has "gone dry" as the phrase is. The movement is especially marked in the South, which was once supposed to be the great stronghold of whiskey. Even Kentucky, which has always been associated in the popular mind with colonels in frock coats engaged in the consumption or discussion of their favorite beverage, has gone for prohibition. It is easy both to overrate and underrate the effect of this remarkable movement. If any one should claim that the people of the "dry" states were about to abandon drinking habits absolutely, he would be absurd; on the other hand, should he say that prohibition will not prohibit and there will be as much drinking as ever, only the liquor will be worse, he would be greatly mistaken. In the driest town in the United States a man, who knows how, can probably get a drink of intoxicating liquor. General Neal Dow, the father of the prohibition movement in the United States, used to say to those who claimed that this was the case: "We have a law against murder, both human and divine law, and it is backed up by united public opinion, but some people commit murder just the same." Gen. Dow's chief claim for prohibition was that if was educative in its effects. He contended that if young people grew up to look upon the liquor traffic as illegal, it would lose all claim to respectability and become unpopular. He claimed also that if the sale of intoxicants were prohibited, the young would have temptation removed from their path, and those persons who were endeavoring to escape from drinking habits would find their task less difficult. Notwithstanding all that has been alleged to the contrary, this has been the effect of prohibition in Maine, where it has the longest trial. The good results have not been as marked as was hoped, but any one who has mingled with crowds of Maine people will bear out the assertion that intoxicated men are very rare. Yet no man, who wants a drink when in a Maine city, need go thirsty.

The effect of this widespread movement for the prohibition of the liquor traffic cannot fail to have an exceedingly important effect upon the future of the United States. The people will be the stronger for it; they will be better fitted for the tremendous struggle that is imminent between the Occident and the Orient. We do not have to fight a struggle at arms, but one in industrial rivalry. Friends of temperance must not expect too much. Above all they must not expect a law to enforce itself. If there is not behind the prohibitory movement a strong public opinion to compel the observance of the statutes, while some good will be accomplished, enough harm will be done to offset it. But if what is taking place in the Republic is sustained by the same degree of energy that was necessary to bring it about, the results will be profoundly beneficial. In this connection it may be mentioned that a commission appointed by the New Brunswick government to investigate the working of the Prince Edward Island system of prohibition is likely to make a very favorable report.

FAMOUS JUDGE DEAD

LORD BRAMPTON PASSES AWAY IN NINETY-FIRST YEAR.

Was Better Known as Sir Henry Hawkins—Was Terror to Criminals—Formerly Called the Hanging Judge—Taken For Prizefighter on Train—Do Dogs Go to Heaven?—Skillful Cross-Examiner.

Lord Brampton, once so well known as Sir Henry Hawkins, the great lawyer and judge, died recently at his London residence at the advanced age of 90.

He had only celebrated his birthday a few days before, but for some time had been failing in health.

He was almost the last of the old school of Victorian judges and retired from the bench some years ago. Judge Hawkins was one of the most skillful cross-examiners of his time and was engaged in most of the celebrated criminal cases in the later years of the last century.

Don't You Know Me?

Innumerable good stories are told about Lord Brampton and the criminals to whom he was a terror. One of the best related to an incident which happened in a crowded race train. Three or four of the "boys" got into the carriage in which the judge was sitting and attempted to bustle him. Confident that he would be known and feared by them, the judge removed his hat, and looking his sternest, said, "Don't you know who I am?" The worst of the offenders looked at his square jaw and close-cropped head and shrank into a corner with an exclamation, "S'help us Bob—a blooming prizefighter."

Dog on the Bench.

While on the bench his constant companion was a terrier, "Jack," whose tether was a long blue ribbon attached to the judge's wrist, and many a junior beguiled a weary moment watching the unrolling of the ribbon as the dog pursued his investigations, followed by the spectacle of the judge "hauling in the slack." Once "Jack" expressed his opinion of a case by a loud bark. "Turn that dog out of the gallery," said the judge with great promptitude, at the same time administering an admonitory pat to the animal under his desk. To a sheriff's chaplain who held that dogs could not go to heaven, he remarked, "They are more faithful, more affectionate, and more intelligent than any Christian I have ever met."

A Crushing Retort.

"But, my lord," said the chaplain, "the drawback is they cannot understand when one speaks to them." "Indeed, Mr. Chaplain," the judge replied. "Don't you think they may think it a great drawback that we will not understand them when they speak?"

When a bomb was exploded on the doorstep of the house of Mr. Reginald Brett in Tilney street in 1894, it was always imagined that it was intended for the judge. But his imperturbable humor did not desert him. With a twinkle in his eye he said to his friend, "It's no use, my dear Brett, their attempting to intimidate me by blowing up you."

The Judge Laughed.

At the Old Bailey a policeman giving evidence against prisoner before Sir Henry Hawkins, was asked what the arrested man said when charged. The constable whipped out a pocket-book and read without a smile: "Prisoner said when charged, 'God grant I be not tried before 'Awkins, or he will bring down my hairs in sorrow to the grave.'" Even the judge laughed.

IN QUEST OF HUSBANDS.

One Thousand Would-Be Brides From Ireland Invade America.

Scores of reporters were at New York harbor recently to welcome the White Star liner Baltic, which had on board 1,000 Irish girls who had arrived with the avowed object of capturing husbands.

They did not hide the fact from the newspaper men; rather did they look upon them as the means by which their various predilections in the way of partners might be made known. Thus Miss Clara Johnson, from County Mayo, the prettiest girl of all, was told that there would be a thousand offers for her hand. "The more the merrier," was her answer, "let 'em all come." Miss Johnson confessed, however, that she had a yearning to go on the stage and marry an actor.

Miss Nora O'Brien, of Limerick, was quite candid as she blushingly chatted with a group of reporters. "Yes," she said, "I certainly do want a husband, and I am told that they are easy to get over here. I can cook, play the piano, scrub, milk cows, and do anything to help make a man happy. I've had an offer from a Brooklyn bobby, but I mean to look around a bit first."

Agnes McGirr wanted a man with dark hair, and not a farmer. Kate Donohue thought that any half good-looking man who did not wear red neckties would do. Susan Thompson, straight from Tipperary, said, "Marry! indeed I will, jolly quick, too, if I can find anybody." When shown a letter from a widower in Kansas offering his hearth, his home, and himself, she exclaimed, "I'll go, and if he treats me right how I will love him."

Kate Donohue is the most ambitious of the lot. "I'm going straight to Pittsburg," said she, "for I'm after an American millionaire."

His Taste.

"What business is papa in, mamma?"

"Why, he's a tea sampler. He samples the different kinds of teas."

"Mamma?"

"Yes, my boy."

"Do you know what I want to be when I grow up?"

"No. What, my boy?"

"A pie sampler."

Depository ... ... JOHN S. COOK & CO. Bank of Goldfield, Nevada.

This company owns 4 claims (shares) of some of the best proven mineral land in the Goldfield district, consisting of the Accidental and Accidental No. 2 lode claims, situated two and one-half miles south of the great Goldfield Consolidated Mines (comprising the Mohawk, Goldfield, Combination, Red Top, Jumbo and Laguna) the richest in the world; and the Broadway and Beauty lode claims situated three and one-half miles north of the Consolidated and about one and one-half miles northwest of the Great Bend and Daisy Mines near the Zion group in the Diamondfield section second only in richness to the great Mohawk portion of the camp. Phenomenally rich strikes have recently been made out in Consolidated, the Great Bend and the Daisy Mines.

The company has also succeeded in securing the Sure Thing lode claim (20 acres) in the Cuprite district, which was an immense gold bearing ledge, running the entire length of the claim 1,500 feet, outcropping in places over 50 feet wide, and met by several cross dykes all carrying fine values in gold, and is without doubt rightly named "Sure Thing."

All of these claims are located in the same mineral belt as the other noted mines of Goldfield that have astonished the world by their production of millions in high grade ore, and will with the same development give equally profitable returns.

The money derived from the sale of this stock will be used at once for the active development of the property and the fact that all the directors are residents of Goldfield with years of successful mining experience who will give their personal attention at all times to the progress of the work goes to show that the first issue of 100,000 shares will meet with a quick and ready sale at the initial price of 10 cents per share.

We advise immediate action if you wish to participate in the vast profits of this immense Mine.

Stock will be listed as soon as feasible on the Goldfield and San Francisco Stock and Exchange Boards. Would therefore advise purchasers to buy in board lots of 1,000 shares when convenient to do so.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother).

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

N.B.—Unauthorized publication of this advertisement will not be paid for.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Meaford Harbor Works," will be received at this office until Monday, December 4, 1907, inclusively, for the construction of an extension to Breakwater, the removal of portion of Landing Pier, the construction of a Pile and Concrete Revetment Wall, and a pair of toothed and grooved Sheet Piling at the Town of Meaford, County of Grey, Province of Ontario, according to a plan and specification to be seen at the office of J. G. Sing, Esq., Resident Engineer, Confederation Life Building, Toronto, on application to the Postmaster at Meaford, Ont., and at the Department of Public Works, Ottawa.

Tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed form supplied, and signed with the actual signatures of tenderers.

An accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honorable the Minister of Public Works, for four thousand dollars ($4,000.00), must accompany each tender. The cheque will be forfeited if the person tendering declines the contract or fail to complete the work contracted for, and will be returned in case of non-acceptance of tender.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
FRED. GELINAS, Secretary.

Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, Nov. 2, 1907.

Newspapers will not be paid for this advertisement if they insert it without authority from the Department.

TENDERS FOR PULPWOOD CONCESSIONS

Tenders will be received by the undersigned up to and including the 16th of December next for the right to cut pulpwood on certain areas tributary to the Nepigon river, in the district of Thunder Bay, and Rainy Lake, in the district of Rainy River, and make the same into paper. Tenderers should state the amount they are prepared to pay as bonus in addition to such dues as may from time to time be fixed for the right to operate a paper making industry on the areas referred to. Separate tenders must be made for each area or territory, and the successful tenderers will be required to erect a mill or mills on each of the territories or in such other localities as may be approved by the Government of Ontario.

Parties tendering for the pulpwood rights shall accompany their tenders with a marked cheque for 25 per cent of the amount tendered, payable to the Treasurer of Ontario, and to be forfeited in the event of their failing to enter into agreements to carry out conditions, etc.

With respect to the Rainy Lake Pulp Concession, tenderers will be required to make a tender for the right to cut the pine, tamarac and cedar on the territory offered. Parties making tender for these timbers to state the amount they are prepared to pay per thousand feet B.M. as bonus in addition to Crown dues of $2.00 per thousand feet B.M. A marked cheque for $5,000.00 payable to the Treasurer of Ontario must accompany the tender for pine timber, and be forfeited in the event of their failing to enter into agreements to carry out conditions, etc.

No timber shall be cut on either of the concessions of a less diameter than nine inches, two feet from the ground.

The successful tenderers to enter into agreements with the Government for the erection of the mills, expenditure of money, etc.

For full particulars as to the conditions, etc., application should be made to the undersigned.

AIKENSIDE

BY MARY J. HOLMES

Author of "Dora Deane," "The English Orphans," "Lena Rivers," "The Rector of St. Mark's," "Tempest and Sunshine," Etc.

notes of a low, sad hymn, sung in faltering tones and of many feet moving from the door. Then friendly faces looked in upon her, asking how she felt, and whispering ominously to each other as she answered:

"Very well; is grandpa getting better?"

Then Mrs. Noah sat with her for a time, fanning her with a palm-leaf fan and brushing the flies away. Then Flora came up with a man whom they called "Doctor," and who gave her sundry little pills and powders dissolved in water, after which they all went out and left her there with Jessie, who had been crying, and whose soft little hands felt so cool on her hot head, and whose kisses on her lips made the tears start, and brought a thought of Guy, making her ask, "If he was at the funeral."

"No," Jessie said; mother wanted to write and tell him, but we don't know where he is."

And this was all Maddy could recall of the days succeeding the night of her last watch at her grandfather's side, until one balmy August afternoon, when on the Honedale hills there lay that smoky haze so like the autumn time hurrying on space, and when through her open window stole the fragrance of the later summer flowers. Then, as if waking from an ordinary sleep, she woke suddenly to consciousness, and staring about the room, wondered if it were as late as the western sun would indicate, and how she came to sleep so long. For a while she lay thinking, and as she thought, a sad sense came back to her, a night when her hot hands had been enfolded in those of the dead, and that dead her grandfather. Was it true, or was she laboring under some hallucination of the brain? If true, was that white, placid face still to be seen in the room below, or had they buried him from her sight? She would know, and with a strong kind of nervous strength she arose, and throwing on the wrapper and slippers which lay near, descended the stairs, wondering to find herself so weak, and half shuddering at the deep stillness of the house; stillness broken only by the ticking of the clock and the purring of the house cat, which at sight of Maddy arose from its position near the door and came forward, rubbing its sides against her dress, and trying in various ways to evince its joy at seeing one whose caresses it had missed so long. The little bedroom off the kitchen where grandpa slept and died was vacant; the old-fashioned coat was put away, as was every vestige of the old man save the broad-rimmed hat, which hung upon the wall just where his hands had hung it, and which looked so much like its owner that with a gush of tears Maddy sank upon the bed, moaning to herself, "Yes, grandpa is dead. I remember now. But Uncle Joseph, where is he? Can he, too, have died without my knowledge?" and she looked around in vain for the lunatic, not a trace of whom was to be found. His room was in perfect order, as was everything about the house, showing that Flora was still the domestic goddess, while Maddy also detected various things which she recognized as having come from Aikenside. Who sent them? Did Guy, and had he been there, too, while she was sick? The thought brought a throb of joy to Maddy's heart, but it soon passed away as she began again to wonder if Uncle Joseph, too, had died, and where Flora was. It was not far to the Honedale burying ground, Maddy could see the headstones from where she sat gleaming through the August sunlight; could discern her mother's, and knew that two fresh mounds at least were made beside it. But were there three. Was Uncle Joseph there? By stealing across the meadow in the rear of the house the distance to the graveyard was shortened more than half, and could not be more than the eighth part of a mile. She would walk so far, she knew. The fresh air would do her good, and hunting up her jaunty sun hat, the impatient girl started, stopping once or twice to rest as a dizzy faintness came over her, and then continuing on until the spot she sought was reached. Three graves, one old and sunken, one made when the last winter's snow was on the hills, the other fresh and new. That was all; Uncle Joseph was not there, and vague terror entered Maddy's heart lest he had been taken back to the asylum.

"I will get him out," she said; "I will take care of him. I should die with nothing to do; and I promised grandpa."

She could get no farther, for the rush of memories which came over her, and casting herself upon the ground close to the new grave, she laid her face upon it, and sobbed piteously:

"Oh, grandpa, I'm so lonely without you all; I almost wish I was lying here in the quiet yard."

Then a storm of tears ensued, after which Maddy grew calm, and with her head still bent down, did not hear the rapid step approaching, the manly step coming down the grassy road, coming past the marble tombstones, on to where that wasted figure was crouching upon the ground. Then it stopped, and in a half-whisper called, "Maddy! Maddy!"

Then, indeed, she started, and lifting up her head saw before her Guy Remington. For a moment she regarded him intently, while he said to her, oh, so kindly, so pityingly:

"Poor child, you have suffered so much, and I never knew of it till a few days ago."

Maddy stretched her hands toward him, moaning out:

"Oh, Guy, Guy, where have you been, when I wanted you so much?"

Maddy did not know what she was saying, or half comprehend the effect it had on Guy, who forgot everything save that she wanted him, had missed him, had turned to him in her trouble, and it was not in his nature to resist her appeal. With a spring he was at her side, and lifting her in his arms seated himself upon her mother's grave; then straining her tightly to his bosom, he kissed her again and again. Hot burning, passionate kisses they were, which took from Maddy all the power of resistance, even had she wished it, which she did not. Too weak to reason, or see the harm, if harm there were, in being loved by Guy, she abandoned herself for a brief interval to the bliss of knowing that she was beloved, and of hearing him tell her so.

"Darling Maddy," he said, "I went away because you sent me, but now I have come back, and nothing shall part us again. You are mine; I claim you here at your mother's grave. Precious Maddy, I did not know of all this till three days ago, when Agnes' letter found me almost at the Rocky Mountains. I wish I had come before, now that I know you wanted me. Say that again, Maddy. Tell me that you missed me."

He was smoothing her hair now, as her head still lay pillowed upon his breast, so he could not see the spasm of pain which contorted her features as he thus appealed to her. Half bewildered, Maddy could not at first make out whether it were a blissful dream or a reality, her lying there in Guy's arms with his kisses on her forehead, lips, and cheeks, his words of devotion in her ear, and the soft summer sky smiling down upon her. Alas, it was a dream from which she was awakened by the thought of one across the sea, whose place she had usurped, and this it was which brought the grieved expression to her face as she answered mournfully:

"I did want you, Guy, when I forgot; but now—oh, Guy—Lucy Atherstone!"

With a gesture of impatience Guy was about to answer, when something in the heavy fall of the little hand from his shoulder alarmed him, and lifting up the drooping head he saw that Maddy had fainted. Then back across the meadow Guy bore her to the cottage, where Flora, just returned from a neighbor's, whither she had gone upon an errand, was looking for her in much affright.

Up again into her little chamber Maddy was carried and laid upon the bed, which she never left until the golden harvest sheaves were gathered in, and the hot September sun was ripening the fruits of autumn. But now she had a new nurse, a constant attendant, who during the day seldom left her except to talk with and amuse Uncle Joseph, mourning below because no one sang to him or noticed him as Maddy used to do. He had not been sent to the asylum, as Maddy feared, but by way of relieving Flora had been taken to Farmer Green's, where he was so homesick and discontented that at Guy's instigation he was suffered to return to the cottage, crying like a little child when the old familiar spot was reached, kissing his armchair, the cook-stove, the tongs, Mrs. Noah, and Flora, and timidly offering to kiss the Lord Governor himself as he persisted in calling Guy, who declined the honor, but listened Bishops and Palaces.

The Lord Bishop of Norwich has given an interview in which he advocates the selling of the great episcopal houses and the reduction of the bishops' incomes.

His lordship mentions that he had to spend more than $15,000 when taking possession of the palace at Norwich, and that it cannot be kept up for less than $12,500 a year. If a smaller residence were provided his stipend might be reduced by $5,000, or $7,500 a year.

In connection with the bishop's proposal for a reduction of incomes, it is recalled that the Bishop of London stated not long ago that although his income is $50,000 a year, and he is unmarried, the cost of keeping up his palace at Fulham is so great that he finds it difficult to make both ends meet.

According to a Japanese newspaper 700 frogs were killed and 2,000 wounded in battling among themselves.

Spanish Schools.

The schools of Spain are inadequate and insanitary, the teachers are poorly paid and not always capable, and about half the people are illiterate. Yet nobody troubles about this deplorable state of things, and an excellent law which was passed half a century ago to enforce a kind of compulsory education is a dead letter.—Nuestro Tiempo, Madrid.

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. For surely, not one such heart in a hundred is in its real, actually diseased. It is almost always a matter that little nerve that really is all at fault, that obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs the right help, more power, more vitality, more controlling, more governing power. Without that the Heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have their own controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing Hearts. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffering heart disease. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—the popular prescription—is alone directed to these vital and vitalizing nerve centers. It builds them up—makes them real, genuine heart help.

If you would have strong Hearts, strong digestion, strengthen those Nerves—reestablish them as needed, with

ANTIGUA GOLD-COPPER Co.

Offers the Biggest and Most Attractive Mining Investment Now Before the Public.

ITS HOLDINGS ARE MINES--NOT PROSPECTS

With Vast Bodies of Ore Ready for the Mill, Now Nearing Completion.

THOMAS W. LAWSON

"Copper stocks offer the biggest opportunity for money making in the world to-day. A good copper mine is really a safe-deposit vault of stored up dividends which cannot be stolen or destroyed by fire, flood or famine."

CECIL RHODES

said: "Mining offers greater inducements than any other business in the world to make quick and great wealth."

CHARLES M. SCHWAB

says: "The big fortunes of the next twenty-five years will come from Mother Earth." Among all mining investments none stand ahead of copper for safety, permanency and profit.

Lay the Foundation for Your Fortune Today

THE ANTIGUA PROPERTIES

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company holdings consist of 531 acres, situated in Honduras, Central America, 100 miles southeast from Puerto Cortez, and midway between New Orleans and Panama. Development work is being pushed with all possible speed, and more than 1,500 feet of tunneling and shaft work has been completed. A 40 to 50-ton capacity gold-silver mill is in course of construction, and will be in operation before the close of the year.

Development work has conclusively proven that every acre of our holdings are rich in gold, copper and silver, and that every ton of this great ore body will yield a handsome profit on milling expense. The ore exposed on the surface does not require mining in the usual sense of the term, but may be obtained by quarrying. Engineers, experts, and others, according to estimates of experts, be quarried and treated for the gold and silver on an extensive scale at a cost of less than $1.00 a ton. Think of it! A solid mountain of rich ore, from the very grass roots of which may be washed gold.

Beyond a doubt Honduras has beneath her soil larger, richer deposits of copper, gold and silver than any other section of the American continent. Spain, during her sovereignty in that country, took out more than $300,000,000 in gold alone—and she scarcely scraped the Earth's surface. There is evidence that the pre-historic races knew how to mine and utilize copper—smelting it in their crude way.

The original incorporators of the Antigua Gold-Copper Company spent thousands of dollars of their own money in bringing this property to its present stage of development. They opened up the mine on every side with tunnels, crosscuts and shafts. They purchased machinery and began the erection of a gold-silver mill—now nearing completion. These men appreciated from the first that this mine was destined to become one of the greatest copper-gold-silver properties in America; and that it justified more extensive and more rapid development than they were able to make without the co-operation and financial assistance of the public.

The average assay values of Antigua ores, ranging from the surface to a depth of 200 feet, is over 5 per cent copper. This is above the average of the ore of the world's greatest producers, the famous Anaconda yielding ore which averages only a little over 3 per cent. The Anaconda has little other ore value, while our property, in addition to the copper, carries $2.00 to $1.400 a ton in gold and silver.

WHY STOCK IS SOLD

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company finds itself in precisely the same position as the farmer who has a larger farm than he can cultivate with the capital in hand. He knows that with additional capital and assistance he could make the land yield abundant crops and enormous profits. In the same way we intend, by the investment of additional capital, to bring our enormous ore bodies to a highly profitable state of development at the earliest possible moment. For this reason a limited amount of treasury stock is offered the public. In this way funds will be available for immediate use in purchasing additional machinery and for continuing vigorous development of the property.

THERE ARE NO PREFERRED SHARES AND NO BONDS TO COME FIRST IN THE DIVISION OF PROFITS.

and your shares will earn as much as a like number of shares owned by any other stockholder in the company. Each share CARRIES WITH IT THE RIGHT TO VOTE, so that with a single share you have every right, privilege and protection possessed by any other stockholder.

Stock is now being sold at $2.50 a share, and this stock, we firmly believe, will, within a year, be selling at its par value of $5.00 a share, or higher; nor will it stop there. If you are desirous of permanently increasing your income, of making an investment that is not only secure, but immensely profitable, reserve shares TO-DAY.

Such an investment opportunity can scarcely be repeated. It is made possible only by extraordinary natural conditions. Millions of dollars of copper, gold and silver will be marketed from the mines—fortunes will be reaped as a result of the prompt seizure of the opportunity we offer you to-day.

REPORT OF AN EXPERT

Much weight can justly be given the statement of a properly qualified and reliable mining engineer. Such is the character of T. W. Foster, from whose report on Antigua we make the following extracts:

"From the development work done and the indications shown by the croppings, I am convinced this is one of the largest gold-copper deposits in existence, and under proper development will make one of the richest mining properties in America. * * * I consider this ore an ideal smelting proposition, there being an abundance of iron, lime and silica in close proximity. There is plenty of water for power and milling purposes, and an abundance of timber on the property. * * *

"A large amount of development work has been done on this property in tunnels, drifts and shafts, ranging from 25 to possibly 200 feet in length. * * * This work has all been in ore—in fact, the ore body on the surface is shown to be fully one-half mile wide by two miles in length. To judge from the development work done, this property is all ore—no matter where work was started, ore was encountered.

"The company is erecting a mill, consisting of one five-stamp and three Huntingtons, to work the surface ore. This surface ore is mostly free milling, the copper and galena sulphides being oxidized, freeing the gold, and being readily amalgamated. But I am confident that at no very great depth copper sulphides will be encountered, as there are many places in this great ore body where the sulphides crop to the surface. I have taken a dozen samples from various places on the lead, and from these made free gold tests, finding an average of over $4.00 a ton in FREE gold, and from 5 to 25 per cent copper. Native copper is frequently seen in this ore. If the Antigua mines continue in depth as on the surface, a 1,000 ton smelter will not work it out in 100 years. * * *

"* * * With good management and proper development, it will be but a short time until the stock of the company will be worth more than par. I fully believe that if this great ore body is properly developed there is a mine here worth many millions of dollars.

John D. Roddick, Lyndhurst Tells His Experience

After Two Years' Suffering with Lame Back and Weak Kidneys, Was Cured by Dr. Hamilton.

Lyndhurst, Ont., Oct. 26—The following statement made by Mr. Roddick, lumber merchant, tells of the remarkable knowledge possessed by Dr. Hamilton:

"Two years ago I had grippe which settled in my back and kidneys. I was sickly and very miserable, suffered great pain and inconvenience. Different remedies were tried without benefit and then I decided to try Dr. Hamilton's Mandrake and Butternut Pills. I derived immense good from their use in short time. When two boxes were used I was immeasurably better. To-day I am well. Neighbors suffering from kidney and back trouble have also been cured by Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which I am convinced is the best medicine for regulating and cleansing the system. They are very mild but do the work just the same."

Gold Found Near Buckhorn

It seems that a Harvey farmer, Mr. F. Plewd, has discovered on his farm, gold bearing ore on his farm. Mr. J. Johnston of this city was recently out in Harvey, and brought samples to this city. The samples have been forwarded to Toronto, and if the report from that city is as good as anticipated, Mr. Plewd has a veritable gold mine at his command. Mr. Plewd's farm is situated about three miles north of Buckhorn, where he owns many hundred acres.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

NAVAL MYSTERIES.

War Vessels of the United States That Have Disappeared.

Curious disappearances and accidents to our warships characterised the early history of our navy, and in spite of all the efforts of the navy department to explain the cause of the disasters many of them are as absolute mysteries today as when they happened.

When the government built ten new gunboats to prosecute the war against Tripoli in 1805, they were sent out as soon as they were finished and before they were named. Each one was given a number and dispatched to the seat of the war. No. 7 sailed from New York July 20, 1805, under the command of Lieutenant Ogelvie, and after she cleared Sandy Hook light she was never heard from again. She went down with all on board before she had even been named.

A most extraordinary accident was that which happened to the corvette Monongahela at Santa Cruz in 1867.

While at anchor in the harbor a tremendous tidal wave lifted her upon its crest and carried her clean over the town of Frederichstadt and back again without injuring the town or the boat to any great extent. The receding wave landed her on the beach instead of in the deep water of the harbor, and it cost our government $100,000 to float her again. Fully as strange was the fate of the sloop-of-war Waterea. She was anchored in the harbor of Arica, Peru, in 1868, when a huge tidal wave swept inland and flooded the whole city. The wave carried the sloop several miles inland and finally landed her in the midst of a tropical forest. It was impossible to release her from such a peculiar position, and the government sold her for a nominal sum. The purchasers turned the vessel into a hotel, and the remains of that once formidable war vessel loom up in the tropical forest today as a monument to the power of tidal waves.

Among the other cases of disaster which are attributed to the violence of the waves or weather there is none more interesting than that of the strange fate of the Saratoga. When she sailed from Philadelphia in October, 1780, under the command of Captain James Young, there was no finer or handsomer war vessel afloat. That she was as formidable as she was attractive was soon demonstrated in a practical way. After cruising around a short time she captured three British vessels in succession, and then, with her prizes, she started to return to Philadelphia, but off the Delaware capes she encountered a British ship of the line. As the Saratoga carried only eighteen guns and the Intrepid was a seventy-four gun ship, Captain Young considered it safer to run away. The enemy did not chase her far, but returned to protect and recapture the British prizes. The Saratoga sailed away in the very teeth of a storm, and she was never heard from again.

In Time of Trouble.

That the folds of Old Glory afford good shelter in any land is the obvious point of this New York Times story:

During one of the frequent revolutions in Haiti a party of Americans made a riding tour of the mountains. One morning a member of the party suddenly drew rein with an ejaculation and pointed to a lone ridge where an old tattered stars and stripes fluttered on a bamboo pole.

"We must pay our respects," some one said.

After some search they found a path that zigzagged up to the wild place. They followed it and at last discovered an aged negro sitting before his wattled hut smoking his pipe, while he kept an eye on the flag.

"What's the flag for?" some one asked.

"Pertection," said the old man quietly. "I heah day done begin anudder revolution, so I put hit up. Yas, suh, I come heah twenty-two yeahs ago an' hab dat wiv meh. I'm Georgy, as cook on a steamer out o' Savannah.

"Lak de place? Yas, suh. Plant yam an' coffee an' cassava. Revolutions doan trubble dis niggah. Every time dey revolute down yander up goes de flag, an' dat's all dere is to hit."

A Futile Offer.

Nobody had ever accused Nathan Harlowe of indulging in romance or sentiment. When it came to a question of young Jared Parker's marrying one of Mr. Harlowe's daughters, the practical father was amazed to find how little influence his wisdom had.

"Got his mind all set on Phemie," Mr. Harlowe remarked in a dazed tone to one of his neighbors, "and I couldn't turn him no more'n I could turn an injine! I put it to him plain and offered him inducements, but 'twasn't a mite o' use.

"'Marthy's the eldest and ought to be married fust by rights,' I said to him, 'and, more'n that, she's a suitable height. You'd oughtn't to take a little short piece like Phemie, tall as you are!' But I couldn't convince him.

"'I'm a-going to have Phemie and that mahogany bureau she's told me about,' he says, laughing.

"'Takes alive, man!' I said to him. 'There's two bureaus goes with Marthy, and maybe three!' But he just laughed and shook his head, so then I gave up contending with him once and for all. There's no reason to him."

Good Times in Turkey.

"You people of the warmer climates have little idea of our exhilarating winter sports," said the tourist from New England.

"Oh, I don't know," responded the Turk. "We have some pretty lively little slaying parties over in Armenia."—Kansas City Times.

Harriers Have Arranged Program

The Y.M.C.A. Harriers have decided to hold their big athletic meet in the Brock street rink, on Tuesday night, December 3rd, two weeks from Tuesday night, and are busy at work in arranging the program. The chief feature, of course, will be the presence of the Irish-Canadian team from Toronto, which will include Tom Longboat, Tom Coley, Percy Sellen, Hilton Greene, the Mohawk runner, O'Rourke, the great shot putter, and T. C. Flannagan, the manager of the club.

That our American forests abound in plants which possess the most valuable medicinal virtues is abundantly attested by scores of the most eminent medical writers and teachers. Even the untutored Indians had discovered the usefulness of many native plants before the advent of the white race. This information, imparted freely to the whites, led the latter to continue investigations until to-day we have a rich assortment of most valuable American medicinal roots.

Dr. Pierce believes that our American forests afford in most valuable medicinal roots for the cure of most obstinate and fatal diseases, if we would properly investigate them; and in confirmation of this conviction, he points with pride to the almost marvelous cures effected by his "Golden Medical Discovery," which has proven itself to be the most efficient stomach tonic, liver invigorator, heart tonic and regulator and blood cleanser known to medical science. Dyspepsia, or indigestion, torpid liver, functional and even valvular and other affections of the heart yield to its curative action. The reason why it cures these and many other affections, is clearly shown in a little book of extracts from the standard medical works which is mailed free to any address by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., to all sending request for the same.

Not less marvelous, in the unparalleled cure it is constantly making of woman's many peculiar affections, weaknesses and distressing derangements, is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, as is amply attested by thousands of unsolicited testimonials contributed by grateful patients who have been cured by it of catarrhal pelvic drains, painful periods, irregularities, prolapsus and other displacements, caused by weakness, ulceration of uterus and kindred affections, often after many other advertised medicines and physicians had failed.

Both the above mentioned medicines are wholly made up from the glyceric extracts of native, medicinal roots. The processes employed in their manufacture were original with Dr. Pierce, and they are carried on by skilled chemists and pharmacists with the aid of apparatus and appliances specially designed and built for this purpose. Both medicines are entirely free from alcohol and all other harmful, habit-forming drugs. A full list of their ingredients is printed on each bottle-wrapper.

THE ROMAINE STREET SEWER INVESTIGATION BY CITY COUNCIL

15 Inch Pipe Recently Added to 28 Feet of Construction Pipes laid in Seven Inches of Water--Many were Found Disjointed--How About the Other Sewers?

The Committee of the Whole Council last night went into a court of enquiry into the causes of the defective work on the Aylmer-Romaine street sewer.

Engineer Hay, Inspector Wm. White and the two Italian pipe layers were each called upon the carpet, and exhaustively interrogated on the matter. The committee room assumed the character of a police court and no means were neglected to sift the trouble to the bottom. The evidence submitted pointed pretty convincingly to the fact that the work should never have been attempted in this particular locality under existing conditions last year. The pipe on Aylmer street was laid in quite seven inches of water, according to the testimony of Anthony, and Wm. White, and both agreed that proper appliances to overcome this difficulty as far as possible were not at hand. The engineer and inspector White, both seem to have had doubts about satisfactorily completing the work, which however was, according to the former's evidence, hurried along in deference to the School Board's frequently expressed need for its completion.

The committee after three hours sitting decided to proceed with the work of relaying the Aylmer street section; but from the expressions of a majority of the members, this matter will not end here.

There were present, Mayor R. P. McWilliams, Aldermen Duncan, Elliott, McIntyre, Wilson, Morgan, Morrow, Leary, Bradburn, Stevenson, Tovey and Phelan.

ALD DUNCAN'S COMPLAINT.

The chairman of the Board of Works, who had visited the spot several times last spring when the men were cleaning it out by means of drawing chains through the pipe, Sometimes W. H. White, the city's foreman of this work, was there, and at times he was not to be seen. Ald. Duncan could not see that the men were doing any good; and instructed Mr. White to open up the sewer in his presence and ascertain the seturi trouble. White did so, but did not seek his (Ald. Duncan's) presence; he simply reported that he had pulled a brick out of the sewer; but otherwise the work was all right. Recently a portion of the Aylmer street section had been opened up by his orders and on inspection he had found the pipe joints in some places one to three inches apart. No cement or tow seems to have been used on the joints In 110 feet of work every pipe end was open. He had consequently ordered the opening up and relaying of the whole of the Aylmer street section.

The mayor said Mr Hay, while recognizing the difficulty of this work had not reported that the work could not be done satisfactorily. Mr. Hay claims that he had seen most of the pipes laid and they were cemented together tightly.

EVANS' REPORT.

The street commissioner, H. Evans, reported under date of November 21st, as follows.

As requested by you I hereby report that we have opened up Aylmer street sewer from the man hole on Romaine street going toward the school.

We uncovered the pipe for 40 feet and found the joints were not properly cemented, we sealed joints as we went along. Three joints were entirely disconnected; we had to begin to raise and relay the pipes. Those which we uncovered this afternoon we found the joints were very well made.

The above joints being apart the balance of the pipes will have to be patched up and relaid to next man hole. The sewer on Romaine street, which I examined through the man hole, I found clogged, and got the fire hose to flush it out; it is running well at the present time.

Ald. Bradburn did not see how the engineer could see most of the pipes laid in a couple of hours each day. Neither did he think it fair to hold to Neither did he think it fair to hold the engineer responsible for work which he could not possibly supervise himself owing to so many calls on his time.

Ald Duncan remarked that he had been down on the spot every day recently, morning, noon and night, and every pipe he saw had been improperly laid.

Ald. Leary.—"It is a mistake to do such work by day labor, and appoint a man out of a foundry as inspector."

EVAN'S EVIDENCE.

The street commissioner was here examined behind closed doors as were all the remainder of those interested. He had had nothing to do with construction of sewer. He did not think if the pipes were laid properly in the first place the action of water or sand would loosen the joints. It was impossible to cement the pipes all the way round because they were laid partly in water, and he saw many of them laid. That was owing to existing and natural conditions. The man could not always get oakum in the pipe joints, owing to the way they are made. He could not say the council would be warranted in trying to repair this sewer, as it is below water level, and water is continually carrying sand through thee pipes. The work was executed under unfavorable conditions, and should not have been carried on. He thought the pipes might have been disjointed in the method taken of clearing them of sand and slush as laid. Water had been pumped through from behind the construction, and a bag of sand then drawn through the pipes; the witnesses have declared that frequently it took two men to accomplish the latter task, and this might account for some of the pipes having been drawn apart. He is in charge of the work of uncovering and relaying the Aylmer street section. His men put the pumps ahead of the pipes and draw the water away from them instead of pumping it through them as done when they were laid in the first place. Then they stop the outlet while another pipe is being quickly adjusted. He opined that the sewer when relaid by him would be satisfactory so far as the actual work is concerned.

MR. CUPOLI.

the Italian, who is relaying the pipes now, said he had found some pipes apart from one to three inches, he has not found any old tow in the joints. He opened up he [illegible] thought he could make a good job if he takes his time.

ENGINEER HAY.

Said his previous reports were correct as submitted. So far as the Aylmer street section is concerned, the 28 feet opened up is satisfactory. He has seen seven joints uncovered and they are all right. The disconnected joints reported undoubtedly had been pulled apart by drawing the sand plug through. He had never seen more than one man doing this, and had cautioned him to keep the pipe in position by means of a crow bar. He had seen the pipe submerged one half and sometimes its full width. He had visited the work at least once each day, when he saw one joint made. The water and sand were forced away until lower flangy of pipe was in view, and then jointed as quickly as possible. Cement and basket were used in the joints. He had not reported to the effect that the sewer could not be satisfactorily laid, and had expressed himself as satisfied with Mr. White. It is correct that he had visited the work an hour or two every day and seen greater part of the pipe laid. Mr. White had never advised him to stop the work, although he had expressed his discouragement owing to the nature of the work. But he had always encouraged him to proceed with the work as the School Board were continually pressing him to hurry along its completion. The levels of the King Edward school had not been struck by him, and were arrived at before.

Mrs. Fowler Gets $30 Without Costs

Case Tried Yesterday at High Court of Justice Before Judge Mayhee

At the afternoon session of the court yesterday a case was tried affecting an elderly woman's legacy of legal trouble. In this case it seems that a Mrs. Robinson went to board some time since with a Mrs. Fowler. The deceased, Mrs. Robinson seems to have had some understanding whereby she was to get board and odging for $2 per week, and it was claimed by Mrs Fowler, keeper of the boarding house that Mrs. Robinson was to have left her at her death money amounting to about $700, to pay for the trouble and expense of her keep. Before Mrs Robinson died she gave Mrs. Fowler a cheque for a certain sum. Mrs. Fowler took the cheque to the Bank of Toronto and, after ascertaining that their were funds for it, did not cash the same.

Among the witnesses heard were, Mr. Manley Jackson, who said he identified a cheque which he first saw about Aug. 1st.

Fred Baker was next called. He was boarding at the Fowler's, when Mrs. Robinson was there. The old lady wanted much care and attention.

Mrs. Dremner the next witness, went to board in Nov., 1906. Witness left Fowler's about the first of June. Mrs. Robinson took nervous spells. Mrs. Robinson could not go out alone. Mrs. Fowler used to go out with her. Witness used to stay in with Mrs Robinson. Witness slept in the same room with Mrs Robinson.

Mr. P. Campbell recalled that Mrs. Fowler and Mrs. Robinson called at his book and it was said the former would be well paid.

This ended the case for the plaintiff.

For the defence, Mr. R. E. Wood called Mrs. Young, who boarded at Mrs. Fowler's. Witness would have boarded Mrs. Robinson at $2 a week and take chances on what was coming at her death. She is a niece of the old lady.

Mr W. Robinson, a nephew of the deceased, gave a description of how he got his farm from husband of the deceased.

His lordship said he would allow plaintiff one dollar a week over and above the $2 paid for the time she was at Fowler's, this amounting to some $30, without costs. Mr. Kerr acted for plaintiff and Mr R. E. Wood for the defence.

Hartley Showing Up Well

Toronto Nov. 22—David Hartley, the Peterborough pedestrian, who is to meet Jimmy Reynolds, the Port Hope walking barber, at Mutual street rink on Saturday, in a twelve-hour walking match, is training hard at the Woodbine and though the track was heavy he was out for a long tramp yesterday morning. Wednesday he covered 15 miles on the road.

Reynolds is expected in Toronto today. He has been doing his training at Port Hope, but will put on the finishing touches here, probably at Exhibition track.

A Port Hope despatch says that he covered twelve miles recently in two hours, while the best time made by Hartley in his training was about 5 1-2 miles and hour.

Jake Sunfield's Wife Writes Again--Ready to Forgive Him Now

Informs Man Who Hangs Next Week That He Can't Send Letter to Children

Hopes He will Write to Her--Uncle Commits Suicide

Hamilton, Nov 21—Jake Sunfield, the murderer, who will walk to the gallows one week from tomorrow and pay with his life the penalty of his crime, unless the effort made to get him a new trial succeeds, has received another letter from his wife. Whom he is accused of deserting in Ireland, with her four small children. In her first letter Mrs. Tamillo omitted the condemned man with the fact that he was dying for another woman and sent him an old love letter, in which he professed his affection for her. The prisoner examined the letter after reading it, and showed a very bitter spirit towards his wife. He did not answer the letter. The epistle that Sunfield received yesterday shows a more forgiving spirit but made no impression on the murderer.

"Dear Jake Tamillo," the woman writes, "I must drop you a few lines and tell you that this is no fault of mine, that you are there behind the bars. You did not want to take care of your children, and now you must suffer, and I want to tell you that you can't write to the children as they don't get no letters. You can write it to me, and I will tell them. I will forgive you all that you have done to me and the children, and I hope that you will excuse yourself in the other world. I am very sorry to say that you die, but it cannot be helped. I send you the last regards of all the children. They are all getting fat, and have good care. Answer as soon as you can, for I am waiting for answers. I know you don't care to write to me. I sent you back the letter and I saved that. This is all for tonight, so good-bye.

"P.S.—Jake, your uncle Frank Tamillo has killed himself, and has been buried. Mrs. Radzyki is still in Canada. Write. Mary Tamillo."

Although Sunfield has only another week to live, he has shown no signs of a breakdown, sleeping well, eating hearty meals, and displaying no signs of worry.

In Bad Shape

Ottawa, Nov. 22.—Four of the Ottawa College team are in the hospital as a result of Saturday's game. Nick Bawlf, the great full-back, who had his shoulder broken a few weeks ago and just out of the hospital, went to the game Saturday, and in the crush that followed had his arm so badly hurt that he had to return to the institution. Street, one of the scrimmage men, had his ankle broken. Captain Ebbretault, the star wing-man, had his hip hurt, and Joron's shoulder is out of gear, and all three are in the hospital.

As a result there may be no game with Peterborough for the Canadian Rugby championship on Saturday.

SEVEN MEN MET DEATH FROM DYNAMITE EXPLOSION

A Charge was Prematurely Ignited, at Dryden, with Fatal Results--All the Men Were Foreigners

Kenora, Nov. 21.—The explosion yesterday on construction work on the G.T.P. occurred at Webster's Camp, No 6, some twenty-five miles north of Dryden.

It is regarded as one of the most appalling accidents happening in that locality for some years.

Three holes had been sprung the day before, and were regarded as perfectly cool.

Just a few minutes before the accident a satisfactory inspection had been made of the works by Division Engineer Rehan.

At the time of the disaster the foreman and powder-man were lowering a hole with black powder, and the foreman had just turned to secure more powder when almost instantly the explosion followed, killing the powder-man and six others, who were at work in a rock cut near and who were crushed beyond recognition by the falling rocks and debris.

The foreman, who so narrowly escaped, as like the victims, is a Swede.

Besides the Division engineer several of the officials of the works had been visitors at the scene of the disaster just a few minutes before.

Immediately after word reached here of the disaster Drs. W. J. and J. R. Greene and Dr. Chapman, coroner, left for the scene. An inquest will be held today.

The names of the dead and injured are not yet known.

NO NEWS AT OTTAWA

Ottawa, Nov. 21.—The Eastern Construction Company has the contract for the construction of fifty-two miles of the G.T.P. north of Kenora, on which section the fatal dynamite explosion near Dryden occurred. About 1,000 men are employed, nearly all foreigners. Mr. Alexander McDougall, managing director, has received no word from the scene as yet.

The line on the Port William to Superior Junction branch. The Transcontinental Commission has heard nothing of the disaster.

WINNIPEG WARE-HOUSES BURNED--$144,000 LOSS

Winnipeg, Nov. 21.—Damage to the extent of $144,000 was caused by a most spectacular fire here last night which was finally got under control after midnight, after raging several hours. The blaze started in an old stable, and is thought to be of incendiary origin. It wiped out a warehouse belonging to Frost and Wood, implement manufacturers, and then spread to Dyson's pickle factory. Jumping to the Rat Portage Lumber Company's sash and door factory, it burned that to the ground, together with the warehouse of Merrick & Anderson, hardware dealers.

The loss is distributed as follows: Dyson pickle factory, $8,000, fully insured; Frost & Wood, warehouse, $7,000, Rat Portage Lumber Co.'s sash factory, $25,000, stock $85,000, insurance, $100,000; Merrick & Anderson, warehouses, $5,000; stock, $25,000, insurance, $20,000. Other minor losses, $2,000.

Awful Experiences of Vancouver Men--Lashed to Boat--Died from Exposure

Vancouver, B.C., Nov. 20. — Alex. Molden, aged eighteen and Richard Hudson, aged fifty, died from frowning or exposure. They are business men and had been on a hunting trip. The third member of the party being Arthur Chapman. Their boat capsized Monday night less than ten miles from Vancouver. Tuesday morning Molden swam ashore, but the cliffs were too precipitous and seas running too high for him to gain a foothold.

A Splendid Recipe to Clean the Blood

Said to be Harmless and Better That Patent Medicine

All medical authorities are agreed that the blood is the great source of disease or of health in the human system. If the blood is pure, the individual is strong and healthy. If the blood is impure or diseased then there is sickness or decay in the whole system.

Rheumatism is strictly a blood disease. It is caused by excessive uric acid. Sores, pimples, etc., mean bad blood. Catarrhal affections must be treated through the blood to get permanent results. To get well, to feel strong, hearty and vigorous one must have good clean blood and lots of it. You can't clean the blood thoroughly unless the kidneys are made active. Bad blood means clogged, inactive kidneys and liver which cause, too, such symptoms as backache, nervousness, bladder and urinary difficulties and other sympathetic troubles.

Here is a simple home remedy, add the Recipe for making it up is as follows:

Fluid Extract Dandelion one-half ounce, Compound Kargon one ounce, Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla three ounces. Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime. This ingredients can be obtained at any good prescription pharmacy at small cost.

Here the readers of this paper have a simple yet powerful and effective remedy for all forms of blood, kidney and bladder diseases which should relieve rheumatism and catarrhal affections and replace that weak, worn-out feeling with strength, vigor and health.

This prescription is considered a [illegible] specialist and being made [illegible] only is harmless [illegible] it at home. Try [illegible] investigating in the [illegible] connections of the patent [illegible].

Sudden Death in Douro Township

Miss Mary Tobin Expires Suddenly After Attending a Wedding

Yesterday morning the fair township of Douro, had a sudden death within its borders that has cast a gloom over a wide-spread circle of citizens. Miss Mary Tobin of that township, just after returning from a festive occasion, the wedding of friends, suddenly dropped dead. It seems that Miss Tobin had been attending the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. John McManus, when the hand of death beckoned her away. The deceased resided with her brother in Douro township, about three miles this side of the village of Warsaw. Returning home, she suddenly became ill with heart failure, and passed away before medical assistance could be summoned.

The late Miss Tobin was highly respected and had a large circle of warm-hearted friends. Besides her brother Maurice, with whom she resided, are two other brothers, Thomas of Nauna and Cornelius in the United States, and one sister, Mrs. Sheehan of Rochester, are left to mourn her loss.

Roller Rink to Close Soon

The Peterborough roller rink will close for the year on Saturday, Nov. 30th, and will re-open again as soon as the winter is over. The company report having had a very successful season and hope in the spring that they may be able to improve the rink. The directors are arranging to hold some sort of an "at home" for the skaters before they close for the season.

Dave Hartley will Walk from Toronto to Montreal in May

It seems that Dave Hartley, the Peterborough champion pedestrian, will not rest content with his well-earned laurels, but has decided to undertake a more ambitious and longer walk than that which he so successfully concluded recently.

He will, most likely, according to Mr. Geo. Stevens, attempt to make a record for long distance walking from Toronto to Montreal. Hartley will start his long trip some time during the month of May and will attempt to make the distance of 360 miles in six days.

Mr. Stevens has already made plans for this big event which if accomplished will advertise Peterborough in all the towns and villages between the two big cities. He proposes to secure an automobile for the occasion and secure a staff of four or five young girls to sell pamphlets containing a history of Hartley and facts about Peterborough at every stopping place. These will be sold at a small price each to defray expenses all along the route. He also intends to provide special attire for the girls as well as for the walking wonder. "Peterborough will be written on all their outer garments and the emblems of Canada will also be conspicuous.

Mr. Stevens expects that the people along the road between Toronto and Montreal will assist the walker financially and he sees no difficulty in Hartley performing the feat inside the six days.

May Wear Hats in Theatres

Montreal, Nov. 22.—That Canadian theater managements have no right under the general law to require patrons, either men or women, to remove their hats, is the gist of the opinion of Judge Pichie given in police court yesterday. Judgment was given in connection with a charge of assault laid against the constable of a moving picture theater by Miss Robertine Barry, a well known authoress, who was ejected from the National theater because she refused to remove her hat. Judge Pichie said the only remedy for theatrical managers was to secure passage of a bylaw by the city council making it an offence to wear a hat in theaters.

Chosen Friends in Debate Tonight

Tonight the Canadian Order of Chosen Friends will hold an interesting meeting in the Sons of England Hall. The main feature of the meeting will be a splendid debate on "Resolved that a girl from the country would make a more suitable wife than a girl from the city."

One grouchy old batchelor has already been mean enough to say that any married man who belongs to a good stout club in the suit case for his honeymoon can make a good wife out of either town or country girl. A meek looking but saxy married man replied to this by saying, "such methods are out of date. All you got to do to win out in the everlasting matrimonial embrogho, is to let the women have the last word and make her think she has won the argument. If you do this you save lots of trouble, and wifey thinks you're "It."

POLICE

The first case up under the recently passed bylaw forbidding the burning of rubbish, etc., was tried at yesterday session of the police court. The defendant was Mr. J. T. Butcher, the second-hand furniture dealer of Water street. Mr. Butcher stated that he did it in ignorance of the law, and had applied to the chief for permission to do so, but this was before the bylaw was passed. The magistrate allowed him to go with a warning not to do it again.

A young man named Arthur Fowler, was charged with creating a disturbance and breaking a window in the Canadian Chinese Cafe at the corner of George and King streets. The Chinaman said that Fowler came in with another man and ordered a meal. After it was over they tried to get out without paying. The Chinaman made a grab at Fowler, and during the confusion around the door the prisoner put his arm through the window. Witness said that he began to get abusive and swore. The Chinaman told Fowler that there was a lady in the shop, and to stop swearing.

Fowler was then called to give his story. He said that he went down with a friend to get a meal. He said that he had had four glasses of whiskey before going in. On coming out he said the Chinaman took hold of him. Witness admitted that he swore, but said it was the plaintiff who had put his arm through the window.

The Celestial had his left arm tied up when he appeared in court.

His worship fined Fowler $2 and costs. The latter collected the amount from friends in the court.

John Caridimo and a woman named Mrs. Watman appeared before his worship on a charge of not sending their children to school. The sons of both of these people have been away from school for some time. Mrs. Watman was allowed to go, promising to see that her son went to school. John Caridimo's case was enlarged until today.

And it is so thoroughly harmless and safe, that Dr. Shoop tells mothers everywhere to give it without hesitation, even to very young babes. The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a long healing mountainous shrub furnish the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough, and heals the sore and sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. Simply a reasons plant extract, that helps to heal sobbing lungs. The Spaniards call this shrub which the doctor uses, "The Sacred Herb." Demand Dr. Shoop's. Take no other. All dealers.

Hip Broken by an Escaped Saw-log

Donald Robinson in Nicholls Hospital But is Doing Well

On Tuesday last as employes of the Cavendish Lumber Co., were skidding logs, a chain broke letting the logs go free on a course of destruction to unfortunate human life or limbs. Unfortunately Donal Robinson, an employee of the company was struck on the left hip by one of them and hurled to the ground. His companions found that his left leg was powerless and judging from the sound of a breaking bone, they realized that he needed medical help.

Although Mr Robinson was suffering excruciating pain, he explained to the men what he thought had resulted. Every thing possible was done for the injured man. It was finally decided to bring Mr. Robinson to the Nicholls hospital, in this city and his cousin, Capt. Robinson, decided to drive him down.

Shortly after the accident Capt. Robinson, of the steamer Empress, was on his way to the city with the injured man on a 60-mile drive. Dr. Neal was notified by telephone and had all preparations in readiness for the reception and treatment of Mr. Robinson.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

MOTHERS MUST HAVE ABUNDANT STRENGTH

No Mother Can Rear a Healthy Child Unless She is Strong Herself.

A woman's anxieties multiply tenfold about the time the new baby is expected.

If her strength is exhausted and her blood weak, it goes hard in the hour of trial.

Ferrozone should be used because it makes the blood nutritious and rich. By instilling new strength into every part of the body, it uplifts your spirits at once.

Childbirth is certainly made easier by Ferrozone. The following statement expresses the earnest gratitude of Mrs. M. E. Duckworth, of Durham. It is a woman's story—of her own case—told that other women may profit by her experience:

"Before baby was born I was in a weak, miserable, nervous state. I had no reserve strength. I tried to build up, but nothing helped me. I looked upon the coming day with dread, knowing I was unequal to the occasion.

"Ferrozone braced me up at once. It gave me strength and spirits, brought back my nerve and cheerfulness. From my experience with Ferrozone I recommend it to all expectant mothers."

There is more concentrated nourishment in Ferrozone than you can get from anything else. It supplies what weak systems need. Simply take one tablet at meals and you'll feel benefited in a thousand ways.

Ferrozone makes healthy, virile, vigorous women; try it. 50c per box of fifty tablets, or six for $2.50, at all dealers.

IS THE CIVILIZATION ?

The Chief of Police of Vancouver is reported to have said that there might be further Oriental riots in that city. There was a time not very long ago, when Europeans, who landed in China, Japan or Korea were the victims of outrages. Occasionally we hear from the interior of China stories of the manner in which missionaries are treated. This makes our blood boil, as it used to boil in the days when the reception accorded to foreigners in the coast cities of that country was the reverse of friendly. True, we explained the outrages by saying that nothing better could be expected from a lot of benighted heathens, but all the same we sent warships to shell them into common decency. We did not try to protect the missionaries in the interior by physical force, because they are too remote, but we claim damages and insist on them being paid. Of course this is because we are the exponents of Christian civilization, the elect of the earth, who have a divine right to walk roughshod over heathen wherever we see fit. What is the use of being a white civilized Christian if any old heathen has any rights which we are bound to respect. Suppose however, that we happened to be heathen, with complexions that were somewhat yellow, and suppose that we went to a land, which was always telling about the beauties of its religion, the fairness of its laws, the protection accorded every one. And suppose that all we asked in that country was the right to work for people who wished to employ us. And suppose that the population, or a portion of them, came against us with violence and destroyed our property, endangered our lives, and tried to drive us out of the country. What would we think about it? We do not want Asiatics in this country. On this point there is little or no difference of opinion. But those people who think that the problem presented by the contact of the two races can be disposed of by rioting in the streets of Vancouver are sadly mistaken. Indeed its solution is rendered the more difficult thereby. The one claim, which the white race could make over the yellow races, which the latter were compelled to admit, was that we protected all people in their legal rights, and that there was safety for all law-abiding persons under our flags. If the Orient is taught that this claim has no foundation in fact, the consequences may be exceedingly serious. Let every legitimate effort be made to prevent an influx of Orientals into Canada; but let us not forget that those who are already here, and those who may legally come here in the future, are entitled to just the same protection from the law as are those of us who were born in the country. We cannot advance any claim to civilization if we make a distinction between the color of men's skins when it comes to their right to live unmolested in a community so long as they obey the laws.

S PERB OPPORTUNITY FOR GOOD INVESTMENT

the market a second allotment of their capital stock, the proceeds of which are to be used in erecting a large copper smelter for the treatment of the rich copper ores.

But from being a mere prospect, the property holding comprises mines already in an advanced stage of development, which a gold-silver mill of ample capacity to treat its output of ore for these values, and it has now practically reached the point where it can be classed as a producing property. The mines, which are located in Spanish Honduras, are among the few properties, so far discovered which yield ores running a combination of gold-silver and copper; and the assays thereof run into very high figures.

The officers, board of directors and principal stockholders of the company include men who stand very high in the financial and business world of Louisiana, and they have presented to investors in this section, though their local agents, a proposition well worthy of careful consideration, and one which promises very large returns in dividends than can be realized from many, many other classes of securities. It is claimed that the gold-silver mills referred to will take out sufficient bullion in these metals to pay all operating expenses and a profit besides, and still leave the richer copper values for treatment in the smelter, to erect which this allotment of stock referred to is being sold.

As to the possible income from an investment of this kind, it may be interesting to note that in the transcript of the testimony of United States Senator Clark in the litigation of W. A. Clark vs. Geo. A. Treadwell, the senator stated "He believed the Chemical National Bank of New York was the only large business enterprise that paid as much as 120 per cent. a year outside the copper mining industry."

Banks may fail; mercantile or commercial houses may meet with disastrous seasons and go to the wall; manipulation may cause railroad stocks or bonds to drop to low values; legislative regulation or investigations may produce a slump in insurance stocks—in fact, the shadow of "hard times" may hang over an entire country,—but the constantly increasing demand for precious metals still continues, and out of all the vast multitude of interests which are effected by such conditions, the mining industry alone remains unshaken.

In such times as those referred to, the value of gold is always greater than during the time of plenty. The same applies to silver; and with the thousands of uses to which copper is now put, and for which it is absolutely essential, copper, too, may (or rather, must) be classed as a precious metal and, therefore, free from those influences which may shake the very foundations of other lines of business or commerce.

Therefore, since gold, silver and copper play so important a part in maintaining the balance of credits in times of great financial stress, and so long as they alone can weather a monetary storm, it requires no keen insight and very little calculating to realize that holdings in a company which is producing all three of these metals constitute very, very valuable securities for any investor, whether his interests be large or small.

There are very few instances recorded of developed properties which have found in their ores a combination of gold-copper-silver values, and they have always proven the most profitable of all mining properties. Such are the holdings of the Antigua Gold-Copper Company of New Orleans, Louisiana, who have made arrangements for representation in this section by the Peterborough Brokerage Company of this city; and who are presenting to investors of Ontario a proposition which will be found a most attractive one by those who investigate it.

Their mines are not prospects. They are already developed. Tunnels have been run at various places in their holdings and in each and every instance the result has been the same,—the production of ore rich in gold, silver and copper. Out of nine different assays, the lowest value per ton was $15.54 and the highest $1,468.18, while the highest value of ore per ton produced during last June by eleven of the largest western mines was that from the North Butte, $19.51,—and the North Butte mine has paid $5,000,000 in dividends on a capital of $6,000,000. The comparison between North Butte and Antigua hardly requires further comment.

A gold-silver mill has been completed to treat the gold-silver values and is practically ready for completion. It will pay all operating expenses and a profit besides, leaving still unconsidered the rich copper ores, for which a smelter is required. The first allotment of this stock was quickly taken up by Louisiana investors; but now a second allotment is being offered for the purpose of erecting a copper smelter, the only remaining machinery or equipment required; and it is represented that even before the smelter is in operation the gold-silver mill will produce sufficient bullion to justify a dividend payment.

A portion of this second allotment has been reserved for offering through the Peterborough Brokerage Company, and in view of the enormous dividends which are being annually paid by American mining companies, and taking into consideration the splendid proposition presented by the Antigua Gold-Copper Company, it will no doubt readily be subscribed for by local investors who are looking for securities which promise large returns.

This company owns 4 claims (80 acres) of some of the best proved mineral land in the Goldfield district, consisting of the Accidental and Accidental No. 2 lode claims, situated two and one-half miles south of the great Goldfield Consolidated Mines (comprising the Mohawk, Goldfield, Combination, Red Top, Jumbo and Laguna) the richest in the world; and the Broadway and Beauty lode claims situated three and one-half miles north of the Consolidated and about one and one-half miles northwest of the Great Bend and Daisy Mines near the Zeon group in the Diamondfield section second only in richness to the great Mohawk portion of the camp. Phenomenally rich strikes have recently been made out by Consolidated, the Great Bend and the Daisy Mines.

The company has also suspended in securing the Sure Thing lode claim (20 acres) in the Cuprite district, which has an immense gold bearing ledge, running the entire length of the claim 1,500 feet, outcropping in places over 50 feet wide, and cut by several cross dykes all carrying fine values in gold, and is without doubt rightly named "Sure Thing."

All of these claims are located in the same mineral belt as the other noted mines of Goldfield that have astonished the world by their production of millions in high grade ore, and will with the same development give equally profitable returns.

The money derived from the sale of this stock will be used at once for the active development of the property and the fact that all the directors are residents of Goldfield with years of successful mining experience who will give their personal attention at all times to the progress of the work goes to show that the first issue of 100,000 shares will meet with a quick and ready sale at the initial price of 10 cents per share.

We advise immediate action if you wish to participate in the vast profits of this famous Mine.

Stock will be listed as soon as feasible on the Goldfield and San Francisco Stock and Exchange Boards. Would therefore advise purchasers to buy in board lots of 1,000 shares when convenient to do so.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at any Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother).

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

TENDERS FOR PULPWOOD CONCESSIONS

Tenders will be received by the undersigned up to and including the 15th of December next for the right to cut pulpwood on certain areas tributary to the Nepigon river, in the district of Thunder Bay, and Rainy Lake, in the district of Rainy River, and make the same into paper. Tenderers should state the amount they are prepared to pay as bonus in addition to such dues as may from time to time be fixed for the right to operate a paper making industry on the areas referred to. Separate tenders must be made for each area or territory, and the successful tenderers will be required to erect a mill or mills on each of the territories or in such other localities as may be approved by the Government of Ontario.

Parties tendering for the pulpwood rights shall accompany their tenders with a marked cheque for 25 per cent of the amount tendered, payable to the Treasurer of Ontario, and to be forfeited in the event of their failing to enter into agreements to carry out conditions, etc.

With respect to the Rainy Lake Pulp Concession, tenderers will be required to make a tender for the right to cut the pine, tamarac and cedar on the territory offered. Parties making tender for these timbers to state the amount they are prepared to pay per thousand feet B.M. as bonus in addition to Crown dues of $2.00 per thousand feet B.M. A marked cheque for $5,000.00 payable to the Treasurer of Ontario must accompany the tender for pine timber, and to be forfeited in the event of their failure to enter into agreements to carry out conditions, etc.

No timber shall be cut on either of the concessions of a less diameter than nine inches, two feet from the ground.

The successful tenderers to enter into agreements with the Government as to the erection of the mills, expenditure of money, etc.

For full particulars as to the rent, Mines, etc., application should be made to the undersigned.

HON. F. COCHRANE,
Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines.

quietly to the crazy man's promise not to spit the smallest kind of spit on the floor, or anywhere, except in its proper place."

Guy had passed through several states of mind during the interval in which we have seen so little of him. Furious at one time, and reckless as to consequences, he had determined to break with Lucy and marry Maddy, in spite of everybody; then, as a sense of honor came over him, he resolved to forget Maddy, if possible, and marry Lucy at once. It was in this last mood, and while roaming over the Western country, whither after his banishment he had gone, that he wrote to Lucy a strange kind of letter, saying he had waited for her long enough, and, sick or well, he should claim her the coming autumn. To this letter Lucy had responded quickly, sweetly reproving Guy for his impatience, softly hinting that latterly he had been quite as culpable as herself in the matter of deferring their union and appointing the bridal day for the — of December. After this was settled Guy felt better, though the old sore spot in his heart, where Maddy Clyde had been, was very sore still, and sometimes it required all his powers of self-control to keep from writing to Lucy and asking to be released from an engagement so irksome as his had become. Neglecting to answer Agnes' letters when he first left home, she did not know where he was until a short time before, when she wrote apprising him of grandpa's death and Maddy's severe illness. This brought him, while Maddy's involuntary outburst when she met him in the graveyard, changed the whole current of his intentions. Let what would come, Maddy Clyde should be his wife, and as such he watched over her, nursing her back to life, and by his manner effectually silencing all remark, so that the neighbors whispered among themselves what Maddy's prospects were, and, as was quite natural, were a little more attentive to the future lady of Aikenside. Poor Maddy! it was a terrible trial which awaited her, but it must be met, and so with prayers and tears she fortified herself to meet it, while Guy, the devoted lover, hung over her, never guessing of all that was passing in her mind, or how, when he was out of sight, the lips he had longed so much to kiss, but never had since that day in the graveyard, quivered with anguish as they asked for strength to do right. Oh, how Maddy did love the man she must give up, and how often went up the wailing cry, "Help me, Father, to do my duty, and give me, too, a greater inclination to do it than I now possess."

Maddy's heart did fail her sometimes and she might have yielded to the temptation but for Lucy's letter, full of eager anticipations of the happy time when she and Guy should never part again.

"Sometimes," she wrote, "there comes over me a dark foreboding of evil—a fear that I shall miss the cup now within my reach; but I pray the bad feelings away. I am sure there is no living being who will come between us to break my heart, and as I know God doeth all things well, I trust Him wholly, and cease to doubt."

It was well the letter came when it did, as it helped Maddy to meet the hour she so much dreaded, and which came at last on an afternoon when Mrs. Noah had gone to Aikenside, and Flora had gone on an errand to a neighbor's, two miles away, thus leaving Guy free to tell the story, the old, old story, yet always new to him who tells it and her who listens—story which, as Guy told it, sitting by Maddy's side, with her hands in his, thrilled her through and through, making the sweat drops start out around her lips and underneath her hair—story which made Guy himself pant nervously and tremble like a leaf, so earnestly he told it; how long he had loved her, of the picture with the veil, the agony he felt each time the doctor named her, the selfish joy he experienced when he heard the doctor was refused; told of his growing dissatisfaction with his engagement, his frequent resolves to break it, his final decision, which that scene in the graveyard had reversed, and then asked if she would not be his—rest doubtfully, but confidently, eagerly, as if sure of her answer.

Alas for Guy! he could not believe he heard aright when, turning her head away for a moment while she prayed for strength, Maddy's answer came, "I cannot, Guy, I cannot. I acknowledge the love which has stolen upon me, I know not how, but I cannot do this wrong to Lucy. Away from me you will love her again. You must. Read this, Guy, then say if you can desert her."

She placed Lucy's letter in his hand, and Guy read it with a heart which ached to its very core. It was cruel to deceive that gentle, trusting girl writing so lovingly of him, but to lose Maddy was to his undisciplined nature more dreadful still, and casting the letter aside he pleaded again, this time with the energy of despair, for he read his fate in Maddy's face, and when her lips a second time confirmed her first reply, while she appealed to his sense of honor, of justice, of right, and told him he could and must forget her, he knew there was no hope, and, man though he was, bowed his head upon Maddy's hands and wept stormily, mighty, choking sobs, which shook his frame, and seemed to break up the very foundations of his life. Then to Maddy there came a terrible temptation. Was it right for two who loved as they did to live their lives apart?—right in her to force on Guy the fulfillment of vows he could not literally keep? As mental struggles are always the more severe, so Maddy's took all her strength away, and for many minutes she lay so white and still that Guy roused himself to care for her, thinking of nothing except to make her better.

It was a long time ere that interview ended, but when it did there was on Maddy's face a peaceful expression which only the sense of having done right at the cost of a fearful sacrifice could give, while Guy's bore traces of a great and crushing sorrow as he went out from Maddy's presence and felt that to him she was lost forever. He had promised her he would do right, had said he would marry Lucy, being to her what a husband should be; had listened while she talked of another world where they neither marry nor are given in marriage, and where it would not be sinful for them to love each other, and as she talked her face had shone like the face of an angel. He had held one of her hands at parting, bending low his head while she laid the other on it as she blessed him, letting her snowy fingers thread his soft brown hair, and linger caressingly among his curly locks. But that was over now. They had parted for ever. She was lying where he left her cold and white, and faint with dizzy pain. He was riding swiftly toward Aikenside, his heart beats keeping time to the swift trend of his horse's feet, and his mind a confused medley of distracted thoughts, amid which two facts stood out prominent and clear—he had lost Maddy Clyde, and had promised her to marry Lucy Atherstone.

For many days after that Guy kept his room, saying he was sick, and refusing to see anyone save Jessie and Mrs. Noah, the latter of whom guessed in part what had happened, and imputing to him far more credit than he deserved, petted and pitied and cared for him until he grew weary of it, and said to her savagely: "You needn't think me so good, for I am not. I wanted Maddy Clyde, and told her so, but she refused me and made me promise to marry Lucy; so I'm going to do that very thing—going to England in a few weeks, or as soon as Maddy is better, and before the sun of this year sets I shall

When the Stomach, Heart, or Kidney nerves get weak, then these organs fail. Don't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That is simply a makeshift. Take a prescription known to Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. The Restorative is prepared expressly for these weak inside nerves. Strengthen these nerves, build them up with Dr. Shoop's Restorative—tablets or Liquid—and see how quickly help will come. Free sample tests sent on request by Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. Your health is surely worth this simple test.

Water Transportation Cheap.

Any class of water transportation is incomparably cheaper than land transportation, unless something better than the modern railroad is invented. For this reason the greater part of our domestic or inland tonnage has been and is carried by water and not by rail. For that reason the railways own the largest steamers on the lakes. The wheat trade was lost to the Mississippi not by competition, but because the railroads did not bring it there. The Mississippi above Cairo is decadent, not for lack of ability to compete, but for lack of commerce, which is to say accessibility by means of its own tributaries.—Charles D. Stewart in Century.

Nothing Doing.

The musician was visibly annoyed.

"But, hang it all," he said, "I told your reporter three or four times over that the violin I used was a genuine Stradivarius, and here in his report this morning there's not a word—not a word!"

With a scornful laugh the editor replied:

"That is as it should be, sir. When Mr. Stradivarius gets his fiddles advertised in this paper under $2 a line, you come around and let me know."

A Fine Morning.

"Fine morning, your honor," affably remarked the man who had been arrested the night before for being drunk and disorderly.

"Yes, indeed," responded the justice, "quite a fine morning—in fact, a ten dollar fine morning."

Golden Measure.

"In Australia," bragged the native of that country, "you can pick up gold by the pint."

"If comes in quarts in America," retorted the quick witted nephew of Uncle Sam.

The Value of Ridicule.

"A man," said Dr. Johnson, "should pass a part of his time with the laughers, by which means anything ridiculous or particular about him might be prevented to his view and corrected."

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Put Strength, not one grain of Strength to a hundred in, to it, and, actually diseased. It is short sighted to think they little nerve that really is all at fault. Other nerves—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve promptly needs, and sure to have, more power, more stability, more controlling power governing growth. Without that the Heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have their controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing Hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought for a cure of all the painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is alone directed to these organs and vitalizing nerve centers. It builds, strengthens, it gives real, genuine heart help. If you would have stronger Hearts, strike at the cause, strengthen these nerves—Restoratives can be needed, with

ANTIGUA GOLD-COPPER Co.

Offers the Biggest and Most Attractive Mining Investment Now Before the Public.

ITS HOLDINGS ARE MINES--NOT PROSPECTS

With Vast Bodies of Ore Ready for the Mill, Now Nearing Completion.

THOMAS W. LAWSON

"Copper stocks offer the biggest opportunity for money making in the world to-day. A good copper mine is really a safe-deposit vault of stored up dividends which cannot be stolen or destroyed by fire, flood or famine."

CECIL RHODES

said: "Mining offers greater inducements than any other business in the world to make quick and great wealth."

CHARLES M. SCHWAB

says: "The big fortunes of the next twenty-five years will come from Mother Earth." Among all mining investments none stand ahead of copper for safety, permanency and profit.

Lay the Foundation for Your Fortune Today

THE ANTIGUA PROPERTIES

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company holdings consist of 531 acres, situated in Honduras, Central America, 100 miles southeast from Puerto Cortez, and midway between New Orleans and Panama. Development work is being pushed with all possible speed, and more than 1,500 feet of tunnelling and shaft work has been completed. A 40 to 50-ton capacity gold-silver mill is in course of construction, and will be in operation before the close of the year.

Development work has conclusively proven that every acre of our holdings are rich in gold, copper and silver, and that every ton of this great ore body will yield a handsome profit on milling expense. The ore exposed on the surface does no not require mining in the usual sense of the term, but may be obtained by quarrying. It can, according to estimates of experts, be quarried and treated for the gold and silver on an extensive scale at a cost of less than $1.00 a ton. Think of it! A solid mountain of rich ore, from the very grass roots of which may be washed gold.

Beyond a doubt Honduras has beneath her soil Larger, richer deposits of copper, gold and silver than any other section of the American continent. Spain, during her sovereignty in that country, took out more than $500,000,000 in gold alone—and she scarcely scraped the Earth's surface. There is evidence that the pre-historic races knew how to mine and utilize copper—smelting it in their crude way.

The original incorporators of the Antigua Gold-Copper Company spent thousands of dollars of their own money in bringing this property to its present stage of development. They opened up the mine on every side with tunnels, crosscuts and shafts. They purchased machinery and began the erection of a gold-silver mill—now nearing completion. These men appreciated from the first that this mine was destined to become one of the greatest copper-gold-silver properties in America; and that it justified more extensive and more rapid development than they were able to make without the co-operation and financial assistance of the public.

The average assay values of Antigua ores, ranging from the surface to a depth of 200 feet, is over 3 per cent copper. This is above the average of the ore of the world's greatest producers, the famous Anaconda yielding ore which averages only a little over 2 per cent. The Anaconda has little other ore value, while our property, in addition to the copper, carries $2.00 to $1.400 a ton in gold and silver.

WHY STOCK IS SOLD

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company finds itself in precisely the same position as the farmer who has a larger farm than he can cultivate with the capital in hand. He knows that with additional capital and assistance he could make the land yield abundant crops. And enormous profits. In the same way we intend by the investment of additional capital to bring our enormous ore bodies to a highly profitable state of development at the earliest possible moment. For this reason a limited amount of treasury stock is offered the public. In this way funds will be available for immediate use in purchasing additional machinery and for continuing vigorous development of the property.

and your shares will earn as much as a like number of shares owned by any other stockholder in the company. Each share CARRIES WITH IT THE RIGHT TO VOTE, so that with a single share you have every right, privilege and protection possessed by any other stockholder.

Stock is now being sold at $2.50 a share, and this stock, we firmly believe, will, within a year, be selling at its par value of $5.00 a share, or higher; nor will it stop there. If you are desirous of permanently increasing your income, of making an investment that is not only secure, but immensely profitable, reserve shares TO-DAY.

Such an investment opportunity can scarcely be repeated. It is made possible only by extraordinary natural conditions. Millions of dollars of copper, gold and silver will be marketed from the mines—fortunes will be reaped as a result of the prompt seizure of the opportunity we offer you to-day.

REPORT OF AN EXPERT

Much weight can justly be given the statement of a properly qualified and reliable mining engineer. Such is he character of T. M. Foster, from whose report on Antigua we make the following extracts:

"From the development work done and the indications shown by the croppings, I am convinced this is one of the largest gold-copper deposits in existence, and under proper development will make one of the richest mining properties in America. * * * I consider this one an ideal smelting proposition, there being an abundance of iron, lime and silica in close proximity. There is plenty of water for power and milling purposes, and an abundance of timber on the property. * * *

"A large amount of development work has been done on this property in tunnels, drifts and shafts, ranging from 30 to possibly 200 feet in length. * * * This work has all been in ore—in fact, the ore body on the surface is shown to be fully one-half mile wide by two miles in length. To judge from the development work done this property is all ore—no matter where work was started, ore was encountered.

"The company is erecting a mill, consisting of one five-stamp and three Huntingtons, to work the surface ore. This surface ore is mostly free milling, the copper and galena sulphides being oxidized, freeing the gold, and being readily amalgamated. But I am confident that at no very great depth copper sulphides will be encountered, as there are many places in this great ore body where the sulphides crop to the surface. I have taken a dozen samples from various places on the lead, and from these made free gold tests, finding an average of over $6.00 a ton in FREE gold, and from 5 to 25 per cent copper. Native copper is frequently seen in this ore. If the Antigua mines continue to depth as on the surface, a 1,000 ton smelter will not work it out in 100 years. * * *

"* * * With good management and proper development, it will be but a short time until the stock of the company will be worth more than par. I fully believe that if this great ore body is properly developed there is a mine here worth many millions of dollars.

Noted Evangelist's Experience

Irene, Ills., Oct. 7—"I always praise the bridge that carries me over safe" are the words of J. Danick Taylor, the great Norwegian Evangelist, whose home is in Irene. While in Nova Scotia last winter I needed medicine and used Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They helped me wonderfully and I recommended them to others. I send this testimonial because your remedy will work directly on the kidneys, and cures the urinal disorders that often give pain to the man and woman affected with kidney trouble. I have not found anything equal to Dr. Hamilton's Mandrake and Butternut Pills. I gave them to a man on Tan Cook Island that was suffering in a most horrible way and in a few hours he was relieved.

When a minister like Mr. Taylor comes forth in praise of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, it is evident their power is beyond the ordinary. For diseases of the kidneys, bladder, liver and stomach they have no equal. Easy to take, very mild, sure to cure. 25 cents per box at all dealers.

Mr. Fred Lutes Has Passed away

A telegram was received here yesterday by Ald. R. H. Leary, notifying him of the death of Mr. Fred Lutes, of Rochester. Mr. Lutes has spent several summers at Chemong in company with his mother. Last summer the deceased stayed at Chemong Park for five weeks and also spent six weeks at the Oriental Hotel.

While in Peterborough the young man was undergoing a treatment for eukemia with Dr. Carmichael, previous to his visit here, he had an operation for this disease and had greatly improved during his stay in Canada. Upon his return to Rochester he took a relapse and his condition grew worse and on Wednesday he passed away at his home, 265 Lake avenue.

The deceased was 24 years of age and the only son. He was a member of the Rochester Volunteer Fire Brigade and has held the position as treasurer of the Baker theater for some time.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

he laid the plans for this sewer. He had not thought the natural difficulties insurmountable, but admitted that he took chances towards the end on the work—the part now opened, which is the worst section. He had not reported to Ald. Duncan when he ordered the sewer uncovered.

FARMAN WHITE.

On being questioned, said Andy Webb had told him the cement used in the man holes was no good; this same cement had been used for the pipes which were then already laid; he is no judge of cement. He would strike water at 6ft., 4 and 6ft. 6. Gasket and cement were put in all joints, and work was done as satisfactory as possible under conditions. He had been doubtful of the work proving satisfactory, and wanted to shut it down because he had not the proper appliances. He never reported to the Board of Works of last year, who must have been blind not to see the difficulties when they visited the work. He did not think it his duty to report to the Board of Works, although he had told the engineer three times to drop the work as he could not do it satisfactorily to himself. You could tell BUT the pipes together with a crow bar while drawing a sand bag through. The pipes were laid half covered with water and were cemented as thoroughly as possible. When he opened the sewer this year under instructions from the engineer he found 1 in 28 feet of pipe gaps to the amount of 10 inches, and added a gap 15 inches long. Although he saw two joints being pulled apart he did not report that a crow bar would not hold them together while drawing the sand bag through them. He thought the Italian, Anthony, had done the best he could in laying the pipe.

MR. ANTHONY.

Who laid the pipes was next called up on the carpet. He said he had a man or two pulling a bag of sand through pipes, and used a bar or shovel to keep the pipes together. He had not seen the two pipes allowed to by Mr. White pulled apart, and he was on the work all the time. He was never able to get the water below half the pipe, which was best part of the time only two inches out of water. If he had had more lumber there to stop filling in, he could have done more satisfactory work. Basket and cement were put into every joint.

ALD. DUNCAN ENDORSED.

The council agreed that Ald. Duncan had taken the proper action in ordering up and bringing the former sewer, as was also a wise decision now.

Ald. Leary moved, seconded by Ald. Morrow,—That the work continue as at present until the completion of the Aylmer street section up to the point where the sewer and that of school intersects.

Ald. McIntyre moved, seconded by Ald. Sherdan,—an amendment that in view of the fact that the street commissioner is now available for inspection, this work, Mr. White's services on this work be dispensed with.—Lost.

The motion was carried.

BOGUE'S DRAIN.

As to that portion of the Aylmer street drain, a portion of which Mr. Bogue has filled up, Mr. V. Eastwood appeared before the committee, and stated that it would be both for the city to construct a second culvert, so as to run that portion of the drain as it went through and Dublin Sts. along its original course. This water course had been diverted last year through Mr. Bogue's property with his own consent and at Mr. Eastwood's expense. To construct this second culvert in its original position, as advised by the city solicitor would not improve the situation in any, nor prevent a flow next spring; such a course would be merely a waste of $50 or $60. Mr. Eastwood offered that he was prepared to give evidence in any suit against the city for damages that Mr. Bogue had consented to changing the drain's course through his property; in fact he himself, (Mr. Eastwood) would enter an immediate action against Mr. Bogue for filling up the portion of the drain in question.

The city solicitor thought that in any event the city should build a second culvert so as to permit the water to run along its original natural course; this would guard the city against possible damages. In the meantime Mr. Eastwood might enter an action against Bogue for blocking up a water course constructed with his approval and at his (Eastwood's) expense.

Ald. Stevenson wanted to give Mr. Eastwood an opportunity for entering legal action against Mr. Bogue, and moved, seconded by Ald. Wilson, that the city engineer, be instructed not to proceed with changing the culvert until December 3rd, when the council will meet next.

This resolution was carried on the understanding that Mr. Eastwood will at once take proceedings against Mr. Bogue.

Council adjourned at 11.30.

Curling Club Re-organized Tuesday

List of Officers of the Club for the Coming Year

As noted in a former issue, the local curlers have met and arranged matters for the coming season. The club is in a flourishing condition, and presents every prospect of its increasing this season. The roller skating lease closes on December 4th, and Mr. Angus McIntosh will then take charge of it for the winter.

The election of officers resulted as follows;

Hon. Pres.—Mr. T. E. Matthews.
Pres.—Mr. C. N. Brown.
Vice-Pres.—Mr. R. M. Waddell.
Sec.-Treas.—Mr. R. M. Waddell.
Assoc. Sec.-Treas.—Mr. H. T. Foote.
Executive Committee—Messrs. W. G. Ferguson, R. Neill, Jas. H. Connal, C. Rutherford, J. E. A. Fitzgerald.
Chaplain—Rev. E. A. Pearson.
Auditors—Mr. H. Murphett and Mr. T. B. Yeates; re-elected.

More Than Ever

Increased Capacity for Mental Labor Since Leaving Off Coffee

Many former coffee drinkers who have mental work to perform, day after day, have found a better capacity and greater endurance by using Postum Food Coffee, instead of ordinary coffee. An Ills. woman writes;

"I had drank coffee for about twenty years, and finally had what the doctor called "coffee heart." I was nervous and extremely despondent; had little manual or physical strength left, had kidney trouble and constipation.

"The first noticeable benefit derived from the change from coffee to Postum was the natural action of the kidneys and bowels. In two weeks my heart action was greatly improved and my nerves steady.

"Then I became less despondent, and the desire to be active again showed proof of renewed physical and mental strength.

"I am steadily gaining in physical strength and brain power. I formerly did mental work and had to give it up on account of coffee, but since using Postum I am doing hard mental labor with less fatigue than ever before."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

A Bold Step.

To overcome the well-grounded and reasonable objections of the more intelligent to the use of secret, medicinal compounds, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., some time ago, decided to make a bold departure from the usual course pursued by the makers of put-up medicines for domestic use, and so has published broadcast and openly to the whole world, a full and complete list of all the ingredients entering into the composition of his widely celebrated medicines. Thus he has taken his numerous patrons and patients into his full confidence. Thus too he has removed his medicines from among secret nostrums of doubtful merits, and made them Remedies of Known Composition.

By this bold step Dr. Pierce has shown that the formulas of such exceptional merit that he is not afraid to subject them to a critical scrutiny.

Not only does the Wrapper of every bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the famous medicine for weak stomachs, torpid liver or biliousness and all catarrhal ailments wherever located, have printed upon it, in plain English, a full and complete list of all the ingredients composing it, but a small book has been compiled from numerous standard medical works, of all the different schools of practice, containing very numerous extracts from the writings of leading practitioners of medicine, endorsing the strongest possible terms, each and every ingredient contained in Dr. Pierce's medicines. One of these little books will be mailed free to any one sending address on postal card or by letter, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and requesting the same. From this little book it will be learned that Dr. Pierce's medicines contain no alcohol, narcotics, mineral agents or other poisonous or injurious agents and that they are made from native, medicinal roots of great value; also that some of the most valuable ingredients contained in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for weak, nervous, over-worked, "run-down," nervous and debilitated women, were employed long years ago, by the Indians for similar ailments affecting their squaws. In fact, one of the most valuable medicinal plants entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was known to the Indians as "Squaw-Weed." Our knowledge of the uses of not a few of our most valuable native, medicinal plants was gained from the Indians.

As made up by improved and exact processes, the "Favorite Prescription" is a most efficient remedy for regulating all the womanly functions, correcting displacements, as prolapsus, anteversion and retroversion, overcoming painful periods, toning up the nerves and bringing about a perfect state of health. Sold by all dealers in medicines.

THOUSANDS OF FOREIGNERS ARE GOING TO EUROPE

Ocean Liners Take Away from New York Each Week 25,000 Laborers, with $,000,000 as Result of the Slump

New York, Nov. 22.—The exodus of foreign laborers returning to Europe owing to the abutting down of industries since the financial stringency has reached such proportions that the steamship companies are hard pressed to furnish accommodation for them.

Hundreds of foreigners have been obliged to wait until next week because berths could not be found for them. This week all the big trans-Atlantic lines raised the steerage rate from $31 to $32, but still the demand for tickets has increased. A representative of the steerage department of the Hamburg-American line said that from New York alone the number of foreigners departing weekly was 25,000, and that $5,000,000 was being taken away weekly by these returning immigrants either in cash or in drafts on foreign countries.

Outgoing steamers are carrying thousands of steerage passengers and the President Grant, which will sail for Hamburg next Wednesday, will have aboard 3,200 foreigners. They will be largely Russians, Poles and Hungarians.

The Penna. Erie, Lehigh, B. and O., and New Jersey Central roads are using special trains to bring the homegoers to this port.

Inter-Provincial Rugbyists will Meet in a Prize Fight

Ottawa, Nov. 22.—Hal. Walters, the well known Ottawa City scrimmager, is anxious to meet Percy Roberts, the burly Montreal player, in the roped circle, and has challenged Roberts to a fifteen-round fight to take place between Ottawa and Montreal.

Walters has fought in the heavyweight class in the Canadian championships, and is a pretty shifty man for his size.

Roberts also has some pretensions as a scrapper, having, it is claimed, participated in a few fights in South Africa.

The challenge is the result of considerable talk that arose during the football season as to which was the better man.

"Yes, I'll challenge Roberts to a fifteen round fight at catch weights," said Hal. "And would like to battle between Hull and Montreal. If Roberts will not fight outside of Montreal I'll go there to meet him, and I have no fears of the outcome."

Fred Wright, of this city, is prepared to back Walters to the extent of $300.

POLICE

At yesterday's police court a young immigrant, with 17627 atoms of love for cigarettes to one for good honest labor, in his composition, was charged with vagrancy and was remanded until such time as the necessary papers can be made out and received prior to his deportation to the shores of Albion. For the sake of relatives of the young man, now residing in Peterborough, we omit his name.

It seems that the St. Andrew's Brotherhood of St. John's church have taken a great deal of interest in and trouble over the young man who is a confirmed "cigarette fiend," and who must have been born with, and studiously since birth, cultivated "that tired feeling." He does not participate in the use of liquid intoxicants but sucks those foul smelling parodies on tobacco, known as "coffin nails," or cigarettes, from morning until night. So far has his health both mentally and physically been affected by the use of these paper covered public nuisances that his friends have decided to send him "home."

Lakefield Livery Horse Stolen

Yesterday morning two men hired a rig from a livery firm in Lakefield. They told the proprietor that they were only going for a short drive and would be back in an hour.

The outfit has not been returned yet and the firm fear that the horse and buggy have been stolen. A farmer driving into the village noticed these two men and claims that they were hashing the horse and driving at a fast rate.

Steamer Ogemah Makes a Record

Mr. Wm. McFarlane, lockmaster of the dam at Lovesick, was in town yesterday on his way to Hobsageon.

Mr. McFarlane has just finished his busiest season in connection with the Lovesick Lock. The detailed account of the traffic through his lock will, along with other reports, be given out from the superintendent's office in the course of a few days. Mr. McFarlane states that this season's leakages totalled more than the previous year, and that the steamer Ogemah, passed through Lovesick Lock 164 times.

Considerable repairs were done to Lovesick dam this autumn. The dam was rebuilt from the water line up, the old timber in the piers was taken out and replaced with new timber.

A Planning Mill for Warsaw Village

The usually quiet, but prosperous village of Warsaw, is to have a new industry, in the shape of a modern planning mill which will require a large number of laborers, and which will be an important industry. The new sawmill will be erected on the property belonging to Mr. John Payne, who resides a few hundred yards north of the village the site chosen being the five acres of land bordering on the pond.

The leading promoter of the scheme is Mr. A. Selkirk, father of Mrs (Dr.) Munro of Warsaw. Mr. Selkirk already owns the sawmill machinery which is now being brought here to be installed.

Can Dave Hartley Beat Jim Reynolds?

Toronto, Nov. 23.—The hour walking race at Mutual street rink between David Hartley of Peterborough, and Jimmy Reynolds, Port Hope's walking barber, will start at 11 a.m. today, and will end at 11 o'clock at night. The match will be the square heel and toe, and Tom Eck, the famous trainer, and who is an all-time walker himself, and who has had many years' experience in matches of this kind, has agreed to act as referee.

The men have decided to walk on the bare floor, and have asked the management not to lay the track which they had intended putting down around the sides of the rink.

Invitations have been issued to all who took part in the recent ladies walking race to witness the event.

Last June, in his first attempt to walk the round trip from Port Hope to Toronto and return, Reynolds gave out at Newcastle, with 5 1-2 hours left to complete the remaining twenty miles. On October 21 last he covered the round trip in 36 hours and 19 minutes.

Twenty-five years ago, in a sack race, he went 100 yards in 13 1-4 seconds, and followed this by covering 10 miles in a sack in two hours.

Several years later he made $800 by going a mile in a sack in seven minutes.

His best training performance for his race today was 12 miles heel and toe, in two hours.

HARTLEY'S PERFORMANCES.

Hartley is also an old-time athlete being both a long distance runner and walker.

Twenty-six years ago in a go-as-you-please race at twelve hours a day for three days he covered 155 miles.

A year later he made 165 miles in the same kind of a race at Lindsay against one Pocock, who quit on the second day, Hartley finishing alone.

On Civic Holiday last he walked from Peterborough to Bailieboro and back a distance of 34 miles, in five hours 48 mins. His next performance followed the Reynolds Port Hope to Toronto walk in October, the Peterborough man travelling from Oshawa to Toronto, to Port Hope, to Peterborough, a distance of 132 miles, in 24 hours and 6 mins.

CHILD WHO WAS ADOPTED FIVE YEARS AGO CARRIED OFF

Conductor is Under Arrest--Would Not Allow Police to Touch Woman Taking Away Lindsay Girl--Story of Abduction

Lindsay, Nov. 22.—Geo. Thompson, conductor on the train on which the abducter of little Dorothy Marlen left here yesterday, came to town this morning under arrest on the charge of obstructing an officer of the law in the performance of his duty. It seems that when officers came on board the train at Markham to make the arrest of the woman claiming to be the child's mother, he would not allow it, and again did the same at Agincourt, where the police had been telegraphed.

A telegram was received today that the woman was seen to get off the train in Montreal this morning.

The child has been with the Marions now for about five years, and was adopted out of a home. The mother was a Catholic, and it is said has two brothers who are priests. The Marions are Protestants. The Marions claim to have all the necessary papers of adoption, and therefore the mother had forfeited all her rights. Whether or not the abducter or the child's real mother can't be learned definately, but everything points that way. The difference in religion has likely something to do with the abduction.

Mrs. Marion left for Peterborough last night to see what could be done. Mr. Marion followed on his arrival on the 9.15 p.m. train the same evening and no stone will be left unturned to secure Dorothy's return. The child was called for at the Public school yesterday, and taken away by the woman, whom she accompanied very reluctantly.

SUPERB OPPORTUNITY GOOD INVESTMENT

Block of the Antigua Gold Copper Company Stock Secured

Will be Offered to Canadian Investors by the Peterborough Brokerage Co.

Investments in American mining propositions have, without doubt, proven themselves to be the most profitable sources of revenue to the average investor in Canada; and the sum total of Canadian money which has been put into mining stocks would reach a figure of startling proportions. This, however, is not at all surprising when one considers the enormous returns paid to the stockholders by bona fide mining companies. During the past year twenty-five copper mining companies of the United States paid out in dividends a little over $45,000,000.00, and the same number of principal gold and silver mining companies paid $8,500,000.00 in dividends.

In fact, the profits from investments in American mining stocks have reached such a figure and have become such an important factor in the financial world as to make this class of securities far more attractive to the American investor (who is universally recognized as shrewd judge of securities) than those which may be somewhat more conservative, but which are far less profitable. Apropos this subject, the National Banker, of Chicago, one of the leading banking and financial journals of the United States, makes the following comments in its issue of September 25, last:—

"The unparalled prosperity of the mining industry at the present time is attracting widespread attention. People are beginning to realize that fortunes and consequency can be acquired by investing in mining properties and mining stocks. In fact, the number who are realising this and profiting by it are daily increasing. They are beginning to learn that there is an element of hazard in every business venture, but not as great a risk in mining as has been imagined in the past. Continued successes have taught them that mining is a business; that improved machinery, scientific knowledge and business management places mining on as safe a basis as the ordinary business enterprise; also that thousands of people are acquiring wealth by judicious investments in mining stocks, the results of their co-operation in the development of meritorious properties of ably conducted, legitimate mining enterprises."

These comments apply with peculiar force to the Antigua Gold-Copper Company of New Orleans, Louisiana, who have arranged with the Peterborough Brokerage Company to act as their local agents, and who have what is said to be one of the richest mines ever opened up in North America. The holdings of this company embrace over 500 acres of rich mineral lands in Spanish Honduras, and instead of being in the primary stages of prospecting, is already on a developed and producing basis; and bids fair to rank in the class of big dividend producers, such as those referred to above in our first paragraph.

A number of tunnels have already been opened up and, according to the report of a mining engineer of very high standing, sufficient ore has already been blocked out to run a large smelter for many years. The assays of ore taken from this mine run as high as $1,468.13 per ton, while the average value is almost double that of the larger western mines which have paid so handsomely during the past few years. A gold-silver mill has already been completed and is practically ready to commence operations, for the treatment of the gold-silver ores, and this alone will put the company upon a paying basis, leaving the rich copper ores as practically a clear profit, and which are to be treated as soon as sufficient stock has been sold (which is now being offered) to erect a smelter.

An investment in Antigua Gold-Copper Company stock on its present basis is a good one. It is not an investment in a prospect, but means securing an interest in a developed and producing property. It will be an investment which should steadily grow in value, and which holds forth bright promises for big returns in dividends to those who grasp the opportunity. The Antigua property is in that class of which Thomas W. Lawson, the million-dollar mine owner of Boston, said: "Copper stocks offer the biggest opportunity for money-making in the world today. A good copper mine is really a safe deposit vault of stored up dividends which cannot be stolen or destroyed by fire, flood or famine."

In a speech delivered by Cecil Rhodes before a gathering of representative men and women of London, a few days before he sailed the last time for Africa, he said:

"Mining is the only business on this earth that increases the wealth of the world without robbing or infringing on the rights of others. The miner is a man who finds wealth; he creates wealth if you please, without juggling it out of someone elses pockets into his own. Mining has always been the quick road to fortune, and of late it

WHAT DAVE USES

Toronto, Nov. 23.—Dave Hartley, the Peterborough walker, has let the cat out of the bag. He uses deer's tallow on his feet to keep them in good condition. When Hartley accomplished his walk to Toronto and back his feet gave him no bother at all. Hartley should have apprised Tom Longboat of this soothing preparation before the Indian commenced his run from Hamilton to Toronto. It has been said that the Indian runs like greased lightning, and if his feet were annointed with deer's tallow no doubt he would be benefitted, and perhaps would run like "greased lightning."

"Money Talks"

Not a Word was Said to Man Who Receipted the Wad

Toronto, Nov. 22.—The end of the London election case is not yet in sight. On Monday, when the court resumes, the Crown will call the star witness, Edward I. Sifton. It is understood that as a result of Sifton's revelations, a series of affidavits have been prepared to show further details in the working of the alleged conspiracy. Asked how long the Crown would take to conclude this new phase of the case, Mr. Staunton replied; "A couple of days."

The defence expects to take at least four days. As to whether the defendants will themselves go on the witness stand, their counsel decline to say. They will, however, tyle the evidence of Mr. W. T. R. Preston-taker by commission, call at least three Liberal organizers, officers in the different constituencies mentioned, and a score or more of deputy returning officers from London. Mr. Johnston also proposes to recall Jerry Collins. As to the plan of defence the counsel are reticent, but it has been intimated that an effort will be made to introduce evidence to demonstrate that bribery operations were carried on more or less extensively in various constituencies by the Conservatives.

Apart as to his action in event of such being established, Mr. Staunton said; In so far as they might in any way bear upon this case, the Crown will assist in any disclosures of the kind that may be made. If they do not affect this case it is probable other charges will have to be formulated. The Crown does not propose to shield wrong-doing on either political side."

HE BLAMES COLLINS.

Alexander Milne, the first witness this morning, was a deputy at the Hyman-Gray bye-election. Ardy asked him to act. Lewis and Sifton had charge of the Liberal campaign in his division. He said he saw Collins the night before the election.

"What did Collins say to you?" "I can't remember. It wasn't square, and I wouldn't do it."

The memory of the witness was defective, and he appeared much muddled. Mr. Staunton finally succeeded in securing from him a statement that Collins told him to fold the ballot wrong.

"Have you been drinking?" asked Judge Winchester. "Well, yes, I have."

"I was afraid so," observed the judge. "Your mind doesn't seem to have returned."

The witness told Mr. Staunton he saw how forty or fifty electors voted.

Mr. McEvoy objected to the form of the Crown's questions.

"Don't interrupt, please, Mr. McEvoy," interposed the Judge. "It's hard enough to get him to give his evidence."

To Mr. McEvoy witness said no one, except Collins, made any improper suggestions to him.

"Did you tell anyone how these voters voted?" asked the judge as the witness was about to leave the stand. "What use did you make of the knowledge you gained?" "I told a couple of the party of men who were supposed to vote Liberal and voted Tory."

"Whom did you tell?" "Ardy and Sifton, I guess."

"Anyone else?" "Not that I remember."

"That will do," concluded his honor.

CORRY LEFT $300.

James A. Corry, of Ottawa, contractor for canals and railways, said he had a small wharf contract in St. Joseph, Lake Huron, for the government in 1905. He was in London during the Hyman-Gray election.

"Did you see any of the defendants?" "Mr. Reid."

"Any others?" "No."

"What part did you take in the election?" "None whatever."

"How much money did you leave in London on account of the election?" "I gave Mr. Reid $300."

London's "Shrieking Sisterhood" Upsetting All Liberal Meetings

London, Nov. 22.—With the resumption of the political campaign which is now in full swing, "the shrieking sisterhood," as the women suffragists have come to be commonly known, are actively pursuing their threatened plan of upsetting all Liberal meetings. Gatherings at which members of the Cabinet are to speak are especially selected by them. The victims last week were Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, the premier, and Mr. Herbert H. Asquith, chancellor of the exchequer. Both these speakers had difficulty in getting a hearing, their meetings being attended by serious disorders.

Last night Mr. Herbert Gladstone, secretary of state for home affairs, and David Lloyd-George, president of the board of trade, speaking respectively at Leeds and Glasgow, were similarly treated and a number of the suffragists had to be ejected from the meetings.

Grocery Travellers Attend a Banquet

Messrs. J. Hardill and E. J. Peters Present at a Presentation Last Night

Yesterday evening Messrs. John G. Hardill and E. J. Peters, local representatives of Messrs. T. Kinnear & Co., the Toronto and Peterborough wholesale grocers, left for the Queen City to attend a banquet held in that city in McConkey's restaurant. In honor of Mr. Jas. McLean, who for a fifth of a century has served the glad tidings of Messrs. Kinnear & Company's bargains in groceries, and who incidentally placed hundreds of thousands of dollars of "T. K's" goods throughout the central part of Ontario. The banquet last night was largely attended and was a distinct success. Full particulars were unavailable subsequent to going to press, although it has learned to a certainty beyond contradiction that a splendid and practical testimonial was handed to Mr. McLean. This gentleman who has for the past 25 years handled the goods of Messrs. T. Kinnear & Company, has secured and will operate in the future a large and rapidly increasing livery business in Toronto, Port Hope, The gentlemen were presented at last night's banquet with a very handsome demonstrated the popularity in which Mr. McLean is held by both his former clientell and his brother travellers of Messrs. Kinnear & Co.

Mr. Dumble Favors New Methodist Church

Mr. D. W. Dumble, police magistrate and one of Peterborough's most conscientious educationalists, and a leading pillar of the Methodist church is an ardent advocate for erection of the new Methodist church in the south end of the city. It is proposed to erect a church in that section of the city and to have it affiliated with the George street Methodist church when an assistant minister will be appointed. A committee was appointed at the meeting held in the King Edward school, to obtain options on lots so that new developments are soon expected.

Want Peterboro to Pay a Share

The county council of Victoria county at their regular meeting at Lindsay on Thursday had some discussion regarding an old man who had been committed to six months in Central Prison earlier in the morning, and who had been refused admittance to the house of refuge because he wasn't a permanent resident of the county, being part of the time in Peterborough and other counties, the council decided they could do nothing unless Peterborough County council bore a share of the cost. The house of refuge now has over fifty inmates.

Nursing Mothers and Over-burdened Women

In all stations of life, whose vigor and vitality may have been undermined and broken-down by over-work, exacting social duties, the too frequent bearing of children, or other causes, will find in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription the most potent, invigorating restorative strength-giver ever devised for their special benefit. Nursing mothers will find it especially valuable in sustaining their strength and promoting an abundant nourishment for the child. Expectant mothers too will find it a priceless boon, as it prepares the system for baby's coming and renders the ordeal comparatively painless. It can do no harm in any state or condition of the female system.

Delicate, nervous, weak women, who suffer from frequent headaches, backache, dragging-down distress low down in the abdomen, or from painful or irregular monthly periods, gnawing or distressed sensation in stomach, dizzy or faint spells, or imaginary specks or spots floating before eyes, have disagreeable, pelvic catarrhal drain, prolapsus, anteversion or retroversion or other displacements of womanly organs from weaknesses of parts will, whether they experience many or only a few of the above symptoms, find relief and a permanent cure by using faithfully and fairly persistently Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

This world-famed specific for woman's weaknesses and peculiar ailments is a pure glyceric extract of the choicest native, medicinal roots without a drop of alcohol in its make-up. All its ingredients printed in plain English on its bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. Dr. Pierce thus invites the fullest investigation of his formula knowing that it will be found to contain only the best agents known to the most advanced medical science of all the different schools of practice for the cure of woman's peculiar weaknesses and ailments.

If you want to know more about the composition and professional endorsement of the "Favorite Prescription," send a postal card request to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for his free booklet treating of same.

You can't afford to accept as a substitute for this remedy of known composition a secret nostrum of unknown composition. Don't do it.

BIG FOUR DAYS' EVENT

A Great Movement at Cressman's in Home Furnishings and Carpets.

To-day is the third day of this great movement of merchandise and it is expected to be the cap sheaf, hundreds of dollars worth of goods including new fall styles in Carpets, Rugs, Linoleums and all classes of art drapery goods, and in fact everything to beautify the home for the coming holiday season will be on display in the large centre window and in the big third floor department, marked with the yellow sale cards at prices heretofore unknown for the same quality of goods. There are carpets and rugs that were imported direct from the European manufacturers, elegant and exclusive designs and coloring—all the leading makes including Templeton's Axminsters, Wilton Velvets, Crossly Velvets and Balmorals and some of the leading makes of Tapestries, Wools, and Unions.

During this sale there are several lines of Linoleums, Scotch and Canadian—also Canadian Oilcloths on sale at very great money-saving prices; these are all fresh goods and not dried out, shop-worn floor coverings—floor coverings that will cheer up any living room in the home. In Drapery materials Cressman's stock as the first place both for size and quality, many lines of which are being sold at astonishingly low prices. Don't fail to go on hand early to-day and secure a good choice of the many big money savers. The sale ends Monday at 5 o'clock.

A DISCOVERY OF GREAT VALUE

Because a Cure Was Found for Inflammatory Rheumatism

There are many types of rheumatism, but none worse than inflammatory.

It was this kind that almost killed Mrs. Edw. Warman, of Kent Jct., N. B.

Every known remedy she tried, different doctors gave their advice, but the disease increased.

Weak and despairing, she was at last write and when the remarkable cure of Thos. Cullen was published. This gentleman was cured of rheumatism by "Ferrozone." Consequently Mrs. Warman used the same remedy. Here is her statement:

"For years I have been rheumatic. I tried various forms of relief without success. The disease increased, settled in my joints and muscles; these swelled, caused excruciating pain and kept me from sleeping. My limbs and arms stiffened, my shoulders were lame and prevented me from working. Week by week I was losing strength and despaired of finding a cure. It was a happy day, I heard of Ferrozone. Every day I took Ferrozone I felt better, it eased the painful joints, gave relief so that not an ache has returned, new energy and a feeling of new life. Ferrozone cured my rheumatism, surely. Even damp weather no longer affects me."

Ferrozone has power to destroy Uric acid, neutralize and enrich the blood, and therefore does cure the worst cases. Mrs. Warman's statement proves this.

For removing the cause of the disease and building up a reserve of energy Ferrozone is certain to cure. Do it now, don't let about time to stop experimenting! Ferrozone is a cure. We guarantee this. Sold by all dealers. 50c per box or six boxes for $2.50. Remember the name—"Ferrozone."

THE DREADNOUGHT'S GUNS

Since the Dreadnought was launched nearly all the naval powers have been preparing to imitate, if not exceed, her, and it is therefore, somewhat of a surprise to read that Admiral Germinet, who has taken command of the French Mediterranean squadron, says: "I consider the Dreadnought a gross error on the part of the British Admiralty." He states this great ship was built in accordance with erroneous ideas help up to a few months ago concerning the cause of the naval successes of Japan during the war with Russia. He disputes the claim that the defeat of the Russian fleet by Admiral Togo was due to the use of heavy guns. He says it was on account of the use of shells containing a large explosive charge. At first, he states, the Japanese used 12-inch shells having a heavy casing and a small charge, but finding results unsatisfactory, they employed the other variety. We quote from an interview with the Admiral, published in Le Journal of Paris:

It was with these shells that they were armed at Tsu-shima, and it was they that gave the Japanese the victory. Bursting immediately on contact, these shells evolve enormous heart—as the melted steel pencils us heard the lens have shown—and produce a great quantity of deleterious gases which poison all those who breathe them. It must not be said that the Japanese gunnery was wonderful. The secret of their success lay in the large quantity of explosive in their shells.

He further says that such shells cannot be used in the 12-inch guns carried by the Dreadnought, because the thinness of the metallic case would render them incapable of withstanding the force of the explosion of the gun charge. He recommends the use of quick-firing guns of medium calibre using shells of large explosive power. The fact that Japan is building at least one vessel of the Dreadnought type seems to indicate that Admiral Germinet's views do not appear to be held by the naval experts in that country.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

SUPERB OPPORTUNITY FOR GOOD INVESTMENT

to investors, it is to them that the wise investor will turn as a safe and sound investment for his funds.

Among the propositions of this class which will appeal with a great deal of force to a prospective investor, and especially to those who take the pains of investigating its claims and its merits, is that of the Antigua Gold-Copper Company of New Orleans, Louisiana, whose representatives in this territory are the Peterborough Brokerage Company of this city; and who have placed upon the market a second allotment of their capital stock, the proceeds of which are to be used in erecting a large copper smelter for the treatment of its rich copper ores.

Far from being a mere prospect, the Antigua holdings comprise mines already in an advanced stage of development, which a gold-silver mill of ample capacity to treat its output of ore for these values. And it has now practically reached the point where it can be classed as a producing property. Its mines, which are located in Spanish Honduras, are among the few properties so far discovered which yield ores running a combination of gold-silver and copper; and the assays thereof run into very high figures.

The officers, board of directors and principal stockholders of the company include men who stand very high in the financial and business world of Louisiana, and they have presented to investors in this section, through their local agents, a proposition well worthy of careful consideration, and one which promises very large returns in dividends than can be realized from many, many other classes of securities. It is claimed that the gold-silver mill referred to will take out sufficient bullion in these metals to pay all operating expenses and a profit besides, and still leave the richer copper values for treatment in the smelter, to erect which this allotment of stock referred to is being sold.

As to the possible income from an investment of this kind, it may be interesting to note that in the transcript of the testimony of United States Senator Clark in the litigation of W. A. Clark vs. Geo. A. Treadwell, the senator stated: "He believed the Chemical National Bank of New York was the only large business enterprise that paid as much as 100 per cent. a year outside the copper mining industry."

Banks may fail; mercantile or commercial houses may meet with disasterous seasons and go to the wall; manipulation may cause railroad stocks or bonds to drop to low values; legislative regulation or investigations may produce a slump in insurance stocks.—In fact, the shadow of "hard times" may hang over an entire country,—but the constantly increasing demand for precious metals still continues, and out of all the vast multitude of interests which are affected by such conditions, the mining industry alone remains unshaken.

In such times as those referred to, the value of gold is always greater than during the time of plenty. The same applies to silver; and with the thousands of uses to which copper is now put, and for which it is absolutely essential, copper, too, may (or rather, must) be classed as a precious metal and, therefore, free from those influences which may shake the very foundations of other lines of business or commerce.

Therefore, since gold, silver and copper play so important a part in maintaining the balance of credits in times of great financial stress, and so long as they alone can weather a monetary storm, it requires no keen insight and very little calculating to realize that holdings in a company which is producing all three of these metals constitute very, very valuable securities for any investor, whether his interests be large or small.

There are very few instances recorded of developed properties which have found in their ores a combination of gold-copper-silver values, and they have always proven the most profitable of all mining properties. Such are the holdings of the Antigua Gold-Copper Company of New Orleans, Louisiana, who have made arrangements for representation in this section by the Peterborough Brokerage Company of this city; and who are presenting to investors of Ontario a proposition which will be found a most attractive one by those who investigate it.

Their mines are not prospects. They are already developed. Tunnels have been run at various places in their holdings and in each and every instance the result has been the same.—the production of ore rich in gold, silver and copper. Out of nine different assays, the lowest value per ton was $15.64 and the highest $1,468.12, while the highest value of ore per ton produced during last June by eleven of the largest western mines was that from the North Butte, $19.56,—and the North Butte mine has paid $6,000,000 in dividens, on a capital of $4,000,000. The comparison between North Butte and Antigua hardly requires further comment.

A gold-silver mill has been completed to treat the gold-silver values and is practically ready for completion. It will pay all operating expenses and a profit besides, leaving still unconsidered the rich copper ores, for which a smelter is required. The first allotment of this stock was quickly taken up by Louisiana investors; but now a second allotment is being offered for the purpose of erecting a copper smelter, the only remaining machinery or equipment required; and it is represented that even before the smelter is in operation the gold-silver mill will produce sufficient bullion to justify a dividend payment.

A portion of this second allotment has been reserved for offering through the Peterborough Brokerage Company, and in view of the enormous dividends which are being annually paid by American mining companies, and taking into consideration the splendid proposition presented by the Antigua Gold-Copper Company, it will no doubt readily be subscribed for by local investors who are looking for securities which promise large returns.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even-numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so elects, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother).

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Servants' Quarters, R.M.C., Kingston, Ont." will be received at this office until Friday, December 6, 1907, inclusively, for the work above described.

Plans and specifications can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department, and on application to H. P. Smith, Esq., Architect, Kingston.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank made payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering declines to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or if he fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By Order,
FRED. GELINAS,
Secretary.

TENDERS FOR PULPWOOD CONCESSIONS

Tenders will be received by the undersigned up to and including the 16th of December next for the right to cut pulpwood on certain areas tributary to the Mapigon river, in the district of Thunder Bay, and Rainy Lake, in the district of Rainy River, and make the same into paper. Tenderers should state the amount they are prepared to pay as bonus in addition to such dues as may from time to time be fixed for the right to operate a paper making industry on the areas referred to. Separate tenders must be made for each area or territory, and the successful tenderers will be required to erect a mill or mills on each of the territories or in such other localities as may be approved by the Government of Ontario.

Parties tendering for the pulpwood rights shall accompany their tenders with a marked cheque for 25 per cent. of the amount tendered, payable to the Treasurer of Ontario, and to be forfeited in the event of their failing to enter into agreements to carry out conditions, etc.

With respect to the Rainy Lake Pulp Concession, tenderers will be required to make a tender for the right to cut the pine, tamarac and cedar on the territory offered. Parties making tender for these timbers to state the amount they are prepared to pay per thousand feet B.M. as bonus in addition to Crown dues of $2.00 per thousand feet B.M. A marked cheque for $5,000.00 payable to the Treasurer of Ontario must accompany the tender for pine timber, and to be forfeited in the event of their failing to enter into agreements to carry out conditions, etc.

No timber shall be cut on either of the concessions of a less diameter than nine inches, two feet from the ground.

The successful tenderers to enter into agreements with the Government for the erection of the mills, expenditure of money, etc.

For full particulars as to the conditions, etc., application should be made to the undersigned.

HON. F. COCHRANE.
Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines.

to a married man."

After this all Mrs. Noah's sympathy was in favor of Maddy, the good lady making more than one pilgrimage to Hazeldale, where she expended all her arguments trying to make Maddy revoke her decision; but Maddy was firm in what she deemed right, and as her health began slowly to improve, and there was no longer an excuse for Guy to tarry, he gave out in the neighborhood that he was at last to be married, and started for England the latter part of October, as unhappy and unwilling a bridegroom, it may be, as ever went after a bride.

CHAPTER XXI.

Maddy never knew how she lived through those bright, autumnal days, when the gorgeous beauty of decaying nature seemed so cruelly to mock her anguish. As long as Guy was there, breathing the same air with herself, she kept up, vaguely conscious of a shadowy hope that something would happen without her instrumentality, something to ease the weight pressing so hard upon her, but when she heard that he had really gone, that a line had been received from him after he was on board the steamer, all hope died out of her heart.

At last there came to her three letters, one from Lucy, one from the doctor, and one from Guy himself. Lucy's she opened first, reading of the sweet girl's great happiness in seeing her darling boy again, of her sorrow to find him so thin and pale, and changed in all save his extreme kindness to her, his careful study of her wants, and evident anxiety to please her in every respect. On this Lucy dwelt until Maddy's heart seemed to leap up and almost turn over in its casing, so fiercely it throbbed and ached with anguish.

The doctor's next was opened, and Maddy read with blinding tears that which for a moment increased her pain and sent to her bleeding heart an added pang of disappointment, or a sense of wrong done to her, she could not tell which. Dr. Holbrook was to be married the same day with Lucy and to Lucy's sister, Margaret.

"Maggie, I call her," he wrote, "because that name is so much like my first love, Maddy, who thought I was too old to be her husband, and so made me very wretched for a time, until I met and knew Margaret Atherstone. I have told her of you, Maddy; I would not marry her without, and she seems willing to take me as I am. We shall come home with Guy, who is the more wreck of what he was when I last saw him. He has told me, Maddy, all about it, and though I doubly respect you now, I cannot say that I think you did quite right. Better that one should suffer than two, and Lucy's is a nature which will forget far sooner than yours or Guy's. I pity you all."

This almost killed Maddy; she did not love the doctor, but the knowledge that he was to marry another added to her misery, while what he said of her decision was the climax of the whole. Had her sacrifice been for nothing? Would it have been better if she had not sent Guy away? It was anguish unspeakable to believe so, and the shadowy woods never echoed to so bitter a cry of pain as that with which she laid her head on the ground, and for a brief moment wished that she might die. God pitied His child then, and for the next half-hour she hardly knew what she suffered.

There was Guy's letter yet to read, and with a restless indifference she opened it, starting as there dropped into her lap a small carte de visite, a perfect likeness of Guy, who sent it, he said, because he wished her to have so much of himself. It would make him happier to know she could sometimes look at him, just as he should gaze upon her dear picture after it was a sin to love the original. And this was all the direct reference he made to the past, except where he spoke of Lucy, telling how happy she was, and how if anything could reconcile him to his fate, it was the knowing how pure and good and loving was the wife he was getting. Then he wrote of the doctor and Margaret, whom he described as a dashing, brilliant girl, the veriest queen and madcap in the world, and the exact opposite of Maddy.

This letter, so calm, so cheerful in its tone, had a quieting effect on Maddy, who read it twice, and then placing it in her bosom, started for the cottage, meeting on the way with Flora, who was seeking for her in great alarm. Uncle Joseph had had a fit she said, and fallen upon the floor, cutting his forehead badly against the sharp point of the stove. Hurrying on, Maddy found that what Flora had said was true, and sent immediately for the physician, who came at once, but shook his head doubtfully as he examined his patient. There were all the symptoms of a fever, he said, bidding Maddy prepare for the worst. Nothing in the form of trouble could particularly affect Maddy now, and perhaps it was wisely ordered that Uncle Joseph's illness should take her thoughts from herself. From the very first he refused to take his medicines from anyone save her or Jessie, who, with her mother's permission, stayed altogether at the cottage, and who, as Guy's sister, was a great comfort to Maddy.

As the fever increased, and Uncle Joseph grew more and more delirious, his cries for Sarah were heart-rending, making Jessie weep bitterly as she said to Maddy:

"If I knew where this Sarah was I'd go miles on foot to find her and bring her to him."

Something like this Jessie said to her mother when she went for a day to Aikenside, asking her in conclusion if she thought Sarah would go.

"Perhaps," and Agnes brushed abstractedly her long, flowing hair, winding it around her jeweled fingers, and then letting the soft curls fall across her snowy arms.

"Where do you suppose she is?" was Jessie's next question; but if Agnes knew she did not answer, except by reminding her little daughter that it was past her bedtime.

The next morning Agnes' eyes were very red, as if she had been wakeful the entire night, while her white face fully warranted the headache she professed to have.

"Jessie," she said, as they sat together at their breakfast, "I am going to Hazeldale to-day, going to see Maddy, and shall leave you here."

Jessie demurred a little at first, but finally yielded, wondering what had prompted this visit to the cottage. Maddy wondered so, too, as from the window she saw Agnes instead of Jessie alighting from the carriage, and was conscious of a thrill of gratification that Agnes should have come to see her. But Agnes' business concerned the sick man, poor Uncle Joseph, who was sleeping when she came, and so did not hear her voice as in the tidy kitchen she talked to Maddy, appearing extremely agitated, and flashing her eyes rapidly from one part of the room to another, resting now upon the tinware hung upon the wall and now upon the gourd swimming in the water pail standing in the old-fashioned sink with the wooden spout, directly over the pile of stones covering the drain. These things were familiar to the proud woman; she had seen them before, and the sight of them now brought to her a most remorseful regret for the past, while her heart ached cruelly as she wished she had never crossed that threshold, or crossing it had never brought ruin to one of its inmates. Agnes was not the same woman whom we first knew. All hope of the doctor had long since been given up, and as Jessie grew older the mother nature was stronger within her, subduing her selfishness, and making her far more gentle and considerate for others than she had been before. To Maddy she was exceedingly kind, and never more so in manner than now, when they sat together talking in the humble kitchen at the cottage.

Interviewer—I have come to get your views on the proposed change in the curriculum of the school.

Mr. Swellhead—Curriculum! What's that mean? I'm against it, whatever it is.

Mr. Swellhead (reading the report of the interview in the next morning's paper)—"Our distinguished townsman, Mr. M. T. Swellhead, was found at his charming home, surrounded by abundant indications of ripe scholarship and sturdy common sense. In reply to our representative's questions he said, 'I do not desire to force my opinions upon the public, but this I will say, that I have given to this question long and studious attention, incidentally examining upon the curricula of institutions of learning, both at home and abroad, and, although I found in the existing course of study not a few matters for condemnation; still I cannot say that I should advise any radical change until I have further time to examine into the subject.'" By George, that fellow's got my exact language word for word. And he didn't take notes neither. Jiminy, but what a memory that fellow must have!—London Telegraph.

A Londen Lad's Prayer.

W. Pett Ridge, a London writer, made a London boy in one of his stories offer the following rather original prayer: "Lord, wilt thou 'ave the kindness to make me grow strong and tall and with pleaty to say for meself, and wilt thou do this as soon as thou can find time, so's to save me expense and waste of money that might be used in other ways—say for a cricket bat? Believe me, Lord, thy obedient servant, A. Martin."

He rose. He was halfway into his blue flannel bed gown when an important idea occurred to him, and he knelt down again quickly.

"Should 'ave mentioned," he whispered, "Elfred Martin of 58 Cawstle street, jest over Surrey side of South 'ark bridge."

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, but they are symptoms only of a certain specific Nerve sickness—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of this now very popular stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, where trouble originates, and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Will cost that original and highly vital principle in such lasting accomplishments were secrets but Nerve sickness—nothing else.

Offers the Biggest and Most Attractive Mining Investment Now Before the Public.

ITS HOLDINGS ARE MINES--NOT PROSPECTS

With Vast Bodies of Ore Ready for the Mill, Now Nearing Completion.

CHARLES M. SCHWAB
says: "The big fortunes of the next twenty-five years will come from Mother Earth." Among all mining investments none stand ahead of copper for safety, permanency and profit.

Lay the Foundation for Your Fortune Today

THE ANTIGUA PROPERTIES

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company holdings consist of 631 acres, situated in Honduras, Central America, 160 miles southeast from Puerto Cortes, and midway between New Orleans and Panama. Development work is being pushed with all possible speed, and more than 1,000 feet of tunneling and shaft work has been completed. A 40 to 50-ton capacity gold-silver mill is in course of construction, and will be in operation before the close of the year.

Development work has conclusively proven that every acre of our holdings are rich in gold, copper and silver, and that every ton of this great ore body will yield a handsome profit on milling expense. The ore exposed on the surface does not require mining in the usual sense of the term, but may be obtained by quarrying. It can, according to estimates of experts, be quarried and treated for the gold and silver on an extensive scale at a cost of less than $1.00 a ton. Think of it! A solid mountain of rich ore, from the very grass roots of which may be washed gold.

Beyond a doubt Honduras has beneath her soil larger, richer deposits of copper, gold and silver than any other section of the American continent. Spain, during her sovereignty in that country, took out more than $300,000,000 in gold alone—and she scarcely scraped the Earth's surface. There is evidence that the pre-historic races knew how to mine and utilize copper—smelting it in their crude way.

The original incorporators of the Antigua Gold-Copper Company spent thousands of dollars of their own money in bringing this property to its present stage of development. They opened up the mine on every side with tunnels, crosscuts and shafts. They purchased machinery and began the erection of a gold-silver mill—now nearing completion. These men appreciated from the first that this mine was destined to become one of the greatest copper-gold-silver properties in America; and that it justified more extensive and more rapid development than they were able to make without the co-operation and financial assistance of the public.

The average assay values of Antigua ores, ranging from the surface to a depth of 200 feet, is over 5 per cent copper. This is above the average of the ore of the world's greatest producers, the famous Anaconda yielding ore which averages only a little over 3 per cent. The Anaconda has little other ore value, while our property, in addition to the copper, carries $2.00 to $7.00 a ton in gold and silver.

WHY STOCK IS SOLD

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company finds itself in precisely the same position as the farmer who has a larger farm than he can cultivate with the capital in hand. He knows that with additional capital and assistance he could make the land yield abundant crops and enormous profits. In the same way we intend, by the investment of additional capital, to bring our enormous ore bodies to a highly profitable state of development at the earliest possible moment. For this reason a limited amount of treasury stock is offered the public. In this way funds will be available for immediate use in purchasing additional machinery and for continuing vigorous development of the property.

THERE ARE NO PREFERRED SHARES AND NO BONDS TO COME FIRST IN THE DIVISION OF PROFITS.

and your shares will earn as much as a like number of shares owned by any other stockholder in the company. Each share CARRIES WITH IT THE RIGHT TO VOTE, so that with a single share you have every right, privilege and protection possessed by any other stockholder.

Stock is now being sold at $2.50 a share, and this stock, we firmly believe, will, within a year, be selling at its par value of $5.00 a share, or higher; nor will it stop there. If you are desirous of permanently increasing your income, of making an investment that is not only secure, but immensely profitable, reserve shares TO-DAY.

Such an investment opportunity can scarcely be repeated. It is made possible only by extraordinary natural conditions. Millions of dollars of copper, gold and silver will be marketed from the mines—fortunes will be reaped as a result of the prompt seizure of the opportunity we offer you to-day.

REPORT OF AN EXPERT

Much weight can justly be given the statement of a properly qualified and reliable mining engineer. Such is the character of T. W. Foster, from whose report on Antigua we make the following extracts:

"From the development work done and the indications shown by the croppings, I am convinced this is one of the largest gold-copper deposits in existence, and under proper development will make one of the richest mining properties in America. * * * I consider this ore an ideal smelting proposition, there being an abundance of iron, lime and silica in close proximity. There is plenty of water for power and milling purposes, and an abundance of timber on the property. * * *

"A large amount of development work has been done on this property in tunnels, drifts and shafts, ranging from 30 to possibly 200 feet in length. * * * This work has all been in ore—in fact, the ore body on the surface is shown to be fully one-half mile wide by two miles in length. To judge from the development work done, this property is all ore—no matter where work was started, ore was encountered.

"The company is erecting a mill, consisting of one five-stamp and three Hunningtons, to work the surface ore. This surface ore is mostly free milling, the copper and galena sulphides being oxidized, freeing the gold, and being readily amalgamated. But I am confident that at no very great depth copper sulphides will be encountered, as there are many places in this great ore body where the sulphides crop to the surface. I have taken a dozen samples from various places on the lead, and from these made free gold tests, finding an average of over $6.00 a ton in FREE gold, and from 5 to 7% per cent copper. Native copper is frequently seen in this ore. If the Antigua mines continue in depth as on the surface, a 1,000 ton smelter will not work it out in 100 years. * * *

"* * * With good management and proper development, it will be but a short time until the stock of the company will be worth more than par. I fully believe that if this great ore body is properly developed there is a mine here worth many millions of dollars.

Hotel Dispute Now Settled

The case of Gunan versus Kelly and Flaherty, which was to have been heard by Mr. Justice Maben at the autumn sittings of the High Court of Justice, was settled out of court. The case concerned the Royal Hotel, of which Mr. Kelly was the proprietor. He has been succeeded by Mr. Flaherty. Terms of the agreement made were apparently satisfactory to all parties concerned.

Pin in Her Throat

Miss Ethel Graham of Lindsay, has had a peculiar operation in Toronto, when a steel pin was removed from her throat. It was found the pin had passed through the windpipe and penetrated between the vertebra of the backbone, and was causing partial paralysis. The young lady is now very much better, but not altogether relieved of the result of her unfortunate accident.

Death of Mrs. James Kidd, Sr.

Isabella Macnaughton, relict of the late James Kidd, Jr., died at her home in Dummer, on Sunday the 17th of November. She was born in Perthshire, Scotland, in the year 1830. In religion she was a member of the Presbyterian Church at Warsaw. She leaves to mourn her loss, three sons and five daughters. These are Dr. F. E. Kidd, New York City; Dr. D. A. Views of Cadets

Whilst the Collegiate Institute Cadets were being inspected by Col. Gordon on Thursday morning at Riverside Park, Mr. Fred Rey took a number of excellent snap shots during the manoeuvers. These were made up into illustrated private post cards. So great was the demand for these cards that yesterday morning nearly every one of the many scores of pictures taken had been sold. The views were particularly clear, each of the lad's features being clearly distinguishable, especially in the picture showing the "Firing Line," as the boys brought their rifles to their shoulders to fire.

GRATEFUL MEN AND WOMEN PRAISE PE-RU-NA.

Mrs. Ellen Nagle, 414 4th St., Green Bay, Wis., writes:

"I have often heard Peruna praised and it is more widely known here than other medicines, but I never knew what a splendid medicine it really was until a few weeks ago when I caught a bad cold which settled all over me.

"The doctor wanted to prescribe, but I told him I was going to try Peruna and sent for a bottle and tried it. I felt much better the next morning and within five days I had not a trace of any lameness or cough."

Prince Jonah Kalanianaole, Dewey Hotel, Washington, D. C., Delegate to Congress from Hawaii, writes:

"I can cheerfully recommend Peruna as a very effective remedy for coughs, colds and catarrhal trouble."

Hon. C. C. Brooks, Mayor of Sunbury, Ohio, also Attorney for Farmers' Bank and Sunbury Building and Loan Co., writes:

"I have the utmost confidence in the virtue of Peruna. It is a great medicine. I have used it and I have known many of my friends who have obtained beneficial results from its use. I cannot praise Peruna too highly."

Cystitis Entirely Relieved.

Miss Mattie McArthur, care of Hospital, Medical Lake, Wash., writes:

"I have not written to you for some time, but, Oh, I have given you many words of praise. I am so well. I had cystitis very badly and could not walk any distance without suffering intense pain, but I do not have a touch of my old suffering now. I can never praise Peruna enough. I am telling every one how much good Peruna has done for me."

Catarrh of Head and Throat.

Mrs. William H. Hinchliffe, 29 Myrtle street, Beverly, Mass., writes:

"I have taken four bottles of Peruna, and I can say that it has done me a great deal of good for catarrh of the head and throat. I recommend Peruna to all sufferers with catarrh. I do not think I ever felt much better. I am really surprised at the work I can do. I do not think too much praise can be said of Peruna."

Suffered With LaGrippe.

Mrs. H. A. S. Marsh, 2128 Reservoir St., Los Angeles, Cal., President Woman's Benevolent Association, writes:

"I suffered with la grippe for seven weeks, and nothing I could do or take helped me until I tried Peruna.

"I felt at once that I had at last secured the right medicine and I kept steadily improving. Within three weeks I was fully restored, and I am glad that I gave that truly great remedy a trial.

"I will never be without it again."

Used Pe-ru-na For Bronchitis.

Mr. Frank Battle, Jr., First street, near Charlotte Ave., West Nashville, Tenn., writes:

"I desire to say for the benefit of others that your Peruna has unquestionably cured me of chronic bronchitis. It is the grandest discovery of the age for throat and lungs."

Peruna is not simply a palliative to relieve some of of the distressing symptoms. It brings permanent relief.

Malarial Fever For Several Months.

Mrs. Sue M. Morris, 2214 Patterson St., Nashville, Tenn., writes:

"Last fall a severe attack of malarial fever laid me up for some months. My condition was serious for a time and the doctor who was attending me did not seem able to cope with the trouble.

"A neighbor advised me to let the doctor's prescription alone and try Peruna, extolling its virtues to the skies, and I am now ready to do the same, for in three days I was much better and in ten days I was able to be up and in two weeks every trace of malaria had left my system.

"I now use Peruna off and on when in need of a tonic and it braces me up wonderfully."

"The Doctors Gave Me Up."

Mr. Lewis Kitchen, Hulington, Ohio, writes:

"I cannot thank you enough for the good your Peruna has done me. About six months ago I could not leave my bed, and the doctors gave me up saying that I had consumption and could not live. Then a friend recommended Peruna to me, and I commenced using it.

"When I started to use your Peruna I weighed 117 pounds, and now I weigh 172 pounds. I had been sick for two years, and was so sick I could not turn over in bed when I began the use of Peruna. I think it is the greatest medicine of its time.

"I am now feeling well and hearty and would not be without Peruna."

Weak and Nervous.

Mr. Charles Brown, Rogersville, Tenn., writes:

"I feel it my duty to write you a few words in praise of your Peruna. I have tried many different remedies, but have found that Peruna is the greatest tonic on earth, and a perfect system builder.

"A friend advised me to take Peruna for indigestion, and it cured me in a short time. I was very weak and nervous, could sleep but little at night, but Peruna cured that tired, all-gone feeling, and made me feel like a new man, so I heartily recommend it to all who are weak and run down. Peruna will give new life and energy. I cannot speak too highly of Peruna, and will not forget to recommend it on every hand. I will answer any letter from those desiring to know what Peruna has done for me."

Systemic Catarrh.

Miss Marie Lesser, 938 W. 36th street, Chicago, Ill., writes:

"I am glad to give a good word for Peruna, and I hope that all who see this who are troubled with systemic catarrh as I was for years, will profit by it. I had tried many remedies, but none did more than give me temporary relief and some did not even do that. I took Peruna at the suggestion of a friend and was more than pleased and surprised at the results. I am now perfectly well and strong."

True Cause of Disease.

IN these days almost every ailment is supposed to be caused by disease germs.

The medical profession as well as the people, seem to have gone mad over the germ theory of disease.

The universal fear and dread of disease germs is becoming a very serious matter to the welfare and happiness of the people.

Dr. Hartman has consistently contended through all the rise and spread of the germ theory, that most diseases are caused by climatic influences.

For instance, catching cold is responsible for more than one-half of the ills to which human beings are subject.

Danger of Neglected Colds.

A person catches cold easily, thinks nothing about it, neglects it, when it finally becomes settled in some organ of the body, and chronic disease is the result.

A few doses of Peruna in the beginning of the cold would have saved months of suffering, as well as great expense for treatment.

Peruna is a reliable relief for cold. Almost everybody knows this.

Instead of trying to dislodge or kill some imaginary germ, if Peruna was used at the proper time its tonic properties and anti-catarrhal qualities would soon convince the patient that he has found the right remedy.

A multitude of letters are received testifying to this fact.

Keep Peruna in the house. Use it whenever cold or climatic affections assail, and sickness in the household will become greatly lessened, if not entirely prevented.

Catarrh of the Stomach.

Mr. Christian Hofmann, R. F. D. 1, Slatington, Pa., writes:

"For many years I suffered with catarrh of the stomach. I was coughing day and night. After having tried three doctors and many remedies, one of your almanacs came to my hand, and I bought some Peruna. So far I have taken six bottles, and I have not suffered with catarrh this summer. I am cured and Peruna did it. I give Peruna to my children when they feel bad and you should see how healthy they are."

Nose, Throat and Stomach.

Mr. Delbert B. Craft, Lowell, Ind., writes:

"For a long time I suffered with chronic catarrh of the nose, throat and stomach. I would continually take cold and my stomach was in bad condition. I truly suffered untold misery. I took various medicines and tried the treatment of several physicians, but I felt no better. A friend advised me to take Peruna. I wrote to Dr. Hartman, who prescribed treatment. As soon as I commenced to take Peruna I was surprised at the relief it gave me. I kept on taking it until I had taken thirteen bottles and was cured."

Many Doctors Failed

Dr. Hamilton Again Figures in a Case that Puzzled Other Physicians.

Halifax, N.S., Oct. 1.—When the trouble of Mrs. Stanley, of 143 Agricola St., was first given it caused no small comment, and again establishes that a physician who understands his profession none excel Dr. Hamilton.

"For years," says Mrs. Stanley, "I have suffered greatly from a peculiar dragging weakness that resulted from pleurisy and asthma. Doctors prescribed but failed to advise anything of real benefit. A friend urged me to try Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut and I bought five boxes. They gave me renewed strength and energy, toned my stomach, enriched my blood, and supplied just what my system needed. No medicine could have benefited more than Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and I believe every woman should be helped enormously by using these pills regularly. They did me more lasting good than all the prescriptions I took in five years."

No man or woman in poor health ever used Dr. Hamilton's Pills without benefit; the depressed, ailing and weak they uplift and strengthen as a trial always proves.

SUPERB OPPORTUNITY

Has become the sure and certain road to great wealth. In the business of the world, mining is the best of all coin, and mining, as conducted to-day, readily eliminates the fakir or adventurer, and is as safe a business as the old-time real estate business in a country neighborhood.

"In answer to the question, as to what I think of men and women of small means investing in mining stocks or in mines, my answer is that there are the very people above all others who should invest in good mining stocks. They have too little for 3, 4, 5 or 6 per cent. to do them much good; while on the other hand, 12, 20, 30, 40, 50 and 60 per cent. on their small investments would bring the comforts of plenty to their scant and meagre boards."

This advice from one who knew, and who had himself accumulated a vast fortune from mining investments, can not fail to impress the man who has either large or limited means for which he is seeking an investment; and since it is the mining companies of the United States which have in the last few years proven so highly profitable

The New South End Church

In connection with the resolution passed in the King Edward school regarding the proposed new Methodist church in the south end of the city, it might be noted that a committee, composed of Messrs. Wilson, Stabler and Brown was appointed to secure options on properties which would serve as sites, and a report will be returned at a subsequent meeting.

A committee was selected to consider the style of the church and other things in connection with its erection. The following are on the committee; Rev. H. M. Manning, Rev. E. A. Pearson and Messrs. Crossman, Dumble, Robertson and Ackerman.

Before the meeting was adjourned it was decided to increase the number of those who comprise the committee representing the other Methodist churches in the city, in the new proposal. The following were therefore added; Messrs. Hicks, Robertson, Dunford, Wilson, Mann and Saunders.

"DAVEY" HARTLEY PAINTS THE BARBER

PETERBOROUGH'S "WALKING WONDER" DEFEATED JIMMY REYNOLDS, THE PORT HOPE WALKING BARBER, IN THE TWELVE HOUR RACE BY ONE MILE

In the Mutual Street Rink on Saturday--Hartley Covered 57 Miles and Six Laps and Reynolds 56 Miles and Six Laps--Finished 11.03 p.m.

Jumped Into the Lead in the Second Lap and Increased It to One Mile

Hartley's Pretty Style

Toronto, Nov. 24.—Jimmy Reynolds, the walking barber of Port Hope, and David Hartley, Peterborough's walking wonder, commenced their 12-hour walking race at Mutual street rink Saturday morning at exactly 4 1-2 minutes past 11 o'clock and finished at 2 1-2 minutes past 11 p.m. Thos. Fitzgerald, starter and referee, sent the men away from the mark and Tom Eck, the judge of the contest, assisted.

Hartley wore a blue jersey, black knickers, a handkerchief around his neck and a black cap, while Reynolds walked bare-headed, with a black and orange sweater and black knickers. Both were specially prepared shoes with soft soles and high uppers, and short socks. Hartley was bare-legged while Reynolds wore underwear.

HARTLEY SHOWS STYLE.

Hartley started off at a rattling pace and showed a fine, clean style of walking. He walked in an erect, upright position, with chest extended and arms swinging like the pendulum of a clock.

Reynolds had an entirely different style of traveling more of a lope than anything else, with shoulders bent forward and looked to be saving himself for the crucial tests in the later stages.

Hartley's style seemed the more wearing, though he undoubtedly had the superior speed.

The surface of the rink was roped off in a course 15 laps to the mile. The walkers had plenty of attendants, and were fed chiefly on beef tea, milk, and whites of eggs.

HARTLEY A LAP AHEAD.

Hartley walked the first mile in 9 minutes 25 seconds, with Reynolds 15 yards in the rear. The second mile was covered by Hartley in 17.30, and after going two more laps, he lapped Reynolds, and then dropped behind Port Hope's walking barber. This did not last long, as Hartley, after a hard sprint, again took the lead and set the pace.

HARTLEY INCREASES LEAD.

Between the 4th and 5th miles Hartley, walking at a tremendous clip, lapped Reynolds again, and then seemed content with his two laps lead, and tagged on behind letting Reynolds do the pace-making. The Port Hope man's supporters were not at all dismayed and said that it was a question of endurance as well as speed, and that their man would make up the lost ground in the closing stages of the contest. Reynolds seemed to improve as he went along and his apparent nervousness wore off.

Hartley's time for the first five miles was 48 minutes, 30 seconds, a splendid average for a track with 15 laps to the mile. Reynolds' time for the same distance was 51 minutes. The men were then settled down to real hard work and were walking with better judgment and in a steadier fashion. Although Reynolds was walking better than in the initial stages he was perspiring a lot more than Davey Hartley.

The score at 12 o'clock, after the first hour, was as follows.

	Miles	Laps
Hartley	6	1
Reynolds	5	14

At 4.08 in the afternoon, Hartley had gained five laps on Reynolds and was walking a pretty race. For the next hour and a half he struck up a rattling gait and at 4.30 had looped the loop again repeating the trick twice before 5.30. Reynolds appeared to be flagging and Hartley seemed to have lots left and increased his lead to 10 laps or 2-3 of a mile. Reynolds stopped at this stage for a short rest and complained that his shins were very sore. His whole body shook at every step, while Hartley walked along with a smart stride which did not appear to affect his body motion, and at the same time had the appearance of being fresh.

At 10.15 Hartley was walking in sixes and had gone 52 miles and three laps while Reynolds covered 52 miles and four laps.

Both walkers were going about the same pace, but from this time Hartley put greater energy into the walk as it looked as though he were determined to lead Jimmy Reynolds home by a mile. At 10.47 Hartley had covered 55 miles 13 laps, and Reynolds 54 miles 14 laps, and at the finish Hartley 57 miles 6 laps, Reynolds 56 miles 6 laps.

Knocker Hockey Club Meets Tonight

This evening a meeting of the Knocker Club is called for eight o'clock at the Y.M.C.A. Last year the team played independent hockey, and if there is anything doing this year in the matter of a league similar to the City Baseball League the club will enter a team. All interested in the club are requested to attend the meeting, when the season's prospects will be considered.

Conditions | The Hero | The Trainer

The twelve-hour walking race at Mutual street rink, Toronto, between Dave Hartley, of Peterborough, and Jimmy Reynolds, Port Hope's walking barber, started at 11.03 a.m. Saturday morning, and finished at 11.03 at night. The match was a square heel and toe one. Tom Eck, the famous trainer, who who is an old-time walker himself, and who has had years experience in matches of this kind, was agreed upon to act as referee.

The winner will receive 50 per cent. of the gate receipts, and the loser 10 per cent.

Preached at Charlotte Street Church

—Rev. J. P. Wilson, of Belleville, preached at the Charlotte street church yesterday at both services in the interests of the Women's Missionary Society.

DAVID HARTLEY
The Walking Wonder

No small amount of credit is due Mr. Geo. Stevens, who is acting manager and trainer for Dave Hartley; it was Mr. Stevens and his son Charley, who accompanied Hartley on the long walk to Toronto and return, and it was through his efforts that enough money was raised to finance the walk. Mr. Hartley speaks in the highest terms of the work of Mr. Stevens as a trainer and the encouragement he handed out to him while making that long walk to Toronto and return. "No better trainer could have accompanied me," were Mr. Hartley's remarks when he finished at the Munro House.

Mr. Stevens of course was on hand to aid in winning the race in Toronto and looked after Hartley to see that every attention was given him. Tom Flannagan of the Irish Canadians looked after the interests of Reynolds. Manager Stevens was heard to make it clear to those doubting ones who have had their hammer out knocking, that his man Hartley could deliver the goods which he so ably did on Saturday night.

Mr. Tom Eck, who was at one time a famous walker, acted in the capacity of referee.

Harriers Have Arranged a Splendid Program of Races

One of the Best Athletic Meets Ever Held in the City of Peterboro

Everything indicates that the big athletic meeting to be held under auspices of the Y.M.C.A. Harriers in the Brock street rink on Tuesday, December 3, will be one of the most successful events of its kind ever held in the city. A splendid program, specially chosen to interest the general public has been arranged. One very attractive feature will be the outside runners who will include Sellon, Coley and Longabout, of the Irish-Canadians and two of the best men from the West End and Central Y.M.C.A. teams of Toronto, Jack Salter or Harry Lawson, will likely represent the latter. In addition, Tom O'Rourke, one of the greatest half-milers in the world, will be here and will give exhibition runs.

The complete program is as follows.

[illegible] yards—[illegible]
220 yards—[illegible]
880 yard—[illegible]
Exhibition runs—T. O'Rourke, Irish-Canadian Athletic Club, Toronto.
Three-mile handicap—Final between [illegible] Y.M.C.A. Harriers, to start in scratch.
Exhibition runs—Tom Longabout.
Three-mile special race—One entry each from the Irish-Canadians, Central Y.M.C.A., Toronto, West End Y.M.C.A., Toronto, and Peterborough Y.M.C.A.

The handicap sprints are open to everybody and there will be good fields in each event.

Canadian Flour for the Far East

In view of the fact that Peterborough possesses among her many manufacturing industries several large flour and cereal mills it is of interest to learn that in the latest issue of the Trade and Commerce Journal, there is an interesting report from Alex. McLaren, Trade Commissioner to Japan, in which he refers to the increasing demand for Canadian flour, and points out the superior quality of our product as compared with that of California, Oregon and Washington. The flour produced from the wheat grown on the Pacific Coast. Large quantities of Canadian flour have been shipped across to the Orient during the past year, and from present prospects the trade between Canada and Japan will develop.

The article in question goes extensively into the [illegible] concerning this branch of trade and manufacture, and from the [illegible] facts set forth there is reason to believe that Peterborough millers will [illegible] the markets of the Far East.

At St. Mary's church Wednesday a short time ago, Rev. [illegible] united in marriage [illegible] Miss Maude Mary McKeown to Mr. J. H. Herrington, [illegible] parties are former residents of this town.—Havelock Standard.

Will be Back

Montreal, Nov. 24.—It is stated in political circles here that before the next general election the Hon. Clifford Sifton will be back in the Laurier cabinet.

If the all-red line meets with acceptance, Mr. Sifton will return to public life on the strength of it. Though the portfolio of trade and commerce is now held by Sir Richard Cartwright, still means will be found to displace the doughty knight to make room for Mr. Sifton.

In six months, then, Mr. Sifton will be back in politics.

POLICE

It will be remembered that about a week ago Chas. Beavis, then in the police court charged with being drunk was remanded in order to let him consider [illegible] or [illegible] in court or [illegible].

The magistrate was [illegible] with Beavis and allowed him to go. "If you come back again, Beavis," said he, worse will [illegible] to the Central Prison for six months. You are a good mechanic and you ought to let drink alone. [illegible] assured his worship that he wouldn't drink again. Before leaving the court it [illegible] covered that Beavis owed the [illegible] of $2 and costs which had been [illegible] some time ago. Charles told the court that he could [illegible] way to pay the [illegible] but he was in jail all the time, [illegible] if the time was extended for ten days longer he would pay the [illegible]. The magistrate complied with his request.

His worship County Magistrate Edmison held [illegible] Saturday morning when he delivered judgment in the North Monaghan case. The case arose through a visit of two men named respectively Watt and Coleman to the house of a man named Sidney. The visitors had a large bottle of whiskey which was relegated to three brothers of the [illegible] partments of the evening. A fight took place, when the whiskey had circulated. Sidney laid a charge of assault against Coleman and Watt, alleging that "actual bodily harm was done." Saturday, however, the charge was reduced to that of common assault [illegible] both men pleaded guilty and Coleman was fined $5 and costs, [illegible] to $10 and Watt $3 and costs, amounting to $15.25.

Obituary

The death of Mrs. Annie, wife of [illegible] Ellis, occurred [illegible] residence, [illegible] road, last night [illegible] Ellis [illegible] Limits, occured at an early hour this morning. A Canadian Navy Treated as a Joke

New York, November 24.—The Times says: "The British Columbia Navy League has asked the Dominion Government for six warships to be maintained by the Dominion on the Pacific coast, and form a nucleus of the Canadian navy. Six Dreadnoughts would be a nucleus, respectable from the naval point of view and worthy of the Dominion, but six ships not worthy to rail in the line would be both expensive and useless.

"Is it possible that Canada is worried by our naval establishment? If so, is it possible that Canada imagines that it could possibly maintain a navy such as the Mother country would be compelled to supply in the incredible contingency of necessity for protection against ourselves? Or is Japan the enemy against which Canadians tender conscience suggests the need of defence? But what would half a dozen thin-skinned cruisers and destroyers do against the fleet which sunk Rojestvensky's?

"The fact is the Mother Country set Canada a better example when he dismantled the Imperial forts and naval stations on this side of the Atlantic. England recognized that the Monroe doctrine is better protection for Canada than any navy, her own or even the Imperial. England's loyal colonies put up on our good behaviour, but Canada's proposition is adapted to be a pin prick, unless regarded as a good joke. With an undefended and inestimable border, Canadian conquest is easy without any naval assistance, and despite any naval resistance, but this is a contingency beyond contemplation. Our navy by very much as Canada's service for nothing and we dislike to have any portion of its cost increased by the necessity of a detail to observe Canada's navy. In short, the idea of the entering wedge of militarism on this continent is objectionable, but we would rather smile at Canada's navy than treat it seriously."

Jap Terrorists Excite Town of Learning

Berkeley, Nov. 23.—This [illegible] college town is considerably agitated and much annoyed at the activities of a certain group of Japanese [illegible] ers who have settled in the community and pursue their search of propaganda from the quiet surroundings of lawful American institutions. Recent developments indicate that this colony of Japanese communists travelled from their own country have only begun their campaign against civilized government and their initial manifestoes show that there is scarcely anything at which they hesitate to accomplish their ends.

The anarchist Japs, representing a secret international [illegible] whose agents are operating from Berkeley, claim to have discovered the [illegible] explosive that is [illegible] and more violent than any yet known to modern science. The terrorist Japs who have arrived here are all well educated and [illegible] and are skilled chemists. In the month of December, 1905, the Revolution, a Japanese anarchist publication, was issued in Berkeley. The last development in the terrorist letters, issued recently a few days ago, which contained a direct threat against the life of the ruler of Japan and a careful demonstration of the terrorist principles, proving conclusively its purpose as a means of revolutionary propaganda when distributed in Japan.

Germans Spending Many Millions

Berlin, Nov. 24.—The Imperial Navy estimates provide for the outlay in 1908 of $5,000,000, which is $15,000,000 more than for the previous year. In 1909 there will be a progressive increase in the estimates until 1910, when they will reach [illegible] During the next four years Germany will lay down annually three battleships, which will [illegible] greater than the British Dreadnoughts, and [illegible] armored cruiser similar to the 19,000-ton ship now building. It is figured that Germany will have in 1918, 38 first-class battleships, of which 24 will be the Dreadnought class, and eight of the 19,000 ton class cruisers. Each battleship and cruiser will cost $9,125,000. The high price is largely due to the armament which will be immensely strong. The present estimate allows $1,000,000 for submarines, and this amount will be the future annual outlay on account of this type. There will be [illegible] new torpedo boat destroyers each year.

Many Thousands Witnessed the Walking Contest--Hartley Finished Strong

Reynolds was All "In"

Saturday's walking contest in the Mutual street rink, Toronto, between David Hartley of this city and the much talked of "walking barber," Jimmy Reynolds of Port Hope, has again proved that Peterborough has produced and added another champion to her long list of successful athletes that keep this city to the fore in athletics. In fact there is not a city in Canada that has achieved such a remarkable reputation in sporting circles as Peterborough. It is quite true also that the citizens are slow in recognizing this fact and as a result hard knocks are handed out to clubs and individuals who should be treated and supported otherwise.

David Hartley is certainly a credit to this city. His remarkable feat of Saturday brings the name of Peterborough before the world. In almost every journal in American and England will be reported the remarkable contest won by Dave Hartley of Peterborough. In the city of Toronto alone many thousands of people witnessed the race many going to the rink not only to witness the race but to see the walking wonder who performed such a remarkable feat on Thanksgiving Day, when he completed his 132-mile walk to Toronto and return, cutting two hours off Reynolds' time, thus making a record. The contest of Saturday was even more talked of in Toronto and outside places than in Peterborough. It was with great difficulty that Hartley got enough backing to enable him to make the walk to Toronto and return and since then for performing such a wonderful feat he has received practically nothing. It is plain to everyone that Hartley is walking for the honor in the game and not for money. It is not up to the citizens of Peterborough to suitably reward the walking wonder who has brought honor to our fair city as well as advertised it.

STORY OF THE WALK.

At no stage of the walk did Reynolds push Hartley, and it was conceded early in the evening that Hartley would win barring accidents. When the race started Reynolds was the favorite, almost two-thirds of the people in the rink were Reynolds' supporters. He was applauded time and again. It was not until later in the afternoon that the backers and supporters of Hartley arrived, and later in the evening many people from Peterborough left on the 8.48 train to see the walking wonder finish. Groups of Hartley's supporters placed themselves at different quarters of the rink to encourage the plucky walker, and every time a lap was concluded, and the score passed, the applause was deafening.

At four o'clock in the afternoon an enthusiastic bunch of former Peterborough citizens, but who are now residents of Toronto, dropped into the rink and yelled themselves hoarse. This seemed to inspire Hartley, who had received very little encouragement in the earlier part of the contest and it was at this stage that he set out at such a strenuous clip walking about four laps in little over an hour. Throughout the remainder of the race he walked strong and had the race well in hand and finished in good shape.

At the conclusion of the race Hartley was surrounded and idolized by his supporters and taken to his quarters.

Mr. George Stevens Home

Mr. Geo. Stevens, manager and trainer of Peterborough's walking wonder, returned home last night on the midnight. Mr. Stevens remarked that from the start of the contest Hartley had Reynolds beaten, and his victory was an easy one. Time after time Mr. Stevens had to urge all on Davey to take an easier pace. Hartley is expected to arrive home on the local tonight, and he is to be accorded Mr. Stevens will be given a rousing reception.

—The steamer Monarch arrived in port Saturday morning from Harwood with 55 on the passenger list. There was skipe to interfere with the voyage and good time was made.

A DISCOVERY OF GREAT VALUE

Because a Cure Was Found for Inflammatory Rheumatism

There are many types of rheumatism, but none worse than inflammatory.

It was this kind that almost killed Mrs. Edw. Warman, of Kent Isle, N. B.

Every known remedy she tried, different doctors gave their advice, but the disease increased.

Weak and despairing, she was at her wits' end when the remarkable cure of Thos. Cullen was published. This gentleman was cured of rheumatism by "Ferrozone." Consequently Mrs. Warman used the same remedy. Here is her statement:

"For years I have been rheumatic. I tried various forms of relief without success. The disease increased, settled in my joints and muscles, these swelled, caused excruciating pain and kept me from sleeping. My limbs and arms stiffened, my shoulders were lame and prevented me from working. Week by week I was losing strength and despaired of finding a cure. It was a happy day I heard of Ferrozone. Every day I took Ferrozone I felt better, it eased the painful joints, drove it so that now an ache has returned, me energy and a feeling of new life. Ferrozone cured my rheumatism, cured. Even damp weather no longer affects me."

Ferrozone has power to destroy Uric acid, neutralize and enrich the blood, and therefore does cure the worst cases. Mrs. Warman's statement proves this.

By removing the cause of the disease and building up a reserve of energy Ferrozone is certain to cure. Sufferer, isn't it about time to stop experimenting? Ferrozone is a cure. We guarantee this. Sold by all dealers, 50c per box or six boxes for $2.50. Remember the name—"Ferrozone."

THE ONTARIO WORKMAN'S HOME

The Dundee (Scotland) Advertiser man, who visited Canada in the early autumn, and who knows from daily contact how miserable the workingclass homes of English and Scotch industrial centres can be, says:—

"I have lingered somewhat over my description of Ontario, and yet I have merely sketched its outlines. It has no drink problem, no rich, and no poor, and its educational system, like our own, is free and compulsory. It is the largest in population, and the wealthiest. It has an amazing variety of woods, grain and fruit; luscious vines and orchards extend for miles on either side of the railroad track, and you need go no further than the observation car of a Grand Trunk train to realize why it is called the Garden of Canada. But what have impressed me most in Ontario are the homes of the working people. No huge tenements with man, women and children huddled together under unhealthy conditions. No filthy, squalid surroundings, but nice, comfortable, well-kept villas, each with its veranda and trim garden plot. In almost every case the house is the property of the occupant. These are the homes of the artisans who toil in the factories and the working sheds. The homes of the workingmen of Ontario are homes, indeed, and men who live in such surroundings must bless the fate that placed them in a country where there is room and to spare."

DOGS IN BAGDAD.

Why They Do Not Loot the Food Bazaars of the Town.

Bagdad is alive with more or less hungry dogs. How is it that such packs of furies do not loot the bazaars of the town? The explanation is as simple as it is interesting. The Bagdad shop fronts are absolutely open.

The goat and mutton carcasses are hung where every dog that runs can reach them. But time out of mind the first glance of a dog's eye toward forbidden dainties has been visited with the swift descent on him of a cudgel or a hatchet.

On one of a series of marches parallel with the Euphrates I chanced to meet a desert horde whose greyhounds are in high repute. Buying a brace of saplings, I took them on with me, lodging them in the tent and doing everything that was possible to make them feel at home.

Surprising to relate, they obstinately refused both food and water. The remains of a venison pasty seemed at once to attract and repel them. A pan of water appealed to them even more strongly, but they would not go up to it.

After a time a Persian muleteer explained the mystery in a twinkling. No sooner did he upset the water and toss the viands on the ground before them than the silky eared ones ran in like Trojans and made up in a few moments for a day's fasting.

Accustomed to lap from the river, from irrigational channels and from sheets of surface water and reared among people who do not use tables, they had been taught by many a buffet to keep their noses out of cooking pots and vessels of every description.

In Bagdad man and beast alike drink of the great river, which also forms the arterial common sewer of the city, the place where clothes are washed and the "Stygian wave" into which is dragged every beast of burden when it is not left to lie where it has fallen.

The muddy bottom, with the water ever receding, the exposed surfaces thick with impurities and the tropical sun "sucking up all the infections," must be a regular hotbed of miasma and pestilence.

And yet, miserable dirty, Bagdad is not, as eastern cities go, unhealthy. But let the reader imagine to himself what the Bagdad of the foregoing slight description would be like without the dogs that scavenge it. Refuse animal and vegetable matter is largely disposed of by the dogs, in situ.—Nineteenth Century.

ARCTIC COTTON PLANT.

The Climax of Nature's Irony in the Far North.

The climax of nature's irony in the arctic is the cotton plant, says the Circle. Wherever cotton blooms, declares the miner, ice is not far below. One may trudge for miles through fields of cotton, the white, silky tops swaying defiantly in the arctic breeze. The blossom is silky, dainty, illusive as the down of our own yellow dandelion. From the beginning of June on until August the tundra is white with the cotton plant. Unlike the cotton of the southern states, the fiber is short and soft, having more of the texture of silk than of cotton.

The cotton plant will in all probability some day be the means of developing an Alaskan industry giving employment to thousands. Today, however, the cotton fields are purely decorative—a splendid sweep of immaculate bloom in a bleak, timberless landscape guarded by hills ever hung in veils of deepest purple. In great bouquets it is occasionally met in a miner's shack, while not a few housewives gather the cotton for pillow filling.

Throughout the cotton fields flowers bloom in abnormal splendor, as becomes a country in which the sun shines continuously during summer's voluptuous reign. It is an intoxicating joy for the flower hunter to gather great armfuls of purple larkspur, bluebells, monk's head, primroses, sweet peas, beautiful purple and red asters large as the most cultivated, lilies of the valley, baby breath, yellow arrow, sage rose, pink and white arctic geranium, crimson rhododendrons and giant fireweed, all growing on the hillsides. To enumerate further is to reproduce a florist's catalogue.

Concerning "Christian Names."

May one interject a gentle protest against the use of the phrase "Christian name" in this connection? The Romans said praenomen, the French say prenom, and we have used the word "forename" for the last 365 years. It is an incorrect to speak of the Christian name of a Jew, for example, as it would be hopeless to expect a Christmas card from a Jewish rabbi. Again, the middle name of a Roman was his gentile name—that of his gens. On the surface, what a pretty confusion of ideas it would have been to have spoken of the name as at once gentile and Christian!—London Notes and Queries.

Fiction Ready Made.

"Have you ever read any of Mrs. Galley's stories?"

"Yes; they're awfully improbable, aren't they? I don't see how she imagines such things."

"She doesn't imagine them. She just makes notes of the excuses her husband gives her when he gets home late at night."

Comfort.

Little Mary's mamma gave Uncle Ben, the coachman, directions to drown a lot of kittens, but not to let Mary know of it. She heard of the order in some way and said to Ben, with tears in her eyes: "Uncle Ben, please warm the water. It will be more comfortable."—St. Louis Republic.

YORKSHIRE PIES.

Here is the Way They Were Made in the Olden Days.

The delicacy of the Yorkshire pies of olden days may be judged by the following recipe from an old fashioned cookery book: "First make a good standing crust, let the wall and bottom be very thick; bone a turkey, a goose, a fowl, a partridge and a pigeon; season them all very well; take half an ounce of mace, half an ounce of nutmegs, a quarter of an ounce of cloves and half an ounce of black pepper, all beat fine together; two large spoonfuls of salt, and then mix them together. Open the fowls all down the back and bone them, first the pigeon, then the partridge; cover them; then the fowl, then the goose and then the turkey, which must be large; season them all well first and lay them in the crust so that it will look only like a whole turkey; then have a hare ready cased and wiped with a clean cloth; cut it to pieces—that is, joint it; season it and lay it as close as you can on one side; on the other side woodcock, more game and what sort of wild fowl you can get. Season them well and lay them close; put at least four pounds of butter into the pie, then lay on your lid, which must be a very thick one, and let it be well baked. It must have a very hot oven and will take at least four hours." It is not surprising to find that a footnote adds that the crust requires a bushel of flour.—Chambers' Journal.

CUT THEM ALL OUT.

The Enemies One Is Likely to Meet In His Vocabulary.

"In the dictionary of fools we find 'I can't' very often, plenty of 'ifs' and lots of words like 'luck' and 'destiny' and phrases like 'If I only had time or a chance like other people.'"

Did you ever think that many of the words and phrases which you constantly use are your real enemies, that they leave their hideous pictures and black shadows in your mind?

How many times have you been kept from doing a good deed by such phrases as "Oh, I can't do that," "I am afraid that that will not turn out well," "Oh, I know I can't do that," "Somebody else can do that a great deal better," "I am afraid to try," "I haven't the courage," "I fear I shall take cold or catch some disease if I do this or that?"

I believe that those two words, "I can't," have ruined more prospects and have kept more ability doing the work of mediocrity than any other two words in our language.

"I am afraid of this or that" is a terrible hinderer, a terrible blighter of ambition, a cooler of enthusiasm.

All achievement and all efficiency depend upon initiative, and that is easily killed by the fear words, the words which express doubt and uncertainty.

"By thy words thou shalt be justified, and by thy words thou shalt be condemned." Success.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even-numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader lives permanently in the vicinity on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother).

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

N.B.—Unauthorized publication of this advertisement will not be paid for.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Servants' Quarters, R.M.C., Kingston, Ont." will be received at this office until Friday, December 6, 1907, inclusively, for the work above described.

Plans and specifications can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department, and on application to H. P. Smith, Esq., Architect, Kingston.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank made payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the persons tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or if he fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By Order,
FRED. GELINAS,
Secretary.

TENDERS FOR PULPWOOD CONCESSIONS

Tenders will be received by the undersigned up to and including the 16th of December next for the right to cut pulpwood on certain areas tributary to the Nepigon river, in the district of Thunder Bay, and Rainy Lake, in the district of Rainy River, and may be became into paper. Tenderers should state the amount they are prepared to pay as bonus in addition to such dues as may from time to time be fixed for the right to operate a paper making industry on the areas referred to. Separate tenders must be made for each area or territory, and the successful tenderers will be required to erect a mill or mills on each of the territories or in such other localities as may be approved by the Government of Ontario.

Parties tendering for the pulpwood rights shall accompany their tenders with a marked cheque for 25 per cent of the amount tendered, payable to the Treasurer of Ontario, and to be forfeited in the event of their failing to enter into agreements to carry out conditions, etc.

With respect to the Rainy Lake Pulp Concession, tenderers will be required to make a tender for the right to cut the pine, tamarac and cedar on the territory offered. Parties making tender for these timbers to state the amount they are prepared to pay per thousand feet B.M. as bonus in addition to Crown dues of $2.00 per thousand feet B.M. A marked cheque for $1,000.00 payable to the Treasurer of Ontario must accompany the tender for pine timber, which is forfeited in the event of their failing to enter into agreements to carry out conditions, etc.

No timber shall be cut on either of the concessions of a less diameter than nine inches, two feet from the ground.

The successful tenderers to enter into agreements with the Government for the erection of the mills, expenditure of money, etc.

For full particulars as to the conditions, etc., application should be made to the undersigned.

HON. F. COCHRANE.
Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines.

AIKENSIDE

BY MARY J. HOLMES

Author of "Dora Deane," "The English Orphans," "Lena Rivers," "The Rector of St. Mark's," "Tempest and Sunshine," Etc.

"You look tired and sick," she said. "You cares have been too much for one not yet strong. I will sit by him till he wakes, and you go to bed."

Very gladly Maddy accepted the offered relief, and utterly worn out with her constant vigils, she was soon sleeping soundly in her own room, while Flora, in the little shed, or back room of the house, was busy with her ironing. Thus there was none to follow Agnes as she went slowly into the sick-room where Uncle Joseph lay, this thin face upturned to the light, and his lips occasionally moving as he muttered in his sleep. There was a strange contrast between that wasted imbecile and that proud, queenly woman, but she could remember a time when in her childish estimation he was the embodiment of every manly beauty, and the knowledge that he loved her, his sister's little hired girl, filled her with pride and vanity. A great change had come to them both since those days, and Agnes, watching him and smothering back the pain which arose to her lips at sight of him, felt that for the fearful change in him she was answerable. Intellectual, talented, admired and sought by all he had been once; he was a mere wreck now, and Agnes' breath came in short, quick gasps, as glancing furtively around to see that no one was near, she laid her hand upon his forehead, and parting his thin hair, said, pityingly: "Poor Joseph."

The touch awoke him, and starting up he stared wildly at her, while some memory of the past seemed to be struggling through the misty clouds, obscuring his mental vision.

"Who are you, lady? Who, with eyes and hair like hers?"

"I'm the 'madam' from Aikenside," Agnes said, quite loudly, as Flora passed the door. Then when she was gone she added, softly: "I'm Sarah—Sarah Agnes Morris."

It seemed for a moment to burst upon him in its full reality, and to her dying day Agnes would never forget the look upon his face, the smile of perfect happiness breaking through the rain of tears, the love, the tenderness mingled with distrust, which that look betokened as he continued gazing at her, but said to her not a word. Again her hand rested on his forehead, and taking it now in his he held it to the light, laughing insanely at its soft whiteness; then touching the costly diamonds which flashed upon him the rainbow hues, he said: "Where's that little ring I bought for you?"

She had anticipated this, and took from her pocket a plain gold ring, kept until that day where no one could find it, and holding it up to him, said: "Here it is. Do you remember it?"

"Yes, yes," and his lips began to quiver with a grieved, injured expression. "He could give you diamonds and I couldn't. That's why you left me, wasn't it, Sarah—why you wrote that letter which made by head into two? It's ached an ever since, and I've missed you so much, Sarah! put me in a cell where many were—oh! so many—and they said that I was mad, when I was only wanting you. I'm not mad now, am I, darling?"

His arm was around her neck, and he drew her down until his lips touched hers. And Agnes suffered it. She could not return the kiss, but she did not turn away from him, and she let him caress her hair, and wind it round his fingers, whispering: "This is like Sarah's—you're Sarah, are you not?"

"Yes, I am Sarah," she would answer, while the smile so painful to see would again break over his face as he told how much he had missed her, and asked if she had not come to stay till he died.

"There's something wrong," he said; "somebody dead, and seems as if somebody else wanted to die—as if Maddy died ever since the Lord Governor went away. Do you know Governor Guy?"

"I am his stepmother," Agnes replied, whereupon Uncle Joseph laughed so long and loud that Maddy awoke, and, alarmed by the noise, came down to see what was the matter.

Agnes did not hear her, and as she reached the doorway, she started at the strange position of the parties—Uncle Joseph still smoothing the curls which drooped over him, and Agnes saying to him: "You heard his name was Remington, did you not—James Remington?"

Like a sudden revelation it came upon Maddy, and she turned to leave, when Agnes, lifting her head, called her to come in. She did so, and standing at the opposite side of the bed, she said, questioningly: "You are Sarah Morris?"

For a moment the eyelids quivered, then the neck arched proudly, as if it were a thing of which she was not ashamed, and Agnes answered: "Yes, I was Sarah Agnes Morris; cause for three months your grandmother's hired girl, and afterward adopted by a lady who gave me what education I possess, together with that taste for high life which prompted me to jilt your Uncle Joseph when a richer man than he offered himself to me."

That was all she said—all that Maddy ever knew of her history, as it was never referred to again, except that evening, when Agnes said to her, pleadingly: "Neither Guy, nor Jessie, nor anyone need know what I have told you."

"They shall not," was Maddy's reply; and from that moment the past, so far as Agnes was concerned, was a sealed page to both. With this bond of confidence between them, Agnes felt herself strangely drawn toward Maddy, while, if it were possible, something of her olden love was renewed for the helpless man who clung to her now instead of Maddy, refusing to let her go; neither had Agnes any disposition to leave him. She should stay to the last, so she said, and she did, taking Maddy's place, and by her faithfulness and care winning golden laurels in the opinion of the neighbors, who marvelled at first to see so gay a lady at Uncle Joseph's bedside, attributing it all to her friendship for Maddy, just as they attributed his calling her Sarah to a crazy freak. She did resemble Sarah Morris a very little, they said; and in Maddy's presence they sometimes wondered where Sarah was, repeating strange things which they had heard of her; but Maddy kept the secret from everyone, so that even Jessie never suspected why her mother stayed day after day at the cottage, watching and waiting until the last day of Joseph's life.

She was alone with him then, so that Maddy never knew what passed between them. She had left them together for an hour, while she did some errands; and when she returned Agnes met her at the door, and with a blanched cheek whispered: "He is dead; he died in my arms, blessing you and me; do you hear, blessing me! Surely my sin is now forgiven?"

CHAPTER XXII.

There was a fresh grave made in the churchyard and another chair vacant at the cottage, when Maddy was at last alone. Unfettered by care and anxiety for sick ones, her aching heart was free to go out after the loved ones over the sea, go to the elm shaded mansion she had heard described so often, and where now two brides were busy with their preparations for the bridal hurrying on so fast. Since the letter read in the smoky October woods, Maddy had not heard from Guy directly, though Lucy had written since, a few brief lines, telling how happy she was, how strong she was growing, and how much like himself Guy was becoming. Maddy had been less than a woman if the fast intelligence had failed to affect her unpleasantly. She did not wish Guy to regret his decision; but to be forgotten so soon after so strong protestations of affection was a little mortifying, and Maddy's heart throbbed painfully as she read

(To be continued)

When the Stomach, Heart, or Kidney nerves get weak, then these organs fail. Don't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That is simply a makeshift. Get a prescription known to Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. The Restorative is prepared expressly for these weak inside nerves. Strengthen these nerves, build them up with Dr. Shoop's Restorative—tablets or liquid—and see how quickly help will come. Free sample tea sent on request by Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. Your health is surely worth this simple test.

VALUE OF WALKING.

Benefits to Be Derived From This Form of Exercise.

There is hardly an instance of a long lived man who has not been for the best part of his life a brisk walker and for some reason or other has had to take exercise pretty well every day.

Riding is all very well and so are other exercises, but there is nothing like a good walk, because it stimulates the blood and the muscles and necessitates being in the open air.

If those who complain of being stout would only think of this and never omit a daily constitutional they would be amply rewarded. It will keep them young and their figures presentable.

It is simply a remedy that no one needs to. Sitting about in the open air is all very well and is far better than sitting in the house, but it does not keep you in good health.

It is quite another thing to overfatigue oneself. There is nothing better than to get into a healthy perspiration by walking. It is just like drinking a glass of cold water in the morning. It is so simple no one believes in it.

This may not suit everybody, but those it does suit it will keep in health

Help the Editor.

An Oklahoma editor puts forth this plea: "My friend, help the editor in his wide eyed search for news. When your friends come to you, if you are not ashamed of it, tell him; when your wife gives a tea party, if you will have recovered from the effects of the gossip, drop in with the news; when a baby arrives fill your pockets with cigars and call; if you go to a party, steal some of the good things and leave 'em with the item in our sanctum. If your wife licks you, come in and let us see your scars and tender sympathy through the paper. If your mother-in-law has died, don't be bashful about it; give in all the common place news. In short, whatever makes you feel proud, sad, lonesome or glad submit it to our twenty-four carat wisdom and see our mailed box part and stand up on end with gratitude, which will pour from every pore with moisture from a dew besprinkled earth."

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Indigestion as real diseases, but they are symptoms only of a certain specific disease, nothing else.

It was this fact that first currently led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought Dr. Shoop's good favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishments ever could be.

For stomach distress, bloating, belchings, bad breath and sallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We and all others fully recommend

ANTIGUA GOLD-COPPER Co.

Offers the Biggest and Most Attractive Mining Investment Now Before the Public.

ITS HOLDINGS ARE MINES--NOT PROSPECTS

With Vast Bodies of Ore Ready for the Mill, Now Nearing Completion.

THOMAS W. LAWSON
"Copper stocks offer the biggest opportunity for money making in the world to-day. A good copper mine is really a safe-deposit vault of stored up dividends which cannot be stolen or destroyed by fire, flood or famine."

CECIL RHODES
said: "Mining offers greater inducements than any other business in the world to make quick and great wealth."

CHARLES M. SCHWAB
says: "The big fortunes of the next twenty-five years will come from Mother Earth." Among all mining investments none stand ahead of copper for safety, permanency and profit.

Lay the Foundation for Your Fortune Today

THE ANTIGUA PROPERTIES

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company holdings consist of 531 acres, situated in Honduras, Central America, 100 miles southeast from Puerto Cortez, and midway between New Orleans and Panama. Development work is being pushed with all possible speed, and more than 1,500 feet of tunneling and shaft work has been completed. A 40 to 50-ton capacity gold-silver mill is in course of construction, and will be in operation before the close of the year.

Development work has conclusively proven that every acre of our holdings are rich in gold, copper and silver, and that every ton of this great ore body will yield a handsome profit on milling expense. The ore exposed on the surface does not require mining in the usual sense of the term, but may be obtained by quarrying. It can, according to estimates of experts, be quarried and treated for the gold and silver on an extensive scale at a cost of less than $1.00 a ton. Think of it! A solid mountain of rich ore, from the very grass roots of which may be washed gold.

Beyond a doubt Honduras has beneath her soil larger, richer deposits of copper, gold and silver than any other section of the American continent. Spain, during her sovereignty in that country, took out more than $300,000,000 in gold alone—and she scarcely scraped the Earth's surface. There is evidence that the pre-historic races knew how to mine and utilize copper—smelting it in their crude way.

The original incorporators of the Antigua Gold-Copper Company spent thousands of dollars of their own money in bringing this property to its present stage of development. They opened up the mine on every side with tunnels, crosscuts and shafts. They purchased machinery and began the erection of a gold-silver mill—now nearing completion. These men appreciated from the first that this mine was destined to become one of the greatest copper-gold-silver properties in America; and that it justified more extensive and more rapid development than they were able to make without the co-operation and financial assistance of the public.

The average assay values of Antigua ores, ranging from the surface to a depth of 200 feet, is over 5 per cent copper. This is above the average of the ore of the world's greatest producers, the famous Anaconda yielding ore which averages only a little over 3 per cent. The Anaconda has little other ore value, while our property, in addition to the copper, carries $2.00 to $1,400 a ton in gold and silver.

WHY STOCK IS SOLD

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company finds itself in precisely the same position as the farmer who has a larger farm than he can cultivate with the capital in hand. He knows that with additional capital and assistance he could make the land yield abundant crops and enormous profits. In the same way we intend, by the investment of additional capital, to bring our enormous ore bodies to a highly profitable state of development at the earliest possible moment. For this reason a limited amount of treasury stock is offered the public. In this way funds will be available for immediate use in purchasing additional machinery and for continuing vigorous development of the property.

THERE ARE NO PREFERRED SHARES AND NO BONDS TO COME FIRST IN THE DIVISON OF PROFITS.

and your shares will earn as much as a like number of shares owned by any other stockholder in the company. Each share CARRIES WITH IT THE RIGHT TO VOTE, so that with a single share you have every right, privilege and protection possessed by any other stockholder.

Stock is now being sold at $2.50 a share, and this stock, we firmly believe, will, within a year, be selling at its par value of $5.00 a share, or higher; nor will it stop there, if you are desirous of permanently increasing your income, of making an investment that is not only secure, but immensely profitable, reserve shares TO-DAY.

Such an investment opportunity can scarcely be repeated. It is made possible only by extraordinary natural conditions. Millions of dollars of copper, gold and silver will be marketed from the mines—fortunes will be reaped as a result of the prompt seizure of the opportunity we offer you to-day.

REPORT OF AN EXPERT

Much weight can justly be given the statement of a properly qualified and reliable mining engineer. Such is the character of L. W. Foster, from whose report on Antigua we make the following extracts:

"From the development work done and the indications shown by the croppings, I am convinced this is one of the largest, gold-copper deposits in this section, and under proper development will make one of the richest mining properties in America. * * * I consider this ore an ideal smelting proposition, there being an abundance of iron, lime and silica in close proximity. There is plenty of water for power and milling purposes, and an abundance of timber on the property. * * *

"A large amount of development work has been done on this property in tunnels, drifts and shafts, ranging from 20 to possibly 200 feet in length. * * * This work has all been in ore—in fact, the ore body on the surface is shown to be fully one-half mile wide by two miles in length. To judge from the development work done, this property is all ore—no matter where work was started, ore was encountered.

"The company is erecting a mill, consisting of one five-stamp and three Hunt ingtons, to work the surface ore. This surface ore is mostly free milling, the copper and galena sulphides being oxidized, freeing the gold, and being readily amalgamated. But I am confident that at no very great depth copper sulphides will be encountered, as there are many places in this great ore body where the sulphides crop to the surface. I have taken a dozen samples from various places on the lead, and from these made free gold tests, finding an average of over $4.00 a ton in FREE gold, and from 5 to 25 per cent copper. Native copper is frequently seen in this ore. If the Antigua mines continue to depth as on the surface, a 1,000 ton smelter will not work it out in 100 years. * * *

* * * With good management and proper development, it will be but a short time until the stock of the company will be worth more than par. I fully believe that if this great ore body is properly developed there is a mine here worth many millions of dollars.

Dr. Hamilton Speaks on Curing Pimples

Gives Common Sense Advice That Every Person can Employ at Home.

"I believe all skin diseases such as pimples and eruptions originate through the failure of the eliminating organs to pass certain poisonous wastes from the body.

"There is at all times a large accumulation of fuel matter in the system, which, if not destroyed, gets into the blood. Germs and disease producing matter are thus circulated through the body. Ultimately they force their way through the pores of the skin, producing pimples, swelling, red blotches and often eruptions horrible to look upon.

"I usually found the primary cause to be with the kidneys and bowels,—these organs are too slow. My Pills of Mandrake and Butternut contain very active vegetable extracts that act on these organs immediately. They give strength, tone and vigor to the eliminating organs that positively ensures a clean healthy body."

A course of Dr. Hamilton's Pills puts the system in perfect order. They cleanse the system inside as soap and water does outside, they remove all taints and poisons that block the avenues of health and life, make the skin smooth, restore roses to the cheeks and that brightness to the eye that denotes sound health. Because Mild, Safe, Efficient, anyone can use Dr. Hamilton's Pills with perfect results.

Arrangements for the newsboys dinner to be given by the members of the Gospel Hall, are progressing rapidly. It has been decided that the mayor preside at the table on the night of the supper to all boys who carry newspapers, periodicals or journals of any kind. The feast will consist of turkey and a big time for the boys is expected.

Woman Accidentally Cut Herself

An accident was reported from the south end of the city, Saturday afternoon. From the meagre story that was told it happened just across the city's boundary in North Monaghan. A woman was sharpening a knife on the cement wall at the back of a house, and while so engaged turned towards one of the children. In doing so the knife slipped and struck one of her legs above the knee, resulting in an ugly flesh wound.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Clipped Gold off a Double Eagle

It seems that a wily foreigner has been taking a quick method of making money at the expense of others. A few days ago a $20 gold piece was given out by a local bank to a stranger for its equivalent in bills to a stranger who it was said handed the coin over to an express company for its presumed value in bills. When the express people went to deposit the coin in their bank it was found that thirty cents worth of the gold had been clipped off the rim of the coin. The matter will probably be investigated as clipping coins is a serious offences and if persisted in would lead to great trouble with the public.

A Chandos Wedding of Local Interest

Miss Mary Veronica Kelly Now Mrs Dennis O'Brien

A Chandos wedding of local interest was solemnized when Miss Mary Veronica Kelly, daughter of Francis Kelly, was united in marriage to Dennis O'Brien, son of Mr. Daniel O'Brien. Rev. Father O'Leary performed the ceremony.

The bride was assisted by Miss Alice Wells and Mr. Francis Kelly, brother of the bride, was best man. Many beautiful presents were received from the host of friends of the young people. After the ceremony a reception was held at the bride's home and a large crowd were present. Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien will reside at Clydesdale.

CANADA PERMANENT MORTGAGE CORPORATION

The corporation is the successor of the Canada Permanent Loan and Savings Company, the Freehold Loan and Savings Company, the Western Canada Loan and Savings Company and the London and Ontario Investment Company, Limited. The oldest and largest of these—the Canada Permanent Loan and Savings Company, was organized in the year 1855. The corporation, therefore, is in its 53rd year, and during the whole of this period has been conducting a successful and steadily increasing business.

The Canada Permanent Mortgage Corporation has a fully paid up capital of six millions of dollars, and a Reserve Fund of $2,450,000. Including the surplus at credit of Profit and Loss Account, the paid up capital and surplus exceed $8,500,000. The Corporations assets amount to $26,306,257.54. It will thus be seen that the actual cash interest of the shareholders is about 50 per cent. of the total amount of its deposits and all other liabilities. In few financial institutions, even among the strong ones (for which Canada is everywhere noted) have the shareholders so large a proportionate interest.

By the laws of the various provinces the Corporation is a legal depository for Trust funds, and trustees are authorized to invest in its debentures.

The officers of this well managed and prosperous institution are as follows: W. H. Beatty, President; J. Herbert Mason, Chairman Board of Directors; W. G. Gooderham, First Vice-President; W. D. Matthews, Second Vice-President. Directors—Ralph K. Burgess, F. Nordheimer, George F. Galt, Winnipeg, Man.; George W. Monk, Frederick Wyld, R. T. Riley, Winnipeg, Man.; Joint General Managers—R. S. Hudson and John Massey; Secretary, George H. Smith.

Men Behind the Bank of Winnipeg

Winnipeg, Nov. 25.—The Bank of Winnipeg application for incorporation is now before Parliament, with the following names:

Charles F. Conybeare, K. C., of Lethbridge; Walter F. Seabora, barrister, of Moosejaw; Wm. L. Nichols, broker, Vancouver; Frank Danton, Toronto; Robert M. Watson, broker, Toronto; Horace Chevrier, ex-M.L.A., banker, Winnipeg, and Clarence N. F. Bell, banker, Winnipeg.

The applicants comprise the provisional board, who will direct the affairs of the undertaking until the charter is granted, and there are regular shareholders.

The capital is $2,000,000, and the head office is in Winnipeg.

Board of Health to Meet Today

The Board of Health will hold a session this morning provided enough members break their customary seemingly set of late and attend in sufficient numbers to form a quorum. It is to be hoped the meeting will materialize as some important business is to come up, among other things the passing of a resolution urging upon the Provincial Board of Health the necessity of defining an area within which it will be unlawful for any one to deposit offensive matter in the source of water supply for the city.

What was it

The Woman Feared?

What a comfort to find it is not "that awful thing" feared, but only chronic indigestion, which proper food can relieve.

A woman in Ohio says:

"I was troubled for years with indigestion and chronic constipation. At times I would have such a gnawing in my stomach that I actually feared I had a—I dislike to write or even think of what I feared.

"Seeing an account of Grape-Nuts, I decided to try it. After a short time I was satisfied the trouble was not the awful thing I feared but was still bad enough. However, I was relieved of a bad case of dyspepsia, by changing from improper food to Grape-Nuts.

"Since that time my bowels have been as regular as a clock. I had also noticed before I began to eat Grape-Nuts that I was becoming forgetful of where I put little things about the house, which was very annoying.

"But since the digestive organs have become strong from eating Grape-Nuts, my memory is good and my mind as clear as when I was young, and I am thankful." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read the little booklet, "The Road to Wellville," in packages. "There's a Reason."

"The Blood is The Life."

Science has never gone beyond the above simple statement of scripture. But it has illuminated that statement and given it a meaning ever broadening with the increasing breadth of knowledge. When the blood is "bad" or impure it is not alone the body which suffers through disease. The brain is also clouded, the mind and judgement are affected, and many an evil deed or impure thought may be directly traced to the impurity of the blood. Foul, impure blood can be made pure by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It enriches and purifies the blood thereby curing, pimples, blotches, eruptions and other cutaneous affections, as eczema, tetter, or salt-rheum, hives and other manifestations of impure blood.

● ● ● ● ● ● ●

In the cure of scrofulous swellings, enlarged glands, open eating ulcers, or old sores, the "Golden Medical Discovery" has performed the most marvelous cures. In cases of old sores, or open eating ulcers, it is well to apply to the open sores Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve, which possesses wonderful healing potency when used as an application to the sores in conjunction with the use of "Golden Medical Discovery" as a blood cleansing constitutional treatment. If your druggist don't happen to have the "All-Healing Salve" in stock, you can easily procure it by inclosing fifty-four cents in postage stamps to Dr. R. V. Pierce, 663 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y., and it will come to you by return post. Most druggists keep it as well as the "Golden Medical Discovery."

● ● ● ● ● ● ●

You can't afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery," which is a medicine of KNOWN COMPOSITION, having a complete list of ingredients in plain English on its bottle-wrapper, the same being attested as correct under oath. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels.

THIRTEEN PERSONS BURNED TO DEATH IN NEW YORK HOUSE

Men, Women and Children were Caught in the Flames--Suffocated Before They Could Reach the Windows

New York, Nov. 25.—Thirteen persons lost their lives and several others were injured early today in a tenement house fire at 109th street and Second avenue. All the dead are Italians. Seven of the thirteen were children. The bodies were found huddled together in rooms on the top floor of the four-storey building, while the terror-stricken people had been driven by the flames which rushed up from the lower floors. They had been caught and swept down to death before they succeeded in reaching windows which led to the fire escapes and safety. Some had been enveloped in the flames and burned alive. Others, overcome by smoke, were spared the agonies of death in the flames.

THE WORK OF INCENDIARIES.

That the fatal fire was the work of incendiaries who sought revenge is the opinion of the police and firemen who made the first hasty examination. Three weeks ago three Italians were caught in the act of attempting to rob a safe in the saloon of Guiseppe Cudano on the ground floor. The safe contained over $2,000 which the saloonkeeper's friends had withdrawn from banks during the money panic. Cudano first discovered the fire when he went down to open his place of business early this morning. As he opened the door he was met by a rush of flames, and, without waiting a moment to investigate, dashed up the stairs to the tenements above crying out for the occupants of the building to run for their lives. When he reached the rooms occupied by his own family he burst in the door, and, seizing his young son Dominic in his arms told Mrs. Cudano and other members of the family to follow. Cudano and the boy managed to find their way down the stairs to the street, but before the women could get through the flames had cut off exit by that avenue. It is supposed that Mrs. Cudano and the other children sought safety in the upper part of the building.

A MOTHER'S LAST EFFORT.

In one of the heaps of dead the firemen found a woman who had made one last desperate effort to save the life of her baby even when she knew that she herself was doomed to a horrible death. She had folded her arms tightly around the little one and then huddled down close to the floor, her own body protecting that of the child. The mother's body was badly burned. That of the child bore scarcely a mark, but it was dead from suffocation. On every side of the mother and child lay the bodies of other victims

BARGE STRUCK TUG THREE MEN WERE DROWNED IN LAKE

St. Catharines, Nov. 25.—Three lives were lost on Lake Ontario about ten miles from Port Dalhousie on Saturday night, by the sinking of the tug Escort after a collision with the barge while racing for a tow. The men drowned were; Captain Harry Dunlop, Albert Dunlop and Charles Christmas all of Port Colborne. Albert Dunlop was married, and leaves a wife and four children.

Rivalry has been very keen all season between the canal tugs, and when word was received Saturday afternoon that the steamer Westmount (Capt Milligan) had left Kingston with the pulpwood barge Ben Morrison in tow, both the Escort and the Golden City got up steam and shortly before eight o'clock left Port Dalhousie together. The race toward Niagara was close, but the Golden City (Capt. McCoppen) was the first to approach the barge. She made a circle, and came up beside the vessel, which was traveling about ten miles an hour. The Escort did not make a circle, but apparently tried to swing round on the bow of the Harrison. At any rate, Capt. Dunlop seems to have miscalculated the speed of the barge, and struck the steel tow line, which carried off the top of his pilot house. In an instant the Harrison had struck the tug amidship, turned over, and within a few seconds she had sunk.

Immediately the Westmount slackened speed, and life lines were thrown out from the Golden City. Three persons were rescued. They were Mrs. Bartlett, cook, Dunnville; a boy named Herman Cook, and Melvin Barnes, fireman, Port Colborne. None of the bodies of those drowned were recovered, nor are they likely to be, as the water is twenty fathoms deep here. For this reason no inquest can be held.

Fireman Barnes, one of the survivors, says he saw Captain Dunlop in the water close to him. Mrs. Bartlett, now at Port Dalhousie, has two broken ribs, and some bad bruises. The boy, Herman Cook, was overlooking the Escort's life raft when the crash came, and clung to it.

Though the crew of the Harrison saved no lives, those on board the Golden City say they never saw lifeboats lowered so rapidly as those on the barge. Capt. Hovey, of the Harrison, and Barnes, the fireman, both state that the signal to go ahead was given on the Escort, causing her to strike the tow line.

The scene of the disaster is three miles from Niagara Point, and is almost the same place where the steamer Oriental sank some years ago with all on board. Some anxiety has been expressed at times by mariners in regard to the dangerous practice of racing for tows, and in fact a slight collision occurred a couple of months ago.

Sad Death of Ralph Lawrence of Douro

Sad news was that which was conveyed to Mr. David Lawrence, who lived on the old Charlton farm, two miles east of Lakefield, in Douro township, when, on Saturday, he learned of the very sudden death of his son Ralph, in North Ontario. According to the report the deceased died of spinal meningitis due to an accident sustained in the woods near Cartier, Ont. He was taken to an hospital in the Parry Sound district, but succumbed, after a brief struggle, to the fatal disease.

Ralph Lawrence was only a young man, about twenty years of age. He went north to work for the Tait pulp-wood company and was engaged at their camp at Cartier, Ont. He has only been absent from his home for several months and his death was therefore all the more unexpected. He was well known in Peterborough, and the news of his sudden death will be received with general regret.

Besides his father, David Lawrence, there are left Harold, brother and Robert, his grandfather. The remains were conveyed through the city yesterday to the home near Lakefield, and the funeral will be held today to the Lakefield cemetery.

—The Keene Foresters held an at-home in the town hall last week, when about 90 couple were present.

Memorial Window to Archdeacon Allen

In St. Thomas' Anglican church, Millbrook, in the parish of Cavan, a memorial window has been placed in honor of the memory of the late Venerable Archdeacon T. W. Allen, D. C.L. It will be unveiled next Sunday. Rev. Dr Langfeldt, rector of St. Luke's, was invited to be the special preacher for the occasion, but unfortunately on account of sickness in his family he will be unable to accept.

Mr. Bert Dolan Home to See His Uncle

Mr. R. E. Dolan known here better as "Bert," who now holds a responsible position as buyer for Messrs. Smith, Gray & Co., the leading clothing merchants of New York and Brooklyn is spending a couple of days in his old home. Mr. Dolan arrived in the city Sunday at midnight having come to see his uncle, Mr. James Dolan, who is seriously ill We are pleased to note that Mr. Dolan was last night reported as being somewhat better. "Bert's" many friends here whilst sorry to learn the reason that brought him home, yesterday extended the "glad hand" to the popular though now ex-patriated Peterborough boy.

An Up-to-date Banking Journal

The Times in Receipt of the Nova Scotian, a High Grade Publication

The Times is in receipt of "The Nova Scotian," a journal recently issued by the Bank of Nova Scotia. Vol. I. No 1 is a handsome result of the expert writers' and Printers' art. The cover is printed in four colors and its design is the picture of a modern and up-to-date bank safe door.

The introductory editorial explanatory of the "Raison d'etre" of the journal notes that it is issued in the interests of the bank's staff and will be a medium for discussion of banking topics in general. A further branch of the idea is to mgel a widely scattered staff in touch with one another, and thus establish a more complete esprit de corps. The journal is partly issued to celebrate a successful three-quarters of a century during which the Bank of Nova Scotia has been the means of assisting thousands of customers in their business endeavors.

Among the many interesting and instructive articles included are products of the pens of Prof. Goldwin Smith, Thos. Pyshe, former cashier of the bank; H. de Lorme, Rev. W. T. Allison, M.A., B.D., S. McAdam, J. Cowan, Hector McInnes, K.C., A. H. M. Hay, M.A., and R. A. Sutherland, a splendid galaxy of writers, each conversant fully with such subjects as they respectively deal with.

Whilst not published as an advertisement of the bank's progress, it is but natural that a short history of the institution should be included. The Bank of Nova Scotia's history is interesting reading as presented in the Nova Scotian and shows concisely the wonderful strides the bank has made as well as its undeniable solidity and strength.

Mr. Ferguson the local representative has secured a large share of the patronage of Peterborough's merchants and manufacturers, and is rapidly bringing the Peterborough branch into favorable attention.

Mr. Kennedy's Patent Generally Recognized

It is a well known matter amongst our local citizens that Mr. H. P. Kennedy has secured the patent right, which is being very enthusiastically endorsed in the United States. Mr Kennedy has been devoting some time in demonstrating the merits of this new shoe in different parts of the States, and has returned home, hopeful regarding the results of his visit. The patent for the United States has just been granted. Large blocks of the company's stock is known to have been subscribed recently in Canada for the promotion of the company's local business, and Mr Kennedy is sanguine that the success of his company is beyond any dispute

POLICE

At the police court yesterday morning two young men were charged with being d. & d. in a public place. Neither of these two men appeared in court, but one pleaded guilty by proxy, and was fined $2. The other man has been summoned to appear this morning.

A charge was then laid against Jas. Skippon for permitting his cows to run at large. It appears that a new road has been built through Skippon's property and has not been fenced in. The cows, it seems, have been found walking on the road. P. C. Adams said that he had received complaints from a south end resident to the effect that the cows had been in his garden three or four times.

His worship fined Skippon $2 and costs, amounting to $5.65. On leaving court Skippon said he would raise the price of milk.

Women in U.S. Eager to Mix with the Nobility of England

New York, Nov. 25.—According to a despatch from Pittsburg Reginald Spaulding, an Englishman, is under arrest at the Central station here on a charge of trying to swindle Pittsburg society women by offering to introduce them into London society. It is charged that he mailed the following letter to more than two hundred Pittsburg women:

"Dear Madam.—I beg to inform you that I am making a tour of the country, arranging with those who are desirous of being introduced into London society or at court. I am also thoroughly versed with all matters of finance in England and on the continent. I shall deem it a favor if you will be good enough to advise me if you are interested in any of the above mentioned matters. If so, I shall be pleased to call and convey any particulars you may desire. I make no charge in any way, my remuneration to be determined by the demands made upon my influence.

"Reginald Spaulding."

When Spaulding's rooms were searched in the police last night they say they found almost two hundred answers to the letters, all holding out encouragement of some sort. The wife of a prominent steel manufacturer, it is said, wrote that her heart was set upon being presented at court and having her daughter marry a titled foreigner. If the writer of the letter could arrange it, she would pay him $10,000 on the day of the marriage.

A letter from a Pittsburg millionaire declared that if Spaulding did not cease filling the heads of the women in his family with nonsense he would thrash him. This man called the attention of the police to the matter.

Several letters were found addressed to Spaulding at the Iroquois Hotel, Buffalo, and the police have sent inquiries there.

Spaulding had a large amount of money when arrested, and offered to put up $5,000 cash bail, but this was refused. He will be given a hearing tomorrow.

Board of Health Discusses the Pollution of City's Water Supply

Yesterday morning the Board of Health, contrary to past custom had a quorum when the members considered the isolation hospital question, and the problem of the pollution of the water supply.

The board discussed the question of the pollution of the water supply which it had been arranged to take up with the water commissioners. Owing to the fact that there were not sufficient members of the board present at that meeting held last Monday no business could be transacted by the joint bodies, although the water commissioners promised to pass a resolution to ask the Provincial Board of Health to define the area within which it shall be illegal to deposit any offensive matter into the source of water supply so as to include Clear and Stony Lakes. The commissioners have since last Monday passed the resolution, and yesterday the Board of Health decided to do likewise.

The isolation hospital problem was again brought into the limelight. The chairman produced a lengthy resolution urging upon the council the necessity of building such an hospital at once. This of course provoked a discussion on the subject as usual in which the council came in for some criticism for not having taken the matter up.

Mr. Neill remarked that the board had been given to understand by the council that the question would be considered but nothing had been done. He though that the matter should be settled and that the council should be able to sit down and talk the matter over intelligently. The speaker said that the matter should be talked over at a meeting of the council, and the members of the board, and some action decided upon at once.

Dr. Lynham stated that there had been enough talking over the question. He advised sending the council a resolution and letting them deal with it.

The mayor said that the council was not altogether to blame. If it was important it was for the board of Health to keep impressing it on the council. When a night had been set apart by the council to discuss the matter with the board of Health, only one member of the Board was present.

Mr. Neill remarked that he did not get a notice to attend the meeting and Dr. McNulty also failed to remember receiving a notice.

The chairman's resolution was then carried as follows:

That this board believes that our city is running a great risk in not having an isolation hospital which is not warranted by our situation as a rising city, and an important railway center, and whereas this board has submitted plans of an hospital, to our City Council and such plans as far as we know have not been acted upon; this board therefore respectfully urges the City Council to attend to this matter without further delay and make such provision for patients suffering from any contagious disease as will cut short the above risk which we consider entirely unnecessary and against the requirements of the law in the above regard.

After some further discussion the mayor stated that he would arrange at the meeting of the council Monday night to have a meeting to-morrow night with the members of the Board of Health and the council in respect to the matter so as early a date as possible and the matter was left in that way.

Peterboro Old Boy's Success in Business

Mr. Bert Dolan's Successful Business Career in Purchasing Clothing in New York City

In conversation with Mr. Bert Dolan, buyer for Messrs. Smith Gray & Co., of New York City and Brooklyn, N.Y., who is an old Peterborough boy, now here for a few days, and who has changed as the times changes and has taken advantage to his own present and future interests The Times asked a straight question: "Mr. Dolan, you must, as a business man, in an important position, where you have the control of thousands of dollars monthly, have some conception of the monetary matters of the United States and Canada, but particularly of the former. How are money matters in the United States and particularly how are they in New York City and vicinity?"

Mr. Dolan who is as level headed and unpretentious a young man as one could find occupying so important a position, replied, "Well, Mr. ——, I'll tell you the whole matter of money is mainly one of common sense. Now the president of my firm, Messrs. Smith Gray & Co., or one of the under officers comes to me and says, "Here, Dolan, you get $25,000 or $15,000 or say $10,000 worth of such a line of goods whether it be shirts, coats or whatever the public wants. Now I have to size up what is on hand in such a line, and decide whether to buy much or little. The best way is to decide by stock on hand and past sales with a view to profits to see whether it will not be better to buy in large quantities of such and such a line of goods to be delivered, as per future order at future date as to repeat the "formula) per requirements of the firm. Mr. Dolan clearly demonstrates that by pursuing the policy on the matter of shirts alone, during the past season, he had made his firm over $17,000.

That is the way Peterborough-raised boys get on abroad.

Woman's Auxiliaries Hold Joint Meeting

Miss E. Fannie Jones and Miss Strickland the Speakers

Two of the largest and most enthusiastic meetings ever held by the Woman's Auxiliaries of this city, were those held yesterday afternoon and evening in St John's school house. The occasion was the visit of Miss E. Fannie Jones, corresponding secretary of the Toronto Diocese, and Miss Strickland, village missionary of Tarn Taran, India. Both these ladies are excellent speakers and well versed in the work of the W.A.

They each gave an address at both the afternoon and evening session, when there were present large numbers of the members of the three different branches of the W.A.

In the evening tea was served by the members of St. John's branch, and over one hundred ladies sat at the tables

Rev Canon Davidson and Rev. Langfeldt were both present and also addressed the gathering.

The interest in this laudable work is growing and the prospects for a most successful future are abundantly in evidence.

"Davey" Hartley, the Champion Pedestrian Given a Big Reception

Thousands of Citizens Greeted the Walking Wonder Last Night--Procession, Fireworks and Bands

Last night the too tardy acknowledgment of the splendid work done by David Hartley, was acknowledged by giving the victor a rousing reception.

David Hartley arrived here on the 7.47 C.P.R. train last night, and was tendered a monster reception by the council and the citizens generally. The Reception Committee of the council held a preparatory meeting yesterday morning. The committee was unanimous in the opinion that something should be done to show the walking wonder that his great feat was not unappreciated by the citizens, and the preparations for the reception were entered into with great enthusiasm.

It was decided that the council should meet Mr. Hartley in a body at the station, and form a procession consisting of the 57th band, the council and Mr. Hartley, in carriages, the fire brigade. The committee purchased fireworks, and the task of using them was left in the hands of the fire brigade, and they were discharged on the line of march up George street.

Amid the yells and cheers of a street-lined concourse, the victor entered his native town. The crowd escorted the walking hero to a garage and seated with Mayor McWilliams and other members of the committee the procession began. Thousands fell into line behind the band and decorated carriages, and to the city boundary. The hack containing Hartley was besieged by a motley throng along the journey to Central Park were speeches were made.

Ald Phelan as chairman of the civic Reception Committee, presided. Short congratulatory speeches were made by Mayor McWilliams and others, to which the hero of the occasion made a few remarks expressing his gratitude for such a hearty demonstration on his behalf. Mr. Geo. Stevens, told of how the visitor won the great race.

Mr. and Mrs. Hartley, together with Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Stevens, were entertained at dinner by Mr. George N. Graham, at the Oriental Hotel, at the conclusion of the speeches.

Superintendent of Emigration Says It Is a Mistake to Come to Canada

London, Nov. 25. — The Liverpool Post and Mercury suggests that the United States should have a central bank strong enough to keep the credit under more stringent control. Canada has maintained financial soundness without the aid of a National bank, but it is extremely doubtful whether it could have done so if the law had required banks to limit their operations to a single Province.

IDLE MEN IN CANADA.

Bruce Walker, superintendent of emigration, informs a Yorkshire correspondent that Canadian cities are "Overstocked with hundreds of idle men," and intending emigrants are making "a profound mistake" in going to Canada at this season of the year.

INSURANCE COMPANIES UNITE.

The Pelican, British Empire, and Phoenix Insurance Companies have amalgamated.

General Mackinnon addressing the Hampstead Cadets, said the cadet corps in perfection is found in Canada and New Zealand.

Speaking of the disunity of British churches the Bishop of London instanced the fact that in Canada he was received cordially by all denominations.

BLAME MISSIONARIES.

John W. Murray of Dundee, refutes the allegation that whalers are responsible for the extermination of the Eskimo in Ungava. He spent nine years there, and says the great cause of death is a disease resembling cholera, which does not affect white men. He adds that the action of missionaries in drawing natives together is responsible for the latter's loss of hunting skill. When game in the immediate neighborhood is gone the Eskimo, knowing food is assured, declines to go a distance for it.

REMEDY FOR DISTRESS.

London, Nov. 25—General Booth, interviewed here, said he firmly believed that emigration to Canada was the remedy for distress in the home land. He was now occupied with a scheme for sending fifty struggling men to occupy as many vacant farms in western Canada. The men would be maintained until self-supporting, and thus relieve a serious condition there. General Booth says he could only say "yes" to the proposal of a Canadian provincial minister that the Salvation Army should control the provincial jails.

Montreal, Nov. 25—The provincial authorities have inaugurated a determined crusade with the object in view of putting the slot machines out of business. Revenue department officers are now making a tour of all the towns where such machines are in use, and are confiscating them by the dozen, as they are now illegal. Most of them are to be found in saloons and tobacco shops. The city of Montreal is also included in the war, but there are not so many in use here, as the city authorities not long ago did away with such machines, wherever they were to be found.

TO PENSION ALL.

Montreal, Nov. 25—Principal Peterson of McGill returned yesterday from New York where he was attending the third annual meeting of the Carnegie Pension Fund Committee. At present State and Provincial universities are not allowed to share in the benefits of the fund, the suggestion being that if the State universities had a property it would be able to maintain it. The committee, however, find that about half of the colleges in America are under State or Provincial control, and to exclude these from the benefits of the fund is to divide the colleges into two factions. With the idea of standardizing education and putting all the professors on an equal footing the committee have decided to recommend that professors of all colleges shall be treated alike. This will be finally decided at the next meeting of the committee.

A Practical Joke on a Farmer

A certain farmer living near Robsaygeon, having got himself disliked on account of his quarrelsome habit, the other farmers decided one night to cool him off a bit. At midnight the farmer was disturbed by a voice shouting, "Your horse is stolen!" The irate farmer hurried on his clothes and, hastening to the door, asked, "Which way has he gone?" "Toward H——," replied one of the farmers. Another offered the loan of a horse he mistrode, which offer the sleepy farmer accepted. After riding all night he found himself at daylight next morning riding his own horse.

Obituary

The many former friends and acquaintances of William A. Eastland, will regret to learn of his death, which took place in New York. The deceased gentleman, who was a son of the late Thomas Eastland, who died at a ripe age about four years ago, and a brother of Mr. T. G. Eastland, Apsley, was well known in this county. He formerly carried on business, including the running of the Apsley stage line, and conducted a store at Lakefield. He had been a resident of New York for about a quarter of a century. He leaves behind him a wife and brother, Mr. T. G. Eastland, Apsley, and a sister, Mrs. R. J. McCallum of Nebraska.

Could Find No Trace of Child

Montreal, Nov. 25—Up to noon today the police were unable to find any trace of the woman who is said to have carried off the adopted daughter of Mr. John B. Marion of Lindsay, Ont. Mr. Marion is now in Montreal, and he spent most of the morning at police headquarters, waiting for news of the missing child. Chief Carpenter has out a number of the best detectives of the force on the case, and an effort is being made to trace the woman who is said to be the mother of the child, and who, according to Mr Marion's story, carried the little girl off last Thursday.

Mr. Marion was accompanied to Montreal by Chief Vincent of the Lindsay police force. He has a warrant for the woman's arrest. Her name is Mrs. Marion. Chief Vincent has been aiding the Montreal police in their search for the missing child.

It has been discovered that the woman has been living at 1238 Bordeaux street, a house occupied by L. A. Young, and yesterday accompanied by Detective Bispel of Chief Carpenter's staff, Chief Vincent of Lindsay visited the house

GONE TO NEW YORK.

At first the proprietor refused to admit the officers, but offered no resistance when he learned the object had a warrant. Young did not deny that the woman sought had lived at his house, but said she was not there at present. If the officers wanted her they would have to go to New York, he intimated. The mother the child was until recently employed as a model in a Montreal cloth manufacturing house.

THE PEOPLE'S BREAD

In a recent report to the Department of Trade and Commerce at Ottawa, F. B. MacNamara, Canadian Government commercial agent at Leeds, England, observes as follows:—

The recent advance in the price of wheat only equalled by the Leiter corner in 1898, is a reminder to the British people that the problem of the wheat supply is becoming a pressing one. In a few months wheat in the United States has advanced first to a dollar, 4s. 6d. per bushel, and then to nearly $1.30, or 5s. 4d. per quarter. The price in London for best Manitoba wheat has advanced to 40s 6d. per quarter, and because of the advance, the London Flour Millers Association decided to raise the price of flour by sixpence per sack, and this will necessarily be followed by a rise in the price of the loaf. The universal belief that bread at 4 1-2d. or 5d. for a 4-lb. loaf is the limit, is likely to receive a crash in the near future. Years ago the German Professor Pohle pointed out that a general advance in the price of wheat was inevitable, and events are realizing the prediction. There will, no doubt, be fluctuations in the near future, but the tendency will be upwards, for the reason that the consumption is overtaking the supply of wheat.

"The total area of wheat land at present in cultivation is capable of supplying 654,000,000 mouths with bread and the number to be fed in 655,000,000. The margin may seem large, but it is one which will rapidly vanish with the natural increase of population, while the process will be accelerated by the tendency now shown in Japan and China to use wheat instead of rice for food. Thus, ten, fifteen or twenty years will see the supply fall below the demand unless fresh wheat fields are brought into cultivation. Fortunately there are nearly 900,000 square miles of such land awaiting tillage in Western Canada, but outside of that there is no great available area. The future bread supply of this country will thus depend on the relations of Canada to the United Kingdom, and we shall do well to make every effort to bind our daughter state to our side by the closest ties of affection and mutual interest. If these wheat lands were to pass into hands unfriendly to England her people might be made to pay enormously for their wheat, and a repetition of the days of 1812, when the loaf stood at 1s. 8d., might occur. In this connection it might be stated that the demand for Canadian flour is greater now than for the past five years, and large buyers in London, Glasgow, Hamburg, Amsterdam, Christiania and Helsingfors are endeavoring to establish buying connections."

HAMLET'S TOMB.

The Memorial at Elsinore is a Standing Joke.

The English pressmen traveling in Denmark have been taken to Elsinore. They looked in vain for its "wild and stormy steep," as for the battlement where a famous ghost appeared. It is not that these poetic scenes have vanished. They never were extant. On the other hand, says the Pall Mall Gazette, our confreres saw the tomb of Hamlet. This must have consoled them unless they were so injudicious as to ask questions, and for most it had the charm of surprise also. That Hamlet was buried under a cross of stone in the public garden of Marienlyst ranks among things not generally known. But there's no doubt about it for guileless persons who believe the evidence of their own eyes. If the cross is broken and the inscription nearly effaced, those effects of age go to prove its authenticity, if proof can be needed. The record of the year also is lost, but we still trace the day of the month, Oct. 32, which harmonizes with the well known eccentricity of the deceased in a very pleasing manner.

Some worthy souls, Danish as English, indignantly protest against this standing joke, perpetrated or at least sanctioned by the municipal authorities. But the wise know that the vulgar person loves to be deceived, and in charity they conclude—decipiatur! No harm comes of the jest and some easy laughter. Hans Andersen, who told so many fables, left an account of this. He went to school at Elsinore in the twenties and thirties of the last century. The precious tomb had not been invented or thought of then. But at this port the famous sound dues were collected, and every vessel had to stop at Elsinore. They were British mostly, and skippers, passengers, even crew, says Hans Andersen, pestered the inhabitants with questions about Hamlet, prince of Denmark. There was and is a small barrow in the garden of a handsome villa just outside the town. Some humorist told the inquiring Britons that this was Hamlet's grave. They streamed thither daily, and the householder, a merchant, dared not be rude to his best clients. But the persecution became unbearable, and at length he conceived the happy thought of setting up a real tomb, with an epitaph, on a bit of waste land in the neighborhood. The diversion answered perfectly. Afterward this waste land was included in the public garden of Marienlyst.

A Hard Shot.

Among the stories told of Dr. Emmons, a well known clergyman of a former day and generation, there are many which show his keen wit. In the town where he was pastor there lived a physician who was a pantheist and took pains to let every one know it. He had made frequent boast that he could easily conquer Dr. Emmons in argument, and one day came his chance. He and the doctor met at the house of a sick man.

"How old are you, sir?" asked the physician brusquely.

"Sixty-two," replied Dr. Emmons quietly, although his eyes showed his surprise. "May I ask your age in turn?"

"I've been alive since the creation in one form or another," said the physician curtly.

"Ah, then I suppose you were with Adam and Eve in the garden of Eden?" inquired the doctor.

"Certainly," came the reply.

"Um!" said Dr. Emmons placidly, meditating on the other's face. "I always thought there was a third person there, but some have differed from me."

London's Water Supply.

It has been calculated that if a cistern covering 850 acres and 345 feet high could be constructed and the water supply of London for one year turned into it the warships of all the world's navies could ride at anchor there. If we now dig a canal 100 feet wide across Europe, says Tit-Bits, from the extreme north to the south, and empty our cisterns into it, we shall find that the water in our canal, which is 2,400 miles long, will rise to a uniform height of ten feet. Every drop of it is consumed by the inhabitants of greater London within a year, while each man, woman and child living today throughout the world could draw fifty gallons from it without exhausting its contents. The mains through which these hundreds of millions of tons of water flow for the use of London are almost long enough to stretch a quarter of the way around the earth at the equator, while it would take a locomotive traveling at the rate of sixty miles an hour more than four days and nights to race from one end of them to the other.

An Astute Astronomer.

Cassini, an Italian by birth, was the best known of the astronomers of the Paris observatory when founded by Louis XIV., and in consequence posterity has very generally supposed he was the director. That he failed to be such was not from any want of astuteness. It is related that the monarch once visited the observatory to see a newly discovered comet through the telescope. He inquired in what direction the comet was going to move. This was a question it was impossible to answer at the moment, because both observations and computations would be necessary before the orbit could be worked out. But Cassini reflected that the king would not look at the comet again and would very soon forget what he had told him. He therefore described its future path in the heavens quite at random and with entire confidence that any deviation of the actual motion from his prediction would never be noted by his royal patron.

Make Your Money Work

THE PACIFIC FRUIT COOLING AND VAPORIZING COMPANY (Inc.)

was organized several months ago by well-known business men and fruit shippers of California for the purpose of precooling fruit before starting it on its long journey to the Eastern market. The Government experts report on the precooling of fruits, is convincing evidence that the importance of precooling fruit is necessary and has come to stay. The inventor of our process has been engaged in the fruit business for many years and during the past five years has spent much time and money experimenting with the best methods of pre-cooling fruits. His tests have been practical and convincing. The keen business man saw at a glance the possibilities of his invention, and with the combination of capital, together with the enormous fruit industry, we were convinced of success and have succeeded far beyond our expectations. We are now busy at work making our machinery, to install ready for the coming season's fruit crop, and the opportunity now offered by this company is an ideal investment for the wage earner as well as the rich man. Moderate sums invested now will bring splendid returns in the near future, and as a ground floor opportunity we are offering a limited allotment of stock to the general public as a profitable investment.

At 25 Cents Per Share for a Short Time Only

Investments made six months ago have advanced 150 PER CENT. The next six months promise to far exceed the past six months DON'T WAIT.

Time is the essence of this proposition. This stock will certainly double in a short time. J. Gould once said, "When you see a good investment, don't wait to see if it pans out well, for by that time other people see it too and you have lost your opportunity and you must then pay a higher premium on the original price to get it."

You will note the entire absence of risk in this advertisement. Each machine will pay for itself the first season and leave a handsome margin for dividends. Just as soon as we get our machines in motion they begin to earn money and big money, too.

TENDERS FOR SUPPLIES 1908

THE UNDERSIGNNED will receive sealed tenders, marked on outside envelope, "Tenders for Supplies," up to noon of Monday, the 2nd of December, 1907, for butchers' meat, creamery or dairy butter, flour, meal, potatoes, etc., etc., required for the Institution for the Deaf and Dumb, Belleville, and the Institution for the Blind, Brantford, for the year 1908. All supplies must be of first-class quality or they will be rejected.

A marked cheque for 5 per cent of the estimated amount of the contract, payable to the order of the Minister of Education, must be furnished by each tenderer as a guarantee of his bona fides. Two sufficient sureties will be required for the due fulfillment of each contract, and should any tender be withdrawn before the contract is awarded, or should the tenderer fail to furnish security, the amount of the deposit will be forfeited.

Specifications and forms of tender may be had on application to the Bursars of the respective Institutions.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

R. A. PYNE,
Minister of Education.

Toronto, Nov. 5th, 1907.

Unauthorized insertions of this advertisement will not be paid for.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and marked on the envelope, "Tenders for Timber", will be received until noon on Thursday the 28th instant for the undermentioned timber, namely:—

Lot 1—17,000 Cedar Railway Ties and 12,000 Cedar Posts 4 1-2 inches and over in diameter, to be taken out by the Indians of Shesheguaning Band, Manitoulin Island, during the ensuing winter.

Lot 2—250,000 feet B. M. of Ash and Elm logs, to be taken out during the ensuing winter by the Indians of West Bay Reserve, Manitoulin Island.

Lot 3—About 4 millions of feet B.M. comprising Tamarack, Balsam, Spruce, Poplar, Hemlock, Balm of Gilead, Ash and Cedar, in lengths of 8 feet 2 inches, and 6 inches and upwards in diameter at the top, or small ends to be taken out by Indians of Garden River Band, during the ensuing winter, and delivered on the banks of the Echo River, Garden River, Root River, and on the shoals of St. Mary's River.

Tenders for the latter may be in the form of cordwood taken in lengths stated, the cord to be 128 cubic feet.

Each tender should state the price that will be paid for each lot of this timber, over and above the Crown dues payable thereon under the Tariff Regulations of this Department.

The measurements of the timber must be made by an Ontario Licensed Culler and sworn returns of same will be required.

An accepted bank cheque for $500.00 should accompany each tender, which will be forfeited to the Department in the event of failure to carry out the terms of the contract.

The Department will not undertake to guarantee that full quantities of timber will be taken out.

The successful tenderer will be required to make reasonable advances to the Indians as the work progresses.

The highest or any tender will not necessarily be accepted and the unauthorized publication of this advertisement will not be paid for.

Any further information required will be given on application to Mr. Robert Thorburn, Indian Agent, at Gore Bay, or Mr. W. L. Nichols, Indian Agent, at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., or the undersigned.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at the Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother).

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning lands more than nine miles in a straight line from the homesteader's land.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or the farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

In case any person applies for homestead entry who is entitled to make such entry, but who is unacquainted with the forms of application, he may apply to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, or to any Dominion Lands Agent, for information, free of charge, how to proceed.

The fee for a homestead entry is $10.

A settler who has been granted an entry for a homestead is not required to complete his title before receiving a patent for his land, but may do so if he wishes after fulfilling the conditions above mentioned.

In case a settler has obtained a patent for his homestead before fulfilling the conditions above mentioned, and has agreed in writing to sell or mortgage his land, the fee for the patent is $10.

Any person who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may purchase homestead in certain districts. Price $3 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.

Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

N.B.—Unauthorized publication of this advertisement will not be paid for.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Crown Timber Limits," will be received at this office until Friday, December 6, 1907, inclusively, for the timber on the limits above described.

Forms and specifications can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department, and on application to H. F. Smith, Esq., Architect, Kingston.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures.

Each tender must be accompanied by a certified cheque on a chartered bank, made payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering declines to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or if he fails to complete the work contracted for. If the tender is not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the highest or any tender.

By Order,

FRED. GELINAS,
Secretary.

Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, November 16, 1907.

Newspapers will not be paid for this advertisement if they insert it without authority from the Department.

TENDERS FOR PULPWOOD CONCESSIONS

Tenders will be received by the undersigned up to and including the 16th of December next for the right to cut pulpwood on certain areas tributary to the Nepigon river, in the district of Thunder Bay, and Rainy Lake, in the district of Rainy River, and make the same into paper. Tenderers should state the amount they are prepared to pay as bonus in addition to such dues as may from time to time be fixed for the right to operate a paper making industry on the areas referred to. Separate tenders must be made for each area or territory, and the successful tenderers will be required to erect a mill or mills on each of the localities or in such other localities as may be approved by the Government.

Parties tendering for the pulpwood limits shall accompany their tenders with a marked cheque for 25 per cent. of the amount tendered, payable to the Treasurer of Ontario, and to be forfeited in the event of their failing to enter into agreements to carry out conditions, etc.

With respect to the Rainy Lake Pulp Concession, tenderers will be required to make a tender for the right to cut the pine, tamarac and cedar on the territory offered. Parties making tender for these timbers will state the amount they are prepared to pay per thousand feet, B.M., as bonus in addition to Crown dues of $2.00 per thousand feet B.M. A marked cheque for $5,000.00 payable to the Treasurer of Ontario must accompany the tender for pine timber, and to be forfeited in the event of their failing to enter into agreements to carry out conditions, etc.

No timber shall be cut on either of the concessions of a less diameter than nine inches, two feet from the ground.

The successful tenderers to enter into agreements with the Government for the erection of the mills, expenditure of money, etc.

For full particulars as to the conditions, etc., application should be made to the undersigned.

HON. F. COCHRANE,
Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines.
Toronto, Oct. 16th, 1907.

AIKENSIDE

BY MARY J. HOLMES

Author of "Dora Deane," "The English Orphans," "Lena Rivers," "The Rector of St. Mark's," "Tempest and Sunshine," Etc.

the latter, half hoping it might prove the last she should receive from Lucy Atherstone. Guy had left no orders for any changes to be made at Aikenside; but Agnes, who was largely imbued with a love of bustle and repair, had insisted that at least the suite of rooms intended for the bride should be thoroughly renovated with new paper and paint, carpets and furniture. This plan Mrs. Noah opposed, for she guessed how little Guy would care for the change; but Agnes was resolved, and as she had great faith in Maddy's taste, she insisted that she should go to Aikenside and pass her judgment upon the improvements. It would do her good, she said—little dreaming how much it cost Maddy to comply with her wishes, or how fearfully the poor, crushed heart ached, as Maddy went through the handsome rooms fitted up for Guy's young bride; but Mrs. Noah guessed it all, pitying so much the white-faced girl, whose deep mourning robes told the loss of dear ones by death, but gave no token of that great loss, tenfold worse than death.

"It was wicked in her to fetch you here," she said to Maddy one day when in Lucy's room she found her sitting upon the floor with her head bowed down upon the window sill. "But, law, she's a triflin' thing, and didn't know 'twould kill you, poor child, poor Maddy!" and Mrs. Noah laid her hand kindly on Maddy's hair. "Maybe you'd better go home," she continued, as Maddy made no reply.

"No, Mrs. Noah," and Maddy's voice was strangely unnatural as she lifted up her head, revealing a face so haggard and white that Mrs. Noah was frightened, and asked in much alarm if anything new had happened.

"No, nothing; I was going to say that I'd rather stay a little longer where there are signs and sounds of life. I should die to be alone at Honedale to-morrow. I may die here. Do you know that to-morrow will be the bridal?"

Yes, Mrs. Noah knew it; but she hoped it might have escaped Maddy's mind.

"Poor child," she said again, "poor child. I mistrust you did wrong to tell him no."

"Oh, Mrs. Noah, don't tell me that; don't make it harder for me to bear. The Tempter has been telling me so all day, and my heart is so hard and wicked I cannot pray as I would. Oh, you don't know how wretched I am!" and Maddy hid her face in the bread, motherly lap, sobbing so wildly that Mrs. Noah was greatly perplexed how to act, or what to say.

Years ago, she would have spurned the thought that the grandchild of the old man who had bowed to his own picture should be mistress of Aikenside; but she had changed since then, and could she have had her way, she would have stopped the marriage, and, bringing her boy home, have given him to the young girl weeping so convulsively in her lap. But Mrs. Noah could not have her way. The bridal guests were, even then, assembling in that home beyond the sea. She could not call Guy back, and so she pitied and caressed the wretched Maddy, saying to her at last:

"I'll tell you what is impressed on my mind; this Lucy's got the consumption, without any kind of doubt, and if you've no objections to a widower, you may——"

She did not finish the sentence, for Maddy started in horror. To her there was something murderous in the very idea, and she thrust it quickly aside. Guy Remington was not for her, she said, and her wish was to forget him. If she could get through the dreaded to-morrow, she should do better. There had been a load upon her the whole day, a nightmare she could not shake off, and she had come to Lucy's room in the hope of leaving her burden there, of praying her pain away. Would Mrs. Noah leave her a while, and see that no one came?

The good woman could not refuse, and going out, she left Maddy by the window watching the sun as it went down and then watching the wintry twilight deepen over the landscape, until all things were blended together in one great darkness, and Jessie found her at last fainting upon the floor.

Maddy was glad of the raging headache which kept her in bed the whole of the next day, glad of any excuse to stay away from the family, talking—all but Mrs. Noah—of Guy, and what was transpiring in England. They had failed to remember the difference in the longitude of the two places; but Maddy forgot nothing, and when the clock struck four, she called Mrs. Noah to her and whispered, faintly:

"They were to be married at eight in the evening. Allowing for possible delays, it's over before this, and Guy is lost forever!"

Mrs. Noah had no consolation to offer, and only pressed the hot, feverish hands, while Maddy turned her face to the wall and did not speak again, except to whisper incoherently as she half slumbered, half woke:

"Did Guy think of me when he promised to love her, and can he be more miserable I am?"

Maddy was indeed passing through deep waters, and that night, the fourth of December, the longest, the dreariest she ever knew, would never be forgotten. Once past, the worst was over, and as the purest metal is purified by fire, so Maddy came from the dreadful ordeal strengthened for what was before her. Both Agnes and Mrs. Noah noticed the strangely beautiful expression of her face when she came down to the breakfast room, while Jessie, as she kissed her pale cheek, whispered:

"You look as if you had been with angels."

Guy was not expected with his bride for two weeks or more, and as the days dragged on Maddy felt that the waiting for him was more intolerable than the seeing him with Lucy would be. Restless and impatient, she could not remain quietly at the cottage—while at Aikenside, she longed to return again to her own home, and in this way the time were on, until the postponement of Mrs. Remington's visit to Aikenside, when she had come from New York and found Guy waiting for her at the station. To stay that day in the house so rife with memories of the dead was impossible, and Flora was authorized and delighted to hear that both were going up to Aikenside in the vehicle hired of Farmer Green, whose son officiated as driver. It was nearly noon when they reached their destination, meeting at the gate with Flora's brother Tom, who said to them:

"We've heard from Mr. Guy; the ship is in; they'll be here sure to-night, and Mrs. Noah is turnin' things upside down with the dinner."

Leaning back in the buggy, Maddy felt for a moment as if she were dying. Never, until then, had she realized how all the while, she had been clinging to an indefinable hope, a presentiment that something might yet occur to spare her from a long lifetime of pain, such as lay before her if Guy were really lost; but the bubble had burst, leaving her nothing to hope, nothing to cling to, nothing but black despair, and half bewildered she received the noisy greeting of Jessie, who met her at the door and dragging her into the drawing room, decorated with flowers from the hothouse, told her to guess who was coming.

"I know; Tom told me; Guy is coming with Lucy." Maddy answered and relieving herself from Jessie, she turned to Agnes, asking where Mrs. Noah was and if she might go to her.

"Oh, Maddy, child, I'm sorry you've come to-day," Mrs. Noah said, as she chafed Maddy's cold hands, and leading her to the fire, made her sit down.

"I did not know it, or I should have stayed away," Maddy replied, "I shall not stay, as it is. I cannot see them to-day. Charlie will drive me back before the train is due; but what did he say? And how is Lucy?"

When the Stomach, Heart, or Kidney nerves get weak, then these organs fail. Don't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That is simply a makeshift. Get a prescription known to Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. The Restorative is prepared expressly for these weak inside nerves. Strengthen these nerves, build them up with Dr. Shoop's Restorative—tablets or liquid—and see how quickly help will come. Free sample tests sent on request by Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. Your health is surely worth this simple test.

ARTIFICIAL PEARLS.

What a Little Silver Fish Taught a French Goadmaker.

"I'll tell you," said a jeweler, "how the wonderfully perfect artificial pearl came to be invented.

"A rich French beadmaker, Monsieur Jaquin—he lived in the seventeenth century—found a pond in his garden covered one morning with a lovely silvery luster. Amazed, he called his gardener, who said it was nothing—some albettes had got crushed; that was all.

"Albettes were little silver fish, bleaks, the Leuciscus alournus. The gardener explained that if you crushed them they always gave the water a pearly sheen like that. Jaquin put on his thinking cap.

"For six years he worked with beads and bleaks, wasting millions of both, but finally he achieved success. He learned how to extract the pearly matter from the bleaks' scales and to cover a glass bead with it.

"What he did—and his method is still used—was to scrape the scales from the fish, wash and rub them and save the water. The water, decanted, gave off a lustrous fluid of the thickness of oil, a veritable pearl paint, a magic fluid that imparts a lovely pearly sheen to everything it is applied to.

"It takes 1,000 bleaks to yield an ounce of this pearl paint."

How a Tree Grows.

Both earth and air are required for the growth of a plant or tree. The roots absorb moisture from the soil, which, in the form of a watery fluid called common sap, rises through the fibers of the last deposited annular ring, traversing all the branches and leaf stalks until it reaches the leaves; there it undergoes a change by the absorption of carbonic acid from the air. It then travels downward again in the form of proper sap, just underneath the bark, which is expanded by the accession of moisture and in the cavity so formed a new layer of material is deposited which gradually hardens and forms a new annular ring. And so, from absorbing the moisture and minerals of the soil and the carbonic acid of the air the tree goes on until it finishes its cycle and dies.

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys surely point to weak kidney Nerves. The Kidneys, like the Heart, and the Stomach, find their weakness not in the organ itself, but in the nerves that control and give it vitality and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the Kidneys alone is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

If your back aches or is weak, if the urine scalds or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms of Bright's Disease or other distressing or dangerous kidney diseases, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a moment—Tablets or Liquid—and see what it can and will do for you. Druggists recommend and sell

ANTIGUA GOLD-COPPER Co.

Offers the Biggest and Most Attractive Mining Investment Now Before the Public.

ITS HOLDINGS ARE MINES--NOT PROSPECTS

With Vast Bodies of Ore Ready for the Mill, Now Nearing Completion.

THOMAS W. LAWSON
"Copper stocks offer the biggest opportunity for money making in the world to-day. A good copper mine is really a safe-deposit vault of stored up dividends which cannot be stolen or destroyed by fire, flood or famine."

CECIL RHODES
said: "Mining offers greater inducements than any other business in the world to make quick and great wealth."

CHARLES M. SCHWAB
says: "The big fortunes of the next twenty-five years will come from Mother Earth." Among all mining investments none stand ahead of copper for safety, permanency and profit.

Lay the Foundation for Your Fortune Today

THE ANTIGUA PROPERTIES

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company holdings consist of 631 acres, situated in Honduras, Central America, 100 miles southeast from Puerto Cortez, and midway between New Orleans and Panama. Development work is being pushed with all possible speed, and more than 1,500 feet of tunneling and shaft work has been completed. A 40 to 50-ton capacity gold-silver mill is in course of construction, and will be in operation before the close of the year.

Development work has conclusively proven that every acre of our holdings are rich in gold, copper and silver, and that every ton of this great ore body will yield a handsome profit on milling expense. The ore exposed on the surface does not require mining in the usual sense of the term, but may be obtained by quarrying. It can, according to estimates of experts, be quarried and treated for the gold and silver on an extensive scale at a cost of less than $1.00 a ton. Think of it! A solid mountain of rich ore, from the very grass roots of which may be washed gold.

Beyond a doubt Honduras has beneath her soil larger, richer deposits of copper, gold and silver than any other section of the American continent. Spain, during her sovereignty in that country, took out more than $300,000,000 in gold alone—and she scarcely scraped the Earth's surface. There is evidence that the pre-historic races knew how to mine and utilize copper—smelting it in their crude way.

The original incorporators of the Antigua Gold-Copper Company spent thousands of dollars of their own money in bringing this property to its present stage of development. They opened up the mine on every side with tunnels, crosscuts and shafts. They purchased machinery and began the erection of a gold-silver mill—now nearing completion. These men appreciated from the first that this mine was destined to become one of the greatest copper-gold-silver properties in America; and that it justified more extensive and more rapid development than they were able to make without the co-operation and financial assistance of the public.

The average assay values of Antigua ores, ranging from the surface to a depth of 300 feet, is over 8 per cent copper. This is above the average of the ore of the world's greatest producers, the famous Anaconda yielding ore which averages only a little over 2 per cent. The Anaconda has little other ore value, while our property, in addition to the copper, carries $2.00 to $1,400 a ton in gold and silver.

WHY STOCK IS SOLD

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company finds itself in precisely the same position as the farmer who has a larger farm than he can cultivate with the capital in hand. He knows that with additional capital and assistance he could make the land yield abundant crops and enormous profits. In the same way we intend, by the investment of additional capital, to bring our enormous ore bodies to a highly profitable state of development at the earliest possible moment. For this reason a limited amount of treasury stock is offered the public. In this way funds will be available for immediate use in purchasing additional machinery and for continuing vigorous development of the property.

THERE ARE NO PREFERRED SHARES AND NO BONDS TO COME FIRST IN THE DIVISION OF PROFITS.

and your shares will earn as much as a like number of shares owned by any other stockholder in the company. Each share CARRIES WITH IT THE RIGHT TO VOTE, so that with a single share you have every right, privilege and protection possessed by any other stockholder.

Stock is now being sold at $2.50 a share, and this stock, we firmly believe, will, within a year, be selling at par value of $5.00 a share, or higher; nor will it stop there. If you are desirous of permanently increasing your income, of making an investment that is not only secure, but immensely profitable, reserve shares TO-DAY.

Such an investment opportunity can scarcely be replaced. It is made possible only by extraordinary natural conditions. Millions of dollars of copper, gold and silver will be marketed from the mine—fortunes will be reaped as a result of the prompt seizure of the opportunity we offer you to-day.

REPORT OF AN EXPERT

Much weight can justly be given the statement of a properly qualified and reliable mining engineer. Such is the character of T. W. Foster, from whose report on Antigua we make the following extracts:

"From the development work done and the indications shown by the cropping, I am convinced this is one of the largest gold-copper deposits in existence, and under proper development will make one of the richest mining properties in America. * * * I consider this ore an ideal smelting proposition, there being an abundance of iron, lime and silica in close proximity. There is plenty of water for power and milling purposes, and an abundance of timber on the property. * * *

"A large amount of development work has been done on this property in tunnels, drifts and shafts, ranging from 20 to possibly 200 feet in length. * * * This work has all been in ore—in fact, the ore body on the surface is shown to be fully one-half mile wide by two miles in length. To judge from the development work done this property is all ore—no matter where work was started, ore was encountered.

"The company is erecting a mill, consisting of one five-stamp and three Huntington, to work the surface ore. This surface ore is mostly free milling, the copper and galena sulphides being oxidized, freeing the gold, and being readily amalgamated. But I am confident that at no very great depth copper sulphides will be encountered, as there are many places in this great ore body where the sulphides crop to the surface. I have taken a dozen samples from various places on the lead, and from these made free gold tests, finding an average of over $4.00 a ton in FREE gold, and from 5 to 25 per cent copper. Native copper is frequently seen in this ore. If the Antigua mines continue in depth as on the surface, a 1,000 ton smelter will not work it out in 100 years. * * *

"With good management and proper development, it will be but a short time until the stock of the company will be worth more than par. I fully believe that if this great ore body is properly developed there is a mine here worth many millions of dollars."

Systematic Catarrh Has But One Cure

Lotions and Powders Will Never Heal Unless the Blood is Given Attention

The way to radically and permanently cure catarrh is to cleanse the blood of the unhealthy secretions that keep the mucous membrane inflamed.

Catarrhal poison usually interferes with the stomach, kidneys and liver. These organs must be properly toned and strengthened, otherwise you feel sick all over.

To get direct to the source of the trouble—to cleanse, nourish and purify the blood—where can you find anything so potent as Dr. Hamilton's Pills?

This grand medicine regulates the eliminating organs and completely drives the virus of catarrh out of the system. Thousands of cures prove this.

Of course to clear the nose and head of mucous discharges, Dr. Hamilton recommends the use of Catarrhozone inhaler which, if used with his pills of Mandrake and Butternut, cures the most obstinate case of Catarrh ever known. All dealers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills in 25c. boxes.

Death of Wm. Hubert Gray

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gray, 131 Rubidge street, will learn with regret of the death of their son, William Hubert, at 7.30 yesterday morning. The deceased was a year and nine months of age, and had been ill for about a month. The funeral will take place at three o'clock this afternoon from the family residence, 131 Rubidge street, to Little Lake cemetery.

CHANGE IN TIME

Commencing Nov. 25th the local train which formerly left Peterboro at 8 a.m. will leave C. P. R. depot at 7:46 a.m. until further notice.

Horse and Buggy Parted Company

An Otonabee farmer who lives about a mile east of Downer's Corners had an experience on Saturday night which caused him considerable inconvenience. When he had just passed Downer's Corners his horse and buggy parted company and he remained behind with the buggy. He could not very well explain the circumstances o. the affair as he had a "jag" on that lifted his mind above horse and material things. A man who happened to come along the road found him by the buggy and oblivious to the fact that he had a horseless carriage.

Just then another man came from the opposite direction, and he had tied the horse which he had found walking along the road to a fence. Between the two they restored the horse to its proper position, and the first man drove the inebriate to his home.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

There will appear in this city at an early date under the auspices of St. John's A.Y.P.A., the famous Swiss Bell Ringers, who have been engaged by this flourishing society at a considerable expense. This is a novel musical treat we do not too often have an opportunity of enjoying, and the officers of the society are to be congratulated upon their selection of such talent for an entertainment.

A tickling cough, from any cause, is quickly stopped by Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. And it is so thoroughly harmless and safe, that Dr. Shoop tells mothers everywhere to give it without hesitation, even to very young babes. The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a lung healing mountainous shrub furnish the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough, and heals the sore and sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. Simply a reminous plant extract, that helps to heal aching lungs. The Spaniards call this shrub which the doctor uses, "The Sacred Herb." Demand Dr. Shoop's. Take no other. All dealers.

A New Era in the Fruit Industry

Throughout the United States and Canada

A bright day dawns for fruit shippers and growers of Northern and Southern California. Ground has been broken at New Castle for the establishment of a pre-cooling plant that is destined to revolutionize the fruit shipping enterprise by very materially reducing the decay and consequent loss in the shipment of fruits to the market. Pre-cooling of fruits differ very materially from the ordinary icing of fruit, and having the temperature of the fruit reduced from 35 to 40 degrees before loading in the car. Ordinary icing of the car then has only to maintain the refrigeration while in transit, while under the present system the ice has to reduce the temperature of the fruit often from a very high temperature down to a low degree, and maintain a preserving temperature to the end, which, as a rule, it fails to do. It is a well-known fact that the decay in fruit and the loss sustained lie in the early part of the journey while the fruit is warm. G. Harold Powell, U. S. Pomologist and expert who has charge of fruit transportation and storage investigation, has issued a report covering a very exhaustive study of conditions, in which he commends the pre-cooling system as the correct one. He gives results of many experiments made under his personal observation, which is very convincing in this matter. As results of these experiments pre-cooling has icing of ventilation beaten about 3 to 1. That is, the experiments indicate that there is only about one half as much decay under the pre-cooling system as under either ventilation or icing. As a result of these experiments the matter has been taken up by practical machinists with inventive genious, practical refrigerating man to take charge of the refrigerator, and through the combination of practical fruit shippers, machinists, refrigerator men, a very clever and practical invention has been patented which proposes to take the fruit from the fruit growers wagon or packing house, either loose, in the boxes or already packed, and put upon carriers that will take it, through the cooling rooms until reduced to a proper temperature. Then placed in the car which has already been cooled ready for shipment. The work is all done without ice up to the point of shipment.

Orange men of Southern California are interested in the project because of the vaporizing process, connected with the plan in connection with the cooling. A company has been incorporated under the name of The Pacific Fruit Cooling and Vaporizing Company, with headquarters in Los Angeles, and branch office at Room 220, Bacon Block, Oakland, Cal. This company, owns, and will operate these patents. The company consists of well-known business men, and fruit growers and shippers of California. We are now busy at work making our machinery to install ready for the coming season's fruit crop and the opportunity now offered by this company, is an ideal investment for the wage earner as well as the rich man. Moderate sums invested now will bring splendid returns in the near future.

The "Crystal" as a Place of Amusement

Mr. Edwards, manager of the good enough cheap priced show is that brilliantly illuminated place of amusement, entitled the Crystal, may have had some trouble before the local police court. Still the gentleman and his versatile associate have been lucky in securing the services of so high class a tenor singer as Mr. W. Morris, whilst Mr. Edwards is giving the public good value for their money in the five-cent display of artistically arranged and presented moving pictures. There is no reason for the young men of our City spending their time or money in five-cent or other games, whilst good clean amusement is supplied at such moderate prices as at the Crystal. Mr. Edwards is now contemplating the issuance of still another display of scientific skill, adapted to awaken the possibly slumbering ideas of thousands of our citizens who might be awakened to full reality when the whole truth of this most recent scientific feat is made known. Without giving away any advance hints, it might be said that the Crystal's latest contest which is based on scientific research, and is strictly apart from all possibility of private graft, or, to tell the exact truth is exempt from even the possibility of such too often reiterated ways of making two and two make five.

We might note that the Crystal has now in hand a proposition in connection with a scientific competition, in which guessing may or may not be a factor, or a means to prove beyond dispute whom is the best posted in archeological matters of interest. Mr. Edwards when interviewed by The Times yesterday afternoon did not say decidedly whether he or his confreres would adopt the plan as intimated, but there is no doubt, should they do so, it would create a great interest in ancient history and a broad-spread demand for details as to the articles to be exhibited.

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE

THE BEAUTIFUL CITY OF THE PLAINS.

"The beautiful City of the Plains". The first settlers in Western Canada, who had the whole country to choose from chose the famous Portage Plains that years later started Portage la Prairie. And Portage la Prairie has been recognized as the choicest spot in the country ever since. Its beauty is charming; its history is honourable; its memories are romantic; its associations are inspiring; its location convenient; its soil—the soil of the Portage Plains surrounding it for many miles—the best in the Dominion. Truly a unique city in a thousand ways is Portage la Prairie. It needs no word to commend its To-day it is the one city where every man who visits Western Canada wishes above all to live.

And because Portage la Prairie is an aristocrat among the cities of the West, it has also unequalled railway and distributing facilities. To a beggar city railroads do not go. Railways shun poverty in cities, just as all railroads dislike poverty in territories which otherwise they would exploit. Portage la Prairie has four railroads. The Canadian Pacific, Canadian Northern, Grand Trunk Pacific, and Great Northern, that enter Portage la Prairie, supply facilities for shipping and distributing that no other point in Western Canada enjoys. The best transfer system is in Portage la Prairie. The best freight rates are those of Portage la Prairie. And now again about those freight rates—it is important for you. Have you investigated the matter of freight rates enjoyed by Portage la Prairie in the past and the reductions in those rates made recently? Better look into up, Mr. Business Man, Mr. Working Man, or you, Mr. Wise Investor! This done, decide as to the value of possessing property in a city of distinctly favored freight rates.

BROADWAY PARK.

In Portage la Prairie the subdivision of quality is Broadway Park. Broadway Park is inside the city limits of Portage la Prairie. On the one side are railroad tracks, factories and factory sites, on the other—outside the city limits—a block of lots has recently been sold out at a price slightly in excess of the prices mentioned in this advertisement. Again remember that Broadway Park is inside the city limits. Shade trees are now planted all over Broadway Park. Granolithic sidewalks are at present within one block of lots in Broadway Park now offered you for your careful consideration.

The foregoing are only a few of the many reasons why land one block from Broadway Park is selling now at $10.00 a foot—away higher than the prices of lots in Broadway Park. Price from $40 to $75 per lot, according to location.

Terms—Ten per cent. cash, balance five per cent per month. Torrens title. No taxes this year.

A word in parting. You know, of course, that when properly invested, money makes money. Look at this map. Study it. Get the outlines fixed in your mind. If you see a city building in a certain direction, what would you do? Would you not buy property in that direction? If you have ambition—if you have rich, red blood in you—you would. Some of the wealthiest men of America made their fortunes just in that way. Portage la Prairie as a beautiful and bustling city. It favourably impresses the stranger by its neatness, its wide streets, its fine buildings and by the thrift and energy of its citizens. With its fine railroads now entering it, and the freight rates it now commands, Portage la Prairie has the makings of one of the most important cities in the West. It is a good place in which to own property—a good place in which to own property that has the stamp of Broadway Park on it. Huge fortunes are about to be made by owners of Broadway Park lots within the next twelve months. Between Broadway Park Now and Broadway Park Then lies your opportunity. What will you do with this opportunity?

Write me to-day for more information about Portage la Prairie—for Map, Plans, Descriptions and full particulars regarding Broadway Park. M. Stephens, P. O. Box 78, Portage la Prairie, Man.

Do You Think For Yourself?

Or, do you open your mouth like a young bird and gulp down whatever food or medicine may be offered you?

We appeal to an intelligent thinking woman, in need of relief from weakness, nervousness, pain and suffering, when it means much to you that there is one tried and true honest medicine or KNOWN COMPOSITION, sold by druggists for the cure of women's ills.

The makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, for the cure of weak, nervous, run-down, over-worked, debilitated, pain-racked women, knowing this medicine to be made up of ingredients, every one of which has the strongest possible indorsement of the leading and standard authorities of the several schools of practice, are perfectly willing, and in fact, are only too glad to print, as they do, the formula, or list of ingredients, of which it is composed, in plain English, on every bottle-wrapper.

The formula of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will bear the most critical examination of medical experts, for it contains no alcohol, narcotics, harmful, or habit-forming drugs, and no agent enters into it that is not highly recommended by the most advanced and leading medical teachers and authorities of their several schools of practice. These authorities recommend the ingredients of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for the cure of exactly the same ailments for which this world-famed medicine is advised.

No other medicine for woman's ills has any such professional endorsement as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has received, in the unqualified recommendation of each of its several ingredients by scores of leading medical men of all the schools of practice. Is such an endorsement not worthy of your consideration?

A booklet of ingredients, with numerous authorative professional endorsements by the leading medical authorities of this country, will be mailed free to any one sending name and address with request for same. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

If We are to Have Hard Times, and a Slump in Labor, the Commission and the Company Can Employ 50,000 Men

Ottawa, Nov. 27.—The labor market has begun to slump. In the last few weeks the scarcity has suddenly ceased. Labor is not exactly plentiful yet, and wages are still high. Perhaps it is too soon to make forecasts, but a whole set of facts will occur to any reader. Eastern lumbering operations are seriously curtailed. Lumbermen's wages are being reduced in the Ottawa valley, and employment agencies are beginning to find it hard to place men. In the Western States railways are stopping construction work everywhere. In British Columbia smelters, mines, and lumber mills are shutting down right and left. It will not take much of that sort of thing to bring wages down and to make serious trouble for the workingmen.

Perhaps the check may be only temporary. Perhaps hard times may be upon us. Suppose the latter alternative is upon us. What then?

When the whole project was under discussion, one feature of the situation which was put to the fore was the steadying effect in a period of hard times of so heavy an expenditure and so large a demand for labor. If the work is pushed, it will mean the expenditure of something like thirty millions a year. The commission and the railway company between them can employ 50,000 men with ease. If it became an object to give employment they could find work for 100,000 men.

PUSH THE WORK.

In a word, if we have hard times, we must look to the transcontinental project to support the country. The commission has the government at its back, so to a modified extent has the Grand Trunk Pacific. In a period of financial stringency these agencies can secure money with an ease denied to private corporations. They can spend money largely, they can absorb the surplus labor set free by any expensive shutting down of work. Apart from the general obligation to prosecute their enterprise as expeditiously as possible, the advent of hard times should impose a special obligation upon them. Both have got through the preliminary period of careful examination. Both can push ahead very rapidly if they can get men enough.

This change in the situation may alter the aspect of the Oriental labor difficulty. The Grand Trunk Pacific lies under the suspicion of having encouraged, if not of having induced, the recent Japanese influx. The utterances of Mr. Hays and Senator Cox gave legitimate grounds for a suspicion that the company has planned to use its white labor on the prairies, and to trust to Orientals for the mountain section. But British Columbia at the present moment, according to reports, is flooded with white men out o' work. Let this condition develop much further, and the mountain section will be able to get the labor it needs without having recourse to the far east.

Apparently then, the Grand Trunk Pacific enterprise may have a chance to render us a great secondary advantage. It may prove the anchor with which the country is to ride out a financial and industrial storm. To do that, the slump in the labor market, the increased disposition of men to seek work, must be followed by increased vigor in construction on the eastern division. The contractors who have been lethargic must be stimulated. The harder the times the more energetic should be the work and the expenditure up north

Cheaper Meat for Chicago

Chicago, Nov. 27.—Sweeping reductions in the prices of meat and provisions are promised Chicago consumers in a few days as a result of a similar decline in the prices of live stock that has been going on for the last forty days. Reductions in the wholesale trade of these commodities were made yesterday, averaging about ten per cent. for all kinds of meat and poultry.

Prizes Awarded at the Roller Rink

The attraction at the roller rink last night was the contest for ladies and gents skating alone. There was a large crowd present and considerable interest was taken in the competition. Miss Irene Craig carried off the ladies' prize, and Mr. Walter Bellegham, the gents. The judges were Messrs. Lowry, Robertson and Hagerman.

POLICE

Yesterday Mr. T. Cavanagh was fined two dollars for striking James Hayes on Saturday last, at the Cavanagh House. It appears that Hayes had been told repeatedly not to come near the hotel, and Saturday, defendant claimed he went there to see a man, and Mr. Cavanagh told him to get out, and Hayes refused. A scrap followed, and Hayes got the worst of it and came to the police station with a complaint. His worship fined Cavanagh, stating he had no right to take the law in his own hands.

Thos. Robertson was charged with not sending his son Earl to school. He pleaded not guilty, stating that every morning he was sent out to school, and he always thought he was there. Mr. Mowat, school inspector, said his attendance was very irregular. His worship gave the lad some good advice and told him to go to school, or he would settle him.

The morning session also included the trial of a bartender, whose pretty face and auburn locks did not save him from being fined some $4.90 for participating in a scrap.

Yesterday morning a young man well known as a decent fellow and a skilled mechanic, but who seems to have fallen under the influence of the curse of liquor, was again in the police court. As noted in yesterday's issue Charles Beavis was arrested several days ago and then remanded for a week by the magistrate to sober him up. Charles was then let go but told that he would be sent to the Central Prison should he again transgress by dallying with the "foolish water." Unfortunately and despite his promises to the contrary, Charles seems to have taken enough glasses of alcoholic stimulants beyond his carrying capacity to have gotten drunk, incidentally beholding an eye-in-mourning that would have made any widow surviving a millionaire husband married for his coin, jealous by the fullness of the mourning. Charles, whilst evidently and beyond dispute thoroughly regretting his indiscretion, after being charged with vagrancy, was given six months in the Central Prison, Toronto.

Direct Reports to the Chicago Clearing House from Western Cities Promise Co-operation

Chicago, Nov. 26.—Direct reports to the Chicago clearing house from hundreds of western cities encouraged the local bankers yesterday to believe that a resumption of cash payments will be possible within a fortnight. When the Clearing House Committee met the members had before them more than 500 letters in reply to the circular letter sent out last week asking for statements of conditions throughout the west. Practically all of the letters, it was announced, expressed a willingness to co-operate with the Chicago bankers in resuming a cash basis.

Try To Settle Athletic War

Toronto, Nov. 26.—Strenuous efforts are being made to secure a compromise of the differences that have existed between the Amateur Athletic Association and the Canadian Athletic Union in order that Canadian athletes may be sent to London next year to compete in the Olympic games.

Mr. P. D. Ross, editor of the Ottawa Journal, who is associated with Col. Hanbury-Williams as representative of the British Olympic League in Canada, arrived at the King Edward this morning, and will meet representatives of the C.A.U. at a meeting this afternoon.

He was at Montreal yesterday with Col. Hanbury-Williams conferring with the Federation representatives, and finds that they are willing to compromise if the C.A.U. will do the same.

The intention is, Mr. Ross stated, to have representatives of both associations to go to Ottawa on Saturday to try to arrange a settlement. If this can be done these two associations, and probably others, will send men to the Olympic games.

"If the present difference are not cleared up they will give Canada a bad name in the Old Country, and we are very anxious to avoid that."

Police of Oakland Have Unearthed a Most Diabolical Crime

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 26.—The police of Oakland yesterday unearthed a most diabolical crime and have taken into custody M. A. Wilkins, a stationery engineer, and will charge him with the murder of his wife, whose body was found buried in quicklime underneath a shed in the yard of the Wilkins home in Elmhurst, a suburb of Oakland.

It was known that a child had been born and Wilkins stated that his wife had gone to the home of her parents in the east.

SAW THE BODY IN A DREAM.

A friend of the dead woman, Mrs. J. M. Anderson, of San Francisco, had been staying at the Wilkins home during the past few days and now asserts that Wilkins had endeavored to induce her to leave her husband and go away with him. Her suspicions became aroused and Monday night in a dream she saw the body of her former friend lying on the ground with the arms crossed over the breast. She returned to San Francisco and informed her husband and they then told the story to the Oakland police. The result was the finding of the body in a trench under an old carpet in the shed, lying as described by Mrs. Anderson.

Wilkins at first said his wife had committed suicide. Later he asserted she had died shortly after the child was born, and that he had buried the body to save expense. At last he refused to talk further.

GAVE HER POISON TO DRINK.

Mrs. Anderson says that she was awakened from her singular dream by Wilkins, who was standing over her with a knife in his hand. When she asked what he meant, he replied that she had been talking wildly in her sleep. He put away the knife and asked her to have a drink of water. She sipped some of it, but did not swallow it, suspecting that it had been poisoned. This proved to be the fact. Wilkins is 50 years old, and came here with his wife from York, Pa.

Australia Wants a Stronger Navy--The Jap Boogie There Too

Melbourne, Nov. 26.—Public sentiment throughout Australia is unanimous for a stronger British naval force in these waters and also for an independent coast defence navy. Australia wants the beginning of an effective defence, one which will protect her growing trade and ensure the control of the Western Pacific, and one also which, if the vague menace of the Asiatic becomes definite, will find her ready to meet it. The general scheme is not much more than taking shape, but if the Admiralty proves sympathetic by the time of the next Imperial Conference Australia will be able to make proposals for the security of her trade and the white race in Australia which, may have far-reaching results, and which will make the Australian naval station something better than a picnic ground.

So far as the Australians know, the British Navy, it is stationed in Port Jackson, and is an excellent centre of attraction for Sydney-side society. Its water functions and its receptions are excellent. Its dancing men are quite necessary to every hostess who is anybody at all. Somethint would be missing if the fleet did not turn up in Port Phillip while the Melbourne Cup meeting was on, or if the ships were not in the Derwent at the time of the Hobart Regatta.

All through Australia the naval question is a live one, for two sufficient reasons. The first is that Australians are not at all sure but that Japan is casting hungry eyes in their direction. Australians exclude the Asiatic from her shores rigorously, and it was only the earnest request of Mr. Chamberlain which prevented the Australian parliament specially excluding Asiatics by name instead of by the language test, which reaches the same end. When the language test is applied to an immigrant, he is ipso facto excluded. He is not intended to pass it, nor would the most accurate translation be accepted. Australians have no illusions that Japan, while directly objecting to direct exclusion, has not just as strong objections to indirect exclusion. The antipathy of the Australian to the Australian to the Asiatic is very strong, and the antipathy does not find its cause wholly in trade antagonisms. Nowadays, the menace of the cheap labor of the Asiatic is a factor in the antipathy, but the beginning of it rested in racial dislikes. The white Australian movement would be a small force if it depended for its support upon the Labor Leagues, whose one desire is to maintain a high rate of wages. It draws strength from much greater forces. There never was a Chinese camp in Australia that was not full of moral as well as physical leprosy. The Chinaman had no sense other than to produce in the open country of Australia a foul-smelling replica of an overcrowded Juanlong purlieu. Phillip street, in Sydney, and Little Bourke street, in Melbourne, two Chinese quarters, had most evil reputations up to late years. A Chinese camp seemed to infect the very ground, and there are mining towns in Australia from which the camps have disappeared, except for one or two stray Chinese, but the area of the camp stands "taboo," and avoided by all decent dwellers in the land. A kind of stifling process has made Little Bourke street and Phillip street Chinese business centres infinitely more decent than formerly, but still far behind Eng-

One of the Party was Killed and One Captured--Were Trying to Overthrow the Government

Rio de Janeiro, Nov. 26.—A Brazilian, Sebastino De Magali, who recently published in some American newspapers a proclamation inviting subscriptions to aid an expedition to overthrow one of the States of Brazil, landed Sunday at Bahia, and later embarked on a tug boat with four Canadians and four Englishmen for the town of Ilheos, seaport about 125 miles distant from Bahia.

Arriving there, the little band, which was well armed, attacked the town, where a detachment of police and a number of inhabitants offered resistance.

One of the attacking party was killed and another was made prisoner.

The rest of the party fled, after having cut the telegraph communications.

The government has issued an order for the capture of the men who escaped.

Bahia is a city of 200,000 people, and Ilheos, which is a small place, is over 125 miles to the south. Ilheos is about 500 miles north of Rio Janeiro. Both the city of Bahia and Ilheos are in the Province of Bahia.

10,000 Thousand Made a Desperate Atttack on a French Camp

Lalla, Maghnia, Algeria, Nov. 26—Ten thousand of the fiercest Beni Nassen tribesmen swooped down on the French camp yesterday and were beaten off with a loss of 1,500 killed. The fighting continued for a long time, and was conducted on the part of the tribesmen apparently with total disregard for their lives. At times the French infantry were in danger of being surrounded but they finally disengaged themselves from their perilous position by most brilliant charge of the Spahis. The rout of the Arabs was completed by vigorous shelling by the artillery. The French loss was eight killed.

The Arabs were not discouraged by this severe repulse, but reformed their forces, and in addition directed their efforts to rousing other tribes. The fighting was resumed today, and the booming of cannon could be heard throughout the afternoon. The results of the battle now on are unknown at present.

During the pursuit of the enemy the Spahis were drawn into ambush, and Lieut Rose, who was riding in front, fell riddled with bullets, but the troopers rallied and threw themselves upon the Arabs in ambush, cutting them to pieces. The French success followed up their advantage, and scouring the country killed many of the fugitives. The artillery bombarded the mountain object where the remainder of the tribesmen had taken refuge.

FULL AMNESTY TO DESERTERS.

Vienna, Nov. 26.—The first act of Emperor Francis Joseph's diamond jubilee, on December 2, will be the granting of full amnesty to deserters, fugitives from military service, and other military culprits. It will continue operative for two years so as to enable Austrians and Hungarians abroad, who wish to take advantage of the amnesty, to register their names at the consulates. It is expected that this action will have influence upon the Austrian and Hungarian emigrants in America, thousands of whom are prevented from returning to their old homes by fear of military punishment.

TRAGEDY IN SPAIN.

Barcelona, Nov. 26.—An express train from Valencia, with many passengers on board, fell from a bridge into the water below on the outskirts of this city. Sixteen persons were killed and twenty-two injured.

The Citizens of Peterborough Should Purchase Hartley Pamphlet

The pamphlets giving a portrait of Dave Hartley, Peterborough's champion pedestrian, gotten up under instructions and editorship of Mr. Geo. Stevens his backer, are meeting with a good sale. Mr. Stevens hopes to make enough out of the pamphlets to form the nucleus of the purchase price of a house and lot to be presented to Hartley. Mr. Stevens, in this matter is not only doing a disinterested kindness to Mr. Hartley, but is indirectly advertising the city. Every quarter paid for the pamphlets is a contribution towards a plucky and successful athlete, who has been instrumental in advancing the favorable notoriety of Peterborough, and is given in a good cause. Mr. Stevens is the one man in Peterborough who had the ambition, belief and send to back up both morally, personally and financially, the great pedestrian whom, when now successful, the public applauds and honors.

It is easy to cheer the man who wins after he has won, but the man who was actually instrumental, in fact solely instrumental in bring the winner into the arena should be backed up in his endeavor to further advance Hartley's future, particularly, as in this endeavor, Mr. Stevens is carrying on a sporting campaign devoid of personal interest.

Every 25-cent piece paid for the Hartley pamphlets is simply a drop into a bucket that will when filled be only a fitting recognition and small reward for a plucky local athlete who has earned well won honors for himself and has thereby gained distinction and honor for the town which was only too slow in recognizing his abilities. To quote a slang but appropriate saying, "It's a good thing push it along."

A Successful Sale

No Scarity of Money Amongst the Farmers in the Country

Mr. J. H. Gardiner, the well known auctioneer, reports a very successful sale of farm stock and implements at the residence of Mr. Joseph Brown, lot 3, con. 13, Cavan, on Monday, 25th instant. There was a large attendance of buyers, several attending from Peterborough.

Prices were goods, indicating that there is little scarcity of money in the country districts.

One span of 5-year-old horses brought $325, and one span of 4-year-olds at $305. Milch cows sold for $73 to $33 each. The day was fine and the bidding spirited.

A Good Story

Told by a Former Coffee Slave

The relief which comes by leaving off coffee and using Postum Food Coffee, is so striking that people like to tell others who may be in that condition they got out of.

The use of Postum is on the increase in this country and the famous beverage made from wholesome field grains has been the means of restoring to thousands of former coffee drinkers, good digestion, steady nerves and sound sleep.

"About 18 months ago," writes a Kanswoman, "I was a most miserable person. I am 48 years old and all my life I have been subject to headache, which seemed to get worse with each attack; so that about every week I would have a spell that laid me up two days.

"Whenever I would go out anywhere I'd come home with a spell and then would not eat anything—just drink coffee. I had nervous chills and my memory was getting very bad.

"My friends thought I would not live long, and I was little more than a skeleton. At last a friend advised me to quit coffee and use Postum. It seemed silly to think coffee was the trouble but I am thankful I tried it out, for I am now in perfect health, have no headaches or dizzy spells, no more nervous chills and my nerves are strong and steady. My mind is clear and my memory all right, in fact I am like a different person.

"Constipation was one of my old troubles. I had to take something all the time. Now I am never bothered this way and everyone remarks how well I am looking. I am getting the Postum habit and am glad to tell others that Postum has done it all for me.

"A few times when out of Postum, I have returned to coffee and every time I'd go to bed with a raging headache, so that's proof that coffee was at the bottom of my trouble." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Mr. James Dolan's Condition Critical

Popular Citizen in a Precarious Condition at St. Joseph's Hospital

The many friends in this city and vicinity of Mr. James Dolan, will learn with profound regret that there is very little chance of his recovering. As noted in yesterday's issue, Mr. Dolan is ill at St. Joseph's hospital, suffering from Bright's disease and complications. Early yesterday morning Mr. Dolan became worse, so much so in fact that his nephew Mr. "Bert" Dolan of New York, was called to his uncle's bedside. During the day Mr. Dolan seemed to rally somewhat but in the evening advices from the hospital, by telephone, disclosed the sad news that Mr Dolan was worse and that he was not expected to recover. This news will be read with heartfelt sadness by Mr Dolan's large circle of friends.

Shot Highwayman Was Hit Himself

Bridgeburg, Nov. 26.—James Roberts, of Stevensville, Ont., was shot in the arm by a highwayman about two o'clock this morning near Stevensville, after he had shot and injured another highwayman, when three masked and armed men sprang from the roadside and commanded Roberts to hand over his money. The robbers made their escape, the injured member of the trio being carried away by the other two.

Roberts has been living on the farm of Arnold Coutts, two miles east of Stevensville, for some time, and had been negotiating for the purchase of the farm. Last night he went to Stevensville to meet the midnight express of the Michigan Central, having been notified that an express package containing $1,000 would be on that train, addressed to him. Roberts received the package and at once took it to the Sterling Bank, where it was placed in the vaults.

It was about 1.20 o'clock this morning when Roberts started on his way home. When about a mile from Coutts' farmhouse the three men sprang from behind some bushes and with revolvers pointed at Roberts, commanded him to hand over the $1,000. Roberts drew his gun and fired. One of the three highwaymen fell. Another returned the fire, and the bullet took effect in Roberts' right arm.

A Chimney Blaze

Last night at 7.50 an alarm brought out the brigade with hook and ladder and hose wagons to the corner of George and Brock streets. It seems that a chimney had caught fire but no damage was done.

Local Drug Stores Now Open Late

The local drug stores are now keeping open until ten o'clock in the evening. This new plan started Monday night. For five or six years past there has been an understanding or agreement, whereby all the pharmacists closed at eight o'clock every evening, except Saturday, the night the stores shut up at eight o'clock, which kept open late, and the one who was to be open, changed in rotation. All local sellers of medicine, patents or other items of the drug business took regular turns at keeping their respective places of business closed or open as per their rotation as per agreement.

Now this arrangement is off and the dispensaries will be doing business each evening until ten o'clock.

CURED PAINFUL IRREGULARITIES

Strong Testimony From a Lady Resident of Clarksburg, Proving That Ferrozone Surpasses All Other Remedies.

The health of many women is constantly imperilled through failure of certain organs to work according to nature's requirements.

Where this condition occurs there is no safer remedy to employ than Ferrozone, which has a specific action on female troubles.

Not only does it act directly on the organs, ensuring regularity and freedom from pain, but by forming rich red blood fortifies the system against weakening drains.

FERROZONE MAKES STRONG WOMEN

Ferrozone possesses a volume of merit totally absent in the ordinary medicine, and its superiority is proclaimed by thousands of women it has restored to vigorous health. From Mrs. F. G. Caldwell comes the following endorsement, written from her home in Clarksburg: "I went through a most trying experience with what is commonly known as 'Female Trouble.' It isn't necessary to state my symptoms, but I suffered a great deal. My health was well nigh ruined, and I got into such a condition that I couldn't even sleep. I was dreadfully nervous, weak and pale. Different prescriptions were recommended and I tried them. But Ferrozone was the first to help. I improved steadily under Ferrozone. And normal conditions were finally established. I gained weight, my color and spirits improved, and my former health was restored. Ferrozone cured me, and with a full heart I recommend this good medicine to all other women."

Beware of imitations—don't allow a druggist to palm off anything else for Ferrozone, which costs 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50 at all dealers.

BUY THEM NOW

It is just four weeks to Christmas, and if you would avoid the rush of the holiday trade you should make your purchases without delay. By doing this you will again in more ways than one. You will get the pick of the stock before it is broken to choose from. You will be better served now than later on, the clerks having more time to wait upon you, and not being fagged out by overwork and worry. Then, again this is ideal weather for shopping, neither too cold nor too hot, and by beginning now you have lots of time to see just what you really want. When people wait too long they often have to grab what they can get and then wish after they had bought them that they hadn't. Then, another thing, the worry of wondering what you will get for this friend and that will be over and done with, and you can devote yourself to other holiday affairs that need your attention without being distracted all the time by thoughts of what you will buy, where you will buy and when you will buy.

From the storekeepers' point of view, it is also desirable that you do it now. They have made great preparations this year to anticipate all your wants in Christmas gifts. The goods are now on display, fresh and bright, and in most cases stocks yet unbroken. All that is wanted is for you to go and make your selections. Now their staffs are able to give you every attention and to help you in every way they can to get exactly what you want. As yet there is no particular rush; the Christmas crowds have not yet begun to besiege the stores. Later on the stores will not be able to give you the same service or attention. Then the clerks should be considered. In the holiday rush they are driven at top speed from morning till night in crowded stores. They are worried and perplexed in their efforts to serve and please everybody. Is it any wonder that they become physically and mentally unable to stand the strain and that poor service often results? Make up your minds that you at least will buy early. Not only will it be to your advantage, but it will be a great help to those store people.

To check a cold quickly get from your druggist some little Candy Cold Tablets called Preventics. Druggists everywhere are now dispensing Preventics, for they are not only safe, but decidedly certain and prompt. Preventics contain no quinine, no laxative, nothing harsh nor sickening. Taken at the "sneeze stage" Preventics will prevent Pneumonia, Bronchitis, La Grippe, etc. Banish the same Preventics. Good for feverish children. 25 Preventics 25 cents. Trial Boxes 5 cts. Sold by all dealers.

MONEY WITH SHEEP.

Crops of Plump, Sound Lambs That Bring Long Prices.

This is how we have made the most money with sheep on Woodland Farm: The ewes have been selected for their milking properties and have been bred early to good mutton rams of the short legged, early maturing type. They have had the run of the pasture all winter and a good warm shed or barn basement to run in at night. They have been watched so that when their lambs came, if it happened to be cold, they have been given attention. Small pens have been provided them in which lamb and mother might be placed for a day or two while they have been getting acquainted with each other, especially if we happened to be busy. Their mothers have been well fed and not overfed. They have been fed on the right kind of food. That means something cheap and home raised and full of milk. That means alfalfa hay, of course. Well, these ewes, eating alfalfa hay, with a very little grain, are full of milk, and the lambs thrive from the start. The surplus of milk is taken away by hand right at first, so that they will not suffer from engorgement.

Starting the Lambs.

Soon they are plump, playful little rascals and wishing something to nibble with their own teeth. Then they are inducted into their own special apartment, where, right close to their mothers, they find troughs filled with grain with oats and corn and clean, fresh bran, and with little racks of fresh alfalfa or red clover hay. These troughs are cleaned out every day and the surplus is given to the mothers. Thus they thrive like weeds until grass comes in the spring. When grass first comes they are kept shut away from it until after it gets strong and sweet. Then they are turned out and the grain is fed out of doors. Sometimes we have made the fattest lambs on grass, throwing ear corn out on it as we would to the pigs. Of course, we have to fence a corner where the lambs can get the grain and the ewes cannot. We like to put out rollers in the creeps, so that the lambs may squeeze through and not hurt themselves, and pretty soon the shorn ewes are nearly as small as their lambs.

Selling the Lambs.

Managed in this way, we have sold our crop of lambs in three lots. One in April, and they averaged eighty pounds and brought a long price; the younger ones going again in May, and weighed above eighty pounds, and the very latest and the culls went in June, and they also averaged above eighty pounds and also brought a good price. —W. E. Wing in Farm and Fireside.

THE SHEPHERD.

When fed in large flocks the sheep should be driven from the feed yard during the time the racks are being filled; this will overcome the tendency to overcrowding and prevent injury to the sheep from the wagon and team. The quantity of silage to be fed should be governed largely by the appetite of the flock, but it is not usually advisable to feed over three pounds per head daily. For sheep weighing 125 pounds about 2.5 pounds of silage and 1.5 pounds of hay will be ample; and if one-half pound of grain or bran be fed slightly less hay will suffice. If grain is fed it is not a proper plan to mix it with coarse feed, as the sheep are inclined to root out and waste this feed in their efforts to get the grain.

In Western Oregon.

Sheep husbandry in western Oregon is conducted on lines that would be a revelation to many farmers. In the matter of pasture, land is plowed and sown to wheat about Oct. 1, and, in a normal season, by the following February a luxuriant pasture will be furnished for the ewes and lambs or for fattening sheep.

It Gives Vital Tone.

The effect of salt on the health of the sheep is not generally understood. Its effect is to give tone to the organism. The ash of the blood of a healthy sheep contains about 60 per cent salt, and the ash of urine 33 per cent.

The scarcity of such an important constituent in the blood means a relaxation of vital energy.

Lambs For Early Market.

Corn meal is an excellent feed for young lambs that are to be fattened quickly. After this comes bran. Linseed meal may be fed in small quantities.

The Sheep's Feet.

Don't neglect to trim off any overgrowth of the horny part of the feet. Manure and filth will accumulate and trouble likely follow later. While examining the feet don't fail to have sharp shears at hand to trim off the tag locks that are an annoyance to the sheep and mean a loss of wool.

Hog Cholera.

So far as I am able to learn, the farmers in our state as well as the farmers in other states have not as yet secured any remedy which will cure hog cholera, says Professor W. J. Kennedy of Iowa in Rural New Yorker. Personally I do not think that such a thing exists as a remedy which will cure without fail all cases of hog cholera. We have had a little experience on the College farm with hog cholera, and we always used preventive measures to overcome the same. I think that when hog cholera is in the neighborhood it is a very wise policy for every farmer who owns hogs to use disinfectants very freely. He should divide up his hogs into small lots and feed them on rations of a thin, sloppy order. Skim milk is very good at this time or a thin slop made of water and wheat shorts. By all means avoid the heavy feeding of corn.

Good Coal Stock is Better Than a Bank

THE ROYAL COLLIERIES

10 Square Miles of Coal Lands

A Consolidation of the Barnes Mine just north of Lethbridge with several surrounding sections making it one of the largest and most valuable coal lands holdings in Alberta.

Capital, $3,000,000.00 — 3,000,000 $1.00 Shares.

The amount of coal underlying this company's lands is variously estimated at from 60 to 70 millions of tons. They have the same coal measures and the same quality of high grade domestic and steam coal as the Galt and Diamond Mines. Taking the smaller amount as a basis for calculation, what you actually buy is 30 tons of coal for each share of stock you take. For an investment of one dollar you actually become the owner of 330 tons of coal or its equivalent in dividends.

Few people are aware of the golden harvest that is being reaped from the coal mines of Alberta and British Columbia and no one can even estimate the countless millions yet to be won. The Dunsmuir fortune is the most notable example, but there are others in the making.

From Wardner on the west and Medicine Hat on the east, south to the international boundary line, north to Banff and beyond the coal measures of the Crow's Nest Pass extend. There is very little coal in the States of Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon, and at the present time three lines of railway are blocked trying to meet an ever increasing demand. 11,000 tons per day is being mined in this field at the present time, but the orders cannot be filled. In two years Royal Collieries will be mining 7,000 tons per day. 50c per ton is a modest profit to be anticipated, at which rate an investment of $750.00 in a thousand shares, of this stock, means a return to you and your heirs of $40,000.00. This may seem like a tale of the "Arabian Nights" but it is a fact. They have the coal. They have the markets and the prime movers whose names are a synonym for honesty and square dealing give assurance of a conservative business management.

We are offering these shares in blocks of 100 to 10,000 at 35c per share. For further information address was organized several months ago by well-known business men and fruit shippers of California for the purpose of precooling fruit before starting it on its long journey to the Eastern market. The Government experts report on the precooling of fruits, is convincing evidence that the importance of precooling fruit is necessary and has come to stay. The inventor of our process has been engaged in the fruit business for many years and during the past five years has spent much time and money experimenting with the best methods of pre-cooling fruits. His tests have been practical and convincing. The keen business man saw at a glance the possibilities of his invention, and with the combination of capital, together with the enormous fruit industry, we were convinced of success and have succeeded far beyond our expectations. We are now busy at work making our machinery, to install ready for the coming season's fruit crop, and the opportunity now offered by this company is an ideal investment for the wage earner as well as the rich man. Moderate sums invested now will bring splendid returns in the near future, and as a ground floor opportunity we are offering a limited allotment of stock to the general public as a profitable investment.

Make Your Money Work

At 25 Cents Per Share for a Short Time Only

Investments made six months ago have advanced 150 PER CENT. The next six months promise to far exceed the past six months. DON'T WAIT.

Time is the essence of this proposition. This stock will certainly double in a short time. J. Gould once said, "When you see a good investment, don't wait to see if it pans out well, for by that time other people see it too and you have lost your opportunity and you must then pay a higher premium on the original price to get it."

You will note the entire absence of risk in this advertisement. Each machine will pay for itself the first season and leave a handsome margin for dividends. Just as soon as we get our machines in motion they begin to earn money and big money, too.

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the Applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother).

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Servant's Quarters, R.M.C., Kingston, Ont." will be received at this office until Friday, December 6, 1907, inclusively, for the work above described.

Plans and specifications can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department, and on application to H. P. Smith, Esq., Architect, Kingston.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank made payable to the order of the Honorable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or if he fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By Order,
FRED. GELINAS,
Secretary.

Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, November 18, 1907.

Newspapers will not be paid for this advertisement if they insert it without authority from the Department. 2

TENDERS FOR PULPWOOD CONCESSIONS

Tenders will be received by the undersigned up to and including the 16th of December next for the right to cut pulpwood on certain areas tributary to the Nepigon river, in the district of Thunder Bay, and Rainy Lake, in the district of Rainy River, and make the same into paper. Tenderers should state the amount they are prepared to pay as bonus in addition to such dues as may from time to time be fixed for the right to operate a paper making industry on the areas referred to. Separate tenders must be made for each area or territory, and the successful tenderers will be required to erect a mill or mills on each of the territories or in such other localities as may be approved by the Government of Ontario.

Parties tendering for the pulpwood rights shall accompany their tenders with a marked cheque for 25 per cent. of the amount tendered, payable to the Treasurer of Ontario, and to be forfeited in the event of their failing to enter into agreements to carry out conditions, etc.

With respect to the Rainy Lake Pulp Concession, tenderers will be required to make a tender for the right to cut the pine, tamarac and cedar on the territory offered. Parties making tender for these timbers to state the amount they are prepared to pay per thousand feet B.M. as bonus in addition to Crown dues of $2.00 per thousand feet B.M. A marked cheque for $5,000.00 payable to the Treasurer of Ontario must accompany the tender for pine timber, and is to be forfeited in the event of their failing to enter into agreements to carry out conditions, etc.

No timber shall be cut on either of the concessions of a less diameter than nine inches, two feet from the ground.

The successful tenderers to enter into agreements with the Government for the erection of the mills, expenditure of money, etc.

For full particulars as to the conditions, etc., application should be made to the undersigned.

HON. F. COCHRANE,
Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines.

AIKENSIDE

BY MARY J. HOLMES

Author of "Dora Deane," "The English Orphans," "Lena Rivers," "The Rector of St. Mark's," "Tempest and Sunshine," Etc.

"He did not mention her. There's the dispatch," and Mrs. Noah handed to Maddy the telegram received that morning, and which was simply as follows:

"The steamer is here. Shall be at station at five o'clock p. m.

"Guy Remington."

Twice Maddy read it over, experiencing much the same feeling she would have experienced had it been her death warrant she was reading.

"At five o'clock. I must go before that," she said, sighing as she remembered how, one year ago that day, she was traveling over the very route where Guy was now traveling with his bride. Did he think of it? Think of his long waiting at the depot, or of that memorable ride, the events of which grew more and more distinct in her memory, making her cheeks burn even now as she recalled his many acts of tender care.

Laying the telegram on the table, she went with Mrs. Noah through the rooms, warmed and made ready for the bride, lingering longest in Lucy's, which the bridal decorations and the bright fire blazing in the grate made singularly inviting. And yet, there were no flowers there, and Maddy claimed the privilege of arranging them for this room herself. Agnes had almost stripped the conservatory; but Maddy found enough to form a most tasteful bouquet; which she placed upon a marble dressing table; then within a slip of paper which she folded across the top, she wrote: "Welcome to the bride."

"They both will recognize my handwriting; they'll know I've been here," she thought, as with one long, last look at the room she walked away.

They were laying the table for dinner now, and with a kind of dizzy, uncertain feeling, Maddy watched the servants hurrying to and fro, bringing out the choicest china, and the glittering silver, in honor of the bride. Comparatively, it was not long since a little, frightened, homesick girl, she first sat down with Guy at that table, from which the proud Agnes would have banished her; but it seemed to her an age, so much of happiness and pain had come to her since then. There was a place for her there now, a place near Guy; but she should not fill it. She could not stay; and she astonished Agnes and Jessie, just as they were going to make their dinner toilet, by announcing her intention of going home. She was not dressed to meet Mrs. Remington, she said, shuddering as for the first time she pronounced a name which the servants had frequently used, and which jarred on her ear every time she heard it. She was not dressed appropriately to meet an English lady. Flora, of course would stay, she said, as it was natural she should, to greet her new mistress; but she must go, and be bade Charlie Green bring around the buggy.

Agnes was not particularly surprised, for a vague suspicion of something like the truth had gradually been creeping into her brain, as she noted Maddy's pallid face, and the changes which passed over it whenever Guy was mentioned. Agnes pitied Maddy, for in her own heart there was a little burning spot, when she remembered who was to accompany Dr. Holbrook. So she did not urge her to remain, and she tried to hush Jessie's lamentations when she heard Maddy was going.

One long, sad, wistful look at Guy's and Lucy's home, and Maddy followed Charlie to the buggy waiting for her, bidding him drive rapidly, as there was every indication of a coming storm.

The gray, wintry afternoon was drawing to a close, and the December night was shutting down upon the Honedale hills in sleety rain, when the cottage was reached, and Maddy, passing up the narrow, slippery walk, entered the cold, dreary room, where there was neither fire nor light, nor friendly voice to greet her. No sound save the ticking of the clock; no welcome save the purring of the home cat, who came crawling at her feet as she knelt before the stove and tried to kindle the fire. Charlie Green had offered to go in and do this for her, as indeed he had offered to return and stay all night, but she had declined, preferring to be alone, and with stiffened fingers she laid the kindlings Flora had prepared, and then applying the match, watched the blue flame as it gradually licked up the smoke and burst into a cheerful blaze.

"I shall feel better when it's warm," she said, crouching over the fire, and shivering with more than bodily cold.

There was a kind of nameless terror stealing over her as she sat thinking of the year ago when the immates of three graves across the meadow were there beneath that very roof where she now sat alone.

"I'll strike a light," she said, rising to her feet, and trying not to glance at the shadowy corners filling her with fear.

The lamp was found, and its friendly beams soon dispersed the darkness from the corners and the fear from Maddy's heart, but it could not drive from her mind thoughts of what might at that moment be transpiring at Aikenside. If the bride and groom came at all that night, she knew they must have been there for an hour or more, and in fancy she saw the tired, but happy, Lucy, as up in her pleasant room she made her toilet for dinner, with Guy standing by and looking on just as he had a right to do. Did his eye, when it rested on her, light up with the same expression she had seen so often when it looked at her? Did he commend her taste and say his little wife was beautiful, as he kissed her fair, white cheek, or was there a cloud upon his handsome face, a shadow on his heart, heavy with thoughts of her, and would he rather it were Maddy there in the bridal room? If so, his burden was hard indeed, but not so hard as hers, and kneeling on the floor poor Maddy laid her head in the chair, and, 'mid piteous moans, asked God to help them both to bear their lot.

The prayer ended, Maddy still sat upon the floor, while over her pale face the lamplight faintly flickered, showing the dark lines beneath her eyes and the tear stains on her cheek. Without, the storm still was raging, and the wintry rain, mingled with sleet and snow, beat piteously against the curtained windows, while the wind howled mournfully as it shook the door and sweeping past the cottage went screaming over the hill. But Maddy heard nothing of the tumult. She had brought a pillow from the bedroom, and placing it upon the chair, sat down again upon the floor and rested her head upon it. She did not even know that her pet cat had crept up beside her, purring contentedly and occasionally licking her hair, much less did she hear above the storm the swift tread of horses' feet as someone came dashing down the road, the rider pausing an instant as he caught a glimpse of the cottage from and then hurrying on to the public house beyond, where the owner frowned moodily at being called out to care for a stranger's horse. The stranger meanwhile turning back afoot to where the cottage lamp shone a beacon light through the inky darkness. The stranger reached the little gate and, undoing the fastening, went hurrying up the walk, his step upon the crackling snow catching Maddy's ear at last and making her wonder who could be coming there on such a night as this. It was probably Charlie Green, she said, and with a feeling of impatience at being intruded upon she arose to her feet just as the door turned upon its hinges, letting in a powerful draught of wind, which extinguished the lamp and left her in total darkness.

But it did not matter. Maddy had caught a sound, a peculiar cough, which froze the blood in her veins and made her quake with terror quite as much as if the footsteps hurrying toward her had been the footsteps of the dead, instead of belonging, as she knew they did, to Guy Remington—Guy, who, with garments saturated Identification a Good Game For Fiction Readers.

A good game for a company of fiction readers is called identification. It is easily arranged and never fails to "take" with intelligent people.

When the amusement is about to begin the hostess distributes among her guests large cards or strips of cardboard on which are the names of fifty characters, male and female, extracted from standard or popular novels, who must be identified.

This is done by writing opposite the name of the character the title of the novel in which it figures. Each player may have a separate list, or one list may be given to each pair of partners who work together to complete it.

In preparing a set of characters avoid selecting those which fill title roles or who are too familiar to the reader.

A good beginning for such a list would be:

Bobbie ("The Little Minister").
Dinah Morris ("Adam Bede").
Nydia ("The Last Days of Pompeii").
Kate Hardcastle ("She Stoops to Conquer").
Adam Moss ("A Kentucky Cardinal").
Little Eve ("Uncle Tom's Cabin").
Blanche Amory ("Pendennis").
Rosamund Lydgate ("Middlemarch").
Sir Lucius O'Trigger ("The Rivals").
Josephine March ("Little Women").
Sancho Panza ("Don Quixote").
Edward Fairfax Rochester ("Jane Eyre").
Miss Euphemia Dundas ("Thaddeus of Warsaw").
Noddy Boffin ("Our Mutual Friend").
Mrs. Malaprop ("The Rivals").
Lady Teazle ("The School For Scandal").
Quilp ("Old Curiosity Shop").
Eugene Marchbanks ("Candida").
Lucy Dashwood ("Charles O'Malley").
Phineas Fletcher ("John Halifax").

A popular or standard novel would make a good choice in prizes, to be awarded for the longest list of correct answers.

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments must be considered. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional.

The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical mucous membrane emergency remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, making the repair of all nerve, blood, tissue, and all blood allments.

The "Night Cure," as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous membrane, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, as a nerve and constitutional, gives restored vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, bringing about restored strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the system. For special local help, use as well Dr. Shoop's Night Cure.

ANTIGUA GOLD-COPPER Co.

Offers the Biggest and Most Attractive Mining Investment Now Before the Public.

ITS HOLDINGS ARE MINES--NOT PROSPECTS

With Vast Bodies of Ore Ready for the Mill, Now Nearing Completion.

THOMAS W. LAWSON said: "Copper stocks offer the biggest opportunity for money making in the world to-day. A good copper mine is really a safe-deposit vault of stored up dividends which cannot be stolen or destroyed by fire, flood or famine."

CECIL RHODES said: "Mining offers a greater inducement than any other business in the world to make quick and great wealth."

CHARLES M. SCHWAB says: "The big fortunes of the next twenty-five years will come from Mother Earth." Among all mining investments none stand ahead of copper for safety, permanency and profit.

Lay the Foundation for Your Fortune Today

THE ANTIGUA PROPERTIES

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company holdings consist of 511 acres, situated in Honduras, Central America, 100 miles southeast from Puerto Cortes, and midway between New Orleans and Panama. Development work is being pushed with all possible speed, and more than 1,500 feet of tunneling and shaft work has been completed. A 40 to 50-ton capacity gold-silver mill is in course of construction, and will be in operation before the close of the year.

Development work has conclusively proven that every acre of our holdings are rich in gold, copper and silver, and that every ton of this great ore body will yield a handsome profit on milling expense. The ore exposed on the surface does not require mining in the usual sense of the term, but may be obtained by quarrying. It can, according to estimates of experts, be quarried and treated for the gold and silver on an extensive scale at a cost of less than $1.00 a ton. Think of it! A solid mountain of rich ore, from the very grass roots of which may be washed gold.

Beyond a doubt Honduras has beneath her soil larger, richer deposits of copper, gold and silver than any other section of the American continent. Spain, during her sovereignty in that country, took out more than $300,000,000 in gold alone—and she scarcely scraped the Earth's surface. There is evidence that the pre-historic races knew how to mine and utilize copper—smelting it in their crude way.

The original incorporators of the Antigua Gold-Copper Company spent thousands of dollars of their own money in bringing this property to its present stage of development. They opened up the mine on every side with tunnels, crosscuts and shafts. They purchased machinery and began the erection of a gold-silver mill—now nearing completion. These men appreciated from the first that this mine was destined to become one of the greatest copper-gold-silver properties in America; and that it justified more extensive and more rapid development than they were able to make without the co-operation and financial assistance of the public.

The average assay values of Antigua ores, ranging from the surface to a depth of 200 feet, is over 3 per cent copper. This is above the average of the ore of the world's greatest producers, the famous Anaconda yielding ore which averages only a little over 2 per cent. The Anaconda has little other ore value, while our property, in addition to the copper, carries $2.00 to $1,400 a ton in gold and silver.

WHY STOCK IS SOLD

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company finds itself in precisely the same position as the farmer who has a larger farm than he can cultivate with the capital in hand. He knows that with additional capital and assistance he could make the land yield abundant crops and enormous profits. In the same way we intend, by the investment of additional capital, to bring our enormous ore bodies to a highly profitable state of development at the earliest possible moment. For this reason a limited amount of treasury stock is offered the public. In this way funds will be available for immediate use in purchasing additional machinery and for continuing vigorous development of the property.

THERE ARE NO PREFERRED SHARES AND NO BONDS TO COME FIRST IN THE DIVISION OF PROFITS.

and your shares will earn as much as a like number of shares owned by any other stockholder in the company. Each share CARRIES WITH IT THE RIGHT TO VOTE, so that with a single share you have every right, privilege and protection possessed by any other stockholder.

Stock is now being sold at $2.50 a share, and this stock, we firmly believe, will, within a year, be selling at its par value of $5.00 a share, or higher; nor will it stop there. If you are desirous of permanently increasing your income, of making an investment that is not only secure, but immensely profitable, reserve shares TO-DAY.

Such an investment opportunity can scarcely be repeated. It is made possible only by extraordinary natural conditions. Millions of dollars of reaped as a result of the prompt seizure of the opportunity we offer you to-day.

REPORT OF AN EXPERT

Much weight can justly be given the statement of a properly qualified and reliable mining engineer. Such is the character of T. W. Foster, from whose report on Antigua we make the following extracts:

"From the development work done and the indications shown by the croppings, I am convinced this is one of the largest gold-copper deposits in existence, and under proper development will make one of the richest mining properties in America. . . . I consider this ore an ideal smelting proposition, there being an abundance of iron, lime and silica in close proximity. There is plenty of water for power and milling purposes, and an abundance of timber on the property. . . .

A large amount of development work has been done on this property in tunnels, drifts and shafts, ranging from 50 to possibly 200 feet in length. . . . This work has all been in ore—in fact, the ore body on the surface is shown to be fully one-half mile wide by two miles in length. To judge from the development work done this property is all ore—no matter where work was started, ore was encountered.

The company is erecting a mill, consisting of one five-stamp and three Hunglingtons, to work the surface ore. This surface ore is mostly free milling, the copper and galena sulphides being oxidized, freeing the gold, and being readily amalgamated. But I am confident that at no very great depth copper sulphides will be encountered, as there are many places in this great ore body where the sulphides crop to the surface. I have taken a dozen samples from various places on the lead, and from these made free gold tests, finding an average of over $6.00 a ton in FREE gold, and from 5 to 7½ per cent copper. Native copper is frequently seen in this ore. If the Antigua mines continue in depth as on the surface, a 1,000 ton smelter will not work it out in 100 years. . . .

With good management and proper development, it will be but a short time until the stock of the company will be worth more than par. I fully believe that if this great ore body is properly developed there is a mine here worth many millions of dollars.

School Matters in North Monaghan

A meeting of the Board of School Trustees and interested ratepayers in the Township of North Monaghan, has been arranged to take place on the evening of Monday, Dec. 2nd., in the town hall, in that township. The feature of the meeting will be an address by Mr. Richard Lees, county public school inspector, on matters of importance to trustees and ratepayers. Ladies especially are invited.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Address: F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

A tickling cough, from any cause, is quickly stopped by Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. And it is so thoroughly harmless and safe, that Dr. Shoop tells mothers everywhere to give it without hesitation, even a very young babes. The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a lung healing mountainous shrub furnish the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough, and heals the sore and sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. Simply a resinous plant extract, that helps to heal ashlag lungs. The Spaniards call this shrub which the doctor uses "The Sacred Herb." Demand Dr. Shoop's. Take no other. All dealers.

Sad Death of Promising Young Man

Mr. Stanley Giroux Passed Away Yesterday Morning

Yesterday morning one of Peterborough's most promising young men born in the city and educated in the Separate school, Collegiate Institute and Business College in the person of Mr. Stanley Giroux was called away from the sphere wherein his promising abilities would undoubtedly have raised him.

The late Mr. Giroux was always a favorite with his teachers since, as before he entered the Collegiate, and under the principalship of Mr. C. Fessenden, made rapid advancement through all the forms.

On completing his studies in that institution he decided to go into business and prepared himself by a course at the Business College under Mr. Pringle. When finished he entered the office of the Quaker Oats Company and industriously applied himself to the interests of that company. Last January he was compelled to cease work his sight failing him, and he underwent a treatment which was beginning to be successful.

However, another illness affected him, and slowly, but surely, it proved fatal, in spite of medical efforts.

Stanley was 21 years of age, and the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. U. Giroux, Stewart street. Besides his grieved parents, the following brothers and sisters survive him;—Omer, of the Bank of Ottawa staff, Tweed, Leonard, of the Royal Bank, Peterborough; Cyril, Herman and Bertie; the sisters are Bernice, Blaid and Florence.

The funeral will take place tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock from the family residence, 308 Stewart street, to St. Peter's cathedral, and thence to St. Peter's cemetery.

The sympathy of the whole community will be extended to Mr. and Mrs. Giroux and their relatives over this sad bereavement, in which The Times respectfully tenders its efforts towards conveying a slight token of respect and sympathy.

Liverpool to Edmonton in 11 Days

To the Editor of the Overseas Daily Mail;—

Sir,—I attach a cutting from a local paper concerning some birds, which we had shipped out here the other day. Surely this achievement will require some beating!

Yours, faithfully,

KNOWLES BROS.

"Edmonton, Alberta, Canada; —To transfer goods from Liverpool, Eng., to Edmonton, Alberta, in 11 days is the record of the Dominion Express, in connection with a consignment of five Indian game fowls ordered by Knowles Bros., Edmonton. They were shipped in Liverpool on September 20th and arrived here on October 1st, beating a letter, posted on the same day, which did not get here till the following day. The express goods came over by the Empress of Ireland, via Montreal, and the letter by the Lusitania, via New York. Both steamers left the same day."

Basketball Game Here Thursday

The basketball team of the Port Hope Y.M.C.A., will play the Arrow Basketball Club of the Peterborough Y.M.C.A., in Peterborough, on the evening of Nov. 28th. The line-up for the local team is Rankin, center; Thompson, Garnett, guards; Jewell, Davies, forwards; Record, spare. Port Hope Guide.

This will be the first game here this season and should draw a large crowd. There will be a preliminary game between the Tigers and the Barriers also a gymnastic exhibition by Mr. Ed. Daly, an old Peterborough boy, who has gained a great reputation along this line in the west.

Y.W.C.A. Notes

The Y.W.C.A. Board has decided to hold classes in domestic science early in next January. An attempt will be made to organize a choral society under direction of the Y.W.C.A. Entertainment Committee on Saturday night next. Sheriff Hall's popular and growing literary society met last night, when the sheriff continued address on Jane Eyres.

Short Story

Food That Changed His Life

Many level headed business men pay too little attention to what they eat until sickness attacks them.

Sedentary occupation, improper food and daily resort to drugs, coffee or liquors to "smother" the disease has put many a good man away.

"For many years my labors have been entirely indoors," writes a N. Y. man.

"Naturally, want of exercise, coupled with hasty eating of lunch with more or less greasy food and pastry told on my digestion.

"For a long period I tried scores of remedies without avail, and finally I was compelled to resign my position as secretary of an important business association. My weight had run down from 145 to 118 lbs. I was unable to sleep naturally, rose unrefreshed and without ambition, simply dragged about, feeling more dead than alive.

"About a year ago, at a meeting of the Royal Arcanum of which I am Orator, I was advised by a fellow member to try Grape-Nuts. But I had no faith in treating the matter with such a method, and said so.

"He finally won my promise to give it a fair trial. I began the following day, and, to make a long story short, in less than a year I have revolutionized my physical and mental condition, now weigh close to 160 lbs., and can digest all my food, which is eaten with relish. This change is due to Grape-Nuts."

The Story of a Medicine.

Its name—"Golden Medical Discovery" was suggested by one of its most important and valuable ingredients — Golden Seal root.

Nearly forty years ago, Dr. Pierce discovered that he could, by the use of pure, triple-refined glycerine, added by a certain degree of constantly maintained heat and with the aid of apparatus and appliances designed for that purpose, extract from our most valuable native medicinal roots their curative properties much better than by the use of alcohol, so generally employed. So the now world-famed "Golden Medical Discovery," for the cure of weak stomach, indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, or biliousness and kindred derangements was first made, as it ever since has been, without a particle of alcohol in its make-up.

A glance at the full list of its ingredients, printed on every bottle-wrapper, will show that it is made from the most valuable medicinal roots found growing in our American forests. All these ingredients have received the strongest endorsement from the leading medical writers and writers on Materia Medica who recommend them as the very best remedies for the diseases for which "Golden Medical Discovery" is advised.

A little book of these endorsements has been compiled by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., and will be mailed free to any one asking same by postal card, or letter addressed to the Doctor as above. From these endorsements, copied from standard medical books of all the different schools of practice, it will be found that the ingredients composing the "Golden Medical Discovery" are advised not only for the cure of the above mentioned diseases, but also for the cure of all catarrhal, bronchial and throat affections, accompanied with catarrhal discharges, hoarseness, sore throat, lingering, or hang-on-coughs, and all those wasting affections which, if not promptly and properly treated are liable to terminate in consumption. Take Dr. Pierce's Discovery in time and persevere in its use until you give it a fair trial and it is not likely to disappoint. Too much must not be expected of it. It will not perform miracles. It will not cure consumption in its advanced stages. No medicine will. It will cure the affections that lead up to consumption, if taken in time.

THREE CHILDREN WERE LOST IN FLAMES AT WINNIPEG TUESDAY GIRL MAY LOSE HER REASON

Mother Saved Baby from Flames

Two Little Ones Tumbled from Bed and Succumbed Where They Lay

Winnipeg, Nov. 27.—Three children of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Denaburg were suffocated in a fire last night at their home, 594 Magnus avenue, and the father and mother barely escaped with their lives. The dead are: William, aged 13, Joe, aged nine, and Dora, aged six years.

The fire started shortly after eleven o'clock last evening. Denaburg stated that he closed his store at six o'clock. He retired to rest at 10.30, the rest of the family having gone to bed some time before. He had been asleep but a short time when he was awakened by the smell of smoke. He rushed downstairs, and on opening the door into the store, found it a mass of flames. He was so overcome with terror that all he could do was to shout upstairs for his wife to bring the children out. From that time on he could remember but little.

When Mrs. Denaburg heard the call she jumped from bed, and seizing the baby in her arms, made her way downstairs. A hired man named Samuel Mactz, who slept on the premises, took hold of a small boy and started downstairs. This little lad also caught hold of a boy, Joe, but lost him part way down. The dead body of Joe was afterwards found at the foot of the stairs. Lena, a beautiful girl of fifteen, made her way downstairs with her mother, but, from the condition in which she was this morning, it seems doubtful if not reason will survive the shock. The other two children were smothered where they lay.

The stairway down which the ill-fated family had to make its way was a veritable death-trap. Narrow winding and closely boxed in, it started just where the dense smoke from the burning store would pour into it like a chimney, and the family had to make their way down this flue. That any of them escaped is marvelous.

Mr. and Mrs. Denaburg were in a state of utter collapse this morning. A couple of streams of water quickly put the fire out, and when the firemen entered the upper storey they found that they were in the chamber of death. The remains of the three victims were at once removed, and kind neighbors took care of the survivors. The owner of the store took the unfortunate family in. The scene in the little kitchen of the store was a heart-rending one. The father sat at a table telling in broken English what he knew of the fire which had so ruthlessly destroyed, three of his beloved children. Partly clothed, and cracking the joints of his fingers in his mental anguish, he strove to make it clear, though it was evident that events were inextricably mixed in his mind.

Little Joe, who lost his life within a few feet of safety, has been an invalid for months, and has been constantly under the care of a physician. He held to the hand of his brother for the greater portion of the trip downstairs, and only lost his grip when the smothering smoke deadened his senses. Six feet more would have brought him to outer air and safety, but his childish strength was not sufficient. The other two had no chance of escape and died where they lay. Both had tumbled from their bed, but the dense smoke caused them to lose all sense of direction, and they could not find the stairway.

Local Pedestrians Out

Since Dave Hartley's big victory of Saturday last, the walking fever has seized many of our local sports, and many walking stunts are being pulled off around the outskirts of the city. Last night Mr. Harry Burridge and Dooney Newton, pulled off a record walk, starting at the corner of Hilbrock and George streets, to Smith street, across bridge to the Oval, and four times around Oval, thence to Ashburnham to Homer street, and back to starting point. Time 30 mins.

To Double Track C. P. R.

It is said that the C.P.R. are contemplating the laying of double tracks from Montreal to Toronto, and from Quebec to Montreal, as soon as the work can be put under way. Most of the bridges on the Montreal-Quebec line will have to be reconstructed, and the roadbed altered and widened in many places. Plans for this have already been prepared.

At present the double-tracking is completed from Montreal to Vaudreuil, 21 miles, and will be completed for 16 miles further this season. The work between Smith's Falls and Montreal is being pushed forward as fast as possible. It is said that by 1909 the whole line between Toronto and Montreal will be double-tracked.

The engineers in charge of the work are planning to straighten curves and grades as to give the C.P.R. trains the highest possible speeds and the whole road the best efficiency.

Parliament Will Meet To-day--Session May Continue Until May

Mr. R. R. Hall, M. P., will Move the Address in Reply to the Speech from the Throne

Plenty of Grist for Mill

Parliament will meet today. It is probable that the session will continue until May. The Conservatives, who a few months ago were quite anxious that Sir Wilfrid would go to the country before another session, are now quite as suspicious of the prolongation of the life of Parliament until 1909. As a matter of fact, there is no legal need for dissolution until the autumn of the year, and the Premier's projected tour of the West next fall would seem to indicate that no appeal to the electors is anticipated before another twelve months at least.

The work of the coming session will not be light. The big projects of material development, now in practical politics, apart from the Grand Trunk Pacific, which is in the hands of the contractors, are the All-Red Line, the extension of the Intercolonial into Ontario, and the Georgian Bay-Ottawa Ship Canal. It is probable that all of these questions will be thoroughly ventilated during the session.

Legislation of importance in reference to life insurance is almost ready for presentation to the House, and a step in the direction of a State supervised system of annuities for the less well-to-do in old age may be taken along the line indicated last year by Sir Richard Cartwright.

Of tariff legislation there will be very little, the thorough revision of last session making it unnecessary. The only fiscal matters of importance in sight are the ratification of the French trade treaty, and the consideration of measures to prevent the destruction of Canada's spruce forests by the papermakers of the United States.

The work of the Railway Commission has proved so beneficial to the country that its membership is likely to be enlarged to enable it to cope with the business placed before it.

R. R. HALL, M.P.,

West Peterborough, who will move the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne.

In this connection the demands of the business community and the farmers that telegraph and telephone rates shall be placed under control of the Board are likely to be acceded to.

There will probably be a good deal of "scandal" talk from both sides of the House. Mr. Pugsley, the new minister from New Brunswick, has been giving some rather specific information as to a house campaign election fund used in 1904, and it is intimated that Mr. Borden will demand an investigation.

Otonabee Lodge I.O.O.F. To Celebrate in Dec.

Otonabee Lodge No 13, I.O.O.F., will celebrate the 25th anniversary of its resuscitation early in December. It is proposed to have all the charter members who are living in or near Peterborough present. They will be asked to put on the work of the first degree, and several of the past noble grands of the lodge will occupy the chairs. It is proposed to invite Grand Master R. R. Brett, of Essex, to the city, and also Mr. N. W. Hoyle, M.P.P. of Cannington past grand master, as well as Mr Daniel Derbyshire, grand warden.

Jimmy Reynolds Is a Game Loser.

The Port Hope Guide says: Mr. James Reynolds returned home from Toronto last evening, and is feeling first class after his long two-hour tramp against Hartley, at the Shaw street rink. Jimmy says the under-taking was a tiresome one, and he prefers a straightaway walk on the road. His leg, which he bruised badly in his Port Hope-Toronto walk, bothered him all the time, and at 5 o'clock Saturday evening it was swollen and very sore. It kept him back considerably, but he does not wish to offer any excuses. Hartley, he says, is a clever, game walker, a first-class opponent, and deserves the victory.

Kurdish Troops Raid Villages--Over Sixty Kurds Were Killed

Constantinople, Nov. 27.—The lawless activity of the Kurdish tribes in the Arkeno—Kurdish districts of Erzerum, Bitles, Van, Kharput and Diarbekir, is causing lively concern at the Porte, particularly as the foreign embassies are urging their prompt measures be taken by the government to prevent a possible massacre. Under the protection of the notorious Ibraham Pasha, who is known as the "Destroyer of Kurdistan," Kurdish horsemen are making raids without discrimination. Turkish villages are suffering equally with Armenian homesteads on the plains around Diarbekar and Jezireh-Ibn-Omar. Sixteen villages have been pillaged and burned within the past month in these districts and eight villages in the Sert district have met with the same fate.

The movement for autonomy is gaining ground. Mass meetings are being held at which the removal of Ibraham Pasha is being demanded. At a meeting held at Van a denunciation of "venal and corrupt government at Constantinople," and the suggestion that Asia Minor should declare its independence there, aroused great enthusiasm and 25,000 Moslems and Christians in the audience are reported to have pledged their lives to the movement in favor of autonomy.

The Porte has ordered troops from Kharput and Aleppo against the refractory Kurds, and it will endeavor to induce Ibraham Pasha, by friendly persuasion to come into Aleppo. Some of Ibraham's villages were shelled recently by Turkish troops and sixty Kurds were killed.

Bell Telephone Company's Underground Service Nearly Ready

The Bell Telephone Company is now about finishing the last stages of the splendid work they have this summer had under control towards giving Peterborough an underground system of wiring. At many alleys and lanes, staffs of men can be seen at work digging trenches, in which are being laid the subterranean cables connecting surrounding stores and places of business with the still dormant, but soon to be active, underground cables along the principal thoroughfares of the city. The Bell Company have certainly not only complied with all promises or arrangements with the city, but have gone further and done all in their power to not only provide the most modern, satisfactory and complete system of intercommunication in such a manner as will reduce the chances of loss by lightning, fire or accident to a comparative minimum. The company will soon have [illegible] street ready and open for public accommodation, and there is every indication that whilst over the change [illegible] will show, as is now acknowledged by every intelligent and patriotic ratepayer that the extensions of the telephone service demand in the public interest, that such business must be segregated from the competition and consequen[illegible]

Interesting Proposition Made for Big Canuck Meets in Gotham and New York

Three Local Men Chosen

The chances are that the C.A.A.U. will follow up the success of the federation stronghold at Montreal by a crack at the American Amateur Union in its own backyard, New York.

Tom C. Flanagan, of the Metropolitan Canadians yesterday received a proposition to join a team in Canadian amateur athletic Union meet in Madison Square Garden, New York, and in Boston, and he will lay the matter before the C.A.A.U. officials.

"The proposition is this," said Mr. Flanagan yesterday, "that I select a team of thirty men from Toronto and Ontario athletes, and send them down to New York and Boston, the people behind the scheme to put up all expenses for the entire team and to hold up good prizes for a complete athletic program in both places.

"The idea I regard as an excellent one, it would be an incentive for the Canadian lads to remain in training and keep in shape for the British Olympic, and it would show the Americans what we have here in the way of athletes. THE PRICE OF BREAD

The Hamilton Times has given considerable study to the price of bread, cost of production, and in a careful article Saturday last says:

"Every family uses bread, and the question of its cost is one very near to the people. Among the letters bearing on it is one asking the Times to say what profit there is in baking and selling a barrel of flour. That is not easily answered. It involves not only the facts as to prices at which the flour is sold to the bakers, and how much bread the barrel of flour will make (which varies with the particular kind of flour), but also the economy or otherwise of the manufacture and sale of the product. And we have not this information at hand.

"Appleton's Cyclopedia says: 'Usually one pound of flour is found to produce one pound and a quarter of bread.' The Americana says: 'On account of the additional water absorbed (from 40 to 60 per cent., part of which is expelled in steam in the baking), a pound loaf of bread can be made from .65 to .75 pounds of flour. A barrel of flour weighing 196 pounds will make from 275 to 300 pound loaves of bread. * * * The larger the amount of gluten which a flour contains the greater is the power to absorb water and to produce a large number of loaves of bread.'

"The gluten element is very high in the hard Northwestern spring wheat, and lower in the Ontario fall wheat, so that the difference in price is partly compensated for by the extra yield of bread that can be produced from the flour.

"If a barrel of Manitoba flour costing highest wholesale figures quoted to-day $5.80 make 280 pounds of bread, selling at 5c. for the 1 1-4 lb. loaf or 4c a pound, it will yield a return of $13. If it make 280 pounds of bread, it will yield $11.20. If it make only 275 lbs., it will yield $11.00.

"If a barrel of Ontario flour costing $3.50 (also wholesale quotations to-day) make 275 lbs. of flour, — the Encyclopedia Americana's lowest figures—it will yield $11.00.

"A barrel of blended flour, half Manitoba and half Ontario, at the highest wholesale quotations of the day will cost $4.65. If it make 280 pounds of bread at 4 cents a pound it will yield $11.20.

"There are, of course, figures affecting only the material and it would be a great mistake to think that the difference of $4.0 to $7.10 a barrel went into the bakers' pocket. He has a great deal more to provide for. In the first place he must provide an up-to-date and costly plant, for no primitive methods will suffice. He must engage skilled workmen. He must provide for accidental and incidental waste, fuel, etc. He must provide yeast, milk, salt, etc., used in the process. Even water rates are an item. He must observe scrupulous sanitation. He must undertake the important work of marketing the product, and pay dealers for selling it. No consideration of the question will be complete that does not make ample allowances for these items; and they will materially reduce the margin of profit. The baking industry is not one about which there is much mystery. Every housewife is a potential competitor, and when the housewife gets the idea well settled that she is overcharged, she sets to work and starts a bakery on her own account. And in comparing results with buying from the baker she usually takes advantage of the fact that the baker must have a costly plant and hire his journeymen, while she throws in free her time and the use of the home plant employed."

A Corporal's Lesson.

During the Revolutionary war the captain of a little band of soldiers was giving orders about a heavy beam that they were endeavoring to raise to the top of some military works which they were repairing. The weight was almost beyond their power, and the voice of the superintendent was often heard shouting at them. An officer not in military costume was passing and asked the superintendent why he did not render a little aid. The latter, astonished, turned around, with the pomp of an emperor, and said, "Sir, I am a corporal!"

"You are, are you? I ask your pardon, Mr. Corporal," and, taking off his hat, he bowed, saying, "I was not aware of that."

Upon this he dismounted and pulled until great drops of perspiration stood on his forehead. When the beam was raised, turning to the little great man, he said, "Mr. Corporal, when you have another such job and not enough men send for your commander in chief and I will gladly come and help you a second time."

The little corporal was thunderstruck. It was Washington who thus addressed him.

Not His Class.

GIRLS OF TODAY ARE WEAKLINGS

Few Possess the Vitality and Girlish Beauty of the Olden Times.

Never before was physical health and vigor so highly esteemed and so eagerly sought for as to-day.

No man finds happiness in a sickly wife, and the woman who wishes to enjoy the pleasures of life should spare no effort to maintain perfect health.

Is your daughter growing up strong and ruddy? Has she strength to drink in greedily all the pleasures that youth so zealously seeks—or is she compelled to use the street car instead of enjoying the delightful exercise of walking—does she after the ball arise refreshed and vigorous, or is she exhausted, indifferent, and perhaps irritable?

When strength and vigor can be so easily maintained by Ferrozone, when the glow of health is so quickly brought to the cheeks and elasticity to the step, it is plainly a mother's duty to see that Ferrozone is on hand to assist her daughter back to health.

Upon the wake of Ferrozone follows quickly a stream of rich, nourishing blood which imparts that power and supplies energy so earnestly desired by those in ill-health.

Stop and think what this means for your daughter—certainly a great deal, and it can be accomplished by Ferrozone.

Every growing girl and young woman derives enormous benefit in many ways from this nutritive, vitalizing tonic.

It is especially suited for young women and is a guarantee of health and regularity as long as it is used.

Ferrozone is free from alcohol and perfectly safe to use. Prepared in the form of a chocolate-coated tablet and sold in 50c. boxes or six for $2.50, at all dealers.

General Colville Killed

London, Nov. 25. — General Sir Henry Edward Colville came to his death yesterday as a result of an automobile accident. The general last evening was riding a motor cycle down a country lane in Surrey. Upon turning a sharp corner he collided violently with an automobile driven by his old friend and battlefield comrade, General Sir Henry Seymour Rawlinson. General Colville was thrown to the ground, striking his head, and died from his injuries during the night.

General Colville was born in 1852. He is one of the generals who were recalled from South Africa during the Boer war, owing to the disasters sustained by the troops of his command.

Good Coal Stock is Better Than a Bank

THE ROYAL COLLIERIES

10 Square Miles of Coal Lands

A Consolidation of the Barnes Mines just north of Lethbridge with several surrounding sections making it one of the largest and most valuable coal lands holdings in Alberta.

Capital, $3,000,000.00 — 3,000,000 $1.00 Shares.

The amount of coal underlying this company's lands is variously estimated at from 60 to 70 millions of tons. They have the same coal measures and the same quality of high grade domestic and steam coal as the Galt and Diamond Mines. Taking the smaller amount as a basis for calculation, what you actually buy is 50 tons of coal for each share of stock you take. For an investment of one dollar you actually become the owner of 320 tons of coal or its equivalent in dividends.

Few people are aware of the golden harvest that is being reaped from the coal mines of Alberta and British Columbia and no one can even estimate the countless millions yet to be won. The Dunsmuir fortune is the most notable example, but there are others in the making.

From Wardner on the west and Medicine Hat on the east, south to the International boundary line, north to Banff and beyond the coal measures of the Crows Nest Pass extend. There is very little coal in the States of Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon, and at the present time three lines of railway are blocked trying to meet an ever increasing demand. 10,000 tons per day is being mined in this field at the present time, but the orders cannot be filled. In two years Royal Collieries will be mining 2,000 tons per day. 50c per ton is a modest profit to be anticipated, at which rate an investment of $250.00 in a thousand shares, of this stock, means a return to you and your heirs of $40,000.00. This may seem like a tale of the "Arabian Nights" but it is a fact. They have the coal. They have the markets and the prime movers whose names are a synonym for honesty and square dealing give assurance of a conservative business management.

We are offering these shares in blocks of 100 to 10,000 at 25c per share. For further information address was organized several months ago by well-known business men and fruit shippers of California for the purpose of precooling fruit before starting it on its long journey to the Eastern market. The Government experts report on the precooling of fruits, is convincing evidence that the importance of precooling fruit is necessary and has come to stay. The inventor of our process has been engaged in the fruit business for many years and during the past five years has spent much time and money experimenting with the best methods of pre-cooling fruits. His tests have been practical and convincing. The keen business man saw at a glance the possibilities of his invention, and with the combination of capital, together with the enormous fruit industry, we were convinced of success and have succeeded far beyond our expectations. We are now busy at work making our machinery, to install ready for the coming season's fruit crop, and the opportunity now offered by this company is an ideal investment for the wage earner as well as the rich man. Moderate sums invested now will bring splendid returns in the near future, and as a ground floor opportunity we are offering a limited allotment of stock to the general public as a profitable investment.

Make Your Money Work

At 25 Cents Per Share for a Short Time Only

Investments made six months ago have advanced 150 PER CENT. The next six months promise to far exceed the past six months. DON'T WAIT.

Time is the essence of this proposition. This stock will certainly double in a short time. J. Gould once said, "When you see a good investment, don't wait to see if it pans out well, for by that time other people see it too and you have lost your opportunity and you must then pay a higher premium on the original price to get it."

You will note the entire absence of risk in this advertisement. Each machine will pay for itself the first season and leaves a handsome margin for dividends. Just as soon as we get our machines in motion they begin to earn money and big money, too.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and marked on the envelope, "Tenders for Timber", will be received until noon on Thursday the 26th instant for the undermentioned timber, namely:—

Lot 1—12,000 Cedar Railway Ties and 12,000 Cedar Posts 4 1-2 inches and over in diameter, to be taken out by the Indians of Sheshegwaning Band, Manitoulin Island, during the ensuing winter.

Lot 2—250,000 feet B. M. of Ash and Elm logs, to be taken out during the ensuing winter by the Indians of West Bay Reserve, Manitoulin Island.

Lot 3—About 4 millions of feet B.M. comprising Tamarack, Balsam, Spruce, Poplar, Hemlock, Balm of Gilead, Ash and Cedar, in lengths of 8 feet 2 inches, and 8 inches and upwards in diameter at the top, or small end; to be taken out by Indians of Garden River Band, during the ensuing winter, and delivered on the banks of the Echo River, Garden River, Root River, and on the shore of St. Mary's River.

Tenders for the latter may be in the form of cordwood taken in lengths stated, the cord to be 128 cubic feet.

Each tender should state the price that will be paid for each lot of this timber, over and above the Crown dues payable thereon under the Tariff Regulations of this Department.

The measurements of the timber must be made by an Ontario Licensed Culler and sworn returns of same will be required.

An accepted bank cheque for $500.00 should accompany each tender, which will be forfeited to the Department in the event of failure to carry out the terms of the contract.

The Department will not undertake to guarantee that full quantities of timber will be taken out.

The successful tenderer will be required to make reasonable advances to the Indians as the work progresses.

The highest or any tender will not necessarily be accepted and the unauthorized publication of this advertisement will not be paid for.

Any further information required will be given on application to Mr. Robert Thorburn, Indian Agent, at Gore Bay, or Mr. W. L. Nichols, Indian Agent, at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., or the undersigned.

—COAL—

We have acquired options on certain coal-bearing lands in the Belly River Basin, near the Town of Lethbridge, Alberta, containing in all 2640 acres, which comes under the new government Leasehold Act, which extends for a period of 21 years with an option of renewal at the expiration of that time. The government annual fee is $2640.00.

We are forming a syndicate of $25,000.00 to acquire sufficient capital to begin operations. Of this amount we want to raise $16,000 cash in order to put in a small plant to begin operations. After such has been done, our intentions then are to form a Joint Stock Company for, say, $50,000 capital, or for such amount as the syndicate may agree upon. The syndicate is to own 51 per cent. of this stock for their share of the money and the time expended in the interests of the company. Balance of stock to be sold to the public for the purpose of installing an up-to-date plant, etc.

$3.00 PER TON

is the price that is being paid at the mine for No. 1 quality of hard coal of which we might say ours is similar. It burns to an ash. Has no clinkers and is right in the hard coal belt.

The seams which outcrop on the Belly River are 5 1-2 to 6 feet in thickness and in places reach a depth of 15 feet at some distance back from the river. With these reports in view, we estimated that 50,000 tons can be mined to the acre. It is doubtless the best coal deposits that we have ever looked into and a chance is hereby given to our customers to join us in this syndicate, for you can readily see that as soon as the Joint Stock Company is formed, your holdings will be worth ten times as much. We are subscribers ourselves to the amount of $5,000. As we expect this syndicate allotment will be largely over-subscribed, we would advise immediate steps. If you wish to get any of the syndicate shares.

Should your subscriptions not be accepted, your money will be refunded. No subscriptions will be taken for less than $100.00.

A FORTUNE

Now that you have the opportunity to get in on the ground floor of a company, do so. Don't always be a common stock holder. We might also add that a few of our best coal dealers here are joining in the syndicate.

As this will be the only time this advertisement will appear, it is necessary for you to consider that a delay may rob you of the opportunity.

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader lives permanently in vicinity on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother).

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

TENDERS FOR PULPWOOD CONCESSIONS

Tenders will be received by the undersigned up to and including the 16th of December next for the right to cut pulpwood on certain areas tributary to the Nepigon river, in the district of Thunder Bay, and Rainy Lake, in the district of Rainy River, and make the same into paper. Tenderers should state the amount they are prepared to pay as bonus in addition to such dues as may from time to time be fixed for the right to operate a paper making industry on the areas referred to. Separate tenders must be made for each area or territory, and the successful tenderers will be required to erect a mill or mills on each of the territories or in such other localities as may be approved by the Government of Ontario.

Parties tendering for the pulpwood rights shall accompany their tenders with a marked cheque for 25 per cent of the amount tendered, payable to the Treasurer of Ontario, and to be forfeited in the event of their failing to enter into agreements to carry out conditions, etc.

With respect to the Rainy Lake Pulp Concession, tenderers will be required to make a tender for the right to cut the pine, tamarac and cedar on the territory offered. Parties making tender for these timbers to state the amount they are prepared to pay per thousand feet B.M. as bonus in addition to Crown dues of $2.00 per thousand feet B.M. A marked cheque for $5,000.00 payable to the Treasurer of Ontario must accompany the tender for pine timber, and is to be forfeited in the event of their failure to enter into agreements to carry out conditions, etc.

No timber shall be cut on either of the concessions of a less diameter than nine inches, two feet from the ground.

The successful tenderers to enter into agreements with the Government for the erection of the mills, expenditure of money, etc.

"Maddy, my darling, my own! We will never be parted again."

CHAPTER XXIII.

Hours had gone by, and the clock hands pointed to twelve, ere Maddy compelled herself to hear the story Guy had come to tell. She had thrust him from her at first, speaking to him of Lucy, his wife, and Guy had answered her back: "I have no wife—I never had one. Lucy is in heaven," and that was all Maddy knew until the great shock had spent itself in tears and sobs, which became almost convulsions as she tried to realize the fact that Lucy Atherstone was dead; that the bridal robe about which she had written, with girlish frankness, proved to be her shroud, and that her head that night was not pillowed on Guy's arm, but was resting under English turf and beneath an English sky. She could listen at last, but her breath came in panting gasps; while Guy told her how, on the very morning of the bridal, Lucy had greeted him with her usual bright smile, appearing and looking better than he had before seen her look since he reached her mother's home; how for an hour they sat together alone in a little room sacred to her, because years before it was there he confessed his love.

Seated on a low ottoman, with her golden head lying on his lap, she had that morning told him, in her artless way, how much she loved him, and how hard it sometimes was to make her love for the creature second to her love for the Creator; told him she was not faultless, and asked that when he found how erring and weak she was, he would bear with her frailties as she would bear with his, talked with him, too, of Maddy Clyde, confessing in a soft, low tone, how once or twice a pang of jealousy had wrung her heart when she read his praises of his pupil. But she had conquered that; she had prayed it all away; and now next to her own sister, she loved Maddy Clyde. Other words, too, were spoken—words of guileless, pure affection, too sacred even for Guy to breathe to Maddy; and then Lucy had left him, her heart bounding, step echoing through the hall and up the winding stairs down which she never came again alive, for when Guy next looked upon her she was lying white as a water lily, her neck and dress and golden hair stained with pale red life current oozing from her livid lips. A blood vessel had been suddenly ruptured, the physician said, and for her, the fair, young bride, there was no hope. They told her she must die, for the mother would have them tell her. Once, for a few moments, there rested on her face a fearfully frightened look, such as a harmless bird might wear when suddenly caught in a snare. But that soon passed away as from beneath the closed eyelids the great tears came gushing, and the stained lips whispered faintly: "God knows best. Poor Guy!—break it gently to him."

At this point in the story Guy broke down entirely.

"Maddy," he said, "I felt like a heartless wretch—a most consummate hypocrite—as, standing by Lucy's side, I met the fond, pitying glance of her blue eyes, and suffered her poor little hand to part my hair as she tried to comfort even though every word she uttered was shortening her life, tried to comfort me, the wretch who was there so unwillingly, and who at this prospect of release hardly knew at first whether he was more sorry than pleased. You may well start from me in horror, Maddy. I was just the wretch I describe; but I overcame it, Maddy, and Heaven is my witness that no thought of you intruded itself upon me afterward as I stood by my dying Lucy—gentle, patient, loving to the last. I saw how good, how sweet she was, and something of the old love, the boy love, came back to me, as I held her in my arms, where she wished to be. I would have saved her if I could; and when I called her 'my darling Lucy,' they were not idle words. I kissed her many times for myself, and once, Maddy, for you. She told me to. She whispered: 'Kiss me, Guy, for Maddy Clyde. Tell her I'd rather she should take my place than anybody else—rather my Guy should call her wife—for I know she will not be jealous if you sometimes talk of your dead Lucy, and I know she will help lead my boy to that blessed home where sorrow never comes.' That was the last she ever spoke, and when the sun went down death had claimed my bride. She died in my arms, Maddy. I saw her buried from my sight, and then, Maddy, I started home; thoughts of you and thoughts of Lucy blended equally together until Aikenside was reached. I talked with Mrs. Noah; I heard all of you there was to tell, and then I talked with Agnes, who was not greatly surprised, and did not oppose my coming here to-night. I could not remain there, knowing you were alone. In the bridal chamber I found your bouquet, with its 'Welcome to the bride.' Maddy, you must be that bride. Lucy sanctioned it, and the doctor, too, for I told him all. His own wedding, was, of course, deferred, and he did not come home with me, but he said: 'Tell Maddy not to wait. Life is too short to waste any happiness. She has my blessing.' And, Maddy, it must be so. Aikenside needs a mistress; you are all alone. You are mine—mine forever."

The storm had died away, and the moonbeams stealing through the window told that morning was breaking, but neither Guy nor Maddy heeded the lapse of time. There was a sad kind of happiness as they talked together, and could Lucy have listened to them she would have felt satisfied that she was not forgotten. One long, bright curl, cut from her head by his own hand, was all there was left of her to Guy, save the hallowed memories of her purity and goodness—memories which would yet mold the proud impulsive Guy into the earnest, consistent Christian which Lucy in her life had desired that he should be, and which Maddy rejoiced to see him.

CHAPTER XXIV.

The close of a calm September afternoon, and the autumnal sunlight fall softly upon Aikenside, where a gay party is now assembled. For four years Maddy Clyde has been mistress there, and in looking back upon them she wonders how so much happiness as she has known could be experienced in so short a time. Never but once has the slightest ripple of sorrow shadowed her heart, and that was when her noble husband, Guy, said to her, in a voice she knew was earnest and determined, that he could no longer remain deaf to his country's call that where the battle storm was raging he was needed, and like a second Sardanapalus he must not stay at home. Then for a brief season her bright face was overcast, and her

WHEN TO FEED COWS.

The Regular Routine of Feeding and Milking.

Feeding cows before, after or at time of milking has but very little influence upon the amount of milk given or the cows' comfort, provided that, whichever method is adopted, it is continued regularly. Cows, like men, are creatures of habit. They know almost to a minute when it is time for the grain ration or other feed and when the milker is due to take the milk, and nothing should occur to cause a break in the regular routine of feeding, milking, etc.

At Milking Time.

Our own practice has been to feed after milking. It has also seemed best to have the cows all attention at milking time. If eating a grain feed while being milked, a cow is eager for the feed and possibly brings the right hind leg forward suddenly against the milker, causing the pail to move about and rattle. The unexpected noise may cause the cow to kick or the one next to her to do so. The milker must be constantly on his guard. In moving from one cow to another he must speak to her and attract her attention from the feed or she may kick. Possibly she is the gentlest cow in the herd; but, being busy with her feed, she kicks out at a noise in the rear or upon being touched with the stool or hand. She is nervous and seeks to protect herself.

First Work in the Stable.

Our first work in the cow stable in the morning is milking. The cows begin to get up and stretch. They are perfectly quiet, are not expecting feed, but are ready to be milked, and as each cow's turn comes she puts herself in proper position and does not move a muscle. She likes to feel the brush on her flank, udder and belly, brushing off loose straw, hair, etc. The moment that the last cow is finished, however, that quiet, sleepy condition is changed to one of activity.

A Matter of Habit.

They are eager for breakfast and ask for it with wide open eyes and gentle lowing. They smell the ensilage as it comes down from the silo. Their actions plainly indicate that they would like to have the feeder hurry. In an hour they are lying down, eyes closed, and busy with the grind of contentment. It certainly must be plain to every one that this is habit and that a continuance of such regular work is best for the cow.—M. Stenson in Farmers' Review.

A Good Guess.

Mother—Mercy, child, how do you get your hands so dirty? You never saw mine as dirty as that! Child—No, but I was washing dirt!—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential.

Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional.

The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, and the repair of all nerve, all tissue, and all blood ailments.

The "Night Cure", as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, super nerves quietened, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, bringing about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well

says: "The big fortunes of the next twenty-five years will come from Mother Earth." Among all mining investments none stand ahead of copper for safety, permanency and profit.

Lay the Foundation for Your Fortune Today

THE ANTIGUA PROPERTIES

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company holdings consist of 831 acres, situated in Honduras, Central America, 700 miles southeast from Puerto Cortes, and midway between New Orleans and Panama. Development work is being pushed with all possible speed, and more than 1,500 feet of tunnelling and shaft work has been completed. A 50-ton capacity gold-silver mill is in course of construction, and will be in operation before the close of the year.

Development work has conclusively proven that every acre of our holdings are rich in gold, copper and silver, and that every ton of this great ore body will yield a handsome profit after milling expense. The ore exposed on the surface does not require mining in the usual sense of the term, but may be obtained by quarrying. I can, according to estimates of experts, be quarried and treated for the gold and silver on an extensive scale at a cost of less than $1.00 a ton. Think of it! A solid mountain of rich ore, from the very grass roots of which may be washed gold.

Beyond a doubt Honduras has beneath her soil larger, richer deposits of copper, gold and silver than any other section of the American continent. Spain, during her sovereignty in that country, took out more than $300,000,000 in gold alone—and she scarcely scraped the Earth's surface. There is evidence that the pre-historic races knew how to mine and utilize copper—smelting it in their crude way.

The original incorporators of the Antigua Gold-Copper Company spent thousands of dollars of their own money in bringing this property to its present stage of development. They opened up the mine on every side with tunnels, crosscuts and shafts. They purchased machinery and began the erection of a gold-silver mill—now nearing completion. These men appreciated from the first that this mine was destined to become one of the greatest copper-gold-silver properties in America; and that it justified more extensive and more rapid development than they were able to make without the co-operation and financial assistance of the public.

The average assay values of Antigua ores, ranging from the surface to a depth of 200 feet, is over 5 per cent copper. This is above the average of the ore of the world's greatest producers, the famous Anaconda yielding ore which averages only a little over 3 per cent. The Anaconda has little other ore value, while our property, in addition to the copper, carries $2.00 to $1,400 a ton in gold and silver.

WHY STOCK IS SOLD

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company finds itself in precisely the same position as the farmer who has a larger farm than he can cultivate with the capital in hand. He knows that with additional capital and assistance he could make the land yield abundant crops and enormous profits. In the same way we intend, by the investment of additional capital, to bring our enormous ore bodies to a highly profitable state of development at the earliest possible moment. For this reason a limited amount of treasury stock is offered the public. In this way funds will be available for immediate use in purchasing additional machinery and for continuing vigorous development of the property.

THERE ARE NO PREFERRED SHARES AND NO BONDS TO COME FIRST IN THE DIVISION OF PROFITS.

and your shares will earn as much as a like number of shares owned by any other stockholder in the company. Each share CARRIES WITH IT THE RIGHT TO VOTE, so that with a single share you have every right, privilege and protection possessed by any other stockholder.

Stock is now being sold at $2.50 a share, and this stock we firmly believe, will within a year be selling at its par value of $5.00 a share, or higher; nor will it stop there. If you are desirous of permanently increasing your income, of making an investment that is not only secure, but immensely profitable, reserve shares TO-DAY.

Such an investment opportunity can scarcely be repeated. It is made possible only by extraordinary natural conditions. Millions of dollars of copper, gold and silver will be marketed from the mine—fortunes will be reaped as a result of the prompt seizure of the opportunity we offer you to-day.

REPORT OF AN EXPERT

Much weight can justly be given the statement of a properly qualified and reliable mining engineer. Such is the character of T. W. Foster, from whose report on Antigua we make the following extracts:

"From the development work done and the indications shown by the croppings, I am convinced this is one of the largest gold-copper deposits in existence, and under proper development will make one of the richest mining properties in America. . . . I consider this ore an ideal smelting proposition, there being an abundance of iron, lime and silica in close proximity. There is plenty of water for power and milling purposes, and an abundance of timber on the property. . . .

"A large amount of development work has been done on this property in tunnels, drifts and shafts, ranging from 20 to possibly 200 feet in length. . . . This work has all been in ore—in fact, the ore body on the surface is shown to be fully one-half mile wide by two miles in length. To judge from the development work done this property is all ore—no matter where work was started, ore was encountered.

"The company is erecting a mill, consisting of one five-stamp and three Huntingtons, to work the surface ore. This surface ore is mostly free milling, the copper and galena sulphides being oxidized, freeing the gold, and being readily amalgamated. But I am confident that at no very great depth copper sulphides will be encountered, as there are many places in this great ore body where the sulphides crop to the surface. I have taken a dozen samples from various places on the lead, and from these made free gold tests, finding an average of over $4.00 a ton in FREE gold, and from 5 to 25 per cent copper. Native copper is frequently seen in this ore. If the Antigua mines continue in depth as on the surface, a 1,000 ton smelter will not work it out in 100 years. . . . With good management and proper development, it will be but a short time until the stock of the company will be worth more than par. I fully believe that if this great ore body is properly developed there is a mine here worth many millions of dollars."

Wife and Mother Restored to Her Anxious Family

St. John, N.B., Sept. 14,—At one time it was feared that Mrs. J. Uram, of 23 White street, would succumb to the deadly ravages of advanced kidney trouble. "My first attacks of backache and kidney trouble began years ago. For six years that dull gnawing pain has been present. When I exerted myself it was terribly intensified. If I caught cold the pain was unendurable. I used most everything, but nothing gave that certain grateful relief that came from Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. Instead of being bowed down with pain, today I am strong, enjoy splendid appetite, sleep soundly. Lost properties have been instilled into my blood—cheeks are rosy with color, and I thank the day that I heard of so grand a medicine as Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Every woman should use these pills regularly because good health pays, and it's good, vigorous health that comes to all who use Dr. Hamilton's Mandrake and Butternut Pills.

Nature's Freaks

At the residence of Mr. John Carnegie in Smith township, there are several lilac bushes in bloom. This is the second time that they have blossomed this year. Whilst this horticultural curiosity is in evidence beyond contradiction, we will not issue insurance policies covering the damage to local coal dealers' constituents. The present mild weather is enough to make coal merchants sad, but a real lilac bushes begin to bloom at the end of November the fault is with nature not the press which reports such anachronisms.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Monahan, of the Maple Leaf Hotel staff. Miss Katie Cronan, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, while Mr. Gustave Smith supported the groom. A large number of friends witnessed the ceremony. After the ceremony the bridal party drove to the home of the bride, where a choice wedding breakfast was partaken of. Mr. and Mrs. Monahan left at noon on a wedding trip to Brockville, where they will be the guests of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Monahan.

Annual Meeting of St. Andrew's Brotherhood

Mr. Arthur Kingdon, director of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew's of St. Luke's church, occupied the chair at the annual meeting of this prominent and far-reaching society. Rev. Dr. Langfeldt opened the meeting with devotional exercises. Mr. Kingdon after giving his annual report, showed many features of good work done during the year. After routine business the election of officers was proceeded with, resulting as follows,—

Director.—Mr. Arthur Kingdon, re-elected.

Vice-Dir.—Mr. James Ball

Sec.-Treas.—Mr. H. Gerrish.

It was decided to hold the weekly meetings thereafter on Wednesday evenings after the week night service.

The A.Y.P.A. of St. Luke's church, have postponed the reception to the congregation, which was to be held on Dec. 6, on account of the sickness of the president, Mr. H. C. M. Potter, who is seriously sick at Nicholls hospital. The postponement is made to have Mr. Potter present

Gilmour St. Lady Gets Bear Meat in Error

Mistake Whereby Local Lady Cooks Dinner Belonging to a Neighbor

Yesterday a local citizen, living on Gilmour street, or to tell the story correctly, his wife answered a call at the front door bell. When the lady went to the door a young man met her armed with a large basket out of which he took a huge joint of meat. The lady who had decided to have a stew or, be it from the preceding day's roast for dinner, told the boy bringing the joint that there must be some mistake, as she had ordered no more meat. The young man replied by saying, "Well Mum, I don't know nothing about your orders, but here is your meat." The lady, putting her to-be-stew away on a shelf or elsewhere placed the recently bought joint into a pan and then put the outfit into the kitchen oven. After a time, as the coals got red and the aroma of the rapidly cooking meat filled the air of the whole ground floor of the house, the lady detected a peculiar smell in connection with her culinary operations. She asked her daughters and the servant girl, what "that fuony smell is?" They did not know. About half an hour before hubby got home for dinner, the bell rang again, and Mrs. ——, answered its call. The young man who had bought the same joint that was then filling the house with its peculiar tinted fumes, said, "Mrs. ——, Mr ——, (who lived some five doors west) has been musing peculiar. You know the kind of talk used when a man buys a delicacy for dinner and gets left, because he did not get his bear's meat that he bought this morning. Now I made a mistake this morning and left that bear haunch here. Have you got it left? If so I had better take it over, although I guess it will be too late for today's dinner." The lady whose olfactory nerves had been puzzled by the peculiar smell of the baking bear lost her patience, and said, whilst not reporting verbatim, but really "You dirty sawed off scion of a family looking for trouble, here have I wasted three hours and half a quarter of a ton of coal, cooking a dirty smelling lot of bear meat, not fit for our Fido and now you want the stuff back for other Christians. Get out or I'll throw a pail of boiling water over you."

The boy "got" but whether he gave the bear ham to its owner or not is still a Gilmour street mystery.

Children's Shelter in New Quarters

The Children's Aid Shelter are now occupying their new quarters on the Bullard farm in the north end of the city. There is only one child in the shelter at the present time, but from present indications there will be several more within a few weeks. Great credit is due Mr. E. L. Goodwill, secretary, and the other officers of the society for the splendid work they have done.

Obituary

The death occurred at St. Joseph's hospital Tuesday night of Thos. Taylor, after an illness of some weeks, from tetanus. The deceased was 16 years of age, and was born in England. He had only been in this country a short while, and had been engaged as a farm hand near Millbrook. The remains were sent to Bellville on the two o'clock train for interment.

DOCTORS MISTAKES

Are apt often to be buried six feet under ground. But many times women call on their family physicians, suffering, as they imagine, one from dyspepsia, another from heart disease, another from liver or kidney disease, another from nervous prostration, another with pain here and there, and in this way they present alike to themselves and their easy-going or overbusy doctor, separate diseases, for which he, assuming them to be such, prescribes his pills and potions. In reality, they are all only symptoms caused by some uterine disease. The physician, ignorant of the cause of suffering, keeps up his treatment until large bills are made. The suffering patient gets no better because the wrong treatment, but probably worse. A proper medicine like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, directed to the cause, would favorably relieved the disease, thereby dispelling all those distressing symptoms, and instituting comfort instead of prolonged misery. It has been well said, that "a disease known is half cured."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a scientific medicine, carefully devised by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate system. It is made of native American medicinal roots and is perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the female system.

As a powerful invigorating tonic "Favorite Prescription" imparts strength to the whole system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. For overworked, "worn-out," run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," house-keepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nervine "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the uterus. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate the stomach, liver and bowels. One to three a dose. Easy to take as candy.

NO DECISION YET REACHED AS TO THE SOUTH END PARK

School Board Asks $3,000 for the Property, and Council's Committee Offered $2,500--To Be Further Considered

Mayor R F. McWilliams, Aldermen Tovey and Wilson, members of the special park committee, met in conference with Messrs. R. Fair, D. W. Dumble and Dr. Morrison, members of a similar committee of the School Board, in council chambers last night on the question of a proposition that the city purchase from the school board that portion of the King Edward school grounds lying between Aylmer and George streets for park purposes.

The school board's committee were authorized to sell the property in question for $3000, whereas the council's committee had decided to offer $2,500 and guarantee an expenditure of $500 in putting the ground in shape for park accommodation.

The mayor thought the council's committee were offering a fair price for the grounds, the whole of which cost the school board but $4,000. There is, he contended, practically no difference between the two halves—that on which he King Edward is built, and that south, after by the city council—and any increase in value since the board's purchase has been engendered by the city opening up George and Aylmer streets at a very heavy expenditure. "We are prepared to go to the extent of $3000 for this park in the south end; the board paid $4000 for the whole lot, and by us paying them $2500 for one half they will get the actual cost of the half back, together with $500 with which to improve the King Edward ground. And we will guarantee to spend $500 in park work.

Mr. Dumble offered that the board are not seeking private gain; the $3000 paid by the city would be used as paying for needed improvement to the King Edward school beyond contract provision. This sale would save us taxes to the tune for the cost of such improvements.

The price asked by the board for this property figures out a $10 a foot.

Mr Dumble also contended that in opening up Aylmer and George streets, the city reaps commensurate value with cost of same in returns from increased assessments.

Mr. Fair argued that the board's price was below value; Mr. Ackerman had stated that he could find a purchaser for the property at $4000.

Mr Dumble said he could safely say that the board will expend $500 in making their school grounds in keeping with the proposed park.

Ald. Duncan being absent the council's committee could not commit themselves one way or the other, the board's committee could not see their way clear to accept less than $3000 for the property, and the meeting adjourned, understanding that this matter will be further considered by the council's committee and some sort of recommendation made at Monday night's council meeting.

Dominion Parliament Declared Open for Business Yesterday

Ottawa, Nov. 28.—The fourth session of the tenth Parliament of Canada was opened this afternoon. Senators and members assembling for the purpose according to custom in the Senate Chamber, where the program of ministerial legislation was presented to them by his excellency the governor-general, in the speech from the throne. The government faces the House of Commons with a majority of sixty in that chamber, and a majority of thirty in the Senate.

There is a very general feeling that the present meeting of parliament will be followed by a dissolution in the fall of 1908, but whatever the present intention of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his cabinet associates in this regard, it is safe to say that no definite decision will be reached until it is seen what the present session is going to bring forth.

SNOW STORM WAS ON.

The first real snow storm of the season signalized the opening of parliament. The number of out-of-town visitors for the opening ceremonies was exceptionally large. His excellency was attended to the Parliament House by a mounted escort from the Princess Louise Dragoon Guards, under the command of Lieut. C H Burritt. As the carriage entered the parliament grounds a salute rang out from the guns of Nepean Point battery. In front of the parliament buildings a guard of honor from the Governor-General's Foot Guards was posted for the occasion

MAY LAST TILL JUNE

Various predictions have been offered as to the probable duration of the present session. The legislative bill of fare is not at all a formidable one, but it is said that the opposition, in the face of an expected general election next fall, is prepared to give battle to the government all along the line. The chances are that the session will run until May or June anyway

In addition to the program of ministerial bills set forth in the speech from the throne there are some 85 applications for private bills, 36 of them for railway charters, or amendments to existing railway charters, and eleven for bills of divorce

The indications are that the vice-regal drawing room on Friday night will be one of the most brilliant of recent years.

FIVE NEW MEMBERS

One of the first things to be done this afternoon after the commoners return from their visit to the Senate will be to fill up the gaps in the House that have occurred since the last meeting of parliament. The new members are eleven in number, two of them ministers, as follows:

Hon. Wm. Pugsley, minister of public works; Hon. Geo. P. Graham, minister of railways and canals; A. A. Martin, M.P. for North Wellington; C. J. Ewen, M.P. for East Northumberland, and Major Thomas Beattie, M.P. for London The two latter are Conservatives, and Mr. Martin, a Liberal.

The election in Colchester, N.S., takes place today. There are four other seats still vacant in which by-elections are shortly to be held, —Center York, Ottawa, Labelle, and Nicolet There are three new members to be introduced, viz., Hon. Archibald Campbell, formerly member for Center York, Hon. N. A Belcourt of Ottawa, formerly speaker of the House of Commons, and Hon. H Derbyshire, formerly member for Brockville. This still leaves one senator vacancy from Nova Scotia. This is the seat to which Mr. Perry was appointed two years ago, but which that gentleman has not occupied.

DEBATE OPENS MONDAY

The debate on the address in parliament will not begin in either the senate or House of Commons until Monday next. The address in the commons will be moved by Mr. Stubbs of Peterborough, and seconded by Adelard Lancelot of Richelieu.

Mr. Alphonse Verville, M.P. for Maisonneuve, will reintroduce next session the bill which he had before parliament last session, providing for an eight-hour day for all workmen employed on government works throughout the Dominion.

Should Drink Plenty of Good Water

Nature's Great Remedy, for Rheumatism and Kidney Troubles

The people here do not drink enough water to keep healthy," exclaimed a well-known authority. "The numerous cases of stomach trouble, kidney and bladder diseases and rheumatism are mainly due to the fact that the drinking of water, nature's greatest medicine, has been neglected. Stop loading your system with patent medicines and cure-alls; but get on the water wagon. If you are really sick, why, of course, take the proper medicines—plain common vegetable treatment, which will not shatter the nerves or ruin the stomach."
